Over 5,300 alumni, staff, faculty, parents and friends supported the University of Alaska this year.

Letter from the Leadership

Wishes fulfilled

What a remarkable year! This past year, over 5,300 contributors joined together to sow the seeds of promise. Your generosity provides opportunities for Alaskans. You provided scholarships, professorships, equipment and program support to the University of Alaska. Current and future students, parents, employers, alumni and friends all benefit from an educated citizenry.

The University of Alaska Foundation carefully stewards all funds entrusted to its care. From accepting and receiving a gift, to distributing it to the benefiting student, department or program, the Foundation takes great care to ensure donors' wishes are honored. After two very difficult years in the financial markets, we're pleased to again report positive gains in the Consolidated Endowment Fund.

New legislation clarifies how Alaska charities may administer endowments while providing significant tax benefits for corporate contributions. And the popular Permanent Fund Dividend checkoff provides another means by which Alaskans can support UA programs.

Thank you for your continued investment in Alaska's future.

MIKE DINNEEN

Dirk Tordoff

Edith R. Bullock Prize for Excellence Winner

Dirk Tordoff, head of the Alaska Film Archives at the University of Alaska Fairbanks Rasmuson Library, is the 2010 recipient of the University of Alaska Foundation's Edith R. Bullock Prize for Excellence.

"We are pleased to present this year's Edith R. Bullock Prize for Excellence to Dirk Tordoff," commented Mike Felix, chair of the foundation's board of trustees. "His exemplary work over the last 17 years has built what is arguably one of the world's foremost sources for historical film footage about Alaska and the Arctic. Not only has he amassed an incredible volume of film footage, but he has also made this generous body of work available to the public through his untiring efforts. Dirk is a great ambassador for the University of Alaska, and we are very fortunate to have him on staff."

Tordoff has been the driving force in transforming the university's film archives from modest beginnings to a world-class collection.

Tordoff started his work in a small room with boxes of old film and almost no written records. With his passion for Alaska's film history, mechanical knowledge and ingenuity, he assembled a media lab from surplus equipment, furniture and computers. This simple lab has grown into a well-respected program for film preservation and research.

Tordoff's enthusiasm for his job in archiving Alaska's film history has helped the university preserve an incredible film collection. His primary goal is to make it easier for people to find material and learn from it.

Tordoff's work has appeared on numerous national broadcast and cable channels in the United States and other countries. In nominating Tordoff for the award, Dr. Terrence Cole, history professor at the University of Alaska Fairbanks, said, "In many ways Dirk's work has spread farther and wider around the world than that of anyone who has ever worked at the university in its entire history!"

Tordoff received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Alaska Fairbanks.

Saradell Ard

Permanent Funding For Arts Scholarship

JOE NEDLAND

Portrait of Dr. Saradell Ard by Joe Nedland, a former student of Dr. Ard's.

Throughout her life, UAA Professor Emeritus Saradell Ard was a strong supporter of the Anchorage arts community.

For the past 25 years she made annual gifts to the foundation to provide scholarships each year to two students majoring in the arts; one to a Bachelor of Fine Arts candidate and the second for a student taking up art as a second career. Two generations of students benefitted from Dr. Ard's years of philanthropy. She was deeply satisfied to see her scholarship recipients go on to successful careers within and outside Alaska.

Before Dr. Ard passed away in December 2009, she made sure her support for arts students at UAA would continue. She added a simple bequest to her will that provided a sizeable gift from her estate to the University of Alaska Foundation, establishing a perpetual endowment in her name. The endowment is invested with the Foundation's Pooled Endowment Fund, which is more than $216 million. Each year, earnings from the endowment are distributed to UAA to continue both Saradell Ard Art Scholarships.

Dr. Ard is recognized as a member of the University of Alaska Legacy Society for her foresight.

New Alaska Law Improves Endowment Management

UNIFORM PRUDENT MANAGEMENT OF INSTITUTIONAL FUNDS ACT

The Alaska State Legislature enacted the Uniform Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act (UPMIFA) in 2010. This new law will positively affect how the University of Alaska Foundation administers endowments. Alaska joined 46 other UPMIFA states when the Legislature adopted this act.

UPMIFA provides the foundation, and other Alaska charities, with guidance on how to administer endowments and charitable funds. First and foremost, donor intent, as outlined by donors in endowment and fund agreements, will always take precedence on how endowed funds are administered.

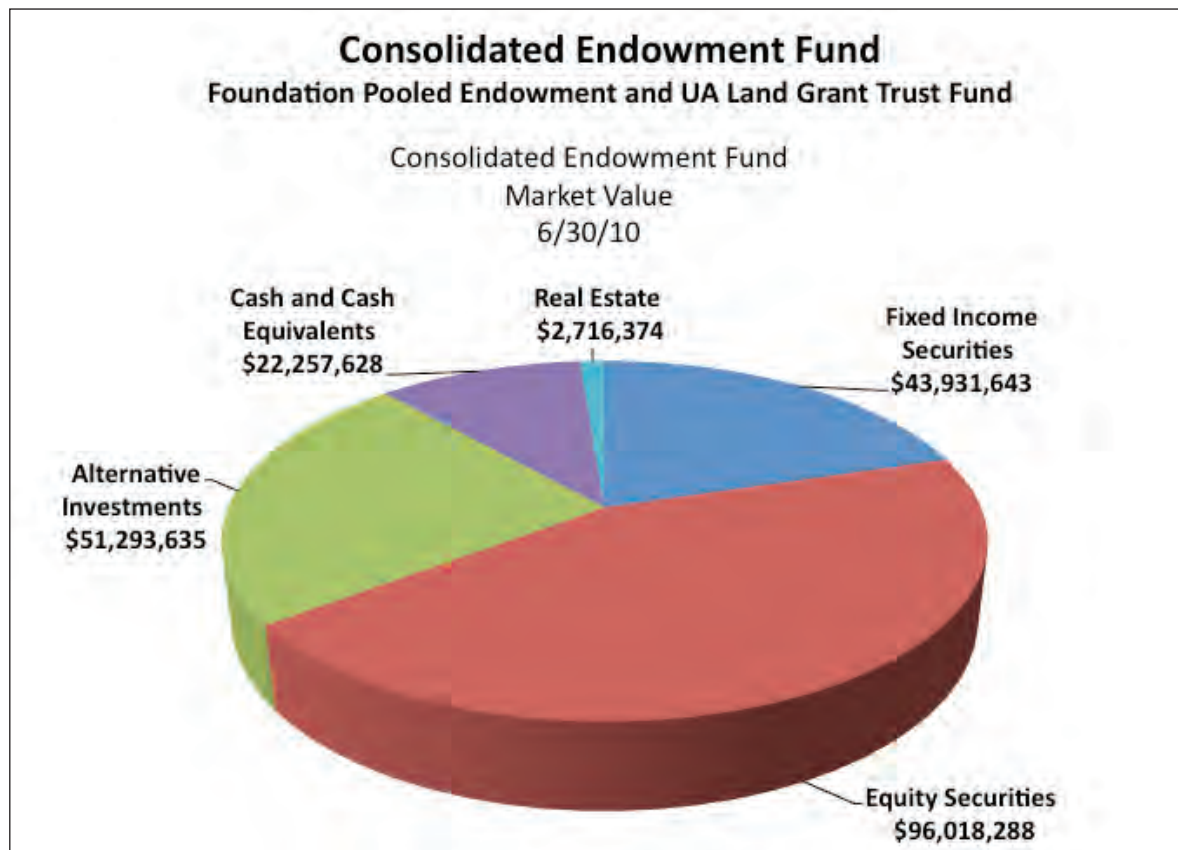

Maintaining an endowment in perpetuity is a core principle of endowment management. This fiduciary duty is one the Board of Trustees takes seriously. UPMIFA provides the board the flexibility to make distributions that are prudent in light of the fund's purposes, maintain the fund's viability in perpetuity and provide for inflation on future distributions. UPMIFA also provides the board with clarity on how prudence shall be determined.

The foundation will adjust how it administers endowments to balance current and future beneficiaries' interests. The new process, effective July 1, 2011, seeks to maintain the long-term purchasing power of endowments, stabilize distributions and provide for inflation-proofing. The new administrative process will allow distributions from many endowments, which, prior to UPMIFA, would not have received a spending distribution.

To better assess the financial health of the endowments, a viability ratio (accumulated earnings ÷ total value of the endowment) will be calculated for each endowment. A high viability ratio indicates good financial health; a negative ratio indicates the endowment is under water. In those cases, the respective program managers will seek other revenue sources, including new donations, to sustain the program or purpose of the endowment during periods of financial stress. Donors can always make contributions to the endowment's "spendable" portion, which will ensure available funds to support the purposes of the endowment.

THE UPMIFA DIFFERENCE

Before UPMIFA	After UPMIFA - Effective July 1, 2011
The terms of the donor agreement take precedence.	The terms of the donor agreement take precedence.
First year endowment is established: 4% payout based on 12/31 fund balance, if sufficient Accumulated Earnings (A/E).	First year endowment is established: 3% payout based on 12/31 fund balance
The payout will be the lesser of 4% of the average of the December 31 st value of the endowment for the preceding five years or the A/E balance as of the preceding December 31 st after deducting the 1% annual endowment fee.	If Accumulated Earnings (A/E) are positive, the payout will be 4% of the average of the December 31 st value of the endowment for the preceding five years. For a new endowment, the first year payout is limited to 3%.
If A/E are negative, there will be no distribution made to the spendable account.	If A/E are negative, a 3% distribution will be made to the spendable account from A/E earnings unless the viability ratio is lower than -20%. This distribution is considered an advance on future earnings; the permanently restricted portion (original gift value) is never affected. No distributions are made if the viability ratio is lower than -20%.
There is no minimum calculated spending amount required for distributions from the A/E to the spendable.	A minimum calculated payout of $250 is required to distribute from A/E to the spendable.

Who: Barney Gottstein, education advocate.

What: Donation to UAA College of Education in support of the Chevak Initiative - an Alaska Native teacher education program.

When: Program began Fall 2010.

Where: Chevak, Alaska.

Why: Increase the number of Alaska Native teachers in the state.

FUNDING TO BRING TEACHER EDUCATION TO RURAL ALASKA

Chevak is a long way from everything. Located in Western Alaska a short distance from Hooper Bay, Chevak is a village of about 800 people whose lives are rapidly changing.

Thanks to a generous gift from longtime education advocate Barney Gottstein, the UAA College of Education has launched the Chevak Initiative. This pilot program is designed to increase the number of Alaska Native teachers statewide, starting in Chevak. The program provides specifically sequenced courses provided via on-site and distance delivery for paraprofessionals interested in earning an education degree.

More than 90 percent of rural students are Alaska Native, but only 5 percent of teachers are. Of teachers in rural Alaska, 70 percent come from Outside. College of Education faculty have created a research team focused on creating the most effective means of delivering teacher education programs to place-based populations. The research from this program will be shared with districts across Alaska.

Gottstein hopes his donation will inspire others and create a model that can be replicated throughout the state.

UAA's First Graduate

Vince Demarest

The auditorium of Anchorage High School was crowded with dignitaries and onlookers one evening in late May 1956 for the first commencement from an Anchorage institution of higher learning.

Among the 200 guests were officials and faculty of the fledgling Anchorage Community College (ACC), which held its classes in the high school and was completing its fifth semester, and officials from the University of Alaska Board of Regents and the Anchorage Independent School District. Reporters took notes.

It was a serious but joyous occasion. And throughout, the cap-and-gown-attired graduating class sat on stage... by himself. The ACC class of 1956 consisted of one person, Vincent E. Demarest.

ACC awarded Demarest an Associate of Arts degree in business administration. He later earned a bachelor's degree in San Francisco and became a Certified Public Accountant and partner in a large firm. Demarest practiced in Anchorage before moving his family to Portland in the late 1960s. He then settled in Seattle.

The name of Vincent Demarest is forever linked to the history of the University of Alaska Anchorage, ACC's predecessor.

Demarest died in 1991. His widow, Joyce Demarest of Seattle, and their four sons – Allen, John, David and Steve – recently endowed the Vincent E. Demarest Scholarship to recognize students pursuing the Associate of Applied Science degree in accounting. The first $1,000 scholarship was awarded in fall 2010.

The scholarship in his name likely would have embarrassed and pleased Demarest. He was a shy man from humble beginnings, Joyce Demarest said. That's why he elected not to speak at his own graduation.

Demarest's time at ACC and his degree set him on his life's course, according to Joyce.

"He was one of the speakers at the college's 10th anniversary, and he was just full of gratitude because they changed our lives."

In 1956, Vince Demarest, left, received the first diploma from an Anchorage university.

Supporting UAF Hockey

Fran and John Zarling

On winter weekends, you'll find John and Fran Zarling cheering on the UAF Hockey team at the home games and even a few away games. They made the trip to Massachusetts in the spring of 2009 to watch the Alaska Nanooks play in the NCAA tournament.

The Zarlings are avid hockey fans and are one of the longest season ticket holders for Nanook Hockey. They have given generously to UAF for the past 28 years and recently established the Zarling Family Hockey Scholarship. This fund will provide scholarships to UAF hockey student athletes, with specific emphasis on students studying engineering at UAF. Their goal is to build the endowed fund until it reaches $100,000. In less than a year's time, they have nearly reached the half-way point.

"We believe in UAF's Division I hockey program and want to make a difference for Nanook hockey players," said John Zarling. He also said he hopes that his family's contributions will inspire others to contribute to programs that they feel most passionate about at UAF.

In 1976, Dr. John Zarling joined the UAF Mechanical Engineering Department where he taught until 1997, specializing in arctic engineering. Since 1997 he has been teaching the arctic engineering course fall and spring semesters for UAF's Civil and Environmental Engineering Department as well as developing an active consulting practice.

Previously, Dr. Zarling was a professor in Wisconsin, the state where he and Fran were both born and raised. The Zarlings moved to Fairbanks to explore the adventures of the North, where they raised their two sons and daughter.

Fran and John Zarling, avid Nanook hockey fans, support the team on and off the ice.

Why: To provide research support at sea.

Artist rendering of the Research Vessel Sikuliaq, designed by Glostten Associates and currently under construction at Marinette Marine Corp.

THE ELSNERS: STRONG ADVOCATES FOR SIKULIAQ

For years, Dr. Robert “Bob” Elsner has advocated for improved logistical support for research in Alaskan seas. In 1973, shortly after joining UAF, he and colleagues submitted a proposal to the National Science Foundation to build an ice-capable research vessel. After 36 years of development, multiple designs and much input, construction on the Research Vessel Sikuliaq began in December 2009. The vessel was funded by NSF and will be operated by UAF’s School of Fisheries and Ocean Sciences.

The Sikuliaq, designed by Seattle-based Glostten Associates, will be a 254-foot oceanographic research vessel capable of operating in seasonal ice and open seas. Sikuliaq, which means first-year sea ice in Inupiaq, was suggested to Bob Elsner by Alaska Native friends in Barrow. Currently under construction at Marinette Marine Corp., the Sikuliaq will be ready for research expeditions in 2014. UAF’s Seward Marine Center will be the vessel’s home port.

Bob Elsner and his wife Betty have provided funds to support the library onboard the new ship. Researchers will appreciate the opportunity for study and relaxation in the vessel’s library as Bob Elsner and his colleagues did during earlier research voyages on the Research Vessel Alpha Helix.

Bob Elsner celebrated 90 years last June. He and Betty are avid cross-country skiers and enjoy Fairbanks winters. The Elsners’ contributions to the Sikuliaq will be appreciated for many years to come.

FIRST STUDENT-LED CAMPAIGN RAISES $140,000

Led by the Native student club Wooch.éen, the UAS Eagle Totem Campaign raised $140,000 in private support to carve and raise an Eagle Totem on the UAS Auke Lake Campus.

The UAS Auke Lake campus in Juneau is located on lands originally inhabited by the Tlingit Indian tribe Aak'w Kwaan. Tlingit, meaning “The People,” are divided into moieties, which means “each of two parts.” There is the Eagle moiety and the Raven moiety.

In March 1993, Chevron donated a Tlingit-carved totem pole to UAS that represented one of the two Tlingit moieties, the Raven. The goal of Eagle Totem Pole Campaign was to honor the other moiety and bring balance to the campus.

“It means a lot to Native students that the university wanted to balance the Raven pole,” said Wooch.éen member and UAS student Ricky Tagaban. “There’s definitely a kind of an understanding or acceptance on campus for Native students. I’m glad this is going on in my generation.”

The Sealaska Heritage Institute and Sealaska Corp. generously donated the 45-foot red cedar log for the totem, valued at $40,000. Additionally, the UAS Alumni Association and the Rasmuson Foundation awarded dollar-for-dollar matching gift incentives in support of the project at $5,000 and $25,000 respectively.

UAS Student Alumni Association

The Student Alumni Association was established at UAS in fall 2003 as a chapter of the UAS Alumni Association to promote pride and tradition on campus. The program supports expanded UASAA opportunities on campus.

Entry to alumni and SAA events, including dinner and a movie, a Superbowl party and an etiquette dinner, is included in the $15 annual membership fee. The Preparing for Life After College lecture series provides opportunities for students to learn valuable life skills. Student Alumni members also give back to the community by participating in community volunteer days, and have provided financial assistance with campus projects.

The group strives to make the student experience at UAS more meaningful through the promotion of UAS pride and tradition, cultivation of relationships between students and alumni, and enhancement of the college experience through exciting, memorable events.

The student alumni group's goals tie directly to UAS Alumni Association's mission statement, which is to serve as a vital connection between the alumni and the university, communicate and advocate the goals and programs of UAS, and foster a continuous sense of community by establishing relationships and networking among alumni.

Seeds of Change

Many Ways to Give

There are numerous ways to give to UA, and you can direct your gift anywhere you choose—to a specific program, scholarship or UA campus. Or you can give an unrestricted gift, which allows UA to utilize your contribution in the area of greatest need.

YOUR PFD

Alaskans can contribute to Alaska's nonprofits through the Permanent Fund Charitable Contributions Program. Alaskans applying online have the opportunity to designate either a portion or all of their dividends to nonprofits, including the 16 campuses of the University of Alaska. If you choose to benefit UA through your PFD, please authorize the state to inform the UA Foundation so we can appropriately acknowledge you.

CASH

You can make a cash gift, which includes checks and credit card payments, online, in person or through the mail.

STOCK

The UA Foundation accepts gifts of publicly traded stock and, in some situations, closely held stock. Talk with your accountant or financial adviser about this option, which may provide significant tax benefits.

LIFE INSURANCE

By naming the UA Foundation as beneficiary to your life insurance policy, you can provide funds in the future. Or you can donate the entire policy to the foundation and, in return, take a charitable deduction for the cash value of the policy. You may also be able to deduct any premium payments made to maintain the policy after the transfer.

REAL PROPERTY

Gifts of real property are very beneficial to the university, as they can be used for educational purposes or sold to support other programs. You may be eligible for significant tax benefits. This type of gift frees you from property tax payments and allows you to avoid paying capital gains tax if you sell.

PERSONAL PROPERTY

The UA Foundation can accept gifts of personal property including jewelry and art if the item can be used to directly benefit the university or if it can be converted to liquid assets.

BEQUESTS

Making a bequest in your will is another way to show your support. A bequest is a section of a will directing the executor of the estate to make a gift from the donor's assets to a particular program or institute. Bequests may be used to provide gifts of money, real estate, stocks or even art and jewelry. They may also be used to establish charitable trusts. As there is specific language that must be used when making a bequest, an attorney should either draft or review the will before it is signed.

CHARITABLE REMAINDER TRUST

A charitable remainder trust allows you to transfer funds or properties to the UA Foundation, which will then invest the value of the donation. In turn, you will become a beneficiary of regular payments for a specified time period.

CHARITABLE GIFT ANNUITIES

A charitable gift annuity enables you to make a gift to the UA Foundation and receive fixed annual payments for life. In addition to the annual payments, there may also be tax benefits, including income tax deductions, tax-free income payments and reduced capital gain taxes. Talk with your accountant to find out more about the benefits of this type of gift.

Chugach Alaska Corp.

Supporting Native Education

Chugach Alaska Corp. presented the University of Alaska Anchorage with a gift of $200,000 in February 2010 to support the development and delivery of programs that enhance education about the history of Alaska Native people, including the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act.

Chugach wants Alaska Native students and all students at UAA to be successful, to understand and be proud of Alaska Native heritage. Chugach was able to make such a generous donation because of the Alaska Higher Education Tax Credit.

Impacts Today & Tomorrow

Education Tax Credit Undergoes Key Changes

Corporate and foundation giving accounts for over 80 percent of the private funds received annually by the University of Alaska. The Alaska Legislature, recognizing the importance of corporate donations, expanded the Alaska Higher Education Tax Credit. The revised law, in effect from January 1, 2011 to December 31, 2013, allows companies to take up to a $5 million tax credit for contributions in support of education.

The Alaska Higher Education Tax Credit can be claimed by a company paying any of the following state taxes: income tax, insurance premium tax/title insurance premium tax, mining license tax, oil and gas property tax, oil and gas production tax and fishery business tax/fisheries landing tax. The new credit will allow companies to claim up to 50 percent of contributions up to $100,000; 100 percent of contributions $100,000 - $300,000; and 50 percent of contributions $300,000 - $10 million. The total claimed through this tax credit may not exceed $5 million.

The estimated federal tax savings for the charitable contribution is calculated using an assumed rate of 35 percent. The estimated federal tax savings is calculated using the net cost of the contribution and applying the assumed rate.*

The State of Alaska Department of Revenue is finalizing the regulations on the changes to the Alaska Education Tax Credit. For specific tax advice, please consult your accountant, attorney or the Department of Revenue.

For questions about making a gift to UA, please contact Jennifer Harrington at (907)786-1146 or email tax.credit@alaska.edu.

Fairbanks Summer Arts Festival

Caroline Kaptur Memorial Scholarship

As Terese Kaptur prepared to become the director of the 2010 Fairbanks Summer Arts Festival, she also considered ways to honor her mother, Caroline Kaptur, who recently passed away. She decided to establish the Fairbanks Summer Arts Festival Caroline A. Kaptur Memorial Scholarship to benefit UAF's talented music students.

"Scholarships are an artistic way of honoring my mother. The notion that another life will benefit from her memory warms my heart every time I think of it," Kaptur said.

Caroline Kaptur held education as one of her highest values. "It will open the doors so you can pursue your dreams," Terese recalls her saying. She encouraged Terese to finish her degrees in music at UAF. Being able to honor her mother has had an impact on the way Terese thinks about giving too.

"I never thought I could create something so endearing and meaningful at an institution; I was able to name the scholarship and determine the qualifications for students who would later receive the help.

"As the director of the Fairbanks Summer Arts Festival, I want to support the fine artistic work that the UAF Music Department does and be a partner in making it possible for someone else to have their life enriched the way mine was as a student there," Kaptur said.

The Gift of Education

Alice Easley Memorial Scholarship

Alice Easley impacted countless lives as a math professor during her 30-year career at UAA. Although she passed away in 1999, Alice is still having an impact on the lives of students today through a scholarship created in her honor by her five children and close friends.

“As a single parent with five children herself, she deeply understood the importance of education in rising above difficult circumstances,” said son Max Easley, UAF ‘91.

Setting up a scholarship in Alice’s memory was the natural thing for the family to do, and it honored their mother’s passion for education. To Alice, education was a transformative process that affected whole families, not just individuals.

“We wanted to highlight our mother’s important work with non-traditional students at UAA, especially those with dependent children,” said daughter Alexis Easley, UAF ‘85 and ‘87. “She was well-loved by all of the students she encountered but especially those who needed special encouragement in order to succeed.”

Alexis said many students blossomed under Alice’s care, and now, with this scholarship, her legacy as a gifted teacher continues.

“She would be very proud. And so are we,” Alexis said. “Our mother was one of those amazing individuals who not only knew how to educate students but how to inspire them as well.”

Alaska McDonald's Student Scholarship

Jeff Bue

As the founder of McDonald's, Ray Kroc's message was "if you believe in it, and you believe in it hard, it's impossible to fail. You can achieve anything in the world that you want." In honor of his dedication to the power of believing, the Alaska McDonald's Operator's Association set up a scholarship fund to encourage Alaska's youth to believe in themselves. The $5,000 scholarship is awarded to graduating high school seniors who have demonstrated a commitment to their community.

The first recipient of the Alaska McDonald's Student Scholarship, Jeff Bue, exemplifies Kroc's philosophy. During his first year as a full-time student at UAF, he was busy taking classes, playing intramurals and working on his research project, which illustrated how arsenic can be transferred to lettuce from heavily tainted well water used for gardening. Although he is a business administration major with plans of becoming a dentist, he pursued the arsenic research out of personal curiosity.

In addition to the Alaska McDonald's Student Scholarship, Bue was also awarded the Lawrence Bayer Business Administration Scholarship and UA Scholars Award. "Winning these scholarships made it possible for me to take classes year round at UAF without being forced to have a job at the same time as going to school. The ability to focus on my classes without worrying about a job made it easier to take heavy class loads, work to earn high grades, take on a major undergraduate research project, and spend some time on community service projects," Bue said.

Mickey Belden Vocal Performance Scholarship

Dr. George Belden, a music theory and composition professor at UAA, established the Mickey Belden Vocal Performance Scholarship in honor of his late wife, Mickey Belden, and her passion for music. Mickey passed away in July.

"It is the best remembrance to keep Mickey's name alive," Dr. Belden said. "She loved to sing. She was a great singer with a wonderful voice."

Mickey, known for her deep and rich contralto style, taught singing at UAA for many years. She instructed hundreds of students, many of whom weren't music majors. She loved to sing, and accompanied artists such as pianist Wendy Williamson over her 30 years at UAA.

To George, it seemed fitting to kick-off the fundraising effort for the scholarship by hosting a concert where most of the UAA music faculty performed. Since then he has given Mickey's last Alaska Permanent Fund Dividend and helped to raise the scholarship to $9,000. He hopes to bring it up to $25,000 in the next four years.

The first student to receive Mickey's scholarship is singer, cellist and songwriter George Yang. Dr. Belden is eager to keep the award going and encourages others to support existing scholarships or create their own. "If we could have several ongoing scholarships in the department, that would go a long way toward raising the caliber of students we're able to attract and keep here," he said.

Active UAA Alumnus

Ian Wheelles

Big things are in store for Ian Wheelles, UAA '04. A catalyst for the Anchorage community, this young leader is an eager professional, active volunteer and philanthropist.

After a stint at a college Outside, Wheelles came back home to pursue a career in law and enrolled in UAA's political science program. "Anchorage is my hometown; I've had Seawolf spirit since I was a kid," Wheelles said.

After earning his bachelor's degree, Wheelles attended law school in Idaho. He returned home to work as an associate attorney and started his own practice in 2009. "I've always loved the idea of building my own business."

Ultimately, Wheelles went to school to help people. He believes in giving as much as possible and makes it a priority to share his experience with others. He established a scholarship at UAA to help students facing social or economic barriers achieve their dreams of a college education, and, in turn, help others.

"Everything you do affects your neighbors," he said. "I feel that it's my calling to help people."

Wheelles has done a lot for a 27-year-old and he doesn't plan to stop anytime soon. "I've always been interested in politics and plan to run for governor of Alaska someday," he said. He also plans to try his hand in real estate investing and recently purchased his first four-plex.

Global Change Research

Bob Belous Endowment

In the spring of 2010, Judy Belous established the Robert Belous Global Change Research Endowment in memory of her late husband, Bob, to support faculty and student research at the University of Alaska Fairbanks in the area of global change.

Bob Belous was a conservationist and wilderness advocate who held various careers in his lifetime. He first worked as a marine engineer, then as a freelance writer/wildlife photographer, and finally 24 years for the National Park Service, 11 of which were in Alaska. He was instrumental in the passage of the 1980 Alaska National Interest Lands Conservation Act.

Judy and Bob retired to Spokane, Wash., before he passed away in 2001. Sometime later, Judy saw a PBS episode of "Scientific American Frontiers" on global climate change that featured cutting-edge research spearheaded by UAF scientists. Impressed by the breadth of the university's research programs, Judy was motivated to establish a memorial endowment to Bob whose work had been so focused on Alaska's wild lands and Native cultures.

Judy is a new member of the UAF Legacy Society which recognizes individuals who have provided for the university in their estate plans. Her estate gift will ensure that faculty and students continue cross-disciplinary research to learn how global environmental changes affect our world and our future.

Give where you live

Bradford Keithley

As someone who has moved from state-to-state during his career as an oil and gas lawyer, Bradford Keithley has always lived by the notion of “give where you live.” When he moved to Alaska three years ago, his attitude was no different.

“I want to take advantage of continuing opportunities to learn. When I moved here, I started noticing those opportunities existed at UAA,” Keithley said. “It’s been a regular part of my routine to stay abreast of what’s going on at the university and to take advantage of that.”

For Keithley, the gateway to giving opened up when he started following UAA athletics – especially basketball and volleyball.

“It’s not hard to be impressed with UAA athletics,” he said. “UAA is putting great teams out on the floor, but the students themselves are impressive leaders.”

In addition to athletics, Keithley is inspired by the UAA Honors College and 49th State Fellows. When he gives to a program, Keithley looks for strong academics, leadership qualities and community outreach – which he found at UAA.

“I’ve found the local university to be at the center of the cultural and intellectual activities around the community,” he said. “UAA is a very strong institution as far as its outreach, or in terms of the opportunity it provides the community to stay educated and stay involved.”

TODD PARIS

Einer Often receives congratulatory kisses from sisters Anna Coulter and Julia Pierson after commencement.

