UK FACES IOWA IN TRANSPERFECT MUSIC CITY BOWL

For the second consecutive season, Kentucky and Iowa will meet during bowl season, as the schools follow up their meeting in the VrboCitrus Bowl to conclude the 2021 season, a 20-17 UK victory, with a showdown in the Transperfect Music City Bowl. It marks UK's seventh consecutive bowl appearance, 22nd all-time and record sixth in the Nashville event.

UK will be without the services of quarterback Will Levis and third-leading career rusher Chris Rodriguez Jr. after they opted out of the game. The Cats should still have plenty of weapons, including star freshman receivers Barion Brown, who is from Nashville, and Dane Key.

The game also features a pair of top 20 defenses in what could be a physical, hard-hitting rematch.

QUICK NOTES

- UK is 12-9 all-time in bowl games. The Cats are appearing in a school-record seventh straight bowl. The Cats have won their last four bowl games.
- UK is appearing in the Transperfect Music City Bowl for the sixth time, the most of any participating schools. The Cats have a 2-3 record in the Music City Bowl, defeating Clemson (2006) and Florida State (2007) and losing to Syracuse (1999), Clemson (2009) and Northwestern (2017).
- Kentucky is coming off its fourth-straight win over intrastate rival Louisville, defeating the Cardinals, 26-13, on Nov. 26 at Kroger Field in Lexington. It also marked UK's fifth-straight victory in the regular-season finale, first time in school history that has been accomplished.
- The Wildcats improved their streak to 20 straight nonconference wins, the longest such active streak in FBS, which dates back to the 2017 Music City Bowl loss to Northwestern.
- In their regular-season finale, Kentucky continued its streak of holding 15 of its last 16 opponents to 24 points or less as the defense continues to prove it's one of the strongest in the conference. The Wildcats concluded the regular season ranked 20th in the nation in total defense (320.2 ypg) and 12th in scoring defense (19.1 ppg).
- On the other side of the ball, quarterback Will Levis concluded the regular season ranked fourth in the SEC and 27th in the nation in passing efficiency (151.9 rating points), while he also concluded the regular season ranked seventh in the league and 29th in the nation in completion percentage (65.4). However, Levis has opted out and will not play in the bowl.

- Running back Chris Rodriguez Jr. put an exclamation point on his career at Kentucky, amassing 3,644 rushing yards after recording his school record 20th game of 100-plus rushing yards against Louisville on Nov. 26. His 3,644 rushing yards in his career are the third-most in program history. However, he has opted out and will not play in the bowl.
- Seventeen different players have recorded at least one reception this season.
- The Wildcats have had 41 different offensive and defensive players start at least one game this season, which is 12th most in the nation. New Mexico leads the nation with 50 different starters in 2022.
- This is head coach Mark Stoops' 10th year as head coach at UK, making him the longest tenured coach in program history. With Kentucky's win at then-No. 12/19 Florida on Sept. 10, he surpassed Paul "Bear" Bryant as the winningest head coach in program history and now has a 66-58 overall record.
- Stoops is the second-longest tenured active head coach in the SEC, behind Alabama's Nick Saban, and the ninth-longest in the nation (FBS).
- He has inked a contract extension that will keep him in Lexington through June 2031 with amended financial terms.
- Stoops began his tenure at Kentucky 12-26 (.316) (2013 - through first two games of 2016). He has since gone 54-32 (.623) (2016 - present).
- Stoops was on the midseason watch lists for the Bobby Dodd and Paul "Bear" Bryant National Coach of the Year Awards. He was also named the honorary head coach of the 2022 Allstate American Football Coaches Association (AFCA) Good Works Team for his work with the Kentucky Children's Hospital.
- The Wildcats' nationally-ranked defense is filled with experienced defenders, including seniors Jacquez Jones, Keidron Smith, DeAndre Square, Tyrell Ajan and Jordan Wright and juniors J.J. Weaver and Carrington Valentine.
- Senior linebacker DeAndre Square joins former Wildcat Josh Paschal (2019-21) as the only players in school history to be elected team captain three straight seasons.
- The Wildcats have 40 wins in the last four-plus seasons, which is the fifth most in the SEC and tied for 16th among Power Five programs.
- The Wildcats are tied for second in the SEC East with Florida (54) in wins from 2016 - present (54) and only behind Georgia (78).
- Last season, Kentucky finished 10-3 and won the Vrbo Citrus Bowl for the second time in the past four seasons, defeating No. 15 Iowa, 20-17, on Jan. 1, 2022.
- All three of UK's second-place SEC East finishes have been in the last seven seasons under Mark Stoops.
- UK has recorded multiple wins against ranked teams in four of the past five seasons, including this season (three in 2018, two in 2020, two in 2021, two in 2022). Before 2018, the Cats had just one season with multiple wins against ranked foes in the previous 40 years (two in 2007).
- Kentucky has 11 players in school history who have rushed for at least 1,900 career yards. Four of those have come during Stoops' tenure - Benny Snell Jr. (3,873), Chris Rodriguez Jr. (3,644), Stanley "Boom" Williams (2,511) and A.J. Rose (1,971).
- Since Brad White joined the staff in 2018, including defensive coordinator since 2019, UK has been ranked in the top 25 in total defense in three seasons (2018, '19, and '21) and twice in scoring defense (2018 and '19). UK concluded the regular season in the top 20 in both categories in 2022.
- UK has allowed 30 or fewer points in 57 of its past 64 games, including 42 of the last 49 games since Brad White became coordinator, and has held its last 15 of 16 opponents to 24 points or less (then-No. 3/3 Tennessee scored 44 points on Oct. 29).
- UK has allowed fewer than 400 yards in 13 of its last 15 games (then-No. 3/3 Tennessee combined for 422 yards on Oct. 29 and Vanderbilt tallied 448 on Nov. 12).
- During Stoops' tenure, the Wildcats have had nine different starting quarterbacks win a game in Jalen Whitlow, Maxwell Smith, Patrick Towles, Drew Barker, Stephen Johnson, Luke Wright, Lynn Bowden Jr., Terry Wilson and Will Levis.
- Since 2016, UK is 21-10 (.677) in games decided by seven points or less.
- The Wildcats signed their highest-rated recruiting class in school history in 2022. Six of the first-year players are seeing significant action.

KENTUCKY IN BOWL GAMES

- The Wildcats own a 12-9 all-time record in bowl games, including a 4-2 record under head coach Mark Stoops.
- UK is appearing in its school-record seventh straight bowl game.
- Kentucky has won four straight bowl games which is tied with Northwestern, Syracuse, Texas and Troy for the third-longest active streak in FBS. The Cats defeated Penn State, Virginia Tech, N.C. State and Iowa for their bowl game winning streak.
- UK is appearing in the Transperfect Music City Bowl for the sixth time, the most of any participating school. The Cats have a 2-3 record in the Music City Bowl, defeating Clemson (2006) and Florida State (2007) and losing to Syracuse (1999), Clemson (2009) and Northwestern (2017).

KENTUCKY WINS FOURTH STRAIGHT GOVERNOR'S CUP

- Kentucky defeated No. 25 (CFP) Louisville, 26-13, on Nov. 26 at Kroger Field.
- Chris Rodriguez Jr., who rushed 24 times for 120 yards in his final home game, broke the UK record for 100-yard rushing games, eclipsing the mark for the 20th time in his illustrious career.
 - It was the fifth time this season that Rodriguez has rushed for at least 100 yards.
- Fellow senior Will Levis was efficient, connecting on 11 of 19 through the air for 188 yards and a pair of touchdowns, one to Barion Brown and another to Dane Key.
- Freshman wide receiver Barion Brown had four receptions for 44 yards and one touchdown.
 - Brown recorded his fourth touchdown receiving of the season on a three-yard catch to help Kentucky lead Louisville, 22-7, in the third quarter.
- Freshman wide receiver Dane Key had three receptions for 37 yards and one touchdown.
 - Key, who already holds the freshman record for most touchdowns receiving in program history, recorded his sixth touchdown receiving of the season on an eight-yard catch on Kentucky's second drive of the game.
- The UK defense was stout on this day, holding Louisville to just 309 yards of total offense in the game, which is a season low for the Cards.
- Having missed the last six games, senior inside linebacker Jacquez Jones returned to game action against Louisville and made three tackles.
 - In the first quarter, on 4th-and-1 from the UK 13, he tackled the runner for no gain to turn over the ball on downs. It was the 300th tackle of his collegiate career, including his three seasons at Ole Miss and two at Kentucky.
- Having missed the last three games, senior inside linebacker DeAndre Square returned to game action against the Cardinals and made three tackles.
- Both Jones and Square joined the 300-tackle club in that game.
- Junior outside linebacker J.J. Weaver had seven tackles, one sack, one tackle for loss and a pass breakup.
- Freshman defensive lineman Deone Walker tied his career high with six tackles. It is the second straight game he has recorded exactly six tackles.
 - He was named a SEC co-Defensive Lineman of the Week for his performance.
- Sophomore linebacker Trevin Wallace intercepted a pass in the third quarter, returning it 19 yards to the Louisville 15.
- Kicker Matt Ruffolo made four field goals and two extra points in the game.

RUFFOLO WINS SCHNELLENBERGER AWARD AS GOVERNOR'S CUP MVP

- Kicker Matt Ruffolo made field goals of 43, 29, 35 and 40 yards, and two extra points against Louisville on Nov. 26.
 - Four made field goals in a game are a career high for the graduate student.
 - His performance gave him 245 points in his career and moved him into fifth place on the UK career scoring list. He needs one more point to tie for fourth.
- He was named winner of the Howard Schnellenberger Award as the Most Valuable Player for the winning team of the Governor's Cup game, the first kicker to win the honor since it was founded in 2010.
- His four field goals also tied the Governor's Cup record.
- He became the first Wildcat with four field goals in a game since Austin MacGinnis against Missouri in 2017.

KENTUCKY-IOWA SERIES

- This marks UK's second meeting against Big Ten member Iowa, both coming in bowl games the past two seasons.
- Kentucky is 30-37-4 all-time against current Big Ten members.
- UK defeated Iowa, 20-17, in the teams' first matchup, a thrilling game in the Vrbo CitrusBowl on January 1, 2022. The Cats mounted a last-minute scoring drive and then sealed the victory on an interception by inside linebacker DeAndre Square.

*Has announced intentions to opt out of playing in the Transperfect Music City Bowl

KENTUCKY-IOWA CONNECTIONS

- Kentucky coach Mark Stoops lettered at Iowa from 1987-89, playing for legendary coach Hayden Fry.
- Stoops also served as a graduate assistant at his alma mater in 1990 and 1991. In 1990, the Hawkeyes won the Big Ten title and played in the Rose Bowl.
- Stoops' brothers, Bob (1979-82) and Mike (1981-84), both played at Iowa as well.
- Stoops said his late father, Ron, was buried in 1988 with one of his Iowa game jerseys in his casket.
- Iowa coach Kirk Ferentz was on the Iowa staff when Stoops was recruited to play for the Hawkeyes and knows the family well.
- UK reserve quarterback Deuce Hogan transferred from Iowa after last season's bowl game.

A UK WIN WOULD...

- Be Kentucky's fifth straight bowl win, improving its school-record streak of consecutive bowl wins.
- Give Kentucky eight wins, the fourth time in the last five seasons, and the 16th time all-time, UK has finished with at least eight wins.
- Be the school's 13th bowl victory overall and third in the Music City Bowl.
- Extend Stoops' all-time school records for wins (67).
- Improve Kentucky's nation-leading nonconference winning streak to 21 games.

KENTUCKY VS. THE RANKED

- Kentucky has played 265 ranked teams in the Associated Press poll in its history, while the Wildcats are 50-210-5 in those games.
- The Wildcats are 2-3 against ranked teams this season, defeating then-No. 12/19 Florida on the road and then-No. 16/17 Mississippi State at home.
 - The Cats fell to then-No. 14/11 Ole Miss in Oxford, Mississippi, in a heartbreaking, 22-19, loss and it lost to then-No. 3/3 Tennessee on the road, 44-6.
 - The Cats played top-ranked Georgia tough before falling 16-6.
- Kentucky has won five of its last nine ranked meetings, including No. 23 NC State in 2020, No. 10 Florida and No. 17 Iowa in 2021, and No. 12 Florida and No. 16 Mississippi State in 2022.
- Since 2015, the Wildcats are 11-15 against ranked teams.
- Kentucky has a 7-5 all-time record against ranked teams in bowl games.
 - UK has defeated its last three ranked opponents in bowl games.

#LAFAMILIA

Kentucky football has several set of sons playing for former Wildcats or who are currently working for UK Football:

- Senior TE Brendan Bates is the grandson of former UK basketball player Gene Neff (1951-52)
- Sophomore Dru Phillips is the son of former Wildcat Carlos Phillips (1986-90)
- Sophomore WR Trey Dennis is the son of former Wildcat Harold Dennis (1994-96)
- Freshman walk-on WR Dylan Gary is the son of former DB Willie Gary, who played at UK from 1997-2000 and was a 1997 Freshman All-America First-Team selection by The Sporting News and a team captain in 2000
- Freshman OL Nik Hall is the son of Antonio Hall, who played at UK from 2000-03 and was an All-SEC selection.
- Freshman WR Dane Key is the son of former LB/DE Donte Key who played at UK from 1992-95 and was the National Defensive Player of the Week for his performance in the 1994 inaugural Governor's Cup game vs. Louisville
- OL Lucas Padgett is the son of Scott Padgett who played basketball at Kentucky (1995-99), helping the Wildcats advance to two Final Fours, including a national title in 1998 ... Went on to play eight years in the pros ... Mom, Cynthia (Dozier), was a four-year letter winner on UK's volleyball team (1994-97)
- Freshman kicker Jackson Smith is the son of former Wildcat punter Andy Smith (1997-99), an All-SEC punter whose 42.7-yard average in 1999 was, at the time, the third-best single-season mark in school history
- We have brothers, too. Senior OLB Justice Dingle is the older brother of redshirt freshman TE Jordan Dingle. They are from Bowling Green, Ky.
- Walk-on defensive ends Richard and Alex Bascom of Louisville, Ky., are fraternal twins.
- Freshmen Destin and Keaten Wade from Spring Hill, Tennessee, also are twins.

WILL POWERED

- Quarterback Will Levis announced his intention to opt out of playing in the Transperfect Music City Bowl and enter the 2023 NFL Draft.
- After transferring from Penn State in 2021, Levis earned the starting spot early in fall camp and started all 13 games, throwing for 2,827 yards and 24 touchdowns. He also rushed for 376 net yards and nine TDs.
 - In his UK debut against ULM in 2021, he passed for 367 yards and four touchdowns. He became just the second quarterback in the SEC since 2000 to rack up at least 350 passing yards, with at least four passing touchdowns and at least a 65 percent completion percentage in a win in his first career start, joining J.T. Daniels of Georgia (vs. Mississippi State in 2020).
 - Last season, against Louisville on Nov. 27, he rushed 14 times for a career-high 113 yards and a career-best four touchdowns. His four touchdowns tied the single-game school records for most rushing TDs and most total TDs.
- During the 2022 summer, he was one of the few collegiate passers to participate in the elite Manning Passing Academy camp.
- In 2022, Levis has helped Kentucky to a 7-4 record (unavailable against South Carolina because of a foot injury), including two ranked wins, with 185 completions in 283 attempts and 10 interceptions (65.4 completion percentage). He has accumulated 2,406 passing yards, averaging 218.7 yards per game and 19 passing touchdowns.
 - In the season opener against Miami (Ohio) on Sept. 3, he recorded his fourth 300-yard game as a Wildcat and his fifth game with at least three TD tosses. Moreover, he became the second quarterback in UK history with 300-yard passing games in consecutive season openers, joining Tim Couch in 1997 and '98. He also became the 15th UK quarterback to throw for at least 3,000 yards as a Wildcat.
 - In a highly-anticipated matchup with fellow NFL prospect Anthony Richardson of Florida, Levis shined, leading Kentucky to a win in The Swamp with his poise and playmaking ability.

- He completed 27-of-35 passes for a season-high 377 yards against Youngstown State, which is his highest completion percentage in a game when attempting at least 20 passes (.771) and the second-most passing yards in his career. It is also the highest single-game completion percentage for a Wildcat (min. 35 pass attempts) since Dusty Bonner hit 34 of 40 (85 percent) in 1999.
- Had his second straight 300+ passing yard game against Northern Illinois, while it also marked his third career game that he threw for four touchdowns.
- Levis helped Kentucky to its second ranked triumph of the season after completing 17 of his 23 passes, and just one interception, for 230 yards and a touchdown against then-No. 16/17 Mississippi State on Oct. 8.
- Levis completed 13-of-19 passes for 170 yards and three touchdowns at Missouri on Nov. 5. It marked the sixth game of his Kentucky career that he has thrown three touchdowns passes in a single game and the third instance this season.
- He completed 11 of his 19 passes for 188 yards and two touchdowns with no interceptions to help Kentucky earn its fourth straight win over in-state rival Louisville on Nov. 26.
- He has earned publicity as being a potential top-10 overall selection for the 2023 NFL Draft.
- Levis is currently on the watch lists for the Davey O'Brien Quarterback Class of 2022, the 2022 Johnny Unitas Golden Arm Top 10, the Maxwell Award, Walter Camp Player of the Year, Manning Award. He also recently accepted an invitation to the Reece's Senior Bowl.

ODE TO QB1

- In 24 career games at Kentucky, Will Levis was 17-7 and had 5,233 passing yards, which ranks sixth on the program's career list. His 43 passing touchdowns are fifth all-time, while his 11 rushing touchdowns are also sixth all-time among UK quarterbacks. His 5,502 yards of total offense in his Kentucky career is ranked fifth all-time.
 - He is one of just two quarterback on UK's career total offensive leaders top-five list with plus rushing yardages, joining Jared Lorenzen (2000-03).
- Levis had a 17-7 overall record as Kentucky's starting quarterback, tying Terry Wilson for the second-most quarterback wins since 1993 (starting lineups available since 1993).

Timed as fast as 4.28 seconds in the 40-yard dash

- Rodriguez had 1,379 rushing yards in 2021, which ranked fifth on UK's single-season rushing list and made him the leading returning rusher in the SEC in 2022.
- By surpassing 1,000 rushing yards last season, he became the 10th Wildcat to have a 1,000-yard season. It has only been accomplished 14 times in total in the history of UK football.
- He was second in the SEC and 12th nationally with 106.1 yards per game and seventh in the SEC in all-purpose yards (110.8).
- His nine 100-yard rushing games in 2021 was a single-season school record.
- He rushed for 100 yards or more in five consecutive games to conclude the 2021 season, the second-longest streak in school history.
- He eclipsed 3,000 career rushing yards against then-No. 16/17 Mississippi State on Oct. 15, just the fourth player in program history to accomplish that feat.
- He has 3,644 rushing yards in his career, the third most in program history.
- He also has 32 career rushing touchdowns, which is the second-most in school history, and his 35 career total touchdowns are the third-most in school history. Moreover, he averages 6.2 career yards per carry, which is ranked third in program history.
- He concluded the regular season with 24 carries for 120 yards against Louisville on Nov. 26. It marked his 20th career game of 100+ yards rushing, which set the program record previously owned by Benny Snell Jr. who had 19 career games of 100+ yards rushing (2016-18).
- He had only 28 of his 592 career carries (less than five percent) go for negative yardage, a staggering testament to his ability to hit the hole and grind out yards.
- Since beginning to receive consistent carries in 2019, Rodriguez Jr. is one of just five players in the SEC to have multiple games of at least 195 rushing yards, joining former Wildcat Lynn Bowden Jr., Tyler Badie (Missouri), Kevin Harris (South Carolina) and Kylin Hill (Texas A&M).
- Rodriguez concluded the regular season ranked fifth on the FBS' active career rushing yards list.

RUN, CATS, RUN

- Kentucky is the home of two of FBS's most prolific rushers, as Chris Rodriguez Jr. ranks in the top five for career rushing yards, while Ramon Jefferson was ranked in the top five prior to the start of the season.
- Jefferson did the bulk of his damage at Sam Houston State before transferring to UK during the offseason. However, Jefferson missed almost all of the regular season after incurring a knee injury in the season opener.

GREAT DANE

- Through 12 games, freshman wide receiver Dane Key leads the team with six touchdowns receiving, after he caught a touchdown pass in Kentucky's win against Louisville on Nov. 26.
 - Key broke the program's freshman single-season record after recording two touchdowns receiving at Missouri on Nov. 5, reaching five touchdowns receiving on the season to that point. The record was previously set at three touchdowns receiving, which was set in 2000 by Derek Abney and tied in 2001 by Tommy Cook.
 - Key improved his own record to six touchdowns receiving by the end of the regular season.
 - Key's first three touchdowns of the season were recorded with one each in the freshman's first three games. The last Wildcat with a touchdown catch in the first three games of a season was La'Rod King in 2011.
 - Key also became the only true freshman at UK, since freshmen were granted eligibility in 1972, to record receiving touchdowns in each of his first two collegiate games. He was also the first freshman since Derek Abney (2000) to catch at least two scores through his first two games (Abney had a pair of TD catches vs. South Florida in his debut).
- Key snagged a season-long, 55-yard touchdown at then-No. 12/19 Florida, with a highly contested leaping catch, to earn SEC Freshman of the Week honors for his impressive performance in The Swamp.
- Through five weeks, ESPN.com ranked him the No. 13 freshman in the country.
- He concluded the regular season ranked seventh in the conference in touchdowns receiving (6) and 14th in the conference in yards per reception (15.23).

WHAT CAN BROWN DO FOR YOU?

- Freshman wide receiver Barion Brown concluded the regular season ranked 31st in the nation and fifth in the SEC in kickoff return average at 28.3 yards per 15 attempts.
 - He is also ranked 13th in the SEC in all-purpose yards per game (88.17).
- The rookie set the Kentucky freshman single-season receiving yardage school record after his game against top-ranked Georgia on Nov. 19. By the end of the regular season, he improved that record to 605 yards.
 - The record was previously set at 413 yards by Derek Abney in 2000.
- Brown also broke the program's freshman single-season record for the most pass receptions after his game against top-ranked Georgia. By the end of the regular season, he has 45 pass receptions.
 - The record was previously set at 40 pass receptions by Derek Abney in 2000.
- He earned his third SEC honor this season after racking up 245 all-purpose yards on just five touches at then-No. 14/11 Ole Miss. He caught two passes for 81 yards and had three kickoff returns for 164 yards. The 164 kickoff return yards set a new single-game freshman record, breaking Tony Mayes' record of 159 set vs. Georgia in 1983.

- He also was previously named SEC Special Teams Player of the Week after the season opener and was SEC co-Freshman of the Week after his first 100-yard receiving game against Northern Illinois.
- He is the first Wildcat to win a SEC weekly award three times in a single season since Lynn Bowden Jr. in 2019.
- The rookie is the only player in the nation with two 80-plus yard kickoff returns (vs. Miami (Ohio), at then-No. 14/11 Ole Miss).
- He will return to his home town of Nashville for the Transperfect Music City Bowl.
- He made a stunning debut against Miami (Ohio) on Sept. 3, taking the opening kick of the second half back 100 yards for a touchdown in the season opener. Brown took the kick, sliced to his left, found open space and then outran everyone down the visiting sideline.
 - It was the first Kentucky kickoff return for a score since Derrick Locke went to the house vs. Louisville (100 yards) in September 2009.
 - He also caught three passes for 45 yards in his collegiate debut.
 - He was named the SEC Special Teams Player of the Week for his efforts.
- He notched his first career 100-yard receiving game with 102 yards against Northern Illinois, including his first two collegiate touchdown catches.
- Brown had a career-high seven catches for 62 yards in his latest appearance against then-No. 16/17 Mississippi State on Oct. 15.
 - It is the most catches for a UK freshman since Daryl Collins had seven receptions vs. Louisville in 2012.
- Brown had three receptions for 44 yards in Kentucky's win at Missouri on Nov. 5.
 - He had 39-yard reception in UK's first offensive play of the game, which marked his sixth 30+ yard reception of his young career and set Kentucky up for a touchdown on its first drive of the game.
- Brown had a career game against Georgia with 10 receptions for 145 yards and a score.
 - The 10 catches are most by a UK freshman since Chad Scott had 10 vs. South Carolina in 2000.
 - The 145 yards are the second-most by a Wildcat freshman, Garrett Johnson had 154 at Florida in 2014.
 - The 145 yards are also the second-most for a Wildcat vs. a No. 1 team. Rick Kestner had 185 in the win vs. Ole Miss in 1964.
- Brown recorded his fourth touchdown receiving of the season on a three-yard catch to help Kentucky lead Louisville, 22-7, in the third quarter on Nov. 26.
 - With his four touchdowns receiving, he broke the four-way tie for the second-most touchdown receptions by a freshman in program history.

HERE'S TO YOU, MR. ROBINSON

- Senior wide receiver Tayvion Robinson has made a big splash at Kentucky this season.
 - He ranks second on the team in catches (35) and is third in total receiving yards (470). He's tied for third on the team with three receiving touchdowns.
 - In his Kentucky debut against Miami (Ohio) on Sept. 3, the transfer from Virginia Tech tied his career high with six catches, good for a career-best 136 yards, the first 100-yard game of his career. His first UK play was a 45-yard catch-and-run that set up the Wildcats' first touchdown of the season. He followed with two catches on a field-goal drive, then a 41-yard reception to set up another field goal. He also contributed with a 23-yard punt return that preceded UK's third field-goal drive of the game.
 - He proved his versatility at then-No. 12/19 Florida, seeing time at running back with four carries for 11 yards. He also played some running back at then-No. 14/11 Ole Miss.
 - He set a new career best with seven catches for 147 receiving yards and two touchdowns against Northern Illinois, including touchdown receptions on 69 and 40 yards. The 69-yarder marked the longest of his collegiate career.

- He sat out against then-No. 16/17 Mississippi State on Oct. 15 because of an injury, but returned against then-No. 3/3 Tennessee, making four catches and 11 total yards in that game.
- In three seasons at Virginia Tech, he caught 113 passes for 1,555 yards and eight touchdowns. He also averaged 11.4 yards on punt returns, including a 60-yard TD jaunt.

WHITE-OUT

- Fourth-year defensive coordinator Brad White has proven to be an excellent hire after Coach Mark Stoops plucked him from the NFL in 2018. During White's term, Kentucky has steadily become more stout on that side of the ball and other programs have taken notice, as White has turned down several other coaching opportunities in that time.
- For the first time since 1986-89, UK has allowed 26 or fewer points per game in four straight seasons.
- For the first time since 1959-62 it has yielded 160 rushing yards or fewer per game for four straight seasons.
- In today's high-scoring offensive game, the UK defense has held opponents to 30 or fewer points in 42 of his 49 games as coordinator (2019-present).

DEFENSE, DEFENSE, DEFENSE

- Kentucky is ranked third in the league, behind Georgia and Alabama, and 20th nationally in total defense through 12 games, limiting its opponents to just 320.2 yards per game. The Wildcats are also ranked third in the SEC, behind UGA and UA, and 12th nationally in scoring defense this season, holding their opponents to just 19.1 points per game. Moreover, the Cats are ranked second in the SEC, behind Texas A&M, and seventh in the nation in passing defense this season, holding their opponents to just 173.4 passing yards per game.
- Kentucky has allowed fewer than 215 passing yards in 11 of its 12 games this season (Kentucky allowed 245 passing yards at then-No. 3/3 Tennessee on Oct. 29). It has allowed fewer than 200 passing yards in eight of those 12 games this season.
 - UK held its first four opponents of the season to under 200 passing yards, the first time it has done so through the first four games since 1989.
- The Wildcat defense is coming off a stout performance in their last game, holding Louisville to just 309 yards of total offense on Nov. 26, which is a season low for the Cardinals.
- Kentucky allowed just 203 passing yards in its game against then-No. 16/17 Mississippi State on Oct. 15. UK limited MSU to season lows for total offense (225 yards), rushing yards (22), passing yards (203) and first downs (13). UK also allowed only 10 offensive points.
 - 22 rushing yards is the fewest UK has allowed since the Mississippi State game in 2020 (20 yards in that game).
- Moreover, Kentucky limited Missouri to total just 89 rushing yards in their matchup on Nov. 5, which is the Tigers' fewest rushing yards in a game through week 10 in 2022.
- The Cats held a Georgia offense averaging 40 points and 509.0 yards per game to just 16 and 363, season lows in both categories.
- The Wildcat defense dominated their opponents in the first three weeks, holding each opposing squad to under 300 total yards. It marked the first time the UK defense has done so since the first three games of 1989.
 - Kentucky held its first three opponents of the season to a combined 761 yards of total offense, its fewest in the first three games since 2008 (752 in first three games).
 - UK also limited Florida and Youngstown State to under 50 percent completions, the first time in back-to-back games since 2018 (Florida and Murray State).
 - UK had held its opponents scoreless for six straight quarters for the first time since 2019, after a second-half shutout at Florida on Sept. 10 and the game shutout against Youngstown State on Sept. 17.

MAYBE NEXT TIME

- Kentucky has allowed just 26 touchdowns through 12 games this season, which is the third fewest in the league and the 12th fewest in the nation. Meanwhile, those 26 combined

FIRST-YEAR FROSH ARE TRUE

- Six Kentucky true freshmen have been making significant contributions to the Wildcats.
 - Defensive back Alex Afari is 15th on the team in tackles with 21 stops and is tied for sixth on the team in tackles for loss with three (-10 yards).
 - Linebacker Keaten Wade has made 16 tackles, including 2.5 tackles for loss (-13 yards) and 1.5 sacks (-8 yards).
 - Deone Walker leads UK defensive linemen in tackles with 39, including 3.5 for loss (-12 yards). He has two games this season with six total tackles.
 - WR/KOR returner Barion Brown leads the team with a pair of program freshman records - 45 catches for 604 yards - and four touchdowns. He also has a 100-yard kickoff return TD to his credit.
 - WR Dane Key leads the team and set the program's freshman single-season record with six touchdowns receiving.
 - Freshman tight end Josh Kattus became the 17th player this season with a reception when he caught a 10-year pass at Missouri on Nov. 5. He has had at least one reception in each game since his COMO performance. He also has impressed the coaches with his blocking.
- Brown and Walker both were named freshman All-Americans by several outlets.
- Brown, Burton, TE Jordan Dingle, DB Jordan Lovett and Walker all were named Freshman All-SEC. Burton became the first offensive lineman to earn that honor since Logan Stenberg in 2016.
- Freshman trio Brown, Key and Walker were on the 247Sports Midseason True Freshman All-America Team for 2022. Meanwhile, Walker was also named a Shaun Alexander Freshman of the Year Award semifinalist.

COUCH ON THE BALLOT

Former Kentucky quarterback Tim Couch has been named to the 2023 ballot for induction into the College Football Hall of Fame, the National Football Foundation (NFF) & College Hall of Fame announced. Couch is one of 80 players and nine coaches from the Football Bowl Subdivision and 96 players and 33 coaches from the divisional ranks.

A storied name of the Kentucky program, Couch, was the team's quarterback from 1996-98. After giving up his senior season of eligibility, he was drafted as the No. 1 pick by Cleveland in the 1999 NFL Draft. In 1998, the junior quarterback was named a first-team All-American and consensus Southeastern Conference Player of the Year. Couch completed 400 of 553 passes for 4,275 yards and 36 touchdowns and led the nation in pass completions while ranked second in completion percentage, passing yardage and touchdown passes, and fourth in total offense. After guiding the Wildcats to the Outback Bowl, UK's first New Year's Day bowl appearance in 47 years, Couch finished fourth in Heisman Trophy balloting. He was also a finalist for the Davey O'Brien National Quarterback Award as a junior and sophomore. His breakout sophomore campaign featured 363 of 547 passes completed for 3,884 yards and 37 touchdowns while leading the nation in pass attempts, completions, yardage, and completion percentage. Also during his sophomore year, Couch earned second-team All-SEC honors and finished ninth in Heisman voting. He played in seven games as a true freshman, with two starts. Career wise, Couch completed 795 passes on 1,184 attempts for 8,435 yards and 74 touchdowns. The legend ended his career with seven NCAA records, 14 SEC records, and 26 school records.

Couch, also a standout at Leslie County High School in Hyden, Kentucky, was inducted into the National Federation of State High School Associations (NFHS) National High School Hall of Fame in 2021.

WE'RE GOING STREAKIN'

Kentucky's victory over Louisville in the regular season finale extended its non-conference winning streak to 20 games, the longest active streak in FBS.

| Streak | Last Non-Conf. Loss |
|---------------|--------------------------------|
| 20 - Kentucky | Dec. 29, 2017 vs. Northwestern |

UK also is tied for the longest active bowl winning streak with four straight victories:

| Streak | Team |

 Ramon Jefferson - Sr., RB - Sam Houston State
 Tashawn Manning - Sr., OL - Auburn
 Jordan Robinson - So., DB - Livingstone College
 Tayvion Robinson, Sr., WR - Virginia Tech
 Keidron Smith, Sr., DB - Ole Miss

2022 TEAM CAPTAINS

Seven Wildcats – including six seniors – were voted as team captains for the 2022 football campaign. Senior linebacker DeAndre Square joins former Wildcat Josh Paschal (2019-21) as the only players in school history to be elected team captain three straight seasons. Along with Square, the team's permanent season captains include returning captains Will Levis, Christopher Rodriguez Jr., and first-time captains Kenneth Horsey, Jacquez Jones, J.J. Weaver and Jordan Wright. Game captains will be decided on a week-by-week basis. They are listed below.

vs. Miami (OH) Kenneth Horsey, Jacquez Jones, Will Levis, DeAndre Square at Florida Kenneth Horsey, Will Levis, DeAndre Square and Jordan Wright vs. Youngstown State Jacquez Jones, Will Levis, DeAndre Square, J.J. Weaver vs. NIU Kenneth Horsey, Will Levis, DeAndre Square, Jordan Wright at Ole Miss Jacquez Jones, Will Levis, Chris Rodriguez Jr., DeAndre Square vs. South Carolina Kenneth Horsey, Chris Rodriguez Jr., DeAndre Square, J.J. Weaver vs. Miss. State Kenneth Horsey, Will Levis, Chris Rodriguez Jr., DeAndre Square at Tennessee Kenneth Horsey, Will Levis, Chris Rodriguez Jr., DeAndre Square at Missouri Kenneth Horsey, Will Levis, Chris Rodriguez Jr., J.J. Weaver vs. Vanderbilt Kenneth Horsey, Will Levis, Chris Rodriguez Jr., J.J. Weaver vs. Georgia Will Levis, Chris Rodriguez Jr., J.J. Weaver, Jordan Wright vs. Louisville Kenneth Horsey, Chris Rodriguez Jr., DeAndre Square, Jordan Wright

CATS IN THE NATIONAL POLLS

- The Wildcats were ranked in the top 10 in both the Associated Press poll (7th) and coaches' poll (8th) for three straight weeks to close out the month of September, climbing one spot in each poll over that stretch. The Cats dropped out of the top 10, to No. 13 in both polls, after their loss at then-No. 14/11 Ole Miss on Oct. 1.
- Kentucky hadn't been ranked in the top 10 in three straight weeks in the AP poll since Nov. 14, 1977 (7th), Nov. 21, 1977 (7th) and Nov. 28, 1977 (7th), while this was the first instance of being ranked in the top 10 in even just two consecutive weeks in the coaches' poll.
- Kentucky moved into the top 10 and remained there from the Sept. 11 - Oct. 2. The Wildcats were tabbed No. 9 in the AP poll and No. 10 in the AFCA Coaches' poll, jumping 11 and 10 spots, respectively, from its placement in the polls the week before.
 - It marked UK's first top-10 ranking in the AP poll since Oct. 14, 2007 (No. 8) when the Wildcats were 6-1, and the 26th time in program history.
 - It marked UK's first top-10 ranking in the coaches poll since Sept. 30, 2007 (No. 8) when the Wildcats were 5-0, and only the second time in program history.
- For the first time in school history, Kentucky was ranked in both national preseason polls, coming in at 20 in the AP poll and 21 in the USA TODAY Sports AFCA Coaches Poll.

SIMPLY STOOPS-ENDOUS

UK head coach Mark Stoops has proven to be an excellent hire, turning around a struggling program and making him the first UK coach to lead the program to a sixth consecutive bowl appearance. He also has erased a number of the long-standing hurdles and streaks in the program's history. A partial accounting of Stoops' achievements features:

- 40 wins in the last four-plus seasons, which is the fifth most in the SEC and tied for 16th among Power Five programs
- Winning the regular-season finale five years in a row for the first time in school history
- First top-10 ranking in each the Associated Press poll and the coaches' poll since 2007 (Sept. 11, 2022)
- First consecutive top-10 rankings in each poll since 1977 (Sept. 18, 2022)
- First home win over Florida since 1986, also marking the first win over an Associated Press top 10-ranked opponent since 2010 (2021)
- First win at Tennessee since 1984 (2020)
- First New Year's Day Bowl win since 1951 (2018 season)
- First 10-win season since 1977 (2018)
- First SEC Coach of the Year since 1983 (2018)
- First final poll ranking since 1984 (2018)
- First bowl win since 2008 (2018 season)
- First win vs. Florida since 1986 (2018)
- First bowl appearance since 2010 (2016)
- Stoops began his tenure at Kentucky 12-26 (.316) (2013 - through first two games of 2016). He has since gone 54-32 (.623) (2016 - present). Overall, Stoops is now 66-58 at Kentucky, surpassing Paul "Bear" Bryant's 60 victories to set a new school record.
- Off the field, Stoops is a staunch supporter of the Kentucky Children's Hospital, helping raise more than $500,000 annually for the kids.
- Kentucky's football team has fared well academically under Stoops, as each year UK's football score in the NCAA Academic Progress Rate has been well above the benchmark of 930.

STOOPS NAMED HONORARY COACH OF ALLSTATE AFCA GOOD WORKS TEAM

- Head coach Mark Stoops, who has helped raise more than $2 million for the Kentucky Children’s Hospital, was named the honorary head coach of the 2022 Allstate American Football Coaches Association (AFCA) Good Works Team®.
- Stoops has a passion for helping children and you can see that in the countless number of community service projects he has worked on in his 10 seasons at Kentucky.
- Each July, Stoops spearheads a fundraiser called “Coaches for the Kids” which raises money for the Kentucky Children’s Hospital. Since 2013, the event has raised over $2 million. The event was originally started by former head coach Rich Brooks and Stoops has worked tirelessly to make sure the event has grown and continues to raise money for the children’s hospital.
- In March of 2022, Coach Stoops and the Coaches for the Kids Foundation presented funds totaling $1.15M for projects at Kentucky Children’s Hospital. This gift will fund three projects:
 - Zero Suicide Academy is a training program for providers and staff to effectively identify individuals with suicide risk through screenings for patients at every visit. Training has begun for all KCH clinical and non-clinical staff.
 - LOCUS home monitoring technology for medically complex infants. This system is a bridge to health for infants discharged home between surgeries and at high risk for mortality. For families that may not have access to medical facilities in their home county, LOCUS provides them with a safe, accurate and user-friendly technology to monitor their children at home between visits, drastically reducing fatalities among these patients.
 - In combination with generous gifts from other donors, the CFTK Foundation will support the purchase and operation of a mobile clinic to serve pediatric patients in rural areas of Kentucky. The mobile will have the capacity to see up to 1,100 patients per year in pediatric cardiology, hemophilia/ blood disorders, high BMI and adolescent mental health. The unit can also serve as a primary pediatric service with the ability to complete routine well visits and sports and school physicals.
- The SEC leads all conferences with 82 selections to the Allstate AFCA Good Works Team since it began in 1992. Georgia is in first place with 22 honorees, while Kentucky follows with 17 honorees.

GEIGER ON SEC COMMUNITY SERVICE TEAM

- Junior defensive back Jalen Geiger was named to the SEC Community Service Good Works Team for his volunteer work in the community.
- Growing up in a military family, Geiger, a native of Columbia, South Carolina, attended six different schools from kindergarten through 12th grade and knows a thing or two about what it feels like to be the new kid in class and how hard it can be to make new friends. Because of his background, Geiger has a passion for helping people, especially elementary school-age kids. Geiger has been using his platform as a football player to help kids in need and in 2021, found a mentorship opportunity at Liberty Elementary in Lexington, Kentucky. He has visited the school on several occasions, playing with the kids and talking to them about anti-bullying, learning and trusting their teachers.
- In 2022, Geiger created the “Just. Inspire. Greatness.” initiative. Based on his initials, J. I. G. (Jalen Isaiah Geiger), his initiative hopes to inspire greatness in kids around the Commonwealth and his hometown community in South Carolina. He used his own money to purchase wristbands with his mantra and he handed them out to the kids and teachers at Liberty Elementary on his last visit.
- He has also participated in the following community service projects: Real Men Read (2021) – Volunteered to read to a group of first graders at Yates Elementary three times during the season; Citrus Bowl Volunteer Project (2021) – Volunteered to mentor children in the Orlando area at an amusement park ... Paired up with one of the students and began a friendship with him and talked to him about the importance of school because he was not doing well in the classroom; Belk Bowl Volunteer Project (2020) – Volunteered to pack food bags for people in the Charlotte area with food and/or home insecurities in the community; God’s Pantry (2020) - Volunteered to pack food bags for food insecurity elementary students in the Lexington area to take home for the weekends; Lighthouse Ministries (2020) – Volunteered to prepare, clean and serve meals to the homeless.

J.J. WEAVER MAKES AN “IMPACT”

- Junior outside linebacker J.J. Weaver was one of 42 candidates on the 2022 Lott IMPACT Trophy Watch List, the only major college football award that considers character.
- This season, he has 44 tackles (seventh on the team), 6.0 tackles for loss (second-most on the team), a team-high 2.5 sacks, three quarterback hurries, a team-high three fumble recoveries, a team-high tying two forced fumbles and a blocked kick.
- In 2021, Weaver earned six starting assignments and totaled 34 tackles, 10.0 tackles for loss (second on the team), a team-high 6.0 sacks, four quarterback hurries, two interceptions, one forced fumble and one pass breakup. He was named third-team All-SEC by Phil Steele.
- He was having a breakout freshman campaign in 2020 with 33.5 tackles and 6.5 tackles for a loss through nine games of the 2020 season when he suffered a torn anterior cruciate ligament in his right knee at Florida. Despite missing the final two games, he still earned All-SEC Freshman Team honors. That injury was just one part of a very difficult year for Weaver, who also lost his father to homicide and then in the fall of 2021 lost his beloved high school coach, Rob Reader, to liver cancer. As a result, his challenging off-season included both the rehabilitation of his knee and undergoing counseling to deal with his grief. Both were successful as he returned to the field with a strong knee and a clear mind. He was named the Mayo Clinic Comeback Player of the Year Award and was a Capital One Orange Bowl Courage Award nominee in 2021 because of his resolve on and off the field.

- Another interesting note about Weaver is that he has polydactyly, a condition in which a person has more than five fingers or toes on one, or on each, hand or foot. Weaver plays with six functioning fingers on his right hand. He now not only uses his platform to speak to elementary school kids on the importance of mental health but also how to embrace being different.

KENTUCKY'S YOUNGSTOWN BOYS

- A neighbor of Pittsburgh, a.k.a. Steel City USA, Youngstown, Ohio, has a reputation as a blue collar community defined by hard work and relationships forged over generations that are stronger than steel. Kentucky's football program is, in many ways, defined by that bond as it creates a southern alumni club from Youngstown, the hometown of head coach Mark Stoops and his brother Mike Stoops and several other key members of the program. Below is a list of staffers and players from Youngstown:
- Mark Stoops - Head Coach (Cardinal Mooney), Mike Stoops – Inside Linebackers Coach (Cardinal Mooney), Vince Marrow – Recruiting Coord./Tight Ends (Cardinal Mooney), Frank Buffano – Safeties (Cardinal Mooney), Courtney Love – Grad Assistant (Cardinal Mooney), Luke Fulton – Junior, inside linebacker (Cardinal Mooney) and Sean O'Horo – freshman, running back (Boardman).

COACHING CHANGES

- Jay Boulware is the newest face to the Kentucky coach staff as he was hired on Dec. 12, 2022 to coach running backs coach and serve as the special teams coordinator. Boulware has 25 years of full-time coaching experience and has coached in 16 bowls. In 2021, he served as an offensive intern in the Pittsburgh Steelers, working specifically with the running backs, including UK's all-time leading rusher, Benny Snell Jr. Before the Steelers, he served as the associate head coach for special teams and tight ends coach at Texas, helping the No. 19 Longhorns finish 7-3 overall and capture the Alamo Bowl title in 2020. He has also had stints at Oklahoma, Auburn, Iowa State, Utah, Stanford, Arizona and Northern Illinois.
- Zach Yenser was named UK's new offensive line coach on Feb. 22. He came to UK after three seasons with the 49ers. Prior to that, he spent three seasons at Kansas (2015-17) as the run game coordinator/offensive line coach and had coaching stints at Southern Methodist (2018), California (2013-14), Louisiana Tech (2010-12), Colquitt County High School (2009) and Henderson State (2008). He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at his alma mater Troy University in 2007, working with special teams and the offensive lineman under former Wildcat and beloved UK assistant coach John Schlarman. He replaced Eric Wolford, who left to become the offensive line coach at Alabama.
- Mike Stoops was hired on Jan. 18, 2022 as Kentucky's new inside linebackers coach. He came to UK after spending the 2021 season as the defensive coordinator and safeties coach at Florida Atlantic.

Prior to that he spent two seasons (2019 and 2020) at Alabama as an analyst on Nick Saban's staff, highlighted by the 2020 national championship. He also was the assistant head coach and defensive coordinator at Oklahoma from 2012-18 and was the head coach at Arizona from 2004-11. He had a first term at Oklahoma from 1999-2003, including the 2000 national championship season. He replaced Jon Sumrall, who left to become the head coach at Troy. Mike is the brother of head coach Mark Stoops. They coached together at Arizona as Mark served as defensive coordinator.

CATS IN THE NFL DRAFT

- Kentucky had four selections in the 2022 NFL Draft - Wan'Dale Robinson (2nd round, New York Giants), Josh Paschal (2nd, Detroit Lions), Luke Fortner (3rd, Jacksonville Jaguars) and Darian Kinnard (5th, Kansas City Chiefs).
- In total, 22 players have been drafted under head coach Mark Stoops since 2013, including 13 defensive players in Avery Williamson, Bud Dupree, Za'Darius Smith, Josh Forrest, Josh Allen, Lonnie Johnson, Mike Edwards, Jamin Davis, Kelvin Joseph, Quinton Bohanna, Brandin Echols and Josh Paschal.
- Kentucky has totaled four or more players selected in the first five rounds three times in school history, including twice in the last four years under Coach Mark Stoops - 2022, 2019 and 1966.

DID YOU KNOW?

- A picture of longevity, UK Equipment Manager Tom Kalinowski enters his 45th season in that role. He also was a student manager in 1974-77, marking his 49th year in UK football. He has worked more than 500 consecutive games.
- UK is one of only 10 schools that have won an NCAA men's basketball championship while also having a claim on a national championship in football.
- UK is one of only seven universities in the U.S. that have programs in agriculture, engineering, law, medicine and pharmacy on a single campus.
- The Kentucky cheerleaders have won an unprecedented 24 national cheerleading championships at the annual Universal Cheerleaders Association championships.

A LOOK AHEAD

- Seven home games highlight the University of Kentucky's football schedule in 2023.
- The Wildcats will begin the season with three straight home games at Kroger Field, including a visit from nearby foe Eastern Kentucky.
- The schedule, which is a combination of four nonconference games and eight conference games, features home appointments against Ball State, Eastern Kentucky, Akron, Florida, Missouri, Tennessee and, for the first time since 2015, Alabama.
- The road trips include stops at Vanderbilt, Georgia, Mississippi State, South Carolina and Louisville.

KENTUCKY 37, MIAMI (OHIO) 13

SEPT. 3, 2022 • LEXINGTON, KY. KROGER FIELD (61,139)

Quarterback Will Levis passed for 303 yards and three touchdowns as No. 20/21 Kentucky opened the 2022 season with a 37-13 win over Miami (Ohio) at Kroger Field.

Tayvion Robinson, playing in his first game as a Cat, caught six passes for 136 yards, while true freshman Dane Key caught four passes for 53 yards and his first career touchdown.

It was Key's classmate, Barion Brown, who electrified the crowd, and broke open the game, with a 100-yard kickoff return for a touchdown to begin the second half.

The UK defense allowed just 290 total yards in the game. DeAndre Square led UK with seven tackles, while another true freshman, Alex Afari, had six tackles, including one and a half tackles for loss and his first career sack.

Miami took the opening possession of the game, beginning at their own 25. The RedHawks got 43 yards passing from quarterback Brett Gabbert, driving deep into UK territory. Then, running back Tyre Shelton went off left tackle, broke through the UK secondary and scored, giving Miami the lead. Graham Nicholson added the point after and the RedHawks led 7-0 with 9:39 to play in the first quarter.

Kentucky took over and the Cats got a big play immediately. Levis connected with Robinson, who broke a couple of tackles on his way to a 45-yard gain on UK's first play from scrimmage. UK would get into the red zone when Levis connected with Key for a 19-yard gain, getting to the Miami six yard line. Two plays later, Levis hit tight end Brendan Bates with a touchdown pass in the front left corner of the end zone. Matt Ruffolo added the PAT and the game was tied 7-7 with 7:29 to play in the first period.

Miami would get one first down on its next possession before the UK defense forced a punt. Kentucky would take the ensuing possession and methodically march into Miami territory. The first period would come to an end with the game still tied 7-7 and the Cats on the Miami 25 yard line.

Kentucky would get into the Miami red zone early in the second. Then, on fourth and two from the Miami four yard line, Levis was intercepted by Miami's Eli Blakey. The RedHawks would take over on their own six with 12:36 left in the half.

The RedHawks could not take advantage of the turnover. Miami would have a third-and-four from their own 12 when Gabbert's pass was broken up by Carrington Valentine. Then, the RedHawks punt was partially blocked by UK's JJ Weaver, giving UK the ball at the Miami 32 with 11:08 left in the half.

Kentucky would get a big play on first down when Levis hit Key again, this time for a 17-yard completion. But the Cats' drive stalled and UK was forced to settle for a 34-yard Ruffolo field goal. The super senior converted it and the Cats led 10-7 with 9:22 to play in the half.

Miami responded with a scoring drive of its own. The RedHawks got into UK territory by covering 45 yards in just seven plays before the Cats came up with a defensive stop. That forced Miami into a 48-yard field goal that Nicholson converted, tying the game at 10-10 with 6:10 remaining in the half.

The next two possessions went three-and-out, one by each team. The Cats took over on their own 16 with 2:04 left in the half. The drive appeared to be going nowhere until Levis hit Robinson across the middle for a 41-yard gain. Levis then hit Kavosiey Smoke with a screen pass for a 10-yard gain, setting the Cats up at the Miami 19 with 19 seconds left in the half.

JuTahn McClain would rush for six yards on the next play, which was followed by a UK timeout with 14 seconds to play in the half. Levis and Robinson connected again on the next play, getting UK to the Miami seven with six seconds left on the clock. On the next play, Levis could not find an open receiver and threw the ball away. That set up another Ruffolo field goal attempt, this one from 25 yards, that the super senior nailed as time expired in the half with the Cats holding a 13-10 advantage.

The Cats would start the second half with a bang. Brown took the second half kickoff and raced down the left sideline, outrunning the Miami defense for a 100-yard kickoff return touchdown. It was Brown's first career touchdown and it, combined with Ruffolo's PAT, gave UK a 20-10 lead just 13 seconds into the second half.

Miami took possession but, on the second play from scrimmage, Tyrell Ajian forced a Jaylor Bestor fumble that was recovered by UK's Keidron Smith, who returned it to the eight yard line. On the second play of the ensuing drive, Levis connected with Chauncey Magwood in the end zone for an eight-yard score. It was Magwood's first career touchdown. Ruffolo nailed the point after and Kentucky led 27-10 with 13:58 still to play in the third quarter.

Miami would answer with an 11-play, 65-yard drive that ended with a 27-yard field goal by Nicholson. The kick was good and UK's lead was cut to 27-13 with 9:04 left in the third quarter.

The teams would exchange punts, but the Cats got the better end of that deal when Robinson returned the Miami punt 23 yards to the RedHawks 48 yard line.

Kentucky would get one first down on the next drive but the drive ultimately stalled. UK called on Ruffolo again and again he delivered, this time from 50 yards out, giving the Cats a 30-13 lead with 1:09 left in the third quarter.

Early in the fourth quarter, Miami was forced to punt again and the Cats took over on their own 16 with 12:58 to play. The Cats would move the ball methodically until Levis hit Brown on a 38-yard completion, getting UK within striking distance. Key would draw a pass interference penalty in the end zone and, three plays later, he would catch his first collegiate touchdown, a one-yard strike from Levis. Ruffolo added the PAT and UK led 37-13 with 7:46 remaining.

From there, the Cats would run out the clock and would open the season with a 24-point win.

NO. 20 KENTUCKY 26, NO. 12 FLORIDA 16

SEPT. 10, 2022 • GAINESVILLE, FLA.
BEN HILL GRIFFIN STADIUM (89,993)

Mark Stoops became Kentucky's all-time winningest coach as No. 20 Kentucky topped 12th-ranked Florida 26-16 at Ben Hill Griffin Stadium.

It was the Kentucky defense that came up large all night long. The Cats held Florida to 279 yards of total offense and kept Florida's talented quarterback Anthony Richardson in check. UK's defense also came up with a pair of huge interceptions, both of which defined the outcome of the win.

Kentucky (2-0) struggled offensively but made enough plays to get the win. Quarterback Will Levis connected on 13 of 24 through the air for 202 yards and a touchdown. Kavosiey Smoke carried the ball 14 times for 80 yards, most of which came in the second half.

Florida had the opening possession of the game but, after one first down, the Gators were forced to punt. On Kentucky's first possession, the Cats went three-and-out, punting the ball back to Florida.

The Gators took over on their own 48 and quickly got into UK territory. However, the UK defense held, forcing Florida into a field goal attempt. Adam Mihalek converted the 39-yard attempt and the Gators grabbed a 3-0 lead with 10:03 left in the first quarter.

Kentucky would take the ensuing possession into Florida territory but the Gators were able to hold, forcing another UK punt. Florida would get a first down on the ensuing possession, but the Gators would be forced to punt.

The Cats would put together another drive as the first quarter was winding down. Levis connected with Dane Key for 16 yards, then Keaton Upshaw for 22, getting UK to midfield. The first quarter would come to an end with Florida leading 3-0.

Kentucky was forced into another punt early in the second quarter and Florida took over at its own 25. The Gators were forced to punt again and the Cats took over on their own 33.

The Cats would strike on the next possession. Levis hit Keaton Upshaw in the left flat for a 12-yard gain. Then Levis went deep, finding Key, who jumped and, with a defender draped all over him, made a tremendous catch for a touchdown. Matt Ruffolo added the PAT and UK led 7-3 with 11:36 left in the half.

Florida wasted no time in responding. The Gators got a 40-yard rush from Montrell Johnson to get into UK territory. But the UK defense stood tall after that, forcing a 50-yard field goal attempt from Mihalek. The kick was good and the Gators cut the UK lead to 7-6 with 10:01 to play in the half.

Kentucky got one first down on its next possession but two plays later, Levis was hit and Florida's Gervon Dexter picked the ball out of the air for what was ruled an interception, giving UF the ball at the UK 34.

Florida would get into the red zone and would get into the end zone for the first time on an 11-yard touchdown run by Trevor Etienne. Florida would go for two and Richardson would connect with Etienne for the scoring, giving Florida a 14-7 advantage with 5:49 to play in the half.

The Cats went three-and-out on their next possession. And on fourth down, the snap went over the head of UK punter Colin Goodfellow, who chased the ball down and kicked it through the back of the end zone for a safety, giving Florida a 16-7 lead with 4:12 left in the half.

Florida took the next possession with a chance to blow the game open. Instead, on third and three, Richardson tried to go into the flat but UK's Jordan Wright made a one-handed interception and returned it to the Florida six yard line.

It took four plays, but the Cats would punch it in, with Levis running the quarterback sneak up the middle to cut the Florida lead to 16-13. UK could not convert the PAT after a bad snap prevented the kick from happening.

Kentucky got the first possession of the second half but the Cats couldn't get anything going and were forced to punt. Florida would follow suit, punting the ball back to the Cats after just three plays.

The Cats took the next possession and methodically marched onto the Florida side of the field. For the first time in the game, UK established the ground game, eventually getting inside the Florida 10 yard line. But Florida held and forced the Cats into a 24-yard field goal, which Ruffolo converted, to tie the game at 16-16 with 6:35 to play in the third quarter.

Florida was poised to answer on its next drive before the Cats defense made yet another huge play. With the Gators at the UK 39, Richardson threw a pass to the right that UK's Keidron Smith intercepted. Smith had only Richardson between himself and the end zone, and the Ole Miss transfer negotiated that obstacle on his way to the end zone, giving Kentucky a 22-16 lead. Ruffolo added the PAT and UK led 23-16 with 3:25 remaining in the third quarter.

The Gators would make a first down on their next drive, but eventually would be forced to punt, giving UK the ball on its own 15 yard line with 1:27 left in the third. Kentucky would hold that 23-16 lead as the third quarter ended.

The fourth quarter opened with Levis hitting Chancey Magwood for a 22-yard gain on third down. UK would get into Florida territory again, but the drive eventually stalled and the Cats were forced to punt, giving the Gators the ball on their own 20 with 11:05 remaining.

Florida would make a first down on its next possession before the UK defense stood tall once again. Then, on fourth and three from their own 40, Florida went for it, but Richardson's pass was knocked away by UK's Carrington Valentine, giving the Cats the ball in good field position.

Kavosiey Smoke would rush for 18 yards on first down, getting the Cats to the 22. But the drive stalled and Ruffolo came on for a 38-yard field goal attempt. The kick missed to the left and Florida got the ball back with 6:13 to play.

Florida did nothing with the ensuing possession, which was highlighted by a tackle for loss by Kentucky true freshman Deone Walker. Again, Florida went for it on fourth down and again, the Gators failed. UK took over at the Florida 24, looking to put the game away.

Kentucky was content to run the clock with a seven-point lead and less than four minutes to play. Smoke would rush for seven yards, getting the Cats into the red zone. On the next play, Smoke, with the push of his offensive line, gained 11, getting the ball to the Florida five yard line.

The Cats would run clock and would get a 26-yard field goal from Ruffolo with 1:24 to play, giving the Cats a 26-16 lead.

UF could do nothing with its final possession and the Cats claimed the victory.

NO. 9/10 KENTUCKY 31, YOUNGSTOWN STATE 0

SEPT. 17, 2022 • LEXINGTON, KY.
KROGER FIELD (61,000)

The Kentucky defense pitched its first shutout in over 13 years as the Cats blanked Youngstown State 31-0 at Kroger Field.

Kentucky moved to 3-0 on the season after shutting out its first opponent since blanking Miami (Ohio) 42-0 on Sept. 5, 2009.

The UK defense held Youngstown State to just 192 yards of total offense (134 passing, 58 rushing). The Cats had six tackles for loss, including a pair of sacks. Freshman Alex Afari led UK with five tackles in the game. Jordan

Wright had four tackles, including two for losses.

Quarterback Will Levis had another big day for the Cats. The senior completed 27 of 35 through the air for 377 yards and two touchdowns. He did throw two interceptions in the game but was able to connect with 11 different receivers.

Dane Key and Tayvion Robinson were Levis' primary targets in Saturday's win. Key, the Lexington native, caught six passes for 90 yards and a touchdown, his third in three games as a Cat. Robinson, the transfer from Virginia Tech, also caught six passes and had 66 yards receiving.

Kentucky took the opening kickoff and got the offense cranked up immediately. Levis and Key connected on the first play, gaining 23 yards. Levis would hit Kavosiey Smoke for a 14-yard completion. But YSU would sack Levis on third down and the Cats were forced to punt.

Youngstown State took over at its own 16 yard line but the Penguins could do nothing with the possession, punting it back to the Cats. The teams would trade punts on the next two possessions but Youngstown State's punt was blocked by UK's Martez Thrower and recovered by Izayah Cummings, who returned it to the YSU 27 yard line.

On the ensuing possession, the Cats appeared to be ready to score. But Levis was intercepted at the three yard line by Youngstown State's Troy Jakubek, ending the threat and giving the ball back to the Penguins with 4:49 left in the first quarter.

YSU could do nothing with the possession and punted the ball back to the Cats, who got a good return by Tayvion Robinson and took over at the 35 yard line with 3:07 left in the first.

Kentucky would again drive deep into YSU territory. Levis connected with Robinson on a 15-yard gain, getting the Cats to the one yard line as time expired on the first quarter with the teams in a scoreless tie.

As the second quarter began, the Cats tried, unsuccessfully, to get in from the one on rushes by La'Veil Wright and Smoke. Then, on third down, Levis took the quarterback sneak up the middle for a UK touchdown. Matt Ruffolo added the point after and Kentucky led 7-0 with 13:34 left in the first half.

After another YSU punt, the Cats drove again, with Levis and Key connecting for a 29-yard gain early in the drive. Levis connected with Keaton Upshaw on a 12-yard completion and, later in the drive, he connected with Key again, this time on a three-yard touchdown. Ruffolo added the PAT and UK led 14-0 with 6:10 to play in the first half.

YSU punted on its next possession but the Penguins would get the ball back at the UK 47 on a fumble by La'Veil Wright. But the Penguins could do nothing with the ensuing possession and were forced to punt the ball back to UK.

That particular punt was a short one, covering just 17 yards, giving the Cats the ball at their own 29 yard line with 1:54 to play in the half.

Kentucky would employ its two-minute offense and would get into the YSU red zone with under a minute to play. Then, on first and goal from the two yard line, Levis connected with Chris Lewis for a touchdown with just 20 seconds left in the half. It was the first career reception, and touchdown, for Lewis. Ruffolo would add the point after and UK led 21-0. That would be the halftime score.

YSU had the opening possession of the second half and the Penguins quickly got into UK territory. It looked like the Penguins would score on a touchdown reception by former Cat Bryce Oliver. However, UK's Carrington Valentine broke up the fourth-down pass in the end zone, ending the Youngstown State drive.

On the ensuing possession, the Cats would ride the arm of Levis into YSU territory. Levis would connect with Barion Brown, Robinson and Dekel Crowdus, getting the Cats inside the 10. From the seven yard line, Smoke would rush to the left corner of the end zone for the touchdown. Ruffolo again added the PAT and the Cats led 28-0 with 8:36 left in the third quarter.

Youngstown State would appear to be ready to score on its next drive. Aided by a 64-yard completion from Demeatric Crenshaw to Jaleel McLaughlin, the Penguins got inside the UK five. But Crenshaw was intercepted by Valentine in the end zone, ending the threat.

Kentucky would lead 28-0 after three quarters.

In the fourth quarter, the biggest offensive play was a 58-yard completion from Levis to Demarcus Harris, which got the Cats inside the YSU five. The Cats would settle for a 23-yard field goal from Ruffolo, which would make the score 31-0 with 4:54 to play.

NO. 8/9 KENTUCKY 31, NORTHERN ILLINOIS 23

SEPT. 24, 2022 • LEXINGTON, KY.
KROGER FIELD (61,579)

Senior quarterback Will Levis connected on 18 of his 26 passes for 303 yards and four touchdowns as No. 8 Kentucky held off a tough Northern Illinois squad 31-23 at Kroger Field.

Kentucky (4-0) had two receivers have big games in the victory. Tayvion Robinson caught seven passes for 147 yards and two touchdowns. True freshman Barion Brown caught four balls for 102 yards and two touchdowns of his own as the Cats remained unbeaten.

Kavosiey Smoke rushed 12 times for 85 yards in the game as the Cats rushed for 103 yards as a team.

Defensively, Jacquez Jones led the Cats with 12 tackles, including four of the solo variety. DeAndre Square and Jordan Wright each had six tackles for UK in the win.

Northern Illinois took the opening kickoff and wasted little time in getting the scoring underway. The Huskies used the ground game to move deep into Kentucky territory. A 20-yard rush by Antario Brown got the Huskies inside the UK five yard line. Then, on third-and-goal, quarterback Ethan Hampton connected with Tristen Tewes on a two-yard touchdown pass. John Richardson added the PAT and NIU led 7-0 with 8:53 to play in the first quarter.

Kentucky would answer with a scoring drive of its own. The Cats started slowly, having to go for it on fourth down early in the drive, but found their rhythm later in the possession. Unlike NIU, the Cats went the air, riding the passing of Levis, who hit on six of his nine passes on the drive for 55 yards. The drive culminated with a 15-yard touchdown to freshman Brown. Matt Ruffolo added the PAT and the game was tied 7-7 with 48 seconds left in the first quarter. That would be the score as the period came to an end.

Northern Illinois would drive near midfield with its next drive but, on fourth down, used a quick kick from Hampton to end the drive. The punt went into the end zone and the Cats took over at their own 20 with 13:01 left in the first half. Kentucky did very little with the next drive and punted the ball back to Northern Illinois with 8:50 to play in the half.

NIU punted on its next possession as well, with punter Tom Foley drilling a 61 yarder and pinning the Cats at their own two yard line with 6:47 to play in the half.

It took just one play for the Cats to get out of that hole. On first down, Smoke broke through the left side for a 27-yard run, getting the Cats out of the shadow of their own goalpost and into manageable territory. Later in the drive, Levis hit a streaking Robinson, who outraced the defense on his way to the end zone. It was a 69-yard touchdown and, when Ruffolo added the PAT, the Cats led 14-7 with 5:08 to play in the half.

Late in the half, NIU had the ball near midfield and was forced to punt. On the ensuing UK drive, Smoke fumbled and NIU recovered at the Kentucky 34 with 42 seconds left in the half. The Huskies got a 20-yard completion from Hampton to Cole Tucker on first down, then another completion, this one from Hampton to Fabian McCray, getting NIU to the UK five yard line.

UK appeared to be poised for a big defensive stop. But on third and goal, NIU ran a reverse to Shemar Thornton, who pulled up and connected with Tewes on a three-yard scoring pass with just six seconds left in the half. Richardson added the point after and the game was tied at 14-14. That would be the halftime score.

Kentucky had the first possession of the second half and, on the second play from scrimmage, Levis appeared to be intercepted. However, the NIU defender could not come up with the catch, giving new life to the UK drive. On the next play, Levis made the Huskies pay, connecting with Brown across the middle and watching the freshman do the rest, as he took it to the house for a 70-yard touchdown. Ruffolo added the PAT and the Cats grabbed a 21-14 lead just 58 seconds into the third quarter.

The next three drives, two by NIU and one by UK, all ended with punts. Kentucky took over at its own 33 with 7:16 left in the third. The Cats would take the ball into NIU territory before the drive stalled. UK would cap the drive with a 49-yard field goal from Ruffolo to take a 24-14 lead with 3:04 remaining in the third period. The third quarter would come to an end with the Cats holding that 10-point advantage.

After another NIU punt, the Kentucky offense again put points on the board. The Cats were able to march 78 yards in 11 plays, culminating when Levis connected with Robinson for a second touchdown pass, this one covering 40 yards. Ruffolo made another point after and UK led 31-14 with 8:46 to play.

NIU would add a 38-yard Thornton field goal to make it 31-17 with 5:26 to play. After UK was forced to punt, the Huskies struck quickly, as Hampton connected with Kacper Rutkiewicz on a 63-yard gain, getting the ball to the UK five. The UK defense appeared to have stopped the Huskies, but a defensive holding call on fourth down gave NIU a first down, with the ball at the two. On the next play, Justin Lynch ran left and scored, cutting the UK lead to 31-23. The Huskies two-point conversion was broken up by Zion Childress and the Cats led by eight with 2:47 to play.

After an unsuccessful onside kick by NIU, Kentucky was able to run out the clock and clinch the victory.

#14/11 OLE MISS 22, #7/8 KENTUCKY 19

OCT. 1, 2022 • OXFORD, MISS. VAUGHT-HEMINGWAY STADIUM (64,828)

Will Levis connected on 18 of his 24 passes for 220 yards and two touchdowns, but a late drive came up short as seventh-ranked Kentucky fell at No. 14 Ole Miss 22-19 at Vaught-Hemingway Stadium.

Chris Rodriguez Jr., playing in his first game of the season, carried 19 times for 72 yards and a touchdown, and caught three passes for 40 yards in the game.

Freshman Barion Brown had four explosive plays in the game for the Cats, two receptions and two on kick returns.

DeAndre Square led the UK defensive attack with 11 tackles and Jordan Wright had eight.

Ole Miss (5-0, 1-0 SEC) had the first possession of the game and the Rebels were able to get one first down before the Cats forced a punt.

Kentucky (4-1, 1-1) took over at its own five yard line and, like the Rebels, the Cats made one first down before being forced to kick it away.

On its second possession, Ole Miss got the scoring underway. The Rebels needed just 1:40 to cover 70 yards in six plays, ending with a four-yard touchdown rush by Zach Evans. Jonathan Cruz added the point after and Ole Miss led 7-0 with 7:09 left in the first quarter.

The Cats would take the ensuing possession into Ole Miss territory, aided by a 30-yard completion from Levis to freshman Brown. But the drive would stall and Kentucky would try a 39-yard field goal from Matt Ruffolo. The kick would sail wide left and the score remained 7-0 with 2:44 left in the first.

Ole Miss would strike again on its next drive. The Rebels would get to midfield, and that's when freshman Quinshon Judkin busted free up the middle and raced to the end zone for a 48-yard touchdown. Cruz made the PAT and the Rebels led 14-0 with 59 seconds left in the first quarter.

Kentucky would respond on the ensuing kickoff. Brown took the kickoff at the goal line and sprinted 85 yards down the left sideline to the Ole Miss 15 yard line. Two plays later, Rodriguez took it right up the middle for a 10-yard touchdown, getting the Cats on the board. The PAT was blocked and the period ended with Ole Miss leading 14-6.

In the second quarter, Ole Miss would make one first down on its next drive before being forced to punt again. The Rebels down the ball at the UK one yard line, where the Cats would take over.

Kentucky would get out of the shadow of its own goal post with a first down. However, Ole Miss held and on third-and-12, Levis was under pressure and threw the ball away. Intentional grounding was called on the play and, because Levis was in the end zone, it resulted in a safety, giving the Rebels a 16-6 advantage with 10:28 to play in the half.

Ole Miss took possession at their own 37 after the free kick and quickly got into UK territory. But an offensive pass interference call set the Rebels back and they were forced into a 53-yard field goal by Cruz, which was good, giving Ole Miss a 19-6 lead with 7:03 remaining in the half.

Kentucky needed points on its next drive and the Cats got just that. UK used a nice mix of running and passing to get inside the Ole Miss 10. Among the key plays was a 23-yard rush by Izayah Cummings.

On first and goal from the five, Levis flipped a pass to Tayvion Robinson, who sprinted right and into the front corner of the end zone for a touchdown. A bad snap prevented the extra point attempt but the Cats got within seven, 19-12, with 1:23 left in the half.

Ole Miss would get a final possession and the Rebels would get into UK territory before former Rebel Jacquez Jones intercepted Dart at the UK 28. The half would end with Ole Miss holding a 19-12 lead.

Kentucky took the second half kickoff but the Cats were forced into a three-and-out. Colin Goodfellow booted a 52-yard punt and Ole Miss took over at its own 16 yard line.

Ole Miss followed suit, going three-and-out and punting the ball back to the Cats. The punt, which was into the wind, also took a UK bounce and the Cats took over in great field position at the Ole Miss 49 yard line.

Levis would connect with Dane Key for a 14-yard completion. The Cats would later face a fourth-and-1 from the Ole Miss 26 and Rodriguez would convert, giving UK a new set of downs. Kentucky would not waste the opportunity, as Levis hit tight end Jordan Dingle, who fought his way into the end zone for a 17-yard touch-down. Ruffolo added the PAT and the game was tied 19-19 with 6:22 to play in the third quarter.

Ole Miss would assemble a scoring drive on the next possession. The Rebels used their high-paced offense to get down the field in a hurry. But the Cats' defense stood tall and forced the Rebels into a 26-yard field goal from Cruz, which was good, giving Ole Miss a 22-19 advantage with 2:19 left in the third.

On the ensuing kickoff, Brown struck again, taking the kickoff 54 yards to the Ole Miss 39 and giving the Cats very good field position again. But the Cats were unable to take advantage and gave the ball up on downs as the fourth quarter began.

Ole Miss marched down the field and got inside the UK red zone. But big plays by DeAndre Square and D'Eryck Jackson forced the Rebels into a fourth-and-goal from the five and Dart's pass was knocked away by Jordan Lovett, giving UK the ball with 10:14 to play.

The Cats got out of the deep hole on the first play of the ensuing drive as Ju'Tahn McClain went up the middle for 17 yards and a first down. UK would continue to march down the field, with Levis and Rodriguez hooking up on a 17-yard completion and, two plays later, Levis and Dingle connecting for 14 yards. But on third-and-two from the Ole Miss 19, Levis, trying to stretch for the first down, was hit and fumbled. Ole Miss would recover, taking over at their own 21 with 2:55 to play.

Ole Miss went three-and-out with the ensuing possession, punting the ball back to the Cats, who took over at their own 34 with 1:49 to play. After an eight-yard completion to Rodriguez, Levis hit Brown on a screen that the speedster took 51 yards to the Ole Miss seven.

On the next play, Levis hit freshman Dane Key on a fade in the corner of the end zone for an apparent touchdown. But the Cats were not set on the play and were called for illegal motion. Then, on the next play, Levis was back to pass and was hit by the Rebels' Jared Ivey, who forced a fumble that the Rebels recovered to seal the game.

SOUTH CAROLINA 24, #13/13 KENTUCKY 14

OCT. 8, 2022 • LEXINGTON, KY.
KROGER FIELD (61,612)

Chris Rodriguez Jr. rushed for 126 yards on 22 carries but 13th-ranked Kentucky, playing without starting quarterback Will Levis, lost to South Carolina 24-14 on at Kroger Field.

Levis suffered a lower body injury in last week's loss at Ole Miss and was unable to play on Saturday night. The Cats turned to redshirt freshman Kaiya Sheron behind center. The Somerset, Kentucky, native connected on 15 of 27 through the air for 178 yards and two touchdowns, with one interception.

Rodriguez went over 100 yards for the 16th time in his UK career. He also moved past Mark Higgs and into fifth place on UK's career rushing list in the game.

The Cats got a big effort from its defense, led by DeAndre Square, who had nine tackles in the game. Jordan Wright added seven tackles for the Cats and D'Eryk Jackson had five.

Kentucky (4-2, 1-2 SEC) got the ball first but, on the first play from scrimmage, the Cats fumbled and South Carolina's Tonka Hemingway recovered and returned it to the UK two yard line. On the Gamecocks' first play from scrimmage, MarShawn Lloyd scored a two-yard touchdown. Mitch Jeter added the PAT and the Gamecocks led 7-0 just 13 seconds into the game.

On the following possession, Kentucky would make one first down before being forced to punt. South Carolina got an 18-yard return from Josh Vann and the Gamecocks took over at their own 38 with 11:39 still remaining in the first quarter.

South Carolina (4-2, 1-2) was affected by the UK home crowd on the next possession, committing two false start penalties. The Gamecocks would be forced to punt and UK would take over at its own 24 with 10:18 still left in the first half.

Kentucky was forced to punt on its next possession and the Gamecocks would block the Colin Goodfellow kick. King-Demenias Ford blocked the kick and South Carolina recovered at the UK 22.

The Gamecocks appeared to be ready to go ahead by two scores, but UK's Tyrell Ajian sacked Ga'eco'cks' quarterback Spencer Rattler, forcing a fumble that Kentucky's JJ Weaver recovered at the 21.

Kentucky would put together a solid drive with the ensuing possession. The Cats covered 52 yards before the drive stalled at the South Carolina 27. From there, Matt Ruffolo tried a 45-yard field goal, but the try clanged off the left upright, keeping the Cats off the board. South Carolina took over at their own 35 with 1:22 remaining in the first quarter.

South Carolina would lead 7-0 after the first quarter.

The Gamecocks would make two first downs on the next drive and would get into UK territory. However, on a fourth-and-two from the Kentucky 40, Lloyd was stuffed in the backfield for a four-yard loss by DeAndre Square and JJ Weaver, giving the Cats the ball at their own 44 with 11:53 to play in the half.

Kentucky would drive into South Carolina territory on the next possession, riding Rodriguez and JuTahn McClain to get into the red zone. Then, Sheron connected with Jordan Dingle over the middle for a 16-yard touchdown. Ruffolo added the point after and the game was tied 7-7 with 8:30 left in the half.

The teams would exchange punts late in the half, and South Carolina took over at the UK 43 with 2:37 left in the half. But with under a minute to play before half-time, Rattler was intercepted by Trevin Wallace at the UK 19 with just 37 seconds before halftime. The Cats would run one play and would let the half expire with the teams tied 7-7.

South Carolina had the first possession of the second half and Lloyd started the possession with an 18-yard run. Later in the drive, on third-and-nine from the South Carolina 44, Rattler connected with Jaheim Bell for a 14-yard gain. Then, two plays later, Rattler hit Antwane Wells in the right flat, and Wells scampered 42 yards for the Gamecock touchdown. Jeter added the PAT and South Carolina led 14-7 with 12:47 left in the third quarter.

After a Kentucky punt, South Carolina put together one of its best drives of the night. The Gamecocks went 70 plays in 14 plays, covering 7:01 on the clock. However, the UK defense stood tall in the red zone, forcing South Carolina into a 32-yard Jeter field goal, which was good, and the Gamecocks led 17-7 with 2:38 left in the third. That would be the score after three periods.

In the fourth quarter, South Carolina would add to its lead with a 24-yard touchdown rush by Jalen Brooks. The PAT made it 24-7 with 6:53 to play.

Kentucky would score on the ensuing drive, with Sheron connecting with several receivers, including McClain, who caught a 10-yard touchdown pass. Ruffolo added the PAT and South Carolina led 24-14 with 2:49 to play.

The Cats would attempt an onside kick but South Carolina recovered at its own 49. The Cats forced South Carolina into a three-and-out and a punt. But on the first play of the following possession, Sheron was intercepted, sealing the win for the Gamecocks.

#22/22 KENTUCKY 27, #16/17 MISSISSIPPI STATE 17

OCT. 15, 2022 • LEXINGTON, KY. KROGER FIELD (61,451)

Chris Rodriguez Jr. rushed for 196 yards and two touchdowns as No. 22 Kentucky topped 16th-ranked Mississippi State 27-17 at Kroger Field.

For Rodriguez, it was the second-highest rushing total of his Kentucky career. He also eclipsed the 3,000-yard mark in career rushing in Saturday's win, becoming the fourth player in school history to reach that number.

Kentucky (5-2, 2-2 SEC) saw quarterback Will Levis connect on 17 of his 23 passes for 230 yards with one touchdown and one interception. Levis briefly exited the game with a left shoulder injury but only missed part of one series.

The Cats also got a big effort on the defensive side of the ball. UK held the Bulldogs well below their 37.5 points per game average and became just the second team this season to hold MSU under 30 points. DeAndre Square led the defensive attack with 11 tackles and an interception in the game.

Mississippi State (5-2, 2-2) took the opening kickoff and quickly crossed midfield. But the Cats' defense would force a punt, and UK would take over at its own 20.

Kentucky took the ball and was able to advance into Mississippi State territory. However, when Levis connected with Raasaan Lewis, it appeared to be enough for the first down. Instead, Lewis was stripped and MSU recovered at its own 36 with 7:45 left in the first.

MSU was forced to punt on its next possession and the Cats appeared to have the game's first big play. Barion Brown took the punt and raced down the right sideline for an apparent touchdown. But the Cats were flagged for a block in the back, negating Brown's big effort.

Kentucky appeared to be stopped on its next possession before Levis hit Dane Key down the left sideline on a 31-yard completion, taking UK near midfield. Later in the possession, the Cats would convert a fourth-and-one on a Levis quarterback sneak. But a couple of penalties set Kentucky back and the Cats were set to punt as the scoreless first quarter expired.

MSU would break the scoring drought on its next drive. The Bulldogs would cover 57 yards in 13 plays and would get a 48-yard field goal from Massimo Biscardi to take a 3-0 lead with 8:24 to play in the first half.

Kentucky would sustain a drive on its next possession, riding on the back of Rodriguez, who carried for 27 yards on the drive. UK would face a fourth-and-eight from the 33 and would attempt a 51-yard field goal by Matt Ruffolo. The kick had the distance but sailed wide left and the score remained 3-0.

MSU took over with 1:52 to play in the half and the Bulldogs were looking for points in their two-minute offense. The Bulldogs would advance to the Kentucky side of the field but the Cats' defense again stood tall and, on fourth-and-eight from the UK 35, Will Rogers' pass was too tall for his receiver and UK took over with 47 seconds to play in the half.

Kentucky would take advantage of the final possession. The Cats, with the help of a couple of MSU penalties, got into the Bulldogs' red zone but would not be able to get into the end zone. Ruffolo would be called upon again, and would convert from 28 yards out, tying the game 3-3 with four seconds left in the half. That would be the halftime score.

The Cats would get the opening possession of the second half and the Cats advanced into MSU territory quickly, but at a cost. Levis hit Brown on a 33-yard completion. However, Levis injured his left shoulder on the play and was forced out of the game. Backup quarterback Kaiya Sheron entered as the Cats got into the MSU red zone. But the drive stalled and Ruffolo was called on for a field goal, this one from 36 yards out, which Ruffolo converted, giving the Cats a 6-3 lead with 11:34 left in the third quarter.

MSU would answer with a drive that produced the game's first touchdown. The Bulldogs would cover 75 yards in eight plays and would end when, on fourth-and-one from the one, Rogers connected with tight end Austin Williams in the front corner of the end zone for the score. Biscardi added the PAT and Mississippi State led 10-6 with 8:28 left in the third quarter.

Levis returned on the next drive, when the Cats when back to the ground game. Kentucky gave the ball to Rodriguez on four consecutive plays, the fourth of which was a 47-yard scamper that put the senior over 100 yards for the game and got the Cats to the MSU eight.

From there, UK tried Rodriguez three times but he was not able to get into the end zone. Then, on fourth-and-goal from the MSU three yard line, Levis connected with Lewis for a touchdown, the first of Lewis' career. Ruffolo added the PAT and Kentucky led 13-10 with 4:10 left in the third quarter.

The third period would end with the Cats holding a 13-10 advantage.

MSU would be forced to punt on its next possession, and the Cats would take advantage. Kentucky would cap off the seven-play, 80-yard scoring drive with two spectacular plays. First, Levis connected with JuTahn McClain on a sidearm pass thrown between two defenders, a play that McClain took for 31 yards. On the next play, Rodriguez ran left, broke two tackles, and found the end zone for another UK touchdown. Ruffolo added the PAT and the Cats had a 20-10 lead with 11:43 to play.

The Kentucky defense would force another MSU punt on the next possession, and things went from bad to worse for the Bulldogs on that punt. Backup punter George Georgopoulos shanked it off the side of his foot, resulting in a four-yard punt that gave Kentucky the ball at the MSU 45 with 10:14 to play in the game.

The Cats seemed to be ready to put the game away with a solid drive. In fact, UK went for it on fourth-and-eight from the MSU 43. But on the play, MSU's Emmanuel Forbes cut off the route of Chauncey Magwood and intercepted Levis at the MSU 41. Forbes raced untouched to the end zone for a touchdown that got MSU back in the game with 8:33 to play. Biscardi added another point after, making it 20-17 Kentucky.

Kentucky would answer on its next drive when Levis hit Lexington's own Dekel Crowdus with a 50-yard completion down the left sideline. On the next play, Rodriguez would bull his way into the end zone for his second score of the night, essentially sealing the game for the Cats. Ruffolo added the PAT and UK led 27-17 with just 5:30 to play.

On MSU's next drive, Square picked off Rogers and the Cats took over in MSU territory. The Cats would be able to run out the clock from there.

#3/3 TENNESSEE 44, #19/17 KENTUCKY 6

OCT. 29, 2022 • KNOXVILLE, TENN.
NEYLAND STADIUM (101,915)

Chris Rodriguez Jr. rushed 15 times for 64 yards and a touchdown but No. 3 Tennessee beat No. 19 Kentucky 44-6 at Neyland Stadium.

Kentucky (5-3, 2-3 SEC) fell behind early and never caught up against the high-powered Tennessee offense.

Tennessee (8-0, 4-0) took the opening kickoff and wasted little time getting on the board. The Vols needed just five plays to cover 75 yards, the final 55 coming on a 55-yard touchdown strike from Hendon Hooker to Jalin Hyatt. Chase McGrath added the extra point and Tennessee led 7-0 with 13:33 to play in the first quarter.

Kentucky went three-and-out on its first possession and was forced to punt. UT took over on its own 37 yard line. The Vols were penalized three times on their next drive and would be forced to punt as well.

The Cats would fare much better on their second drive. Kentucky converted on third down when Levis connected with Dane Key for eight yards. Then, on the next play, Levis lofted a pretty pass to tight end Jordan Dingle down the left sideline for 24 yards. UK would get inside the red zone on the back of Rodriguez. On second-and-goal from the three, Rodriguez went up the middle and into the end zone for the score. However, the PAT was blocked and Tennessee still led 7-6 with 4:44 left in the first.

Tennessee would answer on its next drive. As the first quarter ended, with the Vols leading 7-6, UT was inside the UK five yard line.

On the first play of the second quarter, Princeton Fant scored a two-yard touchdown on a run up the middle. McGrath missed the PAT and the Vols led 13-6 with 14:56 left in the half.

Kentucky would go three-and-out on its next possession and would punt, giving the Vols the ball back on their own 23 with 13:54 left in the half.

UT would extend the lead on that possession, covering 77 yards in eight plays, ending with a one-yard touchdown rush by Jaylen Wright. McGrath added the PAT and the Vols led 20-6 with 11:12 to play in the first half.

Kentucky's next drive had a number of productive plays, including a 15-yard rush from Rodriguez, a 16-yard completion from Levis to JuTahn McClain and an 12-yard completion from Levis to Jordan Dingle.

The Cats would get into the Tennessee red zone and, on fourth-and-one from the UT 16, Levis went up the middle on a quarterback sneak to extend the drive. But on third and seven from the UT 12, Levis' pass for Dane Key caromed into the air, and Tennessee's Juwan Mitchell intercepted it and returned it to the Kentucky 45 yard line with 4:29 to play in the half.

The UK defense would make an important stop on the next possession, forcing the Vols into a three-and-out and a punt. The Cats would take over at their own two yard line with 2:49 to play in the half.

The Cats would get out of the shadow of their own goal posts on a 16-yard run up the middle by McClain. But Kentucky would be forced to punt and the punt was nearly blocked and went just 18 yards. The Vols took over at their own 35 with 37 seconds left in the half.

Tennessee would take advantage of the late possession when Hooker hit Hyatt on a 31-yard touchdown pass with 22 seconds left in the half. McGrath added the PAT and the Vols led 27-7, which would be the halftime score.

The Vols would outscore the Cats 17-0 in the second half to beat Kentucky for the second straight season.

NOV. 5, 2022 • COLUMBIA, MO. FAUROT FEILD/MEMORIAL STADIUM (61,047)

Will Levis passed for three touchdowns, including what turned out to be the game winner in the fourth quarter, as No. 24 Kentucky held off Missouri 21-17 at Faurot Field/Memorial Stadium.

Chris Rodriguez Jr. rushed 29 times for 112 yards in the game, while freshman Dane Key caught four passes for 53 yards and a pair of touchdowns, including the game winner.

Kentucky (6-3, 3-3 SEC) got a big effort from its defense in the victory. The Cats held the Tigers to 232 yards of total offense, including just 89 yards on the ground. Trevin Wallace led the Cats' defensive attack with nine tackles, including a sack and three tackles for loss.

Missouri (4-5, 2-4) took the opening kickoff but the Kentucky defense forced the Tigers backwards on three plays and forced an early punt.

Kentucky wasted no time getting into Missouri territory, as Levis connected with Barion Brown for a 39-yard reception. Then, on a third-and-11, Levis hit Jordan Dingle for a 17-yard gain. A 12-yard rush by Rodriguez got the Cats to the Missouri four. Levis was sacked two plays later but on the following play, the UK quarterback hit Key over the middle for a nine-yard Kentucky touchdown. Matt Ruffolo added the PAT and the Cats grabbed an early 7-0 lead.

Missouri would drive into Kentucky territory on its next possession but the Cats defense got the stop, The Tigers would get a 44-yard field goal from Harrison Mevis to cut the UK lead to 7-3 with 5:17 to play in the first quarter.

Kentucky appeared ready to answer on its next drive, getting into Missouri territory on another Levis-to-Dingle connection. But the UK drive would stall and Ruffolo would miss a 43-yard field goal attempt and the score remained 7-3 with 1:23 left in the first quarter.

The Tigers would go three-and-out on their final possession of the first quarter, then a short punt gave Kentucky the ball on their own 47, just before the end of the period, which ended with UK ahead 7-3.

Kentucky would punt on its next possession, with Colin Goodfellow pinning the Tigers inside their own five. The Tigers would drive to near midfield before quarterback Brady Cook fumbled and UK's Jordan Wright recovered at the Missouri 43.

The Cats would get one first down but could not advance any further, forcing a 47-yard field goal attempt from Ruffolo. But the kick, into the wind, came up just short and the score remained 7-3.

Missouri could do nothing with its next possession, which saw Wallace have a sack and two other tackles. The Tigers would punt and UK took over at its own 11 with 4:55 left in the half.

Kentucky would go three-and-out on its next possession and would punt the ball back to the Tigers. Missouri would take over at the UK 47 yard line. The Tigers would face a fourth-and-one and Cook tried to sneak up the middle, but JJ Weaver would make the stop and the Cats took over at their own 38.

The Cats would punt on the ensuing possession, and Missouri would take a knee to close the half, which ended with UK holding a 7-3 advantage.

Kentucky got the first possession of the second half and was unable to do anything with it. The Cats punted, then Missouri attempted to do the same, but Missouri punter Jack Stonehouse lost the grip on the ball, then tried to run for the first down, coming up short and giving the Cats the ball at the MU 34.

UK would get into the red zone and would get on the doorstep of the goal line when Levis connected with Tayvion Robinson for an 18-yard completion to the Missouri one. Two plays later, Levis found Dingle wide open in the end zone for a one-yard score. Ruffolo added the PAT and the Cats led 14-3 with 5:47 left in the third.

The teams would exchange punts before Missouri put together one of its best drives of the day. The Tigers got deep into Kentucky territory as the third quarter ended with UK leading 14-3.

As the fourth quarter started, the Tigers were at the UK two yard line. It took four chances, but on fourth-and-goal from the one, Cook kept it around left end for the Tigers' first touchdown of the day. The Tigers would go for two, but Cook's pass sailed high and the try was no good, leaving UK with a 14-9 lead with 13:09 to play.

Kentucky would punt on its next possession and Missouri would strike again. The Tigers drove into UK territory, then Cook scrambled for a 20-yard touchdown, giving Missouri its first lead of the game. The Tigers went for two and Cook connected with Tauskie Dove in the back of the end zone, giving Missouri a 17-14 lead with 8:07 to play.

The ensuing kickoff was a short one, and UK took over at its own 42. The Cats got a 19-yard completion from Levis to Key, then a three-yard rush by Rodriguez, a play that also had a 15-yard Missouri penalty for a horse collar tackle, getting the Cats into scoring range.

The Cats appeared to score on a pass from Levis to Brown, but the play was called back due to a holding penalty. Two plays later, Rodriguez went around left end, but as he stretched for extra yardage, he appeared to fumble. However, a replay review overturned the call and Kentucky retained possession. Kentucky would take advantage of its second chance when Levis hit Dane Key for a 22-yard touchdown to give UK the lead back. Ruffolo added the PAT and the Cats led 21-17 with 5:18 left in the game.

On the next Missouri possession, the UK defense did what it had done the majority of the day, limiting the Tigers to virtually nothing, then forcing a punt. This one gave the Cats the ball at their own 35 with 4:13 to play.

Kentucky could do nothing with the possession and was forced to punt. But the snap went over Goodfellow's head. The fifth-year senior scrambled back to pick up the ball at the two, then kicked it away and was hit by a Missouri defender, resulting in a roughing the punter penalty that gave UK an automatic first down with 2:25 to play.

From there, the Cats would run the clock down under a minute before punting (this time with backup Wilson Berry) the ball back to the Tigers with 38 seconds left. Missouri would not be able to move the ball and the Cats held on for the victory.

VANDERBILT 24, RV/#24 KENTUCKY 21

NOV. 12, 2022 • LEXINGTON, KY.
KROGER FIELD (57,474)

Chris Rodriguez Jr. rushed for 162 yards and two touchdowns, but Vanderbilt scored a late touchdown to upset No. 24 Kentucky 24-21 at Kroger Field.

Kentucky (6-4, 3-4 SEC) got the ground game going, behind Rodriguez, rushing for 213 yards on 31 carries. However, UK was not able to do much through the air. Quarterback Will Levis completed just 11 of 23 through the air for 109 yards, no touchdowns and an interception.

Defensively, D'Eryk Jackson and Justin Rogers led the way with nine tackles each while JJ Weaver had seven stops.

Vanderbilt (4-6, 1-5) received the opening kickoff but on the second play from scrimmage, Mike Wright connected with Will Sheppard. However, Sheppard was hit by UK's JJ Weaver, who caused a fumble that was recovered by Kentucky's Carrington Valentine. The Cats would take over at the VU 30.

The Cats were not able to do anything with the ensuing possession and were forced to try a 47 yard field goal by Matt Ruffolo, who split the uprights to give Kentucky a 3-0 lead with 13:22 still remaining in the first quarter.

Vanderbilt would answer on its next drive. Wright would scramble, break loose in the middle of the field, and race 59 yards for a touchdown. Joseph Bulovas would add the point after and the Commodores would lead 7-3 with 11:54 still to play in the first.

Kentucky would use a nice mix of run and pass on its next drive to advance into Vandy territory. Levis connected with Tavvion Robinson on a 25-yard strike to get the Cats into scoring position. However, the drive would stall and the Cats would settle for a 27-yard field goal by Ruffolo, drawing Kentucky within a point, 7-6, with 3:33 left in the first quarter.

The first quarter would come to a close with Vanderbilt driving past midfield, holding a 7-6 lead. But as the second period got underway, Wright was intercepted by UK's Keidron Smith in the end zone, giving the Cats possession at their own 20 with 13:41 to play in the half.

Kentucky would put together a nice drive on the following possession. Levis connected with a pair of former Frederick Douglass High School receivers to get the Cats into VU territory. Levis hit Dane Key for 29 yards and, two plays later, Levis connected with Dekel Crowdus for 15 yards, getting UK to the Vandy 30.

The Cats would get inside the VU 10 on a Rodriguez six-yard rush. But on third and seven from the Vandy nine, Levis was sacked and the Cats would be forced to try a 37-yard field goal. But Ruffolo's kick was blocked and the Commodores maintained a 7-6 lead with 7:23 left in the half.

The teams would exchange punts and the first half would end on a failed Hail Mary pass by Vanderbilt. But the 'Dores would lead 7-6 at the break.

Kentucky got the first possession of the second half but, after gaining one first down, the Cats were forced to punt. Vandy took the ensuing possession and, leaning on the run, took the ball into UK territory. Ray Davis had a 45-yard rush to get the 'Dores to the UK three yard line. Three plays later, Davis went up the middle and into the end zone for a touchdown. Bulovas added the PAT and Vanderbilt led 14-6 with 7:47 left in the third quarter.

Needing a scoring drive, Kentucky went to the ground. UK got a 23-yard rush from Rodriguez, then two yards, and a 15-yard penalty against Vanderbilt, on a rush by JuTahn McClain. Later in the drive, the Cats faced a fourth-and-six from the VU 28 when Levis hit Robinson for an 11-yard gain and a new set of downs.

Kentucky was unable to move the ball from that point and the Cats would settle for a 39-yard Ruffolo field goal to cut the deficit to 14-9 with 3:30 left in the third period. That would be the score at the end of the third.

Early in the fourth, with Vanderbilt driving, the 'Dores went for it on fourth down, but Wright was chased down by Trevin Wallace and came up short, giving the Cats the ball at their own 34 with 14:13 to play.

The Cats would go to the ground game on the ensuing drive. Rodriguez rushed for 18 yards, then five yards. McClain went for 28 yards to get the Cats to the Vanderbilt 15. Two plays later, Rodriguez rushed left for 10 yards, getting the Cats to the Vandy five.

Two plays later, Rodriguez went up the middle and into the end zone for the Cats' first touchdown of the day and the 31st of Rodriguez's career. The Cats would go for two, but Levis would be sacked. But Kentucky led 15-14 with 11:14 to play.

Vandy would answer with an impressive drive. The Commodores would go 67 yards in 12 plays, but the Cats' defense would hold, forcing a 26-yard Bulovas field goal, which was good, giving VU a 17-15 lead with 5:22 to play.

The lead would not last for long. On Kentucky's first play from scrimmage on its next drive, Rodriguez went through the middle and down the left sideline for a 72-yard touchdown rush, giving UK a 21-17 lead. The Cats again would go for two and, after a pass interference call gave UK a second chance, McClain went up the middle but did not score, keeping the score 21-17 with 5:03 to play.

Vanderbilt would not go away. The Commodores got a 40-yard completion from Wright to Quincy Skinner to get inside the UK 10. Two plays later, Wright hit Sheppard on an eight-yard touchdown pass with 32 seconds to play. Bulovas added the PAT and Vandy led 24-21.

Kentucky would get one final possession but Levis' heave down the field was intercepted as time expired.

#1/1 GEORGIA 16, KENTUCKY 6

NOV. 19, 2022 • LEXINGTON, KY.
KROGER FIELD (61,022)

Freshman Barion Brown caught 10 passes for 145 yards and a touchdown but Kentucky fell to top-ranked Georgia 16-6 at Kroger Field.

Quarterback Will Levis connected on 20 of 31 through the air for 206 yards and a touchdown, with one interception. Chris Rodriguez Jr. rushed 17 times for 51 yards.

The UK defense was stout all day long, allowing just 363 yards to the nation's top-ranked team and holding the 'Dogs to less than half of their season scoring average. Jordan Wright led the way with 10 tackles for the Cats and Zion Childress had nine.

Kentucky got the ball first, but had to start at its own four yard line. The Cats appeared to be on their way to a punt when Levis connected with Barion Brown on a 31-yard completion on third and 11. The Cats would get additional first downs on a rush by Rodriguez and a 13-yard completion from Levis to freshman tight end Josh Kattus. However, on a fourth and one from the Georgia 31, the Bulldogs stuffed Rodriguez and took over with 9:10 to play in the first quarter.

On its first possession, Georgia drove deep into Kentucky territory before the UK defense got a stop in the red zone. The Bulldogs got on the board on a 27-yard field goal by Jack Podlesny to take a 3-0 lead with 2:56 to play in the first.

Kentucky would get a pair of first downs on its next possession and would face a third and long as the first quarter ended, with Georgia leading 3-0.

The drive would continue and the Cats would get into the red zone. But on third and 12 from the Georgia 18 yard line, Levis was intercepted by Georgia's Kelee Ringo in the end zone, thwarting the scoring opportunity. Ringo returned to interception to the Georgia 47, where the Bulldogs took over with 8:43 left in the half.

Georgia would take advantage of the good field position, again getting deep into UK territory. But, as they did before, the UK defense held and forced a 24-yard field goal, which Podlesny converted, giving the Bulldogs a 6-0 advantage with 3:40 left in the half.

Kentucky went three-and-out on its next possession and Georgia got the ball back with 2:03 to play in the half. The Bulldogs would run the two-minute offense and get into UK territory, ultimately settling for another Podlesny field goal, this one from 37 yards, as the half ended with the Bulldogs leading 9-0.

Georgia took the first possession of the second half and go to near midfield, but Stetson Bennett's pass was intercepted by Jordan Lovett and the Cats took over at their own 11. However, the Cats were not able to do anything with the possession and were forced to punt.

The Bulldogs would cash in on the next possession. Georgia would cover 58 yards in eight plays, capped by a nine-yard touchdown rush from Kenny McIntosh. Podlesny added the PAT and Georgia led 16-0 with 6:22 left in the third quarter.

Kentucky would stop Georgia on the one yard line on its next drive, then would march 99 yards in nine plays, ending when Levis hit Brown with an eight-yard touchdown pass with 9:52 remaining. The Cats went for two, but the pass missed and Georgia held a 16-6 lead.

The Cats would stop the Dogs, then would get the ball back. UK got deep into Georgia territory but Matt Ruffolo missed a 38-yard field goal with 4:17 to play.

KENTUCKY 26, LOUISVILLE 13

NOV. 26, 2022 • LEXINGTON, KY.
KROGER FIELD (58,727)

Chris Rodriguez Jr. rushed 24 times for 120 yards as Kentucky beat No. 25 Louisville 26-13 at Kroger Field.

Rodriguez, playing in his final home game, broke the UK record for 100-yard rushing games, eclipsing the mark for the 20th time in his illustrious career. It was the fifth time this season that Rodriguez has rushed for at least 100 yards.

Fellow senior Will Levis was efficient on Saturday, connecting on 11 of 19 through the air for 188 yards and a pair of touchdowns, one to Barion Brown and another to Dane Key.

The UK defense was stout on this day, holding Louisville to just 309 yards of total offense in the game, which is a season low for the Cards.

Kentucky (7-5) got the first possession but the Cats went three-and-out and were forced to punt. Louisville took over at its own 24 yard line. The Cards got one first down on their initial possession before punting the ball back to UK.

The Cats would get on the board on their second possession of the game. The big play was a 70-yard completion from Levis to freshman tight end Josh Kattus, getting the Cats to the Louisville 13 yard line. From there, Rodriguez would gain 11 yards, getting UK to the two. Then, Levis went in for the score, but the play was called back due to an illegal formation on the Cats.

But a couple of plays later, Levis connected with another freshman, wide receiver Dane Key, on an eight-yard touchdown pass. Matt Ruffolo added the point after and the Cats led 7-0 with 7:46 to play in the first period.

The Cards took the next possession deep into UK territory. But on fourth and one from the UK 13, Jacquez Jones stopped Louisville's Jawhar Jordan short of the first down, giving the ball back to UK.

Kentucky took the ensuing possession and, early in the second quarter, Ruffolo booted a 43-yard field goal, giving the Cats a 10-0 lead with 12:48 left in the half.

The UK defense came up big on the next Louisville drive. JJ Weaver, the Louisville native, sacked U of L quarterback Brock Domann, caused a fumble and was able to secure the loose ball on the Louisville six yard line.

However, the Cats were unable to do much with the possession. UK would settle for a 29-yard field goal from Ruffolo, and the Cats would take a 13-0 lead with 10:28 to play in the half.

Later in the second quarter, the Cards would get on the board. Louisville went 64 yards in 12 plays, capped by a six-yard touchdown run from quarterback Malik Cunningham. James Turner made the extra point and UK's lead was trimmed to 13-7 with 37 seconds left in the half. That would be the halftime score.

Louisville (7-5) got the first possession of the second half, but the Cards were unable to do much and were forced to punt. Kentucky took the ensuing possession into U of L territory, covering 40 yards in 10 plays and ending with a 35-yard field goal from Ruffolo, giving UK a 16-7 advantage with 8:43 left in the third quarter.

On Louisville's next drive, quarterback Malik Cunningham was intercepted by UK linebacker Trevin Wallace, who returned the pick to the Louisville 16 yard line with 7:58 to go in the third.

Kentucky would convert on the miscue. On the third play following the turnover, Levis hit Barion Brown on a fade pattern in the corner of the end zone for a touchdown. Ruffolo added another PAT and the Cats led 23-7 with 6:35 to play in quarter number three. That would be the score at the end of three quarters.

Early in the fourth quarter, the Cats were again in Louisville territory but were stopped. Ruffolo came on again and nailed a 40-yard field goal, marking his career high in field goals in one game, as the Cats took a 26-7 lead with 12:06 left in the game.

On the ensuing drive, Louisville would cut into the UK lead. The Cards marched 75 yards in 10 plays and got a 27-yard touchdown pass from Dohmann to Tyler Hudson. Dohmann then rushed for a two-point conversion but came up short and the UK lead was 26-13 with 7:03 to play.

KROGER FIELD

On game day, Kroger Field often becomes the third-largest city in Kentucky.

- Since its opening in 1973, Kentucky has played 325 games within the friendly confines of newly-named Kroger Field. UK has a 182-141-4 record (.563), 46-25 (.648) under Mark Stoops.
- UK set a new Kroger Field attendance record when 63,543 fans packed the stadium for the Nov. 3, 2018 game vs. No. 6 Georgia.
- Two of the top five crowds in Kroger Field history came in 2018.
- UK announced its first sellout since 2015 when 62,945 fans attended the Florida game on Sept. 23, 2017.
- Since the 1999 expansion, UK has averaged 60,261 fans per game and ranked in the nation's top 30 teams in attendance in 16 of the last 18 seasons. Both the single game and season attendance record has been broken in recent years. *Note: Kroger Field capacity was limited to 12,000 fans per game in 2020 due to COVID-19 restrictions
- The stadium footprint is named C.M. Newton Grounds at Kroger Field in honor of the former UK Director of Athletics.

KROGER FIELD

Commonwealth Stadium was renamed to Kroger Field in May of 2017. The agreement--which is between Kroger and JMI Sports, UK's multimedia rights partner--begins at approximately $1.85 million annually with a term of up to 12 years. With the partnership, Kroger becomes the Official Fuel Partner of the University of Kentucky and the Official Grocery Partner of Move-In at UK while also providing additional engagement opportunities with UK students. Per the agreement, Kroger is also the Official Nutrition and Pharmacy Partner of UK Athletics.

Kroger Field was transformed into a state-of-the-art facility after a $126-million reinvention which was completed prior to the 2015 season. The project was handled by HNTB. The outside of the stadium underwent a dramatic external facelift, receiving a modern look, but one that remained uniquely Kentucky. Inside, the capacity of Kroger Field was reduced over the course of the two-year project to approximately 61,000, but the value of all remaining seats were increased, from the top of the upper deck to front-row seats at midfield. Concourses were revamped and widened throughout the stadium with improved concessions, restrooms and security. Players and coaches reaped the benefits of the new Kroger Field as well, as home-team facilities were built, and a multi-purpose recruiting room hosts future Wildcats on their on-campus visits.

FACTS AND FIGURES

Seating Capacity: 61,000, including the Commonwealth Suites

Playing Field: UK switched from natural grass to synthetic turf for the 2015 season. Other SEC schools with a turf surface are: Arkansas, Ole Miss, Mississippi State and Missouri. The end zones and team sideline areas feature a checkerboard pattern in alternating shades of blue. It was designed to mimic the pattern of Secretariat's silks, which has been part of the football uniforms for five seasons. The school's new interlocking "UK" logo is positioned in the center of the field.

Video Boards: Two new 10 mm LED video boards were installed in the summer of 2022 by Formetco Sports. The interior seating bowl also has LED ribbon boards.

Sound System: Sportsound system delivers pounding bass energy, smooth mid- and high-range frequencies, and high-impact entertainment. Components of the sound system include a main speaker cluster behind the end zone, under-balcony speakers and concourse speakers.

GAME DAY EXPERIENCES

The "Cat Walk" on Talbott Todd Way: With the unveiling of the new $45 million Kentucky Football Training Facility in August of 2016, the headquarters of the program moved next door to Kroger Field. Therefore, the Cat Walk was moved to Talbott Todd Way. The Cat Walk typically begins outside Gate 1 two hours and 15 minutes prior to kickoff, and the team proceeds past Gate 1 and between Kroger Field and Nutter Field House. It was dedicated to former Wildcat Talbott Todd (1963-65) who passed away from ALS in August of 2017 and was an avid supporter of the program. From Talbott Todd Way the team walks to the locker room in the Joe Craft Kentucky Football Training Facility.

Lift Them Up: A unique partnership with Toyota Motor Manufacturing Kentucky (TMMK), the Kentucky College of Engineering and the Kentucky Children's Hospital was launched in 2019 that brings special guests to the Cat Walk as the Kentucky football team arrives at Kroger Field. A specially built push cart vehicle provides a Kentucky Children's Hospital patient the chance to both accompany the Wildcats on the Cat Walk and attend a game at Kroger Field. A new patient is chosen by the Kentucky Children's Hospital each week to participate.

HEAD COACH MARK STOOPS / 10TH SEASON / IOWA, 1989

"I think Mark Stoops is the best program builder in all of college football right now."

-- Tom Luginbill, ESPN National Recruiting Director and on-air game analyst, in December 2021

The 2022 season has marked yet another year of achievement for Coach Mark Stoops and the Kentucky football program.

When the Wildcats take the field today, it will extend a school-record streak of seven-consecutive bowl games, all under Stoops. Kentucky reached the postseason by posting a 7-5 record, the sixth-consecutive season (not including the Covid-shortened 2020 season) that UK has won at least seven games.

Stoops has personal milestones as well as he completes his 10th year at Kentucky, longest term of any coach in school history. The Wildcats' victory at Florida in September was Stoops' 61st win, breaking the school record of 60 held by Paul "Bear" Bryant.

Called "the best program builder in all of college football" a year ago by ESPN analyst Tom Luginbill, Stoops' success hasn't come easily.

Inheriting a program that was 2-10 the year before he arrived, Stoops' rebuilding efforts took time. Two games into the 2016 season his record was 12-26, but the program took off from there and the coach has engineered a 54-32 (.628) mark since.

In addition to this season's achievements, a partial accounting of Stoops' exploits features:

- Four straight bowl wins – the Citrus Bowl on Jan. 1, 2022, the 2020 Gator Bowl, the 2019 Belk Bowl and the Citrus Bowl on Jan. 1, 2019 – first time in school history that UK won four straight bowls
- A school-record 20-game win streak against non-conference competition, currently the longest active streak in the nation (2018-present)
- First win at Tennessee since 1984 (2019)
- First New Year's Day Bowl win since 1951 (2018 season)
- First 10-win season since 1977 (2018)
- First SEC Coach of the Year since 1983 (2018)
- First final poll ranking since 1984 (2018)
- First bowl win since 2008 (2018)
- First win vs. Florida since 1986 (2018)
- First bowl appearance since 2010 (2016)

Several of Stoops' players have also won All-America accolades, along with honors such as the Bronko Nagurski Award, Chuck Bednarik Award, Paul Hornung Award, Ronnie Lott Trophy, Ray Guy Award, Danny Wuerffel Trophy, Jason Witten Man of the Year, Pop Warner Award, Academic All-America and National Good Works Team.

Off the field, Stoops has been active in fundraising and events for the UK Children's Mark Stoops has 66 wins in the Blue and White, surpassing the school record of 60 set by Paul "Bear" Bryant.

Under Stoops, 22 players have been drafted in the NFL, including 13 defensive players.

STOOPS AND CO. MAKING A HIT IN RECRUITING

In nine seasons at the helm of the Kentucky football program, head coach Mark Stoops and his staff have been making noise on the recruiting trail. Kentucky's 10 classes under Stoops have ranked in the top 50 by all four major recruiting services. Below is a look at UK's recruiting success under Stoops and Co.

Kentucky's Signing Day class for 2022, at the time of this writing, is UK's highest-rated class in the available history of recruiting rankings. (Note: these rankings are based on UK's 20 signees, 19 high school and one junior college, and do not include four-year college transfers Tashawn Manning and Tayvion Robinson.)

Hospital and he was named Honorary Coach of the 2022 National Good Works Team.

The bountiful crop of victories and honors are the fruit of the last six seasons, but the harvest didn't come easily. Arriving in 2013, taking over a team that had gone 2-10 the season before, it took three years of plowing, planting and growing before the results came.

Stoops earned his first bowl game as head coach in 2016, when the Wildcats overcame an 0-2 start to go 7-3 down the stretch and advance to the TaxSlayer Gator Bowl. UK duplicated seven wins in 2017, playing in the Franklin-American Mortgage Music City Bowl.

Led by linebacker Josh Allen, the National Defensive Player of the Year, and Benny Snell Jr., the school's all-time leading rusher, the 2018 squad went 10-3. It was UK's best season in 41 years, topped by a win over Penn State in the VRBO Citrus Bowl. It was only the third 10-win season in school history.

In addition, the 2018 campaign featured a win at Florida -- the Wildcats' first victory over the Gators in 32 years -- resulting in UK being named the National Team of the Week by the Football Writers Association of America. The regular season concluded with a 56-10 win at in-state rival Louisville, the largest margin of victory in the history of the Governor's Cup series.

UK was No. 11 in the final USA Today coaches' poll and No. 12 in the final Associated Press tabulation, the school's first appearance in the final rankings since 1984. The 2018 season also continued a remarkable trend -- since Stoops took over as coach of the Cats in 2013, UK was the only school in the nation that tied or improved its win total in six straight seasons.

CollegeFootballNews.com listed Stoops as the best coaching performance of the season and he was named Southeastern Conference Coach of the Year by The Associated Press, Athlon Sports and the league coaches.

The 2019 season was one of the most unusual in school history. A succession of injuries decimated the quarterbacks and Stoops turned to wide receiver Lynn Bowden Jr. to man the QB position. Running the ball almost exclusively, UK went 6-2 down the stretch and closed the season with four straight wins, topped by a dramatic come-from-behind Belk Bowl win over Virginia Tech when Bowden threw the game-winning touchdown pass with only 15 seconds remaining.

Stoops followed with the Covid-shortened 2020 season that was capped by a Gator Bowl win over No. 23 North Carolina State.

The momentum continued in 2021 with another 10 win season -- the second under Stoops and only the fourth in school history -- capped by a dramatic come-from-behind win over Iowa in the Vrbo Citrus Bowl.

How has Stoops accomplished all of this? The coach would tell you that there's been nothing magical about the process.

True to his blue-collar roots in Youngstown, Ohio, the methodical advancement made by Stoops' teams is a reflection of the coach's rock-steady work ethic, tireless recruiting, and ability to adapt.

Stoops came to Kentucky from Florida State, where he was defensive coordinator from 2010-12. He inherited a unit ranked 108th in the nation in total defense and turned it into one of the nation's best. In the 2012 season, the Seminoles were second in the nation in total defense, allowing 254.1 yards per game, and sixth nationally in scoring defense at 14.7 points per game. Playing well against the run and the pass, FSU was third in the country in rushing defense and led the nation in pass defense. FSU led the ACC in seven defensive categories. Stoops also coached the defensive backs under head coach Jimbo Fisher.

Eight Seminoles on defense earned 2012 All-ACC honors, including four first-team selections, highlighted by one of the nation's top defensive end duos in Bjoern Werner and Cornellius Carradine, who combined for 24 sacks and 31 tackles for loss. Werner was a finalist for the 2012 Bronko Nagurski Award as the National Defensive Player of the Year and was among the national leaders in sacks with 13. Stoops also coached cornerback Ronald Darby to ACC Defensive Rookie of the Year. The Seminoles' prowess was a continuation of the 2011 season, when Stoops' defenders led the nation in fewest yards allowed per carry (2.3), ranked fourth in the nation in total defense (275 yards per game), second in rushing defense (82.7 ypg), fourth in scoring defense (15.1 points per game), and eighth in tackles for loss (8.6 per game) and quarterback sacks (3.1 per game). FSU led the ACC in eight defensive categories.

Stoops overhauled the Florida State defense in 2010, his first season as defensive coordinator. The Seminoles gave up 19.6 points per game, third-best in the ACC and 20th nationally. FSU ranked 42nd nationally in total defense that season; in contrast, the team was 108th nationally in total defense and 94th in scoring defense in 2009, the year before Stoops' arrival. FSU improved its overall defense by more than 80 yards per game, primarily by limiting opponents to 75 fewer rushing yards per game. The Seminoles ranked third in the nation in quarterback sacks and were 21st in tackles for loss. In the secondary, Stoops coached Xavier Rhodes to ACC Defensive Rookie of the Year honors and National Defensive Freshman of the Year accolades. During Stoops' three seasons, FSU went 10-4, 9-4 and 12-2, including wins over South Carolina in the 2010 Chick-fil-A Bowl, Notre Dame in the 2011 Champs Sports Bowl and Northern Illinois in the 2013 Orange Bowl.

Stoops was defensive coordinator and DBs coach at Arizona from 2004-09, working for his brother, Mike, who was head coach of the Wildcats. During Mark's time there, Arizona's records improved steadily, going 3-8, 3-8, 6-6, 5-7, 8-5 and 8-5. The Wildcats advanced to the Las Vegas Bowl and Holiday Bowl during the last two years.

Stoops inherited an Arizona unit that was 109th in the nation in total defense and 107th in scoring defense in 2003, the year before he arrived. By the end of his term at Arizona, the Wildcats ranked in the nation's top 25 in total defense his final two seasons and ranked as high as 33rd in scoring defense.

Mark and Mike are also brothers of Bob Stoops, who spent 18 years as the Oklahoma head coach and has been elected to the College Football Hall of Fame. The eldest Stoops brother, Ron Jr., is retired after coaching at Youngstown State. Mark and Mike have reunited in Lexington, as Mike has joined the UK staff as inside linebackers coach.

Prior to Arizona, Mark Stoops coached the defensive backs three years at Miami (Fla.). The 2001 national champion Hurricanes led the nation in pass efficiency defense, scoring defense and turnover margin. That team also established a school record with 27 interceptions and 45 total takeaways.

Stoops' 2002 secondary led the nation in pass defense and pass efficiency defense. Despite having to replace all four starters in the defensive backfield, the 2003 team led the nation in pass defense. In his three seasons, Miami went 35-3, including the 12-0 Rose Bowl title campaign, plus appearances in the Fiesta and Orange bowls. Ten Miami defensive backs who played at least one season under Stoops were eventually selected in the National Football League draft – seven in the first round.

Stoops got his first experience in leading a defense as co-defensive coordinator at Houston in the 2000 season. He coached the secondary at Wyoming from 1997-99 and the Cowboys notched three straight winning seasons. A highlight of his time there was a school-record 24 interceptions in the '97 season. His first full-time coaching job was in 1996 at South Florida, helping USF in the start-up of its program before the Bulls had their first kickoff in '97.

Stoops has recruited and developed numerous outstanding defensive backs, many of whom went on to National Football League careers. Among the notables are Antoine Cason and Michael Johnson at Arizona, Miami's Philip Buchanon, Kelly Jennings, Brandon Meriweather, Ed Reed, Antrel Rolle, Mike Rumph and Sean Taylor and Wyoming's Brian Lee.

Stoops was raised in Youngstown, Ohio. As did brothers Bob and Mike, Mark played in the secondary at the University of Iowa for Hall of Fame coach Hayden Fry. He participated in four bowl games as a player. Fry hired Stoops as a graduate assistant coach at Iowa in the 1990 and '91 seasons. The Hawkeyes won the 1990 Big Ten title and played in the Rose Bowl, duplicating feats Stoops also achieved as a player. Stoops went on to coach four years in high school before entering the collegiate ranks.

Stoops has two sons, Will and Zack.

ASSISTANT COACHES

FRANK BUFFANO

SAFETIES/ CO-SPECIAL TEAMS COORDINATOR

Frank Buffano was hired in March of 2020 after serving seven years as the director of football operations at UK. He assists Chris Collins with the defensive backs and works primarily with the safeties. In 2022, he also was the co-special teams coordinator.

Prior to Kentucky, Buffano was a secondary coach and linebackers coach at Youngstown State. He began his career at Arizona under Mike Stoops, serving as a defensive graduate assistant coach his last two seasons after three years of working as a video graduate assistant with the Wildcats.

CHRIS COLLINS

DEFENSIVE BACKS

Chris Collins enters his second season at Kentucky coaching the defensive backs. Collins was hired in June of 2021 after four seasons as the safeties coach at Georgia State. He helped the Panthers advance to a bowl game in three of his four seasons.

Collins was a four-year letter winner and two-year captain as a safety and outside linebacker at Western Carolina from 2006-09. He finished his career with 303 tackles, 19 tackles for loss, nine forced fumbles and five pass breakups.

JAY BOULWARE

RUNNING BACKS/SPECIAL TEAMS

Jay Boulware is the newest member to Kentucky's coaching staff. Hired on Dec. 12, 2022, he brings a plethora of success to the Commonwealth as he has more than 25 years of coaching experience and has been a part of 16 teams that advanced to bowl games. Most recently, he served as an offensive intern in the National Football League for the Pittsburgh Steelers, working specifically with the running backs, including UK's all-time leading rusher, Benny Snell Jr.

Before the Steelers, he served as the associate head coach for special teams and tight ends coach at Texas, his alma mater, helping the No. 19 Longhorns finish 7-3 overall and capture the Alamo Bowl title in 2020.

He also spent seven years at Oklahoma, working under then-head coach Bob Stoops from 2013-16 and Lincoln Riley from (2017-19) and had stints at Auburn, Utah, Stanford, Arizona and Northern Illinois.

Boulware was an offensive lineman at Texas before entering the coaching ranks.

VINCE MARROW

ASSOCIATE HEAD COACH/TIGHT ENDS/RECRUITING COORDINATOR

Vince Marrow, aka the "Big Dawg," enters his 10th season at Kentucky, currently handling the duties of associate head coach/tight ends coach/recruiting coordinator/NFL liaison.

Marrow's tight ends have been a big factor in UK producing six consecutive seasons of 2,000 or more rushing yards with at least one 1,000-yard rusher in five of those (Stanley "Boom" Williams -2016; Benny Snell Jr., - 2017, 2018; Lynn Bowden - 2019; Chris Rodriguez Jr. - 2021). Marrow also has been instrumental in UK signing nine straight top-50 recruiting classes, including the highest-rated class in UK history in 2021.

Marrow had a professional playing career as a member of NFL rosters on five teams, including Buffalo, Carolina, New York Jets, Chicago and San Francisco. After his NFL days ended, Marrow played for the Frankfurt Galaxy of NFL Europe in 1998, earning all-league honors with 32 receptions for 345 yards. He also played for the Orlando Rage in the XFL in 2001.

He began his collegiate playing career at Youngstown State before transferring to Toledo. Marrow played two seasons at Toledo, earning second-team All-MAC honors in 1991 before being drafted by the Bills in 1992.

ANWAR STEWART

DEFENSIVE LINE

Former Wildcat Anwar Stewart was named the defensive line coach at Kentucky in January of 2020. He returned to the Bluegrass after one season as the defensive line coach at Appalachian State.

Stewart is quite familiar with the Kentucky football program after playing linebacker/defensive end from 1996-99 under head coaches Bill Curry and Hal Mumme and having served as a student assistant and defensive assistant under head coach Mark Stoops from 2017-18.

During his playing days at Kentucky, he totaled 64 tackles, including nine tackles for loss and eight sacks, playing both linebacker and defensive end.

MIKE STOOPS

INSIDE LINEBACKERS

Mike Stoops, a 35-year collegiate coaching veteran who is the brother of head coach Mark Stoops, was named the inside linebackers coach in January of 2022. He replaced Jon Sumrall, who was named the head coach at Troy.

Mike Stoops most recently was at Florida Atlantic where he spent the 2021 season as the defensive coordinator and safeties coach. Prior to that, he spent two seasons (2019 and 2020) at Alabama as an analyst on Nick Saban's staff, highlighted by the 2020 national championship. He also was the assistant head coach and defensive coordinator at Oklahoma from 2012-18 and was the head coach at Arizona from 2004-11. He had a first term at Oklahoma from 1999-2003, including the 2000 national championship season.

BRAD WHITE

DEFENSIVE COORDINATOR/ OUTSIDE LINEBACKERS

Brad White is in his fifth season at Kentucky as the outside linebackers coach and fourth as the Cats' defensive coordinator. He was elevated to the DC position by head coach Mark Stoops in February of 2019.

White came to Kentucky after spending six years at the outside linebackers coach with the Indianapolis Colts.

A graduate of Wake Forest, White started at linebacker and finished his playing career with 227 tackles, 19.0 tackles for loss, 4.0 sacks and eight passes defended, while starting 34-of-35 games played. White was a three-time Academic All-ACC selection and was named to the 2004 CoSIDA Academic All-District III team.

SCOTT WOODWARD

WIDE RECEIVERS

Scott Woodward is in his second season as the wide receivers coach.

Before coming to the Bluegrass, Woodward spent two seasons as a quality control coach at Pittsburgh. From 2015-18, he served as the tight ends coach at his alma mater, Massachusetts, and also served as an offensive analyst and worked with the quarterbacks and receivers.

Prior to UMass, had coaching stints at Fairleigh Dickinson-Florham (2013-15) and Westfield State (2010-13).

Woodward was a four-year letterman at quarterback for Massachusetts and played for the Minutemen's 2006 team that finished as the Division I-AA National Championship national runner-up.

ZACH YENSER

OFFENSIVE LINE

Zach Yenser was named the new offensive line coach at Kentucky in February of 2022 after three seasons as the assistant offensive line coach with the San Francisco 49ers.

Yenser, originally from Fort Mitchell, Kentucky, began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at his alma mater Troy University in 2007, working with special teams and the offensive linemen under former Wildcat and beloved UK assistant coach John Schlarman.

As a player at Troy, Yenser earned a starting spot at center from 2003-06. In 2006, as a senior team captain, he helped the Trojans win the Sun Belt Conference and the New Orleans Bowl, and was named a First-Team All-Sun Belt selection.

Deondre Buford fits Big Blue Wall recruit and develop blueprint

Adam Luckett
Kentucky Sports Radio
July 21, 2022

Following the end of the 2021 season, the Big Blue Wall lost two starters to the NFL Draft and another was signed by the Atlanta Falcons in free agency. The program is also on its third offensive line coach in three years. Signs are pointing to a trench play regression in Lexington.

Kentucky's offensive line room has other plans.

With the addition of Auburn transfer Tashawn Manning along with the return of Kenneth Horsey and Eli Cox, Kentucky should be very good along the interior with a load of SEC experience. However, there are some big holes to fill on the edge.

Last fall, Darian Kinnard and Dare Rosenthal teamed up to give Kentucky one of the best tackle duos in college football. That won't be the case heading into 2022. Instead of dipping into the transfer portal, Kentucky is leaning on its established development blueprint to find its left tackle of the future.

Deondre Buford (6-3, 312) was a top-500 recruiting win for Kentucky in the class of 2020 out of Detroit (Mich.) Martin Luther King. After spending two years on the sidelines, the redshirt sophomore is expected to step into the starting lineup in 2022. The young player received a vote of confidence from the head football coach in Atlanta.

"Really pleased with Deondre," Mark Stoops told local media at SEC Media Days about Buford. "Really felt like he had a great spring."

In the past, we've seen multiple redshirt sophomores step into the lineup and become multi-year starters in the Stoops era. Logan Stenberg was the first, and the left guard became a three-year starter before being drafted. Luke Fortner jumped into the rotation in 2018 and became a third-round pick after a position switch to center. Horsey was the next, and now the redshirt senior is one of the best left guards in the SEC. Cox continued that list last year and is making the same position move as Fortner.

A pattern has been created, and Buford is the next one in line. Horsey will be there as a veteran to help lead the way.

"It was the same thing with me two years ago when I had my first start during the COVID year I just filled in right behind Stenberg after he got drafted," Horsey told reporters. "It's just about recruiting and developing and being patient and waiting for your time. I feel like we got guys that have bought in and seen the blueprint ready to take it one step forward."

Kentucky is a developmental program. Not every solution can be solved in the transfer portal. The Wildcats are leaning on a proven method as the program is asking Deondre Buford to take over at one of the most important positions on the field. Recent results tell us there is a good chance the young prospect turns into a good player.

Buford will have some veterans to lean on the interior. Both Horsey and Cox have had the same path and will be there for the youngster to provide guidance.

"I know what it's like to not have much playing time and step out on the field," Horsey said. "I take it as my responsibility to make sure that these guys know what's in store for them because you can't actually understand what to do and how you need to do it until you go through it. Being able to have older guys in the room to help you along the way is definitely helpful because I remember how helpful it was for me being able to play in between Landon [Young] and Drake [Jackson]."

Buford will be joined by redshirt junior Jeremy Flax at right tackle as expected new starters on the Big Blue Wall. Kentucky needs both to take over important positions. Each will be leaning on veterans for assistance. The program seems to have a proven plan that will again be used this season.

How the Big Blue Wall is Keeping John Schlarman's Legacy Alive

Nick Roush
Kentucky Sports Radio
July 28, 2022

At the epicenter of Mark Stoops' success at Kentucky is the Wildcats' offensive line. The emergence of the Big Blue Wall coincided with the start of UK's historic six-year bowl streak. After five NFL Draft picks in four years, multiple All-American honors and a couple of coaching changes, the 2022 version of the Big Blue Wall will look different, without changing its identity.

The values John Schlarman brought to his meeting room shaped the offensive line's winning culture.

"He was just the man that embodied everything you wanted about Kentucky football," said senior guard Kenneth Horsey. "He embodied everything we wanted to represent. Our core principles: attitude, toughness, discipline and pride; he was all of that and more. I think it starts with Coach Schlarman."

Sadly, Schlarman is no longer with us. Now almost two years removed since he passed away, Zach Yenser will coach a room that about half of the players shared with Schlarman. For veterans like Horsey and Eli Cox, they've assumed an additional responsibility. Not only are they tasked to perform at a high level, they must keep Schlarman's legacy alive on the offensive line.

"It's the effect that you leave on other people when you're not even in the room with them. Coach Schlarman, he was always the type to lead by example first. I take it as my responsibility to make sure we carry on those values because we understand how far those values have gotten us..." said Horsey. "... It's our job to make sure that we carry on that legacy in everything that we do."

A "winning culture" is not unique to the Kentucky football program. You'll hear about it in every head coach's introductory press conference. However, there is something about the Kentucky offensive line that's just different.

Tashawn Manning spent five years at Auburn. Not to put down his former teammates, but as soon as he stepped foot in Lexington, he knew something was different.

"Those guys have a good connection here. They've had a good connection way before I got here because of Coach Schlarman and everything they've been through together. You can tell coming into the room all the guys are close," he told KSR.

"Not just like close, but 'brother' close and that was the first time I have experienced that in a locker room. We had a brotherhood at Auburn, but it's kind of like, fend for yourself, get it how you can. Here everyone's like okay, well, I'm gonna go workout. Let me get a couple of guys to workout with me, or I'm gonna watch film. Let's go watch film together. You know what I'm saying? Everybody's bringing somebody up at the same time so they're all ready to work. I feel like you can't ask for too much more, just a great group of guys."

Not only did John Schlarman lead by example, he made sure nobody was left behind. In spite of the unit's success in 2021, it was primarily accomplished by only five players. Yenser, a former Schlarman disciple, has been tasked to revitalize the depth of the Big Blue Wall from the top to the bottom.

The faces may have changed, yet one thing remains the same: Big men lead the way for the Kentucky football program.

"The O-line always leads the way," said Horsey. "We need to be the guys always watching the most film. We need to be the guys that have the best grades. We need to be the guys that's on top of everything because we understand how much UK loves and supports the O-line. In the SEC, it's a physical league and it all starts in the trenches, it all starts with the O-line. I'm blessed to be a part of a legendary group."

Tayvion Robinson on Dane Key: "He's gonna be special."

Jack Pilgrim

Aug. 2, 2022

It didn't take long for Kentucky freshman wide receiver Dane Key to separate himself as a clear instant-impact player for the Wildcats. Coming in as an early enrollee, coaches raved about the four-star signee throughout the spring, capped off by a 43-yard, two-catch, one-touchdown performance in the program's annual Blue-White Spring Game.

There's typically a steep learning curve for true freshmen. Key, though, isn't like most true freshmen.

"He's a bad dude, man," associate head coach Vince Marrow told KSR in May. "I'm telling you this. I knew Dane was good; I did not know he can be that good. He has the potential to be really good. He's tough and he's a student of the game. He's up here every day. Dane is a sponge, man. When Rich [Scangarello] looked at all our receivers, he said, 'This kid will play for us and he will be invaluable.'"

"(Key) is the guy I've been blown away by, who I think will be a big-time player in the NFL someday," offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello told The Athletic. "He is special. For an 18-year-old kid, he's picked it up faster than just about anybody in the NFL as a rookie. Honestly, since I walked in the door, he's impressed me as much as anybody in our building. I just feel like he's going to be a freakin' really good wideout."

Key, ranked No. 261 overall in the 2022 On3 Consensus, signed with Kentucky over Michigan, Oregon and South Carolina, among others, out of high school. Standing 6-foot-3, 195 pounds, he racked up 959 receiving yards and nine touchdowns as a senior at Frederick Douglass High School, earning Paul Hornung Award honors as the Kentucky Player of the Year.

After joining the program in January, the four-star receiver made his presence known early. Now going into fall camp, it's no secret around the Joe Craft Football Training Facility that Key has emerged as a likely starter in year one.

"Dane, ever since the third or fourth spring practice, it was kind of apparent that this kid was going to be a competitor for the starting job," Kentucky star quarterback Will Levis told KSR on Tuesday. "He left the spring starting."

Has that reality set in for Key yet? Not quite, Levis says, adding that the standout freshman actually surprised himself with just how good he was from the start. He expected to contribute early, sure, but maybe not as a day-one starter with expectations of serious production right away.

"I talked to him the other day. I was like, 'Hey, did you like picture yourself in this situation when you first got here? Like, pretty crazy, isn't it? You don't have to hide it anymore, you're gonna be starting for us,'" Levis said. "He was like, 'I just tried to come in here and work as hard as I can, but to be honest, I didn't expect all of this. I was like, 'Did you know how good you were?' He was like, 'Honestly no.'"

"Honestly, I think he surprised himself with how good he actually was when he was able to get to a place like Kentucky, get taught by these level of coaches and be pushed by the players."

Don't believe Levis? Ask Key's pass-catching partner, Tayvion Robinson — a 1,555-yard career receiver in his own right.

"He's been doing great," Robinson told KSR on Tuesday. "He was an early enrollee in January and the second he got here, he was nothing short of what people thought of him, the expectations people had."

Watching him play, you'd have no idea Key was a true freshman just starting to find his footing as a Kentucky football player. He's already earning reps as a starter and showing off major long-term potential.

His ceiling? A "special" football player in Lexington.

"He came in and just started making plays," Robinson added. "He didn't look like a freshman when he was on the field till you asked him what class he was in. He's getting starting reps, a guy who knows his information (on) guys X, Y, Z. He's special, he's gonna be special."

Deone Walker as-advertised to open camp: "He's a special talent."

Jack Pilgrim
Kentucky Sports Radio
Aug. 6, 2022

Standing 6-foot-6, 330 pounds, you won't find many players built like Kentucky freshman defensive lineman Deone Walker. You also won't find many players who can move the way the Detroit, Mich. native can, either.

Combine the two, and there's a reason Walker was rated as a four-star, top-300 prospect out of high school and held offers from the likes of Alabama, Florida, Georgia, LSU, Michigan and Penn State, among others.

Arriving on campus this summer, it hasn't taken long for the highly-touted freshman to turn heads. For head coach Mark Stoops, that's to be expected. The program had high hopes for Walker when he signed with the Wildcats, and to open fall camp, he's lived up to the hype.

"Deone has done a really nice job," Stoops said Saturday. "You know, he's a really great young man who works hard. You can see the athletic ability in him. He's just got to stay the course. There are going to be ups and downs, but unbelievable talent. He's exactly what we thought when we recruited him."

Walker was named to the Detroit Free Press All-State Dream Team in 2021 after racking up 43 tackles, 15 tackles for loss and six sacks in seven games. Now, he's hoping to bring a similar level of production with him to Lexington.

If you ask Kentucky linebacker Jacquez Jones, you may not have to wait long for that production to start rolling in.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

“Man, Deone, that’s a different cat right there,” Jones said. “He’s so big and the way he moves, I feel like Deone, he’s just special. He’s special. Nobody that big should be able to move like that. He’s a special talent.”

He was a late commitment on National Signing Day in December for the Wildcats, a pledge that left the Kentucky coaching staff giddy for him to arrive on campus.

“No. 3 player in Michigan in Deone Walker, and you talk about size, the length on him is amazing. Terrific player,” Stoops said on NSD. “... (He) was a big, big get. (Our coaches) did a great job going into Detroit and keeping that streak alive and continuing to recruit and beat some terrific teams on him, and we felt good but never really secure.”

“Big, long, massive young man, very explosive,” Kentucky defensive line coach Anwar Stewart added. “Very athletic, very active. I’m gonna tell you guys something, one thing that’s really special about this young man is he’s big, he’s athletic, but he also has a motor. ... Really, really excited about the future of this young man, can’t wait to get my hands on him.”

It hasn’t taken long for the four-star signee to prove he’s as good as advertised.

Kentucky football needs Keidron Smith to be a contributor at corner – and a mentor

Brett Dawson
Louisville Courier-Journal
Aug. 15, 2022

LEXINGTON — It started in high school with memorizing wide receivers’ routes. Maybe just one for any given game.

Talent could take Keidron Smith a pretty long way in those days — to three-star cornerback status and a scholarship to Ole Miss — and so he didn’t need much more than that. In time, he came to crave it.

Fast forward to this fall, and Smith is finishing his college football career at Kentucky. He’s a fifth-year senior and a certified film-room fiend. The film study he used to do in passing has become a passion.

“(Film study) slows the game down so much more,” Smith said. “It makes the game so much slower, and that allows you to play so much faster.”

It’s a lesson Smith absorbed at Ole Miss and, as importantly, one the Kentucky coaches hope he can start to impart the Cats’ younger corners.

Though he hopes to set an example for Kentucky’s corners, Smith is foremost here to play.

He came to UK not merely to follow friend and former roommate Jacquez Jones, the Wildcats linebacker who came from Oxford before last season and became a fixture on the UK defense, but because he saw “the opportunity here.”

After moving from corner to safety last season at Ole Miss, Smith — who also played at nickel back for the Rebels — is back in his original position at Kentucky. A stout 6-foot-2 and 204 pounds, he has the size Mark Stoops favors at the position and saw UK as an ideal schematic fit.

“It’s basically free agency,” Smith said of the transfer portal. “I took my time, and I think — well, I don’t think, I know — that I made the right decision.”

In his four seasons at Ole Miss, Smith — who’s taking advantage of the extra season of eligibility the NCAA afforded players during the COVID-19 pandemic — played in 45 games, totaling 131 tackles, a sack, five interceptions and five forced fumbles.

He’s experienced. And he’s studious.

The first thing UK defensive coordinator Brad White brings up when he talks about Smith is “a savviness, an intelligence” that he brings to the secondary.

“Can play big picture,” White said. “Sees quarterbacks’ shoulder angles. Understands which way the ball is going to come out — is it high? Is it low? Are they looking intermediate? Are they looking deep?”

Smith understands “when he can sit at the top of the route, when he has to go,” White said, because he has a keen understanding of the pace of receivers’ routes.

That started with the early study of routes on film. But Smith has gradually expanded his understanding — not just of the routes his matchups run, but the nuances of quarterback movement and offensive lineman alignment.

That comes in part from his work under then-

Ole Miss cornerbacks coach Terrell Buckley, now the head coach of the XFL’s Orlando franchise, scheduled to debut in 2023.

Smith has long liked to study hard. At Ole Miss, Buckley — the former NFL Pro Bowler and Super Bowl champion who coached cornerbacks at Louisville from 2014-15 — taught him to study smarter.

“He really expanded my football IQ,” Smith said.

Now Smith watches film closely but takes minimal notes. He might jot down, for example, that when a tackle lines up with one foot all the way back in a formation, it’s more often a pass play than a run. But the goal is to commit as much as possible to memory.

“On the field, you don’t have notes,” he said. “You got to be able to visualize and have memorization. That’s one thing I really key on.”

Chris Collins, UK’s defensive backs coach, said that level of preparation is what’s stood out most about Smith since he arrived on campus.

“He prepares extremely hard,” Collins said. “He takes pride in it. So that does allow him to feel the game. It slows down for him out there.”

The expectation is for Smith to be a major player in his one season at UK. He opened camp behind sophomore Andru Phillips at one cornerback spot opposite junior Carrington Valentine. But at the end UK’s fan day open practice, Smith ran with the first-team defense during some live team drills.

But the hope is that he can be as much mentor as on-field contributor, passing on some of what he’s learned about preparation to a UK cornerback corps that beyond Smith and Valentine is potentially gifted but currently green.

Collins said Smith has “been really good for the room.” He’s helped Phillips understand some pieces of the defense. He’s organized film sessions with the corners “on top of what we have with them as coaches,” Collins said.

The way Smith sees it, a player can get good with athletic talent. He can be good by studying film and obsessing over preparation.

“A great player, he brings both aspects to the game,” Smith said.

Smith won’t be at Kentucky long, but he’s hoping to leave that lesson behind when he goes.

“The only way those young guys can grow and develop is if you have somebody like me that’s been in their shoes before and actually learned the game,” Smith said. “I have so much more knowledge than them, so I’m just bringing it back to them, trying to give it to them at that age right now. So when they get to my age and get that experience that I got at the game, they’ll be much more farther along.”

Can Kentucky football win without Will Levis? Backup QB competition could be key.

Jon Hale
Lexington Herald-Leader
Aug. 17, 2022

Will Levis understands the concern.

No Kentucky quarterback has entered a season with more hype since Tim Couch. His most experienced backup transferred just before the start of preseason practice. The gap between a projected first-round NFL draft pick and any of UK’s backup quarterbacks looks so large that a significant injury to Levis might end hopes of Kentucky contending in the SEC East on its own.

It does not take long when watching the highlight reel of Levis’s first season at Kentucky to wonder if that concern becomes more pressing the first time the Wildcats’ star quarterback tries to hurdle a defender or pound through a tackle for an extra yard.

“He has approached this summer — he did it in the spring as well — to understand the importance of the value of you to the community of Lexington, this university and your teammates versus the 8 yards you think you can make,” offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello said.

No shortage of coaches, fans and advisors have suggested Levis take fewer risks in order to protect his health this season. The Connecticut native appears to have taken those directions to heart, but a conversation with former Florida star Tim Tebow at SEC Media Days might illustrate how difficult achieving that goal might actually be.

“He kind of took the opposite approach,” Levis said. “. . . He said his favorite feeling in his career always was getting picked up by his offensive linemen. It’s the dudes you try to earn their respect by how you treat them and how you operate as a unit. You know that they’ve got love in their hearts for you when they’re willing to chase down, get everyone away from you and pick you up every time.”

No matter how hard Levis tries to be more cognizant of the risk his physical style of play may cause, his natural instincts will not be easy to overrule.

So, the battle to see who serves as Levis’s primary backup might be one of the most important storylines to watch this month.

Following the transfer of former Lexington Catholic star Beau Allen to FCS Tarleton State, former Somerset star Kaiya Sheron and Iowa transfer Deuce Hogan are the two candidates for the job. Freshman Destin Wade, rated as a four-star recruit as an athlete, should add additional depth but is headed for a redshirt season, according to Scangarello.

Hogan, a sophomore, and Sheron, a redshirt freshman, have combined for one career appearance.

“Each day you could point to a guy who’s probably outplayed the other,” Scangarello said. “I think that they’ve done a nice job, they’ve gotten a lot of opportunity. There’s been a lot of reps the way we’ve done things, and it provides them (the chance) to show they can play.

“I think they’ve done that. But, there’s a long way to go and until you take that red jersey off and play for real, you really never know. But I like where they’re both at and if we had to play them, I’d feel comfortable with both of them.”

Scangarello does not anticipate an end to the backup competition by the opener.

One of the quarterbacks will know he is the designated replacement if Levis is forced to the sideline during a game, but if Levis suffered a significant injury that forced him to miss an extended period, Kentucky coaches would probably open the starting job for competition again in practice.

A former four-star recruit out of Grapevine Faith Christian High School in Texas, Hogan actually arrived at UK as a walk-on transfer in January. He appeared in one game at Iowa last season without attempting a pass but elected to enter the transfer portal after Hawkeyes Coach Kirk Ferentz made a joke at his expense in an interview in November.

“When I entered the portal, I had a lot of schools hitting me up, Twitter DMs and Instagram, stuff like that,” Hogan said. “Kentucky, I just felt love. I felt very desired here and felt like I had a cool opportunity.”

The two-time Class 2A Player of the Year at Somerset, Sheron graduated high school a semester early to enroll at UK in January 2020. He did not play in a game while redshirting last season but has reportedly made a jump this summer after completing his second spring practice with the team.

Hogan has the stronger arm of the two quarterbacks, but Sheron is more mobile. Kentucky Coach Mark Stoops praised Sheron for his ability to extend plays in Saturday’s first scrimmage of preseason camp, allowing him to complete several passes even after protection on a make-shift offensive line had broken down.

“I’ve had some good coaches,” Sheron said. “Coach (Liam) Coen from the NFL, Coach (Scangarello) from the NFL. I’m learning a lot from them, and then when the guys come in gives me motivation.

“Iron sharpens iron, so I’m just competing against Deuce and competing against Will personally. Just having fun with it.”

Hogan and Sheron received an extended look during Saturday’s scrimmage when coaches elected to limit Levis’s workload. Both quarterbacks realize that Levis, projected in several mock drafts as a possible top-10 pick in the 2023 NFL Draft, is the locked-in starter for Kentucky.

Being able to learn from Levis’s example has proven valuable as they compete to be the insurance policy in case Levis is injured, but it could also pay dividends in the future after Levis makes the jump to the NFL. Kentucky coaches are expected to pursue another quarterback in the transfer portal next offseason to join the competition to replace Levis, but the winner of the backup competition this year could have an early edge in the battle to start next season.

Whether either quarterback is ready to perform at the level needed to match Kentucky’s lofty preseason expectations in the event Levis is injured remains a significant question. It is too early to count either quarterback out for the future though.

“It’s been close,” Scangarello said. “They’ve both done great things, they’ve both done good things, they’ve both done things they need to improve. It’s been pretty even. I have liked what I’ve seen out of them, and I do see futures for both those guys here in this program as being really good quarterbacks.”

Baby-faced and bringing the thump: How Josh Kattus is turning heads as freshman tight end

Jon Hale
Lexington Herald-Leader
Aug. 18, 2022

If nothing else has been made clear through the first two weeks of Kentucky football's preseason practices, fans can rest assured that new offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello loves his tight ends.

"I really believe there's three or four or five in that room that are going to play on Sundays," he declared after the first practice.

Entering camp, the depth chart already looked crowded. Returners Brenden Bates, Keaton Upshaw, Izayah Cummings and Jordan Dingle brought a combined 84 games, 14 starts, 51 catches and eight touchdowns to the room.

There did not appear to be any snaps available for a newcomer.

Someone forgot to tell freshman Josh Kattus that he was destined for a redshirt season though.

"I love him," Scangarello said. "I'm a big fan of Josh. He's got a long road to go, but he's got some special qualities. He's kind of become a favorite, I think, among the offense too as a young player. He's nasty, plays hard, plays to the whistle.

"I think he aggravates the defensive guys at times, which I love. He's got a little something to him that's going to make him a really good football player here."

With Upshaw battling a minor hamstring issue as he worked his way back from missing all of last season due to injury, Kattus was already receiving some first-team reps in certain packages at UK's Fan Day open practice three days into preseason camp. Kattus arrived on campus with a reputation as a physical blocker, but he made an early statement with multiple catches during the 11-on-11 periods that afternoon.

It quickly became apparent that Kattus was not only a temporary injury-replacement, either.

"He's turned heads ever since he got here," quarterback Will Levis said. "Obviously, not the biggest dude at the tight end position, but he's got a really good feel for the game. He's a smart kid, physical kid, brings the energy.

"... I think he'll get some burn this year. He's a good player. I trust him. He's as prepared as any of the freshmen we have going into practice."

The son of former Cincinnati Bengals and New York Jets tight end Eric Kattus, Josh recorded 42 catches for 553 yards and one touchdown as a senior at Moeller High School in Cincinnati, the same program that produced Bates.

The recruiting services rated the 6-foot-4, 232-pound Kattus as a consensus three-star prospect, letting him fly under the radar in a 2022 Kentucky signing class that ended up as the highest-ranked in the Mark Stoops era.

Even tight ends coach Vince Marrow, Kattus's primary recruiter to Kentucky, acknowledges he was uncertain of how quickly Kattus would make an impact as a pass-catcher in college.

So how does a freshman few expected to play right away make such an early impact?

"He's tough, he plays hard," Upshaw said.

"We love him out there," Cummings added. "He plays hard. Every rep he's going to make it count. We just love seeing him work."

Kattus's physicality and energy have drawn the attention — and occasional ire — of Kentucky defenders already.

But his willingness to go the extra mile in a situation where many freshmen naturally defer to older teammates has brought a level of respect, too. Outside linebacker Jordan Wright remembered one practice where he beat Kattus on a pass rush and the freshman tight end was visibly disappointed in himself. Wright instructed him to keep his head up and not let one mistake overshadow his vast potential.

The next day Kattus took that direction to heart and held his own in another one-on-one matchup with Wright, a super senior expected to be one of Kentucky's best pass rushers.

"You want (the energy) because that's going to give the older guys a better chance of coming every day to work hard," Wright said. "If you don't have anybody behind you to push you, you're probably just out there lollygagging.

"I love how he came in first day and he's still consistent with it."

Finding enough snaps for four tight ends was a challenge even before Kattus emerged. Scangarello has made no secret of his desire to make heavy use of formations with multiple tight ends on the field at the same time, but competition remains fierce.

Asked if he had seen any separation among the group this week, Scangarello again applauded the depth.

Then he again singled out Kattus as a "gem" making his presence known.

"Usually when you get some freshman tight ends that come in here, you've got some pretty boys used to being bigger than everybody and catching the balls," Bates said. "Kattus can catch the ball very well, but Kattus has that nasty mentality. I don't know if that's a Moeller High School thing or not, but Kattus is really, really physical.

"Brings the thump, doesn't care who he's going against. He'll bring that physicality, and that's what you need to be able to play in this room. I think that's why he's turning so many heads. ... He's a youngling, baby faced and he's bringing the thump."

LEXINGTON, Ky. — In a conference room on the top floor of the Kentucky football facility, far away from the social media prism he has used to share fractions of his complex personality, Will Levis, Type A all the way, has suddenly become a little tense. He exhales sharply, leans back in a chair, arms out to his sides.

"I said I've got a twisted mind," Levis says.

This was 20 minutes into a half-hour discussion about the intersection he's reached, with an incredible year of football and resulting fame behind him, the most important few months of his young life ahead, the hype and expectations gaining momentum with every mention of his name and every breakdown of his physical gifts. Levis, 23, of Madison, and Xavier High in Middletown, transferred to Kentucky from Penn State last year, earned the starting quarterback job and helped produce one of the program's best seasons in recent history. He has since been celebrated across campus and up and down South Limestone Street, the vibrant Lexington strip lined with bar patios on one side and dorms on the other.

Levis has become a national figure, too. At 6-foot-3 and 235 pounds, he is built similarly to Josh Allen. He has been compared, stylistically, to Tim Tebow and Dak Prescott. He is mentioned as a first-round pick in all conversations worth taking seriously about the NFL Draft, and a recent CBS Sports mock draft even had Levis being selected No. 1 overall.

Heading into his fifth year in college, but just his second as starter, Levis is the seemingly overnight Saturday household name, arriving on the scene with a flash-bang that is also the culmination of a long journey from the Connecticut shoreline. These are times of high reward and opportunity.

Yet there's a certain edge to Levis, a healthy one, the kind many successful people in life and sport tend to ride or create. He is fueled by others' doubt, real or perceived, and that was the subject of the question that briefly put him in a state of deep analysis and minor agitation.

Do you really still feel doubted, Will?

"One hundred percent," Levis says. "You said I'm projected as a high pick. What does the media try to do? They try to get clicks. They try to get people to disagree with them. So why are they putting the Kentucky quarterback, who didn't have nearly as good a year as these other guys, at the top of their list? It's because they want to spark a conversation. I don't even know if the guys making those lists even really believe in me. And that could be not true. But that's just how screwed up I am."

"I know there are always going to be naysayers and always going to be people who disagree with my confidence and my ability," he says, and there is no nonsense in his voice, no tone that feels cliché.

There is no fruit on the conference room table, either, no condiments in sight. The beauty of a prominent part of Levis' public image is in its irony. He's introduced himself to the nation by eating unpeeled rotten bananas and drinking coffee with absurd amounts of mayonnaise stirred in, all to the revulsion and fascination of social media audiences that may view him as someone without capacity for proper contemplation.

He started with the banana days after being named Kentucky's starter last year, chewing through the brown-spotted peel. By season's end, after the Citrus Bowl victory, he was biting ferociously into an unpeeled orange. Those scenes were personality flashes, sure. They were also simple entry points to a world with new avenues for college athletes to explore, engagement initiatives.

"People find out about you in a variety of ways," Levis says.

Heck, some of these video productions might have been entered into his packed Google schedule ahead of time. None of this is to say they were inauthentic, only that he recognized their initial value as part of a well-rounded platform that probably no longer needs such shock and awe. If they were put together with the careful consideration that Levis seems to apply to everything in life, they were done so as part of a meticulous effort to showcase something he knew would partner well with his dynamic play to land him at the forefront of the name, image and likeness movement.

"I don't even see that part," Kentucky coach Mark Stoops, entering his 10th season, said in his office. "I just chuckle because all I see is the business side of him. When I see him, he's dialed in. He's so self-motivated. He wants to be the very best and he's driven that way. So it's fun to decompress, that part of it. But that's such a small piece of who he is. He's a professional, right now. He's a professional the way he carries himself, the way he works. He's the furthest thing from goofing around — I mean, the furthest. Here, it's all business. Some guys can't separate it. Some guys don't know when to turn it off, or how to turn it off. I only see an intensity from him in here.

"He's not out to please me or the public. He's out to be the very best. He's out for much bigger things than getting a pat on the back."

'Unapologetically himself'

The latest viral video came out of SEC Media Days last month in Atlanta.

"Will Levis, quarterback at the University of Kentucky," Levis, wearing a blue suit, said into the camera. "And I have been known to put mayonnaise in my coffee sometimes."

So he did once again — reluctantly, but viewers could not have known that. He squeezed an amount of mayo sufficient for several bologna sandwiches into a cup of black coffee, stirred, engaged silently but charismatically with the camera and took a sip as a woman in the background could be heard exclaiming, "Oh, Will ..."

That woman was Susan Lax, known throughout the Kentucky football orbit as "Slax," the behind-the-scenes energy and organization and promotion and protection at the heart of this particular SEC engine and its people.

Lax, director of athletics communications and public relations for the football program, has been heavily involved in Levis' life, especially since Kentucky defeated Florida and LSU in consecutive weeks to reach No. 11 in the national rankings last season. She coordinates most of Levis' media engagements. She's often by his side. She works with him on where to be and when during obligations to events such as SEC Media Days at the College Football Hall of Fame.

When Lax pulled Levis into a room for his 1-on-1 interview, a bottle of mayonnaise, a pitcher of coffee, a mug and stirrers were already situated on a table. Levis wasn't thrilled. Under his breath to Lax, he said something to the effect of: Are you kidding me? We're still doing this?

Probably not so often from here.

"The banana and the mayo, he called me and he was like, 'Slax, no more,'" Lax said. "I said, 'You got it, we're done.' That narrative will fizzle out and I will help it fizzle. Anyone who brings it up, I'll say, 'We've moved on from that.' In the blink of an eye last year we were 6-0 and I'm carrying bananas around because you never knew when someone was going to ask him to eat a banana."

But it's time now to more acutely appreciate the accomplishments that have made Levis such an impactful player, and the physical and mental traits that make him such an intriguing prospect.

In his first season as a college starter, Levis threw for 2,827 yards with 24 touchdowns and 13 interceptions. He ran for 376 yards and nine touchdowns, too, leading the Wildcats to 10 victories for just the fourth time in program history with a New Year's Day victory over Iowa in the Citrus Bowl. He racked up weekly awards from the SEC, gained recognition from national bodies along the way and after the season.

Was his play perfect? No. Levis' turned the ball over too often, probably ran through traffic at risk too many times and has improvements to make in footwork, accuracy and decision making. And he's correct in mentioning that there were other quarterbacks at other schools (Bryce Young of Alabama, C.J. Stroud of Ohio State) who had better seasons — players he's now grouped with on NFL draft boards.

Was his approach perfect? Probably. Close, at least. Still irked at how his abilities were perceived by the media while in high school, then overlooked in State College, Levis quickly went from taking snaps with backups at Kentucky to taking over swaths of this state of bluegrass, bourbon, basketball and horse barns. Levis has a next-level magnetism absent from the program since, perhaps, Randall Cobb's dazzling days as a receiver in 2009-10.

"Will is so talented," said senior offensive lineman Kenneth Horsey, and the discussion hadn't even yet turned to football.

Horsey was standing on the blazing hot turf of 61,000-seat Kroger Field for media day interviews earlier this month. About an hour earlier, he had spotted a Levis photo shoot from afar. Hands to his cheeks, Horsey shouted in a high-pitched voice, "Is that Will Levis?" playfully mocking his quarterback's fame.

On the NIL front, Levis has aligned himself with a local restaurant, Malone's, making sure the agreement included free rib dinners every Sunday for the Kentucky offensive line. His endorsement deal with Boone's Trace National Golf Club in nearby Richmond includes the ability to have 16 guests play every Wednesday at no charge.

He has partnered, too, with a horse — 2019 Preakness Stakes winner War of Will — in establishing an advertising campaign around Claiborne Farm's breeding options. He has a deal with a Lexington car dealership, Paul Miller Ford, with a commercial included.

One of his most recent partnerships, with Cameo, allows him to create personalized messages for fans — with all proceeds from the first 100 posts being donated to the American Red Cross to assist those impacted by the recent flooding in Eastern Kentucky. He helped load a relief truck on Saturday, too. Last year, he participated in a telethon to provide relief when tornadoes ripped through Western Kentucky, killing dozens.

Levis, making a comfortable NIL living, has a good amount of money and not much time. He shares both, wastes none.

"The entire process, it's been fun to watch, because you have seen Will gain the respect — not only gain, but demand the respect — of the locker room," Horsey said. "He's one of those guys who leads by example. The best way I can describe Will is just unapologetically himself. He's very balanced."

He's got a bit of a chip on his shoulder, too.

"He walks around with it every day," Horsey said. "It pushes him to get better and, honestly, it pushes the entire team to get better."

'Living the dream'

Kentucky held its first practice of the season earlier Wednesday, Aug. 3, before media day events, in the comparatively cool morning breeze. Levis left the field with Lax, veins popping from his long arms, and later approached her in the team dining hall for a rundown of the day, peering over her shoulder to examine an itinerary.

Just about every media outlet had requested time with Levis, so to reduce chaos a decision was made for him to hold a press conference, during which he was asked why he is so hard on himself.

"You've got to be your No. 1 supporter, the No. 1 person who is confident in you, but you've always got to be your No. 1 critic," Levis told a packed media room, with maybe 75 reporters on hand.

Levis, Stoops, offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello and defensive coordinator Brad White held individual press conferences. All other players and coaches were available on the field in position groups.

"You're the only one who knows why you made the decisions you did or what you're capable of, physically," Levis said. "You have to judge yourself on your performance based on what you know about yourself. ... If I keep that same mentality of both having the utmost confidence in myself, being my number one supporter, but also being the one to give myself honest constructive criticism, I feel like I can just improve and be better one way or the other by being both of those types of people for myself."

Levis is not someone who lets a box go unchecked or a thought left unexplored. At Penn State, where he redshirted one season and served as backup to Sean Clifford in 2020 and 2021, he sensed early that it might ultimately make sense to transfer. So he took on an accelerated academic schedule and earned a degree in finance, graduating magna cum laude with a 3.97 GPA. He is now carrying a 4.0 in the masters of finance program at Kentucky and is just 12 credits shy of finishing his coursework toward another degree.

He has a long list of NIL obligations that take up just an hour or two each week. Levis also fits in pieces of the life any college kid deserves, grabbing the occasional round of drinks here and there on South Limestone. That is becoming more difficult, though. The more people recognize Levis and approach him, the more he leans into homebody life, because "There's an accountability factor. I'm not going to be going out and making a fool of myself"

The perks of being a minor celebrity: Levis was in Los Angeles for Super Bowl week. He attended the Master's, the Kentucky Derby and The Match, the golf competition in Las Vegas featuring Allen, Patrick Mahomes, Tom Brady and Aaron Rodgers. He met all those quarterbacks. Every trip was through one NIL deal or another and/or arranged by his marketing firms. He is represented by one locally and one nationally: Athlete Advantage in Lexington and WME out of Chicago.

Levis chatted with Tebow at SEC Media Days about the reckless joy of something that others around him want him to temper — carrying the football through oncoming tacklers. He played golf recently with Tim Couch, the No. 1 overall pick out of Kentucky in the 1999 NFL Draft. When classes start up again later this month Levis will probably be as busy as he ever will be. But he is not distracted. And he is not a distraction.

"He's living the dream," Scangarello said. "I would worry about some people when the spotlight gets put on you as quickly as it has with Will, but part of what his greatness will be, and is, he's very mature, he's very well thought out in his decision making, and he just has the makeup of what you'd expect a great one to have."

Levis is exceptionally bright, meticulously organized, go-go-go in how he approaches days that are carefully designed to maximize every moment, eyes simultaneously on all the prizes, which are the following day's practice, the season ahead and his NFL future.

"I want to be the best quarterback in the country now," Levis said. "I feel like I definitely am. I feel like I can accomplish that. I feel like this is what I've been put on Earth to do."

'He ain't playin' around'

Levis was stressed out during the final week of

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

Kentucky's spring practice period in March.

He was named the Walter Camp 2021 Connecticut Player of Year, sharing the honor with Miami quarterback Tyler Van Dyke of Glastonbury, and needed to be in New Haven for the foundation's gala.

From there, he would spend a week in Spain with his girlfriend, Gia, a Penn State student from the Reading, Pa., area who was studying abroad during the spring semester. Levis had a paper due, too, and his no-wiggle-room travel itinerary was going to force him to miss the Wildcats' final practice. That was driving him crazy.

In stepped Lax, the Kentucky native and former college tennis player who makes her way around the football facilities calling players "babe" or "bud," cell phone in one hand, papers in the other hand, a bag over her shoulder, all organization and positivity.

This relationship, fundamental to what has become of Levis' life, was already a season-plus in development but it took this trip to Connecticut for both to fully appreciate it.

"It took me a minute with Will," Lax said. "At first, he was almost scary to me. I usually get to know players so fast and we become buds so fast. He and I, I was almost scared to talk to him because he was so intense. I would get nervous. But when we traveled together and did that, the walls broke down."

Lax suggested Levis attend that practice, and he did. She was waiting for him in his off-campus apartment parking lot, car running, when he returned home. She drove to the airport. They flew together. Upon reaching New Haven, she told Levis to relax in the Omni Hotel, work on his paper, that she'd head over to that night's Walter Camp event and find out if he was needed in attendance.

He was not, she assured him. The awards wouldn't be presented until the following night's gala, which Levis attended. The day after that, Lax sent Levis off to Europe, better understanding the person that College Football America may think it has figured out by viewing a bunch of highlights and a few TikTok videos.

"I had already learned I better have all my ducks in a row when dealing with Will," Lax said. "I better have my details ready of who, what, when, where and why. Because he ain't playin' around."

Yet, America sees him playing around.

"Here, at football, he's one way," Lax said. "Outside, he's a totally different way."

There's a really serious side. There's that edge. But it softens. Because there's a really sweet side, depth.

Levis and Lax talked about life on that trip. He told her about Gia's birthday plans and the gift he was most proud to give: He wrote Gia a letter, showing he's adept at the lost arts like he is the Gen Z new ones.

When Lax returned home to Lexington, a care package awaited on her doorstep, candles and the like, with a thank-you note from Levis.

"That tells you everything," Lax said.

Striving for the next level

Kentucky went on a three-game losing streak (Georgia, Mississippi State, Tennessee) after that 6-0 start last season but rebounded to win four in a row, closing with the Citrus Bowl victory before a crowd of 50,000-plus in Orlando and an ABC audience over the Hawkeyes — the team against which Levis, in his only start at Penn State the year before, had been pulled.

"There were times in my life when I didn't even know if I wanted to be a quarterback, or didn't know if I was good enough to play, even in high school, and in college," Levis said. "It just makes me think about the hard work I've put in from seventh grade until now and just never gave up on chasing my dreams. It hasn't paid off yet. But I know I'm on the right track"

The hope around campus now is that, come December, Kentucky will be near the top of the SEC and Levis will be playing himself toward the top of the draft. This basketball-centric community had an appetite for such football attention.

The South Limestone bars are packed on Saturday gamedays. At the Tin Roof and The Paddock, popular spots on that strip, is where the wild scenes come together, shoulder to shoulder crowds, lines down the street.

To continue to capture Lexington's interest is to push the 2021 momentum into 2022, and Levis has challenges. Scangarello, who was the Broncos offensive coordinator in 2019 and the 49ers quarterbacks coach last year, was brought in to replace offensive coordinator Liam Coen, who took the same position with the Rams. Wan'Dale Robinson, Levis' top target by a wide margin, is gone, a second-round draft pick of the Giants. Major components of the offensive line need to be replaced.

The season begins Sept. 3 at home against Miami of Ohio. Week two brings a trip to Gainesville for a game Sept. 10 at Florida. Kentucky was ranked No. 21 in the USA Today coaches poll released last week. Levis will nearly double his college playing experience with a full slate of starts in 2022. Levis' parents, Michael and Beth Levis, will attend every game.

"Like any quarterback, the game slows down the more you play," Scangarello said. "Guys who succeed at the next level have banked a lot of starts and are usually the better players. That's where Will will ascend. You've seen guys like Joe Burrow and, historically, how guys have gone through and are very talented like Will. We're hoping for that same kind of ascension."

The past year, since Levis was named starter on Aug. 15 2021, has really been a meteoric rise.

He has proven worthy of the SEC and ESPN ... because of his play.

He has proven worthy of The Today Show ... because of a brown banana.

"People think I actually do it [regularly]," Levis said. "That's what all the headlines are. I did this because I thought it would be funny one time. It's not something I want to string out for the rest of my career. ... I like to use social media as a way to give fans an inside look into who I am as a person and my personality, rather than me as just a player. Sometimes I just like to do a couple things that might make a couple people laugh. I think being quarterback adds another layer to that. You have to be cautious with how you operate. As soon as you do something wrong or you're not playing the way you're supposed to, people can turn around and say this guy cares too much about whatever and not football. So I just try to do what I can to make sure that's never that thought with anybody."

That comes naturally. Levis is past arrival time now. He'll spend the next 12 or 13 games building on what he's created, not celebrating it.

"There's a lot of pressure," Levis said. "That means there are high hopes for you and for the team. I think I thrive in those type of situations. I think I thrive on the pressure of people trying to doubt me and trying to tell me I can't do something. I try to motivate myself and twist whatever I hear and turn it into motivation however I can. It's kind of just how I operate, I guess."

How Kentucky football's offensive menu can feed deep, talented group of tight ends

Brett Dawson
Louisville Courier-Journal
Aug. 19, 2022

LEXINGTON — In hindsight, Vince Marrow had set the bar too low.

Going into Saturday's scrimmage, the Kentucky football tight ends coach made "a little B.S. bet," he said, with his position group: Catch six passes in Saturday's scrimmage and a future dinner was on Marrow.

As much faith as Marrow has in his room, deep with talented tight ends, he had reason to doubt it would get a half-dozen catches in a single scrimmage. The Wildcats have a plethora of offensive weapons. The UK defense is loaded with linebackers who make matchups miserable.

Marrow figured his guys would need a pretty good day to get six receptions.

"They had six on the first two drives," he said.

And kept going. Marrow was pretty sure the UK tight ends got to 13 catches. Offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello estimated it was 15. Brenden Bates, a starter at tight end last season, thought it was 12.

The point is, it was more than six.

"Now (Marrow) owes us Jeff Ruby's," junior Izayah Cummings said. "We just got to get a date on that."

The hope in the Kentucky camp is that the tight ends will keep feasting on the field all season.

The Wildcats are stocked with broad shoulders and good hands at tight end, loaded with prototype size, solid speed and blocking expertise.

"There's some really dynamic players in that room," Scangarello said. "I don't know if there's a room that I'm more excited about or more happy with the depth, the talent and the types of players we have."

There are five tight ends — seniors Bates and Keaton Upshaw, junior Cummings, redshirt freshman Jordan Dingle and true freshman Josh Kattus — who probably can expect to see snaps this season.

Freshman 5: Which Kentucky football freshmen will play a part from the start?

It's conceivable four of them could do it at once.

"I'm not going to tell you if we have anything like that in (the playbook) or not," Bates said. "But yeah, it's definitely something I think is very realistic, especially with all we can do. That'd be really exciting to see. I'd love it. Maybe put me in at running back or something."

Scangarello will have to get creative to use all his options.

Cummings caught 20 passes last season, Bates 11 and Dingle two. But the 6-foot-6 Upshaw was the tight end who seemed poised for a breakout year after catching 16 passes for 193 yards in 2020. Instead, he suffered a season-ending injury last summer.

He's back now, paired with Bates and Cummings, who's settling in at tight end after the former Male High School star moved from wide receiver.

Dingle is a candidate to break out this season. And Kattus — a 6-4, 232-pound freshman who's added muscle in the offseason — has been among the most buzzed-about Cats in fall camp.

"When I recruited him, I knew he was gonna be a good blocker," said Marrow, also UK's recruiting coordinator. "But what surprised me is how well he catches the ball and how well he's picking up everything."

If any coach can exploit the excess at tight end, it might be Scangarello, who spent last season as the quarterbacks coach of the NFL's San Francisco 49ers, who consistently target tight ends and feature star George Kittle at the position.

When Kentucky hired Scangarello, Bates said he immediately thought "this is gonna be good for us" in the tight ends room. Bates had watched in December as Kittle dismantled his hometown Cincinnati Bengals in a narrow 49ers win, racking up 13 catches for 151 yards and a TD.

Scangarello "loves tight ends," Cummings said, and the feeling so far has been mutual.

"They find different plays, different type of schemes that set up all of us to be great," Upshaw said of UK's offensive coaches. "So I feel like it works right into (our) good hands."

