Subject: Decommissioning of w2.weather.gov on or about July 23, 2024

On or about July 23, 2024, <https://w2.weather.gov> and redirects from w2.weather.gov will be decommissioned. The content found on w2.weather.gov is currently being hosted on weather.gov or redirected to other locations.

On the implementation date, the following redirects will no longer work and users should update their bookmarks and documentation to reflect the new URLs:

<https://w2.weather.gov/climate>
<https://w2.weather.gov/jetstream>

The replacement sites are:

<https://weather.gov/wrh/climate>
<https://noaa.gov/jetstream>

With the exception below, w2.weather.gov can be replaced with weather.gov to continue to find the same content.

https://w2.weather.gov/xml/current\_obs/display.php?stid=XXXX where XXXX is an observation station identifier. For this specific request, w2.weather.gov should be replaced with forecast.weather.gov.