This year, Alaskans again have the opportunity to support causes that are important to them. Through the Permanent Fund Charitable Contribution Program, Alaskans can direct contributions from their Permanent Fund Dividend directly to nonprofit organizations making a difference in Alaska.

The PFD check-off is an easy way to make the hope of education a reality for Alaskans. It's also a great way to show your pride in the university and make a positive difference in your community. Alaskans can contribute to any of the 16 campuses within the University of Alaska System.

Independent Auditors' Report

The Board of Trustees
University of Alaska Foundation:

We have audited the accompanying statements of financial position of the University of Alaska Foundation as of June 30, 2010 and 2009, and the related statements of activities and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the University of Alaska Foundation's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. These standards require that we plan and perform the audits to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes consideration of internal control over financial reporting as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Foundation's internal control over financial reporting. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit also includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the University of Alaska Foundation at June 30, 2010 and 2009, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

The University of Alaska Foundation (foundation) was established May 30, 1974 to solicit donations and to hold and manage such assets for the exclusive benefit of the University of Alaska (university). The foundation is a tax-exempt organization under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

In preparing the financial statements, management is required to make estimates that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities as of the date of the statement of financial position and revenue and expenses for the period. Actual results could differ from those estimates. The more significant accounting and reporting policies and estimates applied in the preparation of the accompanying financial statements are discussed below.

Basis of Presentation

These financial statements are prepared on the accrual basis of accounting and focus on the foundation's resources and activities as a whole. Net assets, revenues, expenses, distributions, gains, and losses are classified based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed or other external restrictions. Accordingly, net assets of the foundation and changes therein are classified and reported as follows:

Unrestricted net assets - Assets, net of related liabilities, which are not subject to donor-imposed or other external restrictions.

Temporarily restricted net assets - Assets, net of related liabilities, which are subject to donor-imposed or other external restrictions that may or will be met by actions of the foundation and/or the passage of time and unconditional promises to give that are due in future periods and are not permanently restricted.

Permanently restricted net assets - Assets, net of related liabilities, which are subject to donor-imposed or other external restrictions and will be held in perpetuity by the foundation.

Revenues are reported as increases in unrestricted net assets, unless use of the earnings is subject to donor-imposed or other external restrictions. Gains and losses on investments and other assets and changes in liabilities are reported as increases or decreases in unrestricted net assets, unless subject to donor-imposed or other external restrictions. Expirations of temporary restrictions on net assets through expenditure for the stipulated purpose or the passage of the stipulated time period are reported as reclassifications between the applicable classes of net assets. Expenses and distributions are reported as decreases in unrestricted net assets.

Basis of Accounting

The foundation maintains its accounts in accordance with the principles and practices of fund accounting. Fund accounting is a procedure by which resources are classified for accounting purposes in accordance with activities or objectives as specified by donors, with restrictions or limitations imposed by sources outside the institution, or with directions issued by the governing board.

All investments, not held for long-term investment, with original maturities of three months or less are reported as cash and cash equivalents. These are highly liquid short-term investments including an overnight repurchase agreement and Rule 2a-7 qualified prime money market funds.

Conditional promises to give are not recognized until the conditions on which they depend are substantially met. Contributions of assets other than cash are recorded at their estimated fair value. Unconditional promises to give expected to be collected in one year or more are valued at fair value.

The valuation technique used, which is consistent with the income approach, is expected present value (EPV). EPV is a probability-weighted average of all possible cash flows discounted by the risk-adjusted rate, which is based on Treasury note rates. The cash flows are further discounted to adjust for systematic risk by adding a risk premium of 3%. Amortization of the discount is recorded as additional contribution revenue in accordance with donor-imposed restrictions, if any, on the contributions.

Contributions received for memorials or prospective endowments that have not yet met the minimum requirements for acceptance as an endowment are accumulated in temporarily restricted accounts. The accumulated contributions are transferred to permanently restricted endowment accounts when the minimum requirements are fulfilled. If the requirements are not fulfilled, consistent with the conditions of acceptance, the contributions are expended for the purpose received. Transfers between net asset classes reported on the statement of activities in the amounts of $10 million and $0.3 million for 2010 and 2009, respectively, result from this type of transaction.

Nonfinancial assets are stated at cost basis. The carrying value of donated assets other than marketable securities represents the fair value of the asset as determined by independent appraisal or management's estimate at the time of receipt or contribution. Inventories of artworks and books for sale are stated at the lower of cost (first-in, first-out method) or market.

Investments

Investments in fixed income and equity marketable securities are stated at fair value based on quoted market prices. Investment funds with hedged strategies generally hold securities or other financial instruments for which a ready market exists and may include stocks, bonds, put or call options, swaps, currency hedges and other instruments, and are valued accordingly. The pooled endowment funds invest in traditional fixed income and equity securities through commingled funds, and also invest in alternative strategies, including various hedged and private capital funds. Private capital funds include private equity and venture capital, energy and natural resources, mezzanine and distressed debt, and private real estate partnerships. Private capital strategies often require the estimation of fair values by the fund managers in the absence of readily determinable market values. Because of the inherent uncertainties of valuation, these estimated fair values may differ significantly from values that would have been used had a ready market existed, and the differences could be material. Such valuations are determined by investment fund managers and generally consider variables such as operating results, comparable earnings multiples, projected cash flows, recent sales prices, and other pertinent information, and may reflect discounts for the illiquid nature of certain investments held. Moreover, the fair values of interests in shares or units of these funds, because of liquidity and capital commitment terms that vary depending on the specific fund or partnership agreement, may differ from the fair value of the funds' underlying net assets.

The net realized and unrealized appreciation (depreciation) in fair value of investments is reflected in the statements of activities. Income and net gains on investments of endowment and similar funds are generally reported as increases in permanently restricted net assets if the terms of the respective gift require that they be added to the principal of a permanent endowment; as increases in temporarily restricted net assets if the terms of the gift impose restrictions on the use of the income; or as increases in unrestricted net assets in all other cases. Losses on the investments of a donor-restricted endowment fund reduce temporarily restricted net assets to the extent that donor-imposed temporary restrictions on net appreciation of the fund have not been met before the loss occurs. Any remaining losses are classified as underwater endowment losses and reduce unrestricted net assets. Subsequent gains that restore the fair value of the assets of the endowment fund to the required level are classified as increases in unrestricted net assets.

Fair Value Measurement

The foundation follows the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) guidance on fair value measurements which defines fair value and establishes a fair value hierarchy organized into three levels based upon the input assumptions used in pricing assets. The three levels of the fair value hierarchy are described below:

Level 1 – Unadjusted quoted prices in active markets that are accessible at the measurement date for identical assets or liabilities.

Level 2 – Quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities, or inputs that are observable, either directly or indirectly, in markets that are either active or inactive. This includes alternative investments valued at net asset value or equivalent.

Level 3 – Pricing inputs are unobservable for the asset or liability and are based on the fund's own assumptions about the assumptions that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability. Level 3 includes investments that are supported by little or no market activity.

A financial instrument's level within the fair value hierarchy is based on the lowest level of any input that is significant to the fair value measurement. The inputs or methodology used for valuing investments are not necessarily an indication of the risk associated with investing in those investments.

The following table summarizes the foundation's financial assets measured at fair value on a recurring basis as of June 30, 2010:

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

June 30, 2010 and 2009

1. Organization and Summary of Significant Accounting Policies, continued

For arrangements where the foundation is a beneficiary of a trust held by a third party, the asset represents the foundation's beneficial interest in future cash flows and is valued using a discounted cash flow analysis based on the assumed timing and duration of those cash flows. Because this involves significant judgment and estimation, the valuations of these beneficial interests are included in Level 3.

Investments classified in Level 3 include shares or units in non-registered investment funds as opposed to direct interests in the funds' underlying securities, some of which are marketable or not difficult to value. Because each investment fund's reported NAV is used as a practical expedient to estimate the fair value of the fund's interest therein, the level in which an investment fund's fair value measurement is classified is based on the fund's ability to redeem its interest at or near the date of the statement of financial position. Accordingly, the inputs or methodology used for valuing or classifying investments for financial reporting purposes are not necessarily an indication of the risks associated with those investments or a reflection of the liquidity of or degree of difficulty in estimating the fair value of each investment fund's underlying assets and liabilities.

Investment liquidity as of June 30, 2010 is aggregated below based on redemption or sale period:

Redemption Period	Amounts	Fiscal Year	Amounts
Daily	$ 58,803,002	2011	$ 93,419,268
Monthly	27,405,218	2012	1,898,301
Quarterly	2,668,688	2013	1,626,596
Annually	2,353,770	2014	1,960,066
Illiquid	16,870,695	Thereafter	9,197,142
	$ 108,101,373		$ 108,101,373

Income Taxes

The foundation is an organization exempt from income tax under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code and is generally not subject to federal income taxes. Contributions to the foundation are deductible for tax purposes by the donor, subject to the normal limitations imposed by the taxing authorities. However, the foundation is subject to income taxes on any net income that is derived from a trade or business, regularly carried on, and not in furtherance of the purposes for which it was granted exemption. No income tax provision has been recorded from any unrelated trade or business. In the opinion of management any unrelated business income tax would be immaterial to the basic financial statements taken as a whole.

Beginning with the adoption of FASB Interpretation No. 48, Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes, included in FASB ASC Subtopic 740-10, as of July 1, 2009, the foundation recognizes the effect of income tax positions only if those positions are more likely than not of being sustained. Recognized income tax positions are measured at the largest amount that is greater than 50% likely of being realized. Changes in recognition or measurement are reflected in the period in which the change in judgment occurs.

Reclassifications

If applicable, certain prior year amounts have been reclassified to conform to current year presentation.

UNIVERSITY OF ALASKA FOUNDATION

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

June 30, 2010 and 2009

Subsequent Events

The foundation has evaluated subsequent events and transactions that occurred after June 30, 2010 but before financial statements are available to be issued, concluding November 3, 2010. The Uniform Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act became effective September 8, 2010 in the State of Alaska. This will result in certain endowments currently classified as unrestricted and temporarily restricted to be reclassified as permanently restricted. Management is still evaluating the impact on the foundation.

The foundation is heavily dependent upon the investment markets. In general, public equity and private capital markets are recovering, but economic conditions remain uncertain. Particularly, real estate continues to be challenged by tight credit markets, low valuations, and occupancy issues. These investments could experience further declines in value.

2. Contributions Receivable

Unconditional promises to make contributions are included in the financial statements as contributions receivable and temporarily or permanently restricted revenue. Contributions receivable are expected to be realized in the following periods:

	2010	2009
In one year or less	$ 2,141,181	$ 4,590,533
Between one year and five years	12,425,294	12,333,851
More than five years	34,181	2,286,877
	14,600,656	19,211,261
Discount	(1,064,524)	(1,444,074)
Allowance for uncollectible accounts	(40,187)	(21,100)
	$ 13,495,945	$ 17,746,087

Unconditional promises to give are recorded at the discounted present value of the future cash flows using a discount rate ranging from 2.5% to 5.9%. An allowance for uncollectible contributions receivable is provided based upon management's judgment including such factors as prior collection history, type of contribution, and nature of fund-raising activity.

3. Remainder Trusts Receivable

A charitable remainder trust administered by a third party is an arrangement in which a donor establishes and funds a trust in which the assets are invested and administered by a third-party trustee and distributions are made to the income beneficiaries during the term of the agreement. Upon death of the donor, the assets or a portion of the assets remaining in the trust are distributed to a not-for-profit entity. The foundation, as remainder beneficiary, records its interest in these irrevocable trusts, upon discovery of their existence, at fair value as determined using the present value of the estimated future cash receipts to be received from the trust, discounted at rates between 8.4% and 11.2% which reflect the expected rate of return as adjusted for various risk factors. Initial recognition and subsequent adjustments to the assets' carrying value are recognized as contribution revenue and actuarial adjustment of the remainder trust obligations, respectively, and are classified as permanently restricted, temporarily restricted, or unrestricted support, depending on donor-imposed purpose and time restrictions, if any.

