CONSUMER AND GOVERNMENTAL AFFAIRS BUREAU EXTENDS EXPIRING CERTIFICATIONS FOR CERTAIN PROVIDERS OF VIDEO RELAY SERVICE AND IP RELAY SERVICE

CG Docket Nos. 03-123 and 10-51

By this Public Notice, the Consumer and Governmental Affairs Bureau (Bureau) hereby further extends, through January 4, 2012, the certification period for providers of Video Relay Service and IP Relay Service with certifications that are scheduled to expire on November 4, 2011.¹ The Bureau previously extended the certification period for affected providers until that date to maintain the status quo while the Commission considered reform of the certification process proposed in the Certification FNPRM.² On July 28, 2011, the Commission released an Order modifying the certification process and requiring providers with certifications scheduled to expire on November 4, 2011 to submit applications for recertification under the revised requirements after those requirements had become effective, but no later than 30 days prior to the expiration of their currently extended certifications --- that is, by October 5, 2011, provided that the rules had become effective by the date.³

However, the revised rules related to the submission of the certification applications and involving information collection requirements have not yet become effective.⁴ Accordingly, those providers whose certifications expire on November 4, 2011, cannot submit applications for recertification under the revised process until those rules become effective. We therefore extend, until January 4, 2012, the certification period for these affected providers to allow them to submit applications for recertification after the revised certification rules become effective. This extension will enable such providers to continue to seek compensation from the Interstate TRS Fund for this limited interim period, pending the Commission's consideration of their applications for recertification.⁵

⁴ The Office of Management and Budget has recently approved the information collection contained in the new rules adopted in the iTRS Certification Order. However, a notice announcing such approval making the rules effective has not yet been published in the Federal Register. iTRS Certification Order, 26 FCC Rcd at 10928, ¶ 75.

This extension is effective upon release of this Public Notice.
