

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) in Nevada

What is SSI?

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) is a federal program that provides monthly payments to people with limited income and resources. SSI is for people who are 65 or older, as well as people of any age, including children, who are blind or have disabilities.

To be eligible for SSI, you must also have little or no income and few resources. The value of the things you own must be less than $2,000 if you're single or less than $3,000 for married couples living together. We don't count the value of your home if you live in it, and, usually, we don't count the value of your car. We may not count the value of certain other resources, such as a burial plot.

To get SSI, you must apply for any other government benefits for which you may be eligible. You must live in the United States or the Northern Mariana Islands to receive SSI. If you're not a U.S. citizen, but you legally live in the U.S., you may still be able to get SSI. For more information, read Supplemental Security Income (SSI) for Noncitizens (Publication No. 05-11051).

The state of Nevada pays a state supplement to all SSI recipients who are elderly or blind. Nevada doesn't provide a state supplement to a person with a disability except under specific circumstances. One circumstance is if the person is part of an eligible couple with a partner who is aged or blind. The other circumstance is if the person lives in an institution where medical assistance pays for more than 50% of the person's care.

The payment you get at the beginning of each month includes both the federal SSI payment and your supplement from Nevada.

Medical assistance

If you get SSI, you can usually get medical assistance (Medicaid). You must apply for Medicaid with your local county health and human services office.

Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP)

If you get SSI, you may be able to get help through SNAP, formerly known as food stamps. SNAP benefits can help you buy more food without spending more money. We don't decide if you qualify for SNAP benefits. If everyone in your household is applying for or getting SSI, you can apply for SNAP at a Social Security office. If not, you must apply at your local county health and human services office.

Other social services

People who are eligible for SSI may be eligible for additional resources and services provided by their local county health and human services office, including:

- Adult placement.
- Child behavior and development resources.
- Child care.
- Employment resources.
- Family counseling.
- Family planning.
- Foster care.
- Health-related resources.
- Home-delivered meals.
- Home management.
- Institutional care for children.
- Protective services for adults and children.
- Rehabilitation.
- Transportation.
- Information and referrals.

For more information, contact your local county health and human services office.
