PRIVACY POLICY

National Rural Health Association (either "we" or "us") is committed to protecting the privacy of our members and all users of our online services. The following discloses our policy for gathering and disseminating information for this Web site located at www.nrharural.org (the "Site"). If you have any questions about your rights as a user of this Site, you may contact National Rural Health Association.

Note: This privacy policy applies to the Site located at www.nrharural.org and to our offline practices. This online privacy policy does not apply to the Web sites of other companies, individuals, or organizations to which we may provide links. These Web sites may have different policies relating to your privacy and information they collect about you. Visitors should consult other sites' privacy policies, as we have no control over information that is submitted to, or controlled by, third parties.

Certain parts of this policy are applicable to members, while other parts apply to nonmembers. A member is a person or organization that (i) is current with payment of their membership dues and (ii) is in good standing. A nonmember is any other person or organization other than a member. For questions on whether you may be a member or a nonmember, please contact us at members@nrharural.org.

A. Information We Collect

We collect two types of information about you when you visit the Site: personal information (such as, your name, address, telephone number, e-mail address, and credit card number), and non-personal, aggregate information (such as information regarding the pages on our Site you have visited and your IP address).

1. Personally Identifiable Information

The only personally identifying information that we collect and store about you is the information that you have chosen to provide to us. For example, if you become a member of Nrharural.org, we will collect your name, address, E-mail address and other personal information so that we can process your requests. Further, if you make a purchase from the Site, we will collect your name, address, credit card number and other personal information in order to fulfill your order. We also may collect your personal information when you contact us via the Site.

2. Non-Personally Identifiable Information

We collect and use non-personally identifiable information about you in the following ways:

Your Internet Protocol (IP) address or the proxy address of your Internet Service Provider (e.g. AOL, CompuServe, Comcast, etc.);
The resource on our server accessed as a result of the request, such as the web page, image, etc.;
The query in the request;
The name and version of your web browser;
The content of any sent or received cookie, as defined below;
The Uniform Resource Locator ("URL") that was accessed before making the request for our web server.

This information is commonly collected by Web sites. It is only used to help us make our site more useful for you. With this data we learn about the number of visitors to our Site and the types of technology our visitors use.

a. Cookies

Some parts of this Web site may use a "cookie." A cookie is a small amount of data that is sent to your browser from a Web site's computers and stored on your computer's hard drive. It often includes an anonymous unique identifier. There are two types of cookies: non-persistent and persistent cookies.

A non-persistent cookie enables a Web site to temporarily store information on your computer as you travel from one page to another. This cookie is automatically deleted from your machine when you close your browser.

A persistent cookie is kept even when you close your browser. You can manually delete these cookies using commands specific to your browser and computer system.

The National Rural Health Association Web site uses non-persistent cookies to help track items put in your shopping cart and to allow a member to remain logged in as they move among Web pages.

National Rural Health Association uses a persistent cookie if a member selects the "Remember me on this computer" option when logging in so that the member does not have to re-enter their User ID and password on subsequent Site visits. National Rural Health Association also, on an anonymous basis, uses persistent cookies to help track the number of times a person visits the Site.

National Rural Health Association only reads cookies written by our site. It does not use cookies to obtain information on other Web sites that you may visit.

You may set your browser to warn you when placement of a cookie is requested, and decide whether or not to accept it. Please note that by rejecting a cookie, some of the Site features may not function properly.

b. Referrers, IP Addresses and Environmental Variables

We collect information through "referrers," IP addresses, and various environmental variables. A "referrer" is information the web browser passes along to the Nrharural.org web server that references the URL from which you came. An "IP Address" is a number used by computers on a network to identify your computer so that data can be transmitted to you. An "environmental variable" may include, among other things, the domain from which you access the Internet, the time you accessed the web site, the type of web browser and operating system or platform used, the Internet address or the web site you left to visit the web site, the pages you visit while at the web site and the Internet address of the web site you then visit. We may collect IP address information in order to administer the web site and to gather broad demographic information.

This information is commonly collected by Web sites. It is only used to help us make our site more useful for you. With this data we learn about the number of visitors to our Site and the types of technology our visitors use.
