Subject: Discontinuation of the Experimental Winter Storm Severity Index (WSSI) Day 4 Extension on or about August 13, 2022

The NWS is discontinuing the experimental WSSI Day 4 Extension on or about August 13, 2022. As a result of internal and external feedback as well as some identified technical constraints with operationalizing the product, this experimental product will be discontinued.

Although this experimental product will be removed in mid-August, the experimental Probabilistic Winter Storm Severity Index (PWSSI) is now available for the full Days 1-7 time period. PWSSI provides information regarding the likelihood of severe winter storm impacts. The experimental PWSSI product is available at the link below:
