

Expungement Review

You may request a review to have your name expunged (removed) from the registry once it's been on a certain number of years. How long you have to wait depends on:

- ▶ The date the allegation was substantiated, and
- ▶ Your child protection level (if any).

Read the attached form to learn when you may request an expungement review. You may NOT request one while you're required to be on the sex offender registry.

What happens if I request one?

1. You'll get the chance to present information to a reviewer. They'll consider factors such as the:
 - ⇒ Nature & number of substantiations,
 - ⇒ Amount of time that's passed,
 - ⇒ Likelihood that it will happen again,
 - ⇒ Things you've done to change, and
 - ⇒ References to your character.
2. You'll be notified of the decision, which is made by the DCF Commissioner.
3. If your request is denied, you may appeal to the Human Services Board.

Vermont's Child Protection Registry

When DCF investigates a report of child abuse or neglect, we must decide whether there is enough information to prove the person abused or neglected a child. If the answer is YES, the report is substantiated and the person's name is added to the Child Protection Registry, unless the substantiation is overturned after review.

What's in a registry record?

1. The person's name.
2. At least one other fact to help identify them (e.g., date of birth).
3. The date & nature of the finding.
4. A child protection level related to their risk of future harm to children — for all records added on or after July 1, 2009.

Can the public access the registry?

No. But current or potential employers may access it if:

- ▶ The current or potential employee gives their permission, and
- ▶ The work involves children, youth or vulnerable adults.

How can a record affect me?

It could affect your ability to:

- ▶ Adopt a child,
- ▶ Become a child care provider,
- ▶ Provide foster/respice care, and
- ▶ Work or volunteer in positions involving children, youth or vulnerable adults.

Others may request your record if it's relevant. This includes:

- ▶ Adult/child protection agencies,
- ▶ Board of Medical Practice, and
- ▶ State's attorneys.

Substantiation Review

If the allegations were substantiated:

- ▶ From January 1, 1992 to August 31, 2007:

You may request a review to challenge it — at any time.

- ▶ On/after September 1, 2007:

You may request a review to challenge it — within 30 days of when we notified you that:

- ⇒ We intend to add your name to the registry.
- ⇒ You have the right to request a substantiation review.

What happens if I request one?

1. We'll contact you to schedule a meeting with an independent reviewer.
2. Once it's scheduled, we'll send you a confirmation letter and copies of redacted investigative documents.
3. After the meeting, the reviewer may:
 - ⇒ Uphold the substantiation,
 - ⇒ Overturn it, or
 - ⇒ Direct DCF to reopen the investigation.
4. You'll be sent a decision letter.
5. If the reviewer upholds the substantiation:
 - ⇒ We'll add your name to the registry (or keep it on if it's already there).
 - ⇒ You may appeal the decision to the Human Services Board.

If you don't request a review in the time allowed:

- ▶ Your name will be added to the registry (or stay if it's already there).
- ▶ The decision will be final and you'll have no further right to request a substantiation review.
