It creates certain legal rights and responsibilities for the mother, father, and child. By signing this document, the parents are establishing the right of the child to certain benefits including:

- Two parents who can establish an emotional relationship with the child.
- Two parents who share a legal duty to financially support the child.
- Two parents whose names will appear on the child's birth certificate.
- It will be easier for the child to access both parents' medical histories.
- It will be easier for the child to benefit from any health insurance, social security, or inheritance from the father.