Mark Stoops feeling much better about secondary; Maxwell Hairston impressing

Aaron Gershon
Cats' Pause
Aug 20, 2022

Kentucky made it clear that it needed to improve its secondary following the spring football season.

The team added three players in cornerbacks, Keidron Smith (Ole Miss) and Jordan Robinson (Livingstone College) and added a safety with the addition of Zion Childress (Texas State).

Now, as the team works through fall camp and is two weeks away from the season opener, Mark Stoops is feeling much better about his defensive backfield compared to the start of last season.

"I feel much better about the secondary in general going into this year than I did a year ago," Stoops said. "I feel like the guys that are returning are playing at a higher level. We have some different guys that are rotating in. Overall it's very good."

"You add Keidron and the guys that are there are playing better."

Last season the UK secondary finished as the country's 52nd best pass defense allowing 218.6 yards per game through the air.

However, cornerback Cedrick Dort who started 12 games, transferred to Wisconsin and both starting safety Yusuf Corker and cornerback Quandre Mosely are in the NFL.

That leaves the unit relying on returning starter Carrington Valentine to be its top cornerback and overall playmaker in the backfield.

"I've got to give Carrington Valentine some props. He's done a good job at the corner position, making some good plays, breaking up contested balls, breaking on stuff well," quarterback Will Levis said.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

Jalen Geiger, who is expected to start at free safety, Tyrell Ajian who is the projected starting strong safety and junior cornerback Andru Phillips, are the biggest returning names however, another has begun to catch Stoops' eye.

Redshirt freshman corner Maxwell Hairston has caught the eyes of his head coach and is now expected to be an important depth piece this fall.

"A guy like Maxwell, a young guy, but he's got some length and he's really got top-end speed," Stoops said. It's been really good to see him emerge as kind of like the fourth corner but guys you can trust.

"You need four guys. At times we've rotated three, but we'd like to have two deep, especially early on with this heat and things like that."

Hairston is a native of West Bloomfield, Michigan, who signed with Kentucky as a member of its 2021 recruiting class. The corner was ranked the 950th best player in the nation, 80th ranked cornerback and the 24th best player in the state of Michigan.

He picked the Cats over offers from Arkansas, Minnesota, Purdue, Kansas and Virginia Tech, among others.

Last season Hairston did not play as he picked up a redshirt year, but that is expected to change this fall.

"All of our young guys will have to play this year," Valentine said this spring. "Maxwell Hairston, Elijah Reed, Dre Stewart (Andre Stewart), Adrian Huey, all those guys will have to step up ... the whole cornerback room."

Kentucky football linebacker J.J. Weaver at peace with mental and physical health

Brett Dawson
Louisville Courier-Journal
Aug. 22, 2022

LEXINGTON — J.J. Weaver's probably eating.

He's supposed to take in somewhere in the neighborhood of 4,000 calories a day, and the Kentucky linebacker — who's working on weight gain — sweats off pounds (plural) daily at practice.

So when he finishes, it's off to the nutritionist for guidance on building them back.

"I'm like 240 (pounds) now," Weaver said. "I'm trying to get to 255. If not, I'm good at 245."

That Weaver's preseason focus is on adding weight is a testament to how much of it he's taken off his shoulders in the past two years.

He's still dealing with the loss of his father, killed in a 2020 shooting in Albany, Georgia. But he's finding ways to cope.

And unlike this time a year ago, Weaver is playing unhindered by the uncertainty of a surgically repaired right knee. Now 20 months removed from the anterior cruciate ligament tear he suffered in a 2020 game at Florida, he can think less and feel more.

"My knee, I'm healthy," Weaver said. "I'm just out there having fun, for real."

A former high school star at Moore, Weaver played last season after ACL rehab and had a strong year — 34 tackles, 10.5 for loss, 6.5 sacks. But the knee remained on his mind. Could he plant the way he used to? Could he cut? Was he the same player he was before?

And beyond that, he had a heavy heart.

Weaver's parents divorced when he was young, and though he moved to Louisville with his mother as a third grader, he remained close with his father, whose death rocked him. It still does.

Football was a respite at first, a release. "My peace," Weaver said.

On the field Weaver could block out his sadness and channel his anger. But the knee injury — five months after his father's death — took away all that.

Weaver already had lost "close friends," he said. Then he lost his father. Sometimes it seemed like too much. Even now it sticks with him.

"It's a pain I can't get rid of," he said.

But he needed to find ways to manage it.

Kentucky coach Mark Stoops, who lost his own father at a young age, suggested talking through his issues might help Weaver, who's since been open about how therapy aided him.

He's become something of a mental health advocate, shooting a video this offseason for UK Health Care to promote the topic. Though Weaver said he's "still dealing with" the loss of his father, he credits his therapist for helping him to learn how.

"Me, I'll hold everything in and just go play football and just come home and cry and stuff like that," Weaver said in the UK Health Care video. "But she helped me actually express and talk to my teammates. I'm a leader now with my team because of my therapist. She helped me open up more and tell my story."

So did teammate Jordan Wright, a graduate student in his sixth year at UK whom Weaver has known since they were kids in Florida.

"He's like a big brother of mine," Weaver said. "So we talk deep. We talk about my father. Jordan really helped me get through my father's death, because he knew my father personally. And so that relationship helped me, most definitely."

Weaver lost his father a little more than two years ago. It's natural not to be over it.

But he's making progress, emotionally and physically.

On the latter front, Stoops said, "you see a big difference in him" a year out from ACL rehab. When Weaver watches film from last season, he looks at his right knee and sees "every time I tried to plant on it, I was slipping." That's gone now.

And defensive coordinator Brad White sees "a confidence" in Weaver that was absent last season even as he made on-field strides.

"He's a guy that's very much in control of his position right now, and that's a great thing to see," White said. "Because even when he was playing at a really high level there in 2020 right before the injury, he didn't have the command of the position that he has now. So now you put that athleticism together with the command of the position, a focus and an understanding of, 'Hey, this could be a big opportunity, a big year for me,' and we're expecting big things from him."

Weaver is aware of the opportunity.

He has two seasons of eligibility remaining, but he's dreamed of the NFL, and Weaver can see it in front of him. Maybe this year, maybe the next. He's grown to value the time he spent unable to play football, the ways it molded him as a man and a player.

"I think it was like God gave me a battle to fight," Weaver said. "When I got hurt and my dad died, I matured so much. And I needed that, I ain't gonna lie. I really needed that. I sat back and learned football, the techniques. Like, I couldn't play the game so I started learning the game."

And though he's found ways off the field to process the emotions from his father's death, the game remains a respite, an important piece of his therapy.

"Football has really taken it off my mind," Weaver said. "It really takes it off my mind, and I play through it. That makes me want to play even better."

Jordan Dingle may be a secret weapon in the tight end room

Being ranked AP preseason top 25 for the first time since 1978, the Kentucky Wildcats are entering this season with high expectations. Given those high expectations, Mark Stoops and Co will attempt to take another big step for the program.

Of course, it will ultimately be up to how the players perform on the field, but there is a lot of talent on the roster, including a loaded tight end room that the staff has a lot of confidence in.

According to offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello, "three or four or five in that room that are going to play on Sundays," as he said earlier this month on media day.

A notable member of that group that Scangarello has been impressed with is in-state redshirt freshman, Jordan Dingle.

Last season, the Bowling Green native appeared in only four games in his freshman campaign and was able to retain his redshirt. In his limited appearances, Dingle caught two catches for 54 yards.

Through the summer and fall camp, Dingle has been a name that has consistently been mentioned, and he seems to be ready to make an impact.

After last Saturday's scrimmage - the final scrimmage before the regular season - Stoops called Dingle "a complete tight end". In the scrimmage, Dingle used his impressive catch radius and caught four passes.

With all the talent in the tight-end room, playing time will be at a premium, but Dingle is a versatile piece that can line up at fullback, receiver, or tight end.

Despite having many talented tight ends in recent years, the Big Blue Nation has expressed concern over the inconsistent use of tight ends. With Scangarello coming from a San Francisco 49ers system that is heavily reliant on multiple tight-end personnel, and with a talented tight-end group, this could be the year we see that narrative change.

However it plays out, it looks like it is going to be difficult to keep Dingle off the field in some fashion.

Eli Cox to anchor 2022 version of the Big Blue Wall

Aug 29, 2022

It's been a competitive fall camp for the Kentucky Wildcats' Big Blue Wall as new offensive line coach Zach Yenser will have a deep rotation for the 2022 season. However, there's little doubt who will be the anchor up front this year as Eli Cox will lock down the coveted center position.

Gone from last year's offensive line are Darian Kinnard, Dare Rosenthal, and Luke Fortner, who made the successful jump from offensive lineman to center, on his way to the NFL where he's projected as a starter in his rookie season with the Jacksonville Jaguars.

Now it's time for Cox to make that same transition, moving over to the center position after starting at right guard in the first nine games last season before suffering a season-ending hand injury vs. Tennessee. The Nicholasville, Kentucky, native already has a strong foundation at his new position, playing center as a freshman and sophomore at West Jessamine High School before becoming a 3-star recruit at guard in 2019.

Cox officially took over center duties during spring practice and has made great strides during fall camp, working closely with Drake Jackson, twice named first-team All-SEC at center after making 44 consecutive starts between 2017 through 2020. Jackson is now in his first year as a graduate assistant coach.

"He's done a phenomenal job of studying and taking on that role, but I think he's had good ones to learn from the past," said Yenser of Cox's transition. "Obviously, having Drake (Jackson) in the room has helped him with his confidence with the snapping position, the calls and all that stuff. I just think his mentality, and how physical he is, a lot of his characteristics just make a good offensive lineman, whether that's playing center or guard we have a lot of confidence in him."

New offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello has continued to have high praise for Cox, who like quarterback Will Levis, has a high football IQ and a great feel for the new offense.

"I feel very good about where we're at at center," said Scangarello. "Eli is an outstanding player and that helps solidify the whole group. When your quarterback and center are as smart as they are, it can take you a long way. That's usually what will hold you back, but fortunately for us, those two guys (are) the one percenters where they can handle a lot."

With Cox and left guard Kenneth Horsey the only returning starters up front, this year's O-Line remains a work in progress as fall camp has created a healthy competition under the watchful eye of Yenser, who's in his first season at Kentucky after coaching the past three years with the San Francisco 49ers.

The current plan is to start Auburn transfer Tashawn Manning (guard) and Jeremy Flax (tackle) on the right side, while David Wohlbach Jr. and freshman Kiyaunta Goodwin continue to battle for the left tackle job. Deondre Buford and Jager Burton will also be in the rotation for the Wildcats, who can go eight deep up front.

With so many new faces, Cox knows that this year's O-Line will have to prove itself to maintain its status as one of the top offensive lines in the country. The Wildcats have been listed as a finalist the past couple of seasons for the Joe Moore Award, recognizing the Most Outstanding Offensive Line in college football.

"That Big Blue Wall name is something we have to earn every season," said Cox, who has been named to the preseason Outland Trophy Watch List. "We still have a lot of ways that we can improve. The run game is going to be different, it's different than it has been. We're going to run different schemes and different looks that we're going to try to be very multiple to give defenses trouble, so we need to keep getting better."

Fortunately, Cox says that going up against a dominant Kentucky defense each day has accelerated the learning curve for both sides of the ball.

"It's a battle in the trenches every day," said Cox. "Iron sharpens iron, everyone knows that, so having a talented defensive unit to go against every day...I mean I think we have some of the best linebackers in the country, I think we have some of the best defensive linemen so being able to go against those guys every day is only making both sides of the ball better."

The first big test for the Big Blue Wall comes in the season opener on September 3rd against Miami (OH) at Kroger Field.

Kentucky backup quarterback strong man of faith

LEXINGTON, Ky. (KT) — Kentucky quarterback Deuce Hogan sees the football field as his platform on and off turf.

"I always tell people it's a 100-yard stage," said Hogan, who was named the No. 2 quarterback behind starter Will Levis this week. "(I'm) using this platform to be able to speak to people on a really big scale and I think football can open doors there."

Hogan, a sophomore transfer from Iowa, played prep football for his father, Kris Hogan, at Grapevine Faith Christian in Texas. His life is deeply rooted in his faith and knows football is secondary compared to his status as a believer.

"(My faith) is everything. I would walk away from football if I felt called to, if that was something that I felt like the Lord was pulling me to do," he said. "My faith is everything and it's the reason I do what I do. And I really do feel like this provides the biggest stage to make the biggest impact. And that's why I'm doing it. I just know that I'm called to impact people. Right now, I think this is the biggest avenue."

That avenue was paved by his parents, Kris and Amy Hogan, from childhood. Hogan credits his parents for their godly influence in his life.

"I was in a home with two parents that were madly in love, and they put Jesus first," he said. "I was in church every Sunday, every Wednesday my whole life.

"Outside of the church we had people coming to my house to hear and get advice from my dad and my mom. My mom's written books, my dad's traveled the country. My parents are everything and the foundation of my faith."

Prior to leaving Iowa, Hogan didn't take his future lightly and took his case to the cross for direction and was able to watch his dad and brother Zeke win a state championship at Cypress Christian in Houston, Texas.

"I really was in prayer ... (and) when God speaks, he speaks loudly," he recalled. "I went home and watched my little brother and dad win a state championship."

While at home in Texas, Hogan received the call from Kentucky and didn't balk at the opportunity to play for the Wildcats.

"I felt like this was the best door of opportunity," he said. "It's also an awesome conference and for the SEC to call and say, 'Hey, we'll give you a chance' ... you don't get that call every day. I felt like it was the smartest place to go."

Since he arrived on campus, Hogan has worked his way into the backup quarterback slot and hasn't second-guessed his decision to transfer.

"I knew that the opportunities that I had were not far off," he said. "One of them is where God wanted me to be. I'm a big believer in the idea that God talks all the time about how he blesses the steps and it will take time.

"The concept of deciding and then making that decision the right decision. I think God gives the people that follow him options sometimes. I had a peace knowing that the Lord was with me, and he was going to bless my steps and I was walking in faith."

Outside of football, Hogan studies the Bible and is "in the word daily" and understands the balance between life and sports.

"It's nothing really new to me," he said. "It's just operating with intentionality and routine. As long as I have a routine, the schedule is not bad. It's what I know."

He also knows he will be deeply rooted in his faith no matter where the path of life leads him in the future.

"I'm just trying to always represent the things that I say I stand for because I know that I'm being watched and I know that people label me with Christianity," he said. "I'm trying to always be a witness, just by the way that I practice."

Now that he has reached his goals, he's not taking the role for granted.

"(The) Lord's been sovereign," he said. "It doesn't change my approach. I've got to perform every day because, you know, spots are never secured."

The twitch is back for a healthy and happy J.J. Weaver in 2022

Greg Goins
A Sea of Blue
Sept. 1, 2022

Outside linebacker J.J. Weaver has seemingly found his happy place, getting back to full strength, both on and off the field this fall, as the inspirational leader for the Kentucky defense.

The Louisville native has had to overcome numerous challenges during his Kentucky football career, including the loss of his father and high school coach, a torn ACL during the 2020 season, and some well documented mental health struggles. He's also had to overcome constant bullying during his youth from a rare condition known as polydactyly, as Weaver has six fingers on his right hand.

During Kentucky's media day, Weaver shared his story that includes seeking out therapy, leaning on former teammate Josh Paschal, a cancer survivor who took him to church last season, and finding support from Kentucky defensive coordinator Brad White.

"To be honest, it took me a while to even open up," said Weaver. "It was hard. One night it really hit me. I was crying in my room and I called Coach White at 3 o'clock in the morning and said I need to talk to somebody...I'm not myself. I've matured so much better. Now I tell them (his teammates) to talk to me if they need anything. Just talk to me. I'm here for you all."

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

After going down with a knee injury at Florida in 2020, Weaver bounced back last season to record 34 tackles and six sacks on his way to being named a Mayo Clinic Comeback Player of the Year. He is one of six returning starters for the Kentucky defense along with inside linebackers DeAndre Square, Jacquez Jones, follow outside linebacker Jordan Wright, and defensive backs Carrington Valentine and Tyrell Ajian.

White, now in his fifth season at Kentucky, said Weaver's progression during fall camp has been all about confidence and a consistency that's been at a higher level this year.

"You can see that twitch is back," said White. "Between spring, summer and first day of practice, you see him brimming with confidence. He's playing fast. He's communicating out there. He's a guy that's very much in control of his position right now and that's a great thing to see because even when he was playing at a really high level in 2020, right before the injury, he didn't have the command of the position that he has now. So now you put that athleticism together with the command of the position and a focus and understanding that this could be a big year."

In 2021, the Kentucky defense held opponents to 21.7 points and 340.1 points per game, finishing the season ranked fourth in the SEC in total defense. The trio of Paschal, Weaver and Wright combined for 29.5 tackles for loss and 12.5 sacks during a 10-3 season. Paschal was drafted by the Detroit Lions in the second round.

"This year, I think we're more mature," said Weaver of the defensive unit. "We learned from mistakes. We learned from the Tennessee game. We learned from the Mississippi State game, plus Coach White recruited a lot of DBs and a lot of positions that we needed help with. They're going to help for sure."

Weaver, a former standout at Moore Traditional School, has also been leader off the field this summer, hosting his own youth football camp at his alma mater and lending his name and support to the "Back To School With J.J. Weaver" School Supply Drive in Louisville.

"We expect big things from him," said White. "I am not going to shy away, and he will not shy away from understanding that we need him to take that next step and be a guy-guy. He has got to be a difference maker for us on defense."

The No. 20-ranked Wildcats will get a big test early when they travel to "The Swamp" to play the Florida Gators on September 10th, a game Weaver has circled on his calendar.

"I tore my ACL down there two years ago so Florida for sure," said Weaver when asked about what game he's looking forward to the most this season. "Florida - back in the swamp - that's the second game too so I'm ready."

Tashawn Manning looks to be an anchor on Kentucky's offensive line

Zac Oakes
Advocate Magazine
Aug 27, 2022

After the Big Blue Wall lost some key pieces from last season, Kentucky went to the transfer portal. In Auburn transfer Tashawn Manning, the Wildcats coaching staff believes they found a guy who will be an anchor in the middle of the line.

Manning comes to Kentucky as a graduate transfer after spending the past four years at Auburn. He was actually considered a defensive line recruit but eventually settled in along the offensive line.

After redshirting in 2017 and seeing action in just one game in 2018, Manning began to find a role for the Tigers in 2019. He saw action in four games and earned a starting spot for the Tigers in 2020, where he started 11 games.

Manning saw action in 12 games for Auburn last season, and performed well, grading out as Auburn's best run blocker by Pro Football Focus.

Those skills should serve him well as he makes his way to Lexington where he'll be a part of the Big Blue Wall, which has been among the best run-blocking groups in the country in recent years.

What makes Manning's journey even more incredible is he battled cancer to get to this point. He was diagnosed with Acute Promyelocytic Leukemia in 2015 and began chemotherapy treatment. He was a class of 2016 recruit but ended up spending most of that year undergoing chemo and took community college classes.

"I started taking community college courses while I was taking chemo and I wasn't that excited about where I was," Manning said in August of 2021. "I was frustrated and disappointed."

After undergoing treatment for eight months, Manning was declared cancer free.

"The one thing I'll look back on through the ups and downs is always trying to keep a positive outlook on life," Manning said. "Whatever I did on and off the field, I just tried to enjoy the experience while I was in the moment because you don't get these moments back. From play to play, day to day, I just tried to take everything in and just tried to make the most of it every day."

Thus far, Manning has had a strong training camp and looks primed to win the starting right guard spot along Kentucky's offensive line this fall. The physically imposing Manning drew some attention through spring practices and should help form a strong trio in the middle of the line with center Eli Cox and fellow guard Kenneth Horsey.

This spring, some of Kentucky's defenders talked about Manning's strength on the offensive line.

"He's strong. He's real strong. When he puts his hands on you it's hard to get them off," said Tre'vonn Rybka. "Don't let him touch you."

"I call him the little refrigerator because once he gets his hands on you it's over with," said Jacquez Jones.

There's a lot to like about what Manning brings to the table. At his size, he'll certainly be hard to miss in Kroger Field this year.

Expect to see Kentucky run the ball between the tackles early and often this season, with Manning, Cox, and Horsey leading the way.

How UK football's Jacquez Jones formed 'a bond for life' by mentoring a boy from Lexington

Brooks Holton
Louisville Courier-Journal
Sept 2, 2022

The first thing Jacquez Jones noticed about TJ was his smile.

Then, the 6-year-old boy asked the Kentucky linebacker a question: "You want to see how many push-ups I can do?"

"He started knocking out push-ups," Jones said.

Jones met TJ in the fall of 2021, when he and other Wildcats delivered Thanksgiving food baskets to families around Lexington through a partnership with Southland Christian Church. While the group visited the home of TJ's grandparents, Jones learned about the boy's connection to an organization called Amachi Lexington, which supports children affected by incarceration.

It just so happened that, with TJ turning 6 earlier in the year, he was eligible for the organization's mentoring program and eagerly awaiting a match.

"He was on our waiting list for a while," said Maggie Middleton, the program director of Amachi Lexington. "It just takes a while for us to find mentors at times, especially for our boys. It's a little bit harder to find men to be mentors."

According to Middleton, the organization was on the verge of matching TJ with someone else when the UK football players showed up at his grandparents' house. Like a good linebacker is prone to do, Jones disrupted that game plan – by the end of the visit, he'd been asked to take the boy under his wing.

"I was like, 'Man, that's great,'" Jones said. "'I'll do it right now.'"

Nearly a year later, Jones said he and TJ have developed "a bond for life." The linebacker is even looking to his mentee for motivation heading into his final season with the Wildcats.

"He's one of my reasons why I keep going so hard," Jones said, "because he looks up to me."

These are exciting times for both Jones and TJ on the gridiron.

Jones, an Ole Miss transfer who led UK in tackles last season, was named a team captain Tuesday ahead of the season opener. He and Kentucky's veteran linebackers will anchor the defense as the Wildcats pursue their first trip to the Southeastern Conference championship.

TJ, meanwhile, is suiting up for his first season with the Lexington Ravens youth organization as a member of its 7U team. Like his mentor, he's playing linebacker.

It's a heartwarming detail, but also smart coaching on the Ravens' part. How many kids can say they've been trained at linebacker by someone who starts at the position in the SEC? Jones said TJ frequented the Joe Craft Football Training Center with him this offseason to lift weights and work on his tackling form.

"He has muscles," said TJ's grandmother, Iris Sidney. "They're not big muscles, now, they're little muscles."

"Whenever he comes into our community center and he sees me, he'll come up and he'll give me a big hug and then he'll say, 'See my muscles, Miss Maggie,'" Middleton added.

While TJ keeps building his muscles — and flexing for the camera — Jones said speed isn't an issue: "I watched him play baseball. He (was) the fastest kid out there."

According to Middleton, TJ is one of 185 kids participating in Amachi Lexington's mentoring program. Fifty of those children are waiting for a match like TJ was before Jones walked through his grandparents' door.

TJ's father "is not involved in his life, nor has he ever been," Middleton said. "His mom is involved, but he is very much so being raised by his grandparents."

In a 2017 report from the Annie E. Casey Foundation, Kentucky ranked second in the country with 15% of children having experienced losing a parent to incarceration. A 2022 report from the Prison Policy Initiative says nearly half of the approximately 1.25 million people in state prisons nationwide are parents of minor children, and about 1 in 5 is age 4 or younger.

"Research does suggest that kids with an incarcerated parent have a really high rate of going to jail themselves if there's not an intervention around, and we don't want that to happen,"

Middleton said. "A kid like TJ, who's just so incredible already at 7 and full of joy and he's so bright and so smart, I don't want that in his future."

"He needs someone like a Jacquez who can keep up with him, because he's full of energy," Middleton added. "Especially being raised by his grandparents, too. They work really hard and are doing all they can, but this is their second go-round of parenting."

Jones said he has not experienced losing a loved one to incarceration but saw the mentorship program as an opportunity to "inspire the next generation."

"No matter your circumstance, no matter what you go through, you can always do what you dream," he said. "With TJ, his dream is to be an athlete, and so that's my goal, to make sure he does that."

Amachi Lexington tells its mentors that their job isn't to be a stand-in parent, Middleton said, because "no one can take the place of a parent." That hasn't stopped Jones from taking up at least one parental challenge — getting TJ to be less of a picky eater — to little success.

"All he wants to eat is McDonald's chicken nuggets," Jones said. "I'll take him out to a steakhouse, and all he wants is McDonald's chicken nuggets."

Jones' time in Lexington is almost up, and the linebacker is already dreading saying goodbye to TJ when he moves on to the next chapter of his life.

"It's gonna be hard on me, for real," Jones said, "because I got close to him."

According to Middleton, children stay on Amachi Lexington's caseload until they turn 18, but mentor/mentee relationships often continue unofficially because of the bonds the two parties form.

That will soon be the case for former UK linebacker Courtney Love, who is going on Year 6 with his mentee, a 13-year-old named Antonio.

"It's a life thing for me," said Love, who now works on Mark Stoops' staff as a director of player development. "I like to say, 'I've taught him a lot,' but he's taught me a lot about life and patience."

"I think it's essential and critical that we do it," Love added. "If we can do that and have an impact as student-athletes, as men in the community, having somebody that looks like you, you know. Those guys, they come from broken homes, so it's great to be a part of that."

Love, who said he played a role in recruiting Jones to Kentucky, was with the linebacker when he met TJ during the fall of 2021. After experiencing Amachi Lexington's impact firsthand, Love encouraged Jones to be the boy's mentor. Now, they sometimes take TJ and Antonio out together for movies.

"He's a huge family guy," Love said of Jones, "(and) also took a step this year. He continued to become a leader on that defense and, not only that, but in our locker room. I just got a chance to see him grow, and I look forward to seeing him continue to grow."

Jones will also bring his parents, Kendrick and Lakeshia, around TJ when they visit Lexington, according to Sidney, the boy's grandmother. Sidney said TJ "loves them, too," and there's a good chance he'll be at Kroger Field with the Joneses to watch his mentor play several Saturdays this season.

To return the favor, Jones said he will catch as many of TJ's games with the Ravens as his schedule allows to see how their training pays off. No matter what, the linebacker said he's hoping to make time every Sunday for the 7-year-old while he still can.

If all goes according to plan, Jones should hear his name called at some point during the 2023 NFL Draft. As a super senior, the linebacker could leave Lexington when the Wildcats' season ends to begin preparations for the jump to the pros.

Jones can't take TJ along for the ride, but they'll no doubt stay in touch. And there's at least one thing from their relationship that Jones will have with him wherever he goes; it's the first thing he noticed about the boy: his smile.

"He never goes without smiling," Jones said. "So (on) days where I get down on myself and think about other stuff, I just got to lock in and be like, 'I'm smiling because I got this little kid right here who's looking up to me.'"

Will Levis has another Robinson - this time Tayvion - as his go-to receiver at Kentucky

Jon Hale
Lexington Herald-Leader
Sept. 5, 2022

They might share a last name, a position and a high-profile recruitment out of the transfer portal to Kentucky football, but Tayvion Robinson and Wan'Dale Robinson are different players.

Four days before his Kentucky football debut, Tayvion made sure to emphasize that point when asked how he felt about the ongoing comparisons to the player he was replacing in UK's offense.

After Tayvion totaled six catches for 136 yards in the season-opening 37-13 win over Miami (Ohio), the comparisons are not going away anytime soon, though.

"He's a baller," offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello said of Will Levis's new go-to target. "I mean, he is a really good football player. I've said that. He is a leader. He can do a little bit of everything, the stability he provides us all because we have a lot of youth out there."

The near-capacity crowd at Kroger Field surely had Wan'Dale flashbacks when Tayvion caught an intermediate pass and scrambled 45 yards on Kentucky's first offensive play of the game. Dubbed "Sweet Feet" as a freshman at Virginia Tech, Tayvion repeatedly backed up that nickname by tallying 103 of his 136 receiving yards after the catch.

The emergence of freshmen wide receivers Dane Key and Barion Brown, who combined for seven catches for 98 yards and one touchdown, as well as a deep tight end group should make Kentucky's passing game more versatile this year, but it was clear in the opener that Levis will go to the receiver named Robinson most often for a second consecutive year.

Tayvion led Kentucky with eight targets, most of which came while the game was still in doubt. Like Wan'Dale, he also showed glimpses of the electric ability as a punt returner that earned him preseason All-SEC honors by multiple media outlets.