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

4. Escrows Receivable

The foundation's escrows receivable are secured by deeds of trust from land sales, payable in monthly installments including interest of 7.25% to 8.5%.

5. Pooled Endowment Funds

The foundation's pooled endowment funds consist of approximately 650 individual endowments established for a variety of purposes. They include unrestricted and donor-restricted endowment funds and funds designated by the Board of Trustees to function as endowments. As required by GAAP, net assets associated with endowment funds, including funds designated by the Board of Trustees to function as endowments, are classified and reported based on the existence or absence of donor-imposed restrictions.

Effective July 1, 1997, management of the university's Land Grant Endowment Trust Fund was transferred from the State of Alaska Department of Revenue to the university Board of Regents. The foundation and the Board of Regents agreed to consolidate the foundation's pooled endowment funds and the university's land grant endowments into a Consolidated Endowment Fund (fund) for investment purposes. The foundation's investment represents 47% and 45% of the total fund at June 30, 2010 and 2009, respectively. The net assets and related activity for their respective investment in the fund are reflected in the financial statements of the foundation and the university.

The fund uses a unitized system to account for each participant's interest. Contributions to and withdrawals from the fund result in an increase or decrease in the number of units owned and are based on the unit value at the beginning of the month in which the contribution or withdrawal is made. Large additions to the fund are initially invested in cash and cash equivalents and dollar-cost-averaged into the investment pool over a ten month period. Investment income, fees, and realized and unrealized gains and losses are distributed monthly to participating funds on a per unit basis. Investment income net of fees increases the number of units outstanding, while realized and unrealized gains and losses affect the per unit value.

The Consolidated Endowment Fund includes the following:

	2010	2009
Cash and cash equivalents	$ 22,257,628	$ 23,851,939
Fixed income securities	43,931,643	36,680,276
Equity securities	96,018,288	79,449,850
Alternative investments	51,293,635	52,316,633
Real estate partnerships and investment trusts	2,716,374	6,049,368
	$ 216,217,568	$ 198,348,066

Ownership of the net assets of the Consolidated Endowment Fund is as follows:

	2010	2009
University of Alaska Foundation	$ 102,012,001	$ 89,486,071
University of Alaska	114,205,567	108,861,995

UNIVERSITY OF ALASKA FOUNDATION

NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

June 30, 2010 and 2009

Direct investment management, custodial and consulting fees for the foundation's pooled endowment funds totaled $122,522 and $115,071 for the years ended June 30, 2010 and 2009, respectively. These fees have been included as reductions to investment income.

The Uniform Prudent Management of Institutional Funds Act (UPMIFA) was signed into law in the State of Alaska on June 14, 2010 with an effective date of September 8, 2010. The university Board of Regents is, by law, the named fiduciary for all gifts and endowments of the university and subject to AS 37.10.071, for fiduciary standards and requirements. The Board of Regents has entered into agreements with the foundation to manage and invest all gifts and endowments received by or for the benefit of the university. Management considers its commitment to donors to be contractual obligations to administer the funds in accordance with expressed donor intent and its published policies, as they may be revised from time to time. These policies provide for the administration of endowments based on total return, including preservation of the original gift value as of the gift date for donor-restricted endowments, absent specific donor instructions to the contrary. The foundation classifies as temporarily restricted or permanently restricted net assets the original gift value of donor-restricted endowments as well as the original value of subsequent gifts to such endowments. The remaining accumulated return for donor-restricted endowments is classified as temporarily restricted net assets until those amounts are appropriated for expenditure.

From time to time the fair value of assets associated with donor-restricted endowment funds may fall below the level that the donor requires the foundation to retain as a fund of perpetual duration. These deficiencies resulted from unfavorable market fluctuations that occurred after the investment of permanently restricted contributions. Deficiencies of this nature are reported as a reduction in unrestricted net assets.

Endowment net assets as of June 30, 2010 include the following:

	Unrestricted	Temporarily Restricted	Permanently Restricted	Total
Donor-restricted endowment funds	$ (1,412,382)	$ 11,031,141	$ 71,928,408	$ 81,547,167

The foundation's Primary Investment Goal for its endowments is to provide a real rate of return (total return minus investment expenses, administrative fees and inflation) sufficient to support, in perpetuity, the purposes of the various endowments that make up the pooled endowment fund. The endowment spending allowance policy is also structured to help maintain the endowments in perpetuity, preserve their purchasing power and stabilize the flow of support for the purposes of the respective endowments. The spending allowance for each endowment in any fiscal year is limited to the unexpended accumulated earnings or return (both realized and unrealized) of the respective endowment as of the preceding December 31, up to a maximum of 4 percent (4.0%) of the average of the market values of the fund at December 31 for the immediately preceding five years, unless otherwise provided by the donor or the Investment Committee if the endowment has sufficient accumulated return.

7. Split Interest Obligations

The foundation has established charitable remainder trust and charitable gift annuity plans for which the foundation serves as trustee. These plans specify that donors may contribute assets to the foundation in exchange for the right to receive a fixed dollar or fixed percentage annual return. The foundation records the assets held at fair value and the corresponding liability at the actuarially determined present value of payments to be made to the income beneficiaries. The difference between the amount of the gift and the present value of the liability for future payments, determined on an actuarial basis, is recognized as a contribution at the date of the gift. The present value of payments to income beneficiaries are calculated using discount rates which represent the Charitable Federal Midterm Rate (CFMR) in existence at the date of the gift. The split interest obligations are revalued annually and any resulting actuarial gain or loss is recorded as a change in net assets.

The split interest assets represent $822,439 and $784,678 for the years ended June 30, 2010 and 2009 respectively, and are reported as other long term investments in the statements of financial position. The fair value of the associated obligations total $410,984 and $316,475, respectively.

8. Term Endowment Liability

In July 1997 the foundation accepted a term endowment. Earnings from the endowment are restricted for the maintenance of a student housing facility. The agreement with the donor requires the original principal of the endowment to remain inviolate until April 30, 2020 at which time the original principal and the unexpended earnings, if any, will be returned to the donor. The original principal of $1,000,000 is recorded as a liability at June 30, 2010 and 2009.