"They're very comparable," Kentucky wide receivers coach Scott Woodward said of the two Robinsons before the game. "They've both got a great football mind. They're both very smart kids. That's what helped Wan'Dale be who he is today. I think Tayvion has got that similar mindset to him."

"Tayvion is a little bit smoother, I'd say, than Wan'Dale. Wan'Dale has some more quickness than Tayvion does. But they both have great feel when they're on the football field, they both have excellent hands and they're both great route-runners."

Woodward predicted before the opener it would be difficult to take the Virginia Tech transfer off the field this season. While backup slot receiver Chauncey Magwood did catch a touchdown, nothing about the season-opening win refuted that point.

Brown and Key both provide the type of dynamic outside receiving threats that Kentucky's offense lacked a year ago. Levis's reliance on Wan'Dale did not prevent the Frankfort native from breaking Kentucky's school records for catches and receiving yards in a single season, but the passing game as a whole stands to benefit from more capable receiving options this fall.

Perhaps that is why Kentucky head coach Mark Stoops felt comfortable predicting to Wan'Dale that his replacement would have a big game when chatting with the New York Giants second-round draft pick as he visited with former coaches and teammates on the field before the game.

"The nice thing about him is he's experienced," Stoops said. "He's a good football player. He has a good feel for it. He's talented. He works hard."

The presence of the other competent receiving options all but ensures Tayvion will not approach Wan'Dale's record-breaking numbers for Kentucky, but he did come out on top of the head-to-head comparison in the two UK debuts. A year ago, Wan'Dale totaled five catches for 125 yards with two touchdowns in his Kentucky debut versus Louisiana-Monroe.

In three years at Virginia Tech, Tayvion did not record a 100-yard receiving performance. He had reached that number by halftime in his first game as a Wildcat.

"They're different players," Levis said during preseason camp when asked to compare Tayvion to Wan'Dale. "I think Wan'Dale is probably a little faster than him. ... Tayvion has a really good feel. Being a little bigger, his catch radius is a little bigger, too. Dale was amazing. He could do some incredible things with his body, but he is limited by his size. He's not going to let anyone tell him that.

"I'm going to try to give him an accurate ball, but even if it is six inches off Tayvion might be able to make the catch whereas Wan'Dale might not be able to. It's just little things like that."

There could be more wrinkles for Tayvion in Kentucky's offense coming, too.

Scangarello, who also joined the program in the offseason, acknowledged after the season-opening win he held back parts of his scheme to prevent showing week-two opponent Florida what to expect in the SEC opener. Former Kentucky offensive coordinator Liam Coen had to get creative with ways to find Wan'Dale the ball a year ago as defenses knew he was often the only target in the passing game.

Kentucky fans can expect similar strategies to emerge in the coming weeks now that Tayvion has shown his big-play ability.

Of course, to truly match Wan'Dale's impact at Kentucky Tayvion will have to contribute to a historic season and provide game-changing highlights like Wan'Dale's performance on the game-winning drive in the Citrus Bowl win over Iowa.

Tayvion credited his offseason work with Levis for the immediate impact in the opener. He acknowledged wanting to make an early statement to prove to fans that he could be counted on as a playmaker after his transfer.

Tayvion's goals are the same as Wan'Dale's a year ago. He just wants to reach them for his own reasons.

"I love that guy," he said of Wan'Dale before the game. "He helped me get here. He was my host on my visit. He's a great player, obviously with what he did last season, but we're two completely different guys. Both playmakers but have a different game.

"I'm here to make a name for myself this season."

True freshmen prove to be dayone impact pieces for Kentucky

Jack Pilgrim
Kentucky Sports Radio
Sept. 4, 2022

Mark Stoops didn't shy away from setting lofty expectations for Kentucky's true freshmen during the preseason. Not only did the head football coach say it was the program's best freshmen class since he arrived in Lexington, he added that as many as seven newcomers would play from day one.

No downplaying the abilities of the vets and certainly no disrespect. The kids are just that talented.

"This class that we have right now — Vince (Marrow) and I haven't talked about this but I imagine he'd say the same thing — I think this class, this group of freshmen we have on our campus right now is the best we've ever had, the most ready to contribute."

"No-brainers," Stoops said of the freshmen, simply too good to keep off the field. "Those guys go on the field and they're electric. They make you more dynamic and more explosive right away."

It didn't take long for Stoops to put his money where his mouth is, listing seven true freshmen on the first depth chart of the season, including two starters in Dane Key and Barion Brown.

In return, the freshmen justified Stoops' early faith with standout play across the board in Kentucky's season-opening victory vs. Miami (OH).

"Some youngsters step up and really flash and show you how athletic they are," Stoops said after the 37-13 win.

It starts with the two freshmen wideouts, Key and Brown, with the two combining for two total scores and 98 receiving yards on seven catches. The former finished second on the team with four catches for 53 yards to go with a one-yard touchdown reception in the fourth quarter. He converted on all four targets, including a 19-yard grab to take it to the Miami six-yard line on Kentucky's first drive.

"It's what I've seen," Stoops said of Key after the win. "Competitive, tough catches with people draped on him and that's what we've seen him do."

As for Brown, he added three catches for 45 yards, but broke things open for the Wildcats in the second half with 100-yard kickoff return for a touchdown — the highlight of the game.

The standout freshman became the first Kentucky player to score on a kickoff return since Derrick Locke did so against Louisville back in 2009. It's also just the 19th time in program history a player has scored on a kickoff return, with only 15 different players accomplishing the feat. He's the first UK freshman to take one back to the house since Kio Sanford in 1994.

The former high school track star showed off the top-end speed that made him a five-star recruit and a day-one home run threat in Lexington. Literally.

"Man, it felt great knowing that I made a big play to help the offense," he said. "... It just felt great."

The coolest part? Brown called his shot earlier in the week when Kentucky's zero kickoff return touchdowns under Mark Stoops came up in a team meeting.

"We were talking about that Monday. As soon as he said that to me, I looked at my wide receivers coach and we just started laughing," Brown said after the game. "... I knew I was going to do it."

His teammates had faith in him, too.

"I told him it was coming," wide receiver Tayvion Robinson said. "We've been talking about it since Friday in the hotel. I was saying he was going to get one, this is the week to get it. He's a very fast guy, and when he hit the sideline, I knew nobody was going to catch him."

Those are just the offensive playmakers. On defense, true freshmen Alex Afari, Deone Walker and Keaten Wade all stood out as clear difference makers, combining for 13 tackles as backups.

Is it a lot to ask of the newcomers to produce with expanded roles so early? Maybe. Their numbers wouldn't be called, though, if they weren't ready.

"It is (a lot to ask of them)," Stoops said of the talented newcomers on defense. "And they can handle it. And they will and they'll get better. You can see the talent in them. You know, really good players. They'll continue to work, they'll get coached."

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

"And getting this kind of action is invaluable for them to get out on the field and play somebody different. You get in the comfort zone when you play the same offense every day because you get used to it."

Afari was second on the team in total tackles with six and led the team in tackles for loss (1.5) and sacks (1.0).

"I just take it play by play and go hard in practice," he said after the win. "(The coaches) have been liking what they've been seeing."

Backing up Octavious Oxendine at defensive tackle, Walker — standing an absurd 6-6, 330 pounds as a true freshman — added four tackles, including three solo.

"I feel like people knew I was here and athletic, but I don't think they knew I was like this," the former four-star recruit said after the game. "I feel like I came out and showed myself."

Wade, backing up J.J. Weaver at outside linebacker, finished with three tackles (two solo) and one pass breakup. His biggest play? A bone-crushing hit on a screen, a perfect read for the native of Spring Hill, TN.

Wade looks the part of a seasoned vet with years of college football experience — until you remember he was suiting up in the first game of his young (and very bright) career.

"We know what the roster was going to look like, especially this week. Knew some young guys were going to have to step up," defensive coordinator Brad White said after the game. "We talked about it going into the game, knew those three especially were going to get a lot of reps. I thought they handled themselves well."

Stoops said before the season this true freshmen class was the best he's brought in since arriving in Lexington back in 2012. The newcomers came out looking to prove him right.

"This '22 class, we knew we had to come in and produce," Walker said.

"We had a lot of young guys make a lot of plays. It felt good to finally play our first game," Afari added "... We were all ready to play when our opportunity came. We're a good class and we wanted to show it in front of everybody."

"It just felt good," Brown said. "From my standpoint, some people said we didn't have the best, this and that. Just to show that we can be the best and we're working to be the best, it feels really good all around."

Mark Stoops ties Bear Bryant's UK football coaching milestone. Why his players had no idea

Brooks Holton
Louisville Courier-Journal
Sept. 4, 2022

During his first nine seasons leading the Kentucky football team, head coach Mark Stoops didn't shy away from enjoying victories.

At first, wins were hard to come by. Now, they're piling up — and redefining expectations.

So, how did the man who once broke a ceiling tile crowd-surfing at Missouri and called into Kentucky Sports Radio to talk about the cigar and bourbon he planned to savor after beating Tennessee in Neyland Stadium for the first time since 1984 celebrate the victory that tied him with Paul "Bear" Bryant for the most by a head coach in UK history? In a manner so unassuming that one player said he and his teammates had no idea anything historic had occurred.

"I'm gonna be honest, I don't think we knew that he did that," junior offensive lineman Eli Cox said after Kentucky defeated Miami (Ohio) 37-13 on Saturday for Stoops' 60th win at the helm. "He didn't mention it to us at any point, and he didn't mention it after the game."

"That's just kinda how he is, you know? This week's over; we're moving on to next week. He's not much for gloating or things like that."

Stoops' record-tying win fittingly came against the same team he beat for victory No. 1 at UK on Sept. 7, 2013. His program, however, couldn't be at a more different place in Year 10 than it was back then.

On Saturday, fans flew flags in the Kroger Field parking lot that proclaimed Kentucky is a "football school," a reference to Stoops' public beef with basketball coach John Calipari that prompted a response from athletics director Mitch Barnhart in August. Those same fans likely walked into the stadium with the expectation that the Wildcats are destined for the postseason after winning the last four of their six consecutive bowl appearances.

Not a bad turnaround for a head coach who inherited a two-year bowl drought that stretched to five years before he first led UK back to the postseason.

"Coach is so humble he'll deflect all the praise, but he deserves the majority of it," said defensive coordinator Brad White, who joined Stoops' staff prior to Kentucky's 10-win 2018 season.

"I've been lucky. I've been sort of on the uptick, you know?" White added. "I didn't have to be on the ground floor and really grind through some of the tough building-block moments, but it's just a testament to how much he loves this program, how much he loves the kids (and) the coaching staff."

Stoops' milestone was mentioned by a UK Athletics staffer when the head coach sat down for his postgame news conference, but it appeared to be the last thing on his mind. He instead chose to focus on where his team needs to make the most improvement before beginning Southeastern Conference play in Week 2 at Florida, which upset No. 7 Utah on Saturday.

"I don't have any thoughts," Stoops said when asked about tying Bryant's record, which has weathered 11 coaching changes across 69 years. "I want to make it very clear that I absolutely respect (the record) and I'm very appreciative to be here a long time and have the opportunity to win this many games."

The head coach then turned to a bit of self-deprecation to underscore the Wildcats' room for growth.

"You can't put my name in the same (sentence) as Bear Bryant, you know, in the long run," Stoops said. "If I was competing for six national championships, let's talk about that. But I am grateful to win that many games, to be here this long, and we have a long way to go. I'm excited to keep building this program. Really, the focus is on next week. Normally, we talk about enjoying it, you know, but it seems like everybody in there is ready to get to work and get on next week and try to get better. That's not just coach-speak — it's really just kinda how we feel."

So the celebration is on hold, for now. A record-breaking victory in The Swamp next Saturday may be enough to warrant some bourbon and a cigar, but beating the Gators isn't the anomaly it once was for a team that thinks it has a shot at reaching the SEC championship for the first time in program history with Stoops calling the shots.

"We'll try to heap the praise on him," White said, "cause he won't do it on himself."

How new receivers powered Kentucky football to win over Miami (Ohio)

Brett Dawson
Louisville Courier-Journal
Sept. 3, 2022

Wan'Dale Robinson was on the field for the start of the game as a spectator, a reminder that Levis' favorite target a season ago is an NFL rookie now. But it turns out that — in Week 1, at least — Levis-to-Robinson remains a thing.

Tayvion Robinson made waves in his Big Blue Debut, catching six passes for 136 yards in his first game after an offseason transfer from Virginia Tech. Even as the UK offense sputtered in the first half, Robinson was running smoothly, catching five passes for 123 yards before halftime.

With so much youth in the wide receiver room — the other two starters Saturday were freshmen — Tayvion Robinson always was the most likely target to be Levis' early favorite. He played three seasons at Virginia Tech and caught 113 passes for 1,555 yards and nine touchdowns.

Kentucky offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello this week compared Robinson's football IQ to a quarterback's and called him "a fixer," the kind of guy who can solve some problems offensively and help young teammates adjust.

"He's just gonna be that calming guy you can trust," Scangarello said. "He's played a lot of college football. He's tough, he's competitive and he's talented. And we've got to rely on that."

Kentucky leaned on him against the RedHawks — and not just in the passing game. Robinson also had a punt return for 23 yards. Not that it was the standout play by a wide receiver on special teams.

Freshman wideout Barion Brown returned the opening kickoff of the second half 100 yards for a touchdown, the first kick return for a TD by a Wildcat in Mark Stoops' tenure and the first since Derrick Locke scored one against Louisville in 2009.

That return helped change the tenor of a tight game. Kentucky followed by forcing a Miami fumble — knocked loose by Tyrell Ajian and recovered by Keidron Smith — that led to an 8-yard TD pass from Levis to Chauncey Mag-wood to put UK in front 27-10.

Freshman receiver Dane Key joined in the parade of impactful newcomers, catching a third-quarter touchdown pass from Levis and finishing with four catches for 53 yards.

Kentucky's offensive line issues are fixable

The Kentucky Wildcats came away with a 37-13 victory Saturday night to start the season with a 1-0 record.

Despite the win, there was one area that has reason for concern and that is this year's Big Blue Wall.

Under Mark Stoops, the offensive line has been the Cats' strength and has been ranked as one of the best in the country the last several years.

On Saturday, Will Levis was dealing with a lot more pressure than he did a year ago and more than any other QB has dealt with in recent seasons.

Levis was sacked 4 times (3 times on 3rd down) Saturday night, and for comparison, he was sacked on average just over 1 time a game last season.

The difference this season is the lack of experience the line has overall. Eli Cox started last season but wasn't the starting center like he is now. Saturday night also saw two redshirt freshmen, David Wohlabuagh and Jager Burton, get the start at left tackle and left guard.

On the right side, Tashawn Manning and Jeremy Flax have experience, but this is the first time they are consistent starters.

After the game, Cox spoke to the media where he acknowledged that the line didn't play up to the standard of the Big Blue Wall.

"A win is a win. We are not going to apologize for that," Cox stated. "It was a great team win. A lot of guys got to play in some new spots. But I mean obviously that is not the standard with our Big Blue Wall. We've got to earn that title back, and we have to have good preparation and have more snaps under our belts so the group can gel and start to be a cohesive unit."

The issues that we saw on Saturday night aren't an issue of lack of talent, rather it is an issue of lack of previous playing time together as a unit.

"They just haven't played together," Kentucky offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello said. "Kenneth had played with those guys, so we eased him in last week, and he didn't even really run with the 1s. He just wasn't there yet in football shape. Excited to get him back because he's so important.

"But Jager is showing promise, Tashawn is showing promise, I know Eli gave up a sack on a play where he'll learn from that. The tackles, starting a freshman at left tackle ain't easy. We'll learn from all that, and they'll come together, and I would like to think that we'll only get better from this day forward."

Cox agreed that the issue was a lack of playing time together, but also said the Saturday issues are fixable.

The Cats will have one week to get some of their week 1 issues worked out as they will face their toughest test of the young season with a week 2 road trip to face the Florida Gators.

UK Football Player Shares Comeback Success Story to Teach Lifesaving Skill

Mallory Olson

June 15, 2021

The game of football is as much a mental game as it is physical. Remain calm under pressure, stay focused, adapt, be resilient. These are lessons athletes must learn along the way to remain sharp and competitive.

Looking at the University of Kentucky's football team roster, you'll find an example of resilience in No. 68. The 6'3", 300-pound junior offensive guard fights hard every day to stay in the game, after a near career-ending diagnosis the spring before his freshman year.

April 1, 2018: Kenneth Horsey remembers like it was yesterday.

"I was at home in Florida, eating dinner with my family and suddenly, I just started having stomach pains," Horsey said.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

At first, he thought that maybe he had eaten too fast. But it quickly became evident that this was something much worse.

“Next thing you know, I am in the bathroom throwing up, I am in and out of consciousness, and my dad is spraying me down with water,” Horsey said. “The pain continued to grow, and I spiked a fever.”

Horsey’s parents called 911. After a myriad of tests and scans, doctors diagnosed him with endocarditis, a dangerous infection on a heart valve, caused by bacteria. The bacteria produce what is known as a vegetation. Pieces of vegetation can break off and travel elsewhere in the body, potentially causing major issues. In Horsey’s case, a piece of this vegetation had broken off and traveled down to his kidney, causing it to malfunction and creating the sharp, shooting pains that Horsey was feeling.

Two days later, Horsey’s parents, Shari and Ken, made the decision to move forward with open-heart surgery on the mitral valve. At stake was the possibility that the mitral valve would have to be replaced, probably ending Horsey’s football career. However, at surgery, the physicians were able to remove the growth, causing no damage to the mitral valve. They then repaired the sternum with titanium plates.

To this day, Horsey said doctors have not been able to figure out what the growth was, where it came from and why.

“I was just trying to wrap up my senior year, you know?” he said. “I already signed with UK to play football, I had prom in a few weeks, and I was set to graduate the next month. I had to just rely on my faith in God to keep me going, to keep me strong.”

Horsey remained in the hospital for two weeks after his surgery and knew he would need to dedicate himself to cardiac rehabilitation if he ever wanted to play football again. The process was slow and, at times, frustrating.

“I could not lift anything over five pounds for weeks,” he said. “I incrementally worked my way back up, but only to about 25 pounds after eight weeks.”

Before he knew it, the time came for Horsey to head to Lexington to pursue his dream of playing college football.

Reintegrating a college athlete into full strength and conditioning training after injury or illness is a process. For Horsey, it was a long one.

“You can’t just expect him to jump right back into what everyone else is doing,” said Gabe Amponsah, the UK Athletics director of Sports Medicine and head athletic trainer for UK Football. “On top of his cardiovascular condition, you have to remember that he came in as a freshman and he is learning a whole different type of training. The transition from high school to collegiate football training is intense.”

Horsey had to start slow, using the stationary bike to determine his cardiovascular base point. Then, he was able to progress to an elliptical and Stairmaster training before some running after several weeks.

Ensuring an athlete’s safe return to the field after injury or illness is a team effort — not just by UK Football staff and coaches, but by a group of professionals across the UK community.

“Kenneth’s comeback would not have been possible without physicians from UK HealthCare,” Amponsah said. “Not only are they following up with his care, but they have a good understanding of the demands that are being placed on Kenneth as an athlete. They do their best to provide him an avenue to return to doing what he loves — that’s huge.”

Upon Horsey’s arrival to UK, Dr. David Booth, a cardiologist with UK HealthCare’s Gill Heart & Vascular Institute, performed a scan of Horsey’s heart to determine the necessary steps for his follow-up care.

“Kenneth’s mitral valve shows no evidence whatsoever that he went through this,” Booth said. “His sternum has healed completely. We keep up with his echocardiogram to make sure that his valve continues to function normally.”

Horsey has learned when to push through the pain and when to stop. Listening to his body is key, as his offensive line position requires great strain on his chest. Having a plate and screws on his breastbone can be challenging when your main job is to press and push people away, activating your chest muscles.

“He deserves a lot of kudos for his hard work,” Amponsah said. “He had a long road that was not always easy, and he continues to impress us with his perseverance and determination to fight through adversity.”

Horsey was named a Mayo Clinic Comeback Player of the Year in 2020. He says while the physical comeback was challenging, being in the right headspace and staying focused mentally helped his success.

“I know God does not put anything in my life that I can’t handle,” Horsey said. “Throughout this whole deal — from surgery to recovery — I had to remember that God had something bigger in store for my life than my current situation.”

After his health scare, Horsey now uses his platform through UK Athletics to educate others about the importance of heart health. Horsey is teaming up with UK HealthCare, the UK Gill Heart & Vascular Institute, UK Athletics and the American Heart Association to help Kentuckians learn hands-only CPR.

Heart disease is the leading cause of death in Kentucky, and the Commonwealth has one of the highest rates of heart disease in the country. For many people, heart disease leads to emergent, life-threatening situations, like cardiac arrest. According to the American Heart Association, more than 350,000 out-of-hospital cardiac arrests happen in the United States each year, with about 70% happening in homes. When someone has cardiac arrest, the chance of survival goes down by 10% for every minute without CPR, so every second counts. The chances of survival double or even triple if they receive CPR.

Hands-only CPR is easy to learn. Horsey and his teammates recently welcomed a visit from Jacob Stone, director of cardiac rehab at UK HealthCare Gill Heart & Vascular Institute, who taught them how to perform the lifesaving skill.

“It is very simple. We literally learned this in less than five minutes, and not only is it quick and easy, but it can save somebody’s life,” Horsey said. “We are in a time right now where people need to be able to rely on one another. Having that CPR training in your back pocket is an important skill that I am thankful to know.”

It is important to note that performing hands-only CPR on someone who is in cardiac arrest does not increase your risk of transmission of coronavirus. While hands-only CPR is an appropriate technique for adults, breaths are still important for infants and children.

Hands-only CPR involves two simple steps, and anyone can learn it from a 90-second video.

Step 1: If a teen or adult in your home collapses, call 911 immediately.

Step 2: Place one hand on top of the other and push hard and fast on the center of the victim’s chest.

You can join Horsey and the UK HealthCare,

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

UK Athletics and American Heart Association team in their quest to train a community of heart-savers. Challenge your friends to join you in learning hands-only CPR through the social media challenge #AHACPRChallenge.

"I have never personally been in a situation where somebody around me has needed CPR, but it is so important that I know how to help, just in case," Horsey said. "Ninety seconds of my time to save a life? Worth it — absolutely."

Kentucky beats Florida: 4 things to know and postgame banter

Nick Wheatley
BVM Sports
Sept 10, 2022

The Kentucky Wildcats beat the Florida Gators in the Swamp on Saturday night by a score of 26-16.

Kentucky appeared to display their weaknesses early on as the offense struggled, but they didn't falter. The defense stood tall and the offensive line grew as the game went on.

Despite multiple scares, the Cats were able to go into the Swamp and grind it out. What a win.

Next up, the Cats will return to Lexington to take on the Youngstown State Penguins on Saturday.

Jordan Wright is back:

What an impact Jordan Wright made in his first game back. After sitting out with a suspension for the same reasons as Chris Rodriguez, Wright made his presence felt.

Wright was presumably important in this game because of his size and athleticism against Anthony Richardson. Well, he played the part perfectly. Not only did Wright have a sack and multiple tackles for loss, but he also intercepted a pass on an incredible play that set up UK to score before the half.

Wright has struggled with injuries throughout his career, so he's always been more potential than production, but he's shown flashes, and he was enormously bright in this one.

Run game still struggling:

Well, it wasn't just a Miami (Ohio) problem. Kentucky's got a serious problem. The problem is no Chris Rodriguez and a weak offensive line.

The hope was that there were some communication issues to begin the year, but it would work itself out. That's not the case. The running back room is low on players and the offensive line is...bad.

Thankfully, Kentucky's line played better in the second half, allowing Kavosiey Smoke and La'Vell Wright to do just enough for Kentucky to win.

Maybe it'll get better once Rodriguez gets back, but what's been a strength for the last five years appears to be a major weakness this season. The Big Blue Wall needs some experience and time to develop before it returns to form.

Dane Key is here:

Has Kentucky ever seen true freshman shine the way they did in a season opener against Miami (Ohio)? Multiple freshmen contributed and stood out, but the real challenge came this week. Who would step up, if anyone?

Dane Key stood up. When the Cats needed someone to step up in the Swamp, of all places, the true freshman showed what he could do on a 55-yard, contested touchdown reception that completely changed the game.

Key showed poise in game one, but he showed his potential NFL ability in game two. What a performance in a time of need.

Contain, contain, contain:

The name of the game against Florida quarterback Anthony Richardson is contain. The return of Jordan Wright was no doubt influential in doing so, but UK didn't let Richardson do anything on the ground.

Richardson and Levis came into this game on even ground in the NFL Draft projections, but Richardson showed he's severely limited. He's an explosive-play type guy and against a Kentucky defense that limits such plays, it wasn't the game for him.

UK ensured that Richardson wouldn't beat them deep or with his legs, so what it came down to was intermediate throws and fundamental plays. The Florida QB flopped.

Three takeaways from Kentucky football's win over the Florida Gators in Gainesville

John Clay
Lexington Herald-Leader
Sept. 11, 2022

Three takeaways from Kentucky football's 26-16 victory over the Florida Gators at Ben Hill Griffin Stadium on Saturday night:

1. GIVE ROMAN HARPER A GAME BALL

The SEC Network analyst not only predicted that Florida would handle Mark Stoops' Wildcats easily in "The Swamp" on Saturday, the former NFL defensive star took it one step further, calling the Cats "soft."

UK recruiting coordinator Vince Marrow heard it — or heard about it — and made sure that everyone in the Joe Craft Football Training Football Facility heard it, too, from Stoops to quarterback Will Levis to everyone else on the Wildcats' roster. "We may be a lot of things," said Stoops on Saturday, "but soft is not one of them."

This game certainly proved that. It's running game struggling in the first half, its offensive line unable to keep a clean pocket for Levis, its special teams uncharacteristically shaky, UK found ways to win. Outside linebacker Jordan Wright, back from a one-game suspension, made a key first half interception. Keidron Smith, the cornerback transfer from Ole Miss, took a second-half interception to the house.

Best of all, the Cats contained Florida's star quarterback Anthony Richardson to a mere four yards on six carries. Forced to try and beat UK with his arm, Richardson was scattershot all night, completing just 14 of 35 passes for 143 yards with two interceptions.

"Hats off to the guys," Brad White said afterward. "They executed so well. There's no magic plan calls. It's just about guts and determination, and they had that." On second thought, give White the game ball.

2. A CHANGE IN KENTUCKY'S RUN GAME HELPED CHANGE THE GAME

Over the first six quarters of the 2022 college football season, Kentucky went from having one of the best running games in the country to having no running game. UK managed but 50 net yards on the ground in last week's win over Miami (Ohio). Through the first 30 minutes Saturday, the Cats had managed a net two yards on 15 attempts.

Then something changed in the second half. With some tweaks here and there from new offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello, along with some better execution, the Cats finally began to eat some yardage on the ground over the final 30 minutes.

The final stats of 70 net yards on 38 carries didn't tell the story. When the visitors had to run the football, they were able to run the football.

After a three-and-out on UK's first series of the third quarter, Kavosiey Smoke ripped off a 13-yard run to start the second possession. Two plays later, Chauncey Magwood caught a tipped ball from Levis for a 25-yard gain. Four plays later, Smoke ground out another 13-yard gain that helped set up Matt Ruffolo's 24-yard field goal to tie the game at 16 with 6:35 left in the third quarter.

Then in the fourth quarter, Smoke had an 18-yard run, plus a critical 11-yard run that gave UK a first-and-goal at the Florida 5-yard line with 1:38 left. That forced the Gators to use all three of their timeouts before Ruffolo's chip-shot 26-yard field goal with 1:24 left sealed it.

"We made a few adjustments," Scangarello said afterward. "And more importantly, I felt like the drives that didn't finish the way they could have, but I felt like early on (Florida) was going to try to consume us in the run with their front and they did. So you have to run some play-action, and I think that softens them up. And over time ... they eventually have to be a little more disciplined and when they do, you can be more balanced as a play-caller."

3. KENTUCKY IS CURRENTLY THE BETTER FOOTBALL PROGRAM

Saturday's win marked the first time since 1976-77 that the Wildcats have beaten the Gators in back-to-back years. More than that, UK is now 3-2 over Florida over the past five years. Had a couple of bounces gone UK's way in that 28-27 loss to the Gators in Lexington in 2017 and that 29-21 loss to Florida at Kroger Field in 2019 and Stoops' team would be 5-1 over its SEC East rival in the past six years.

What does this do for the rest of the season? It's early, of course, but Kentucky is now 1-0 in the SEC with a conference road win, to boot. Tennessee is off to a 2-0 start. That game in Knoxville will be a tough one. And there are no easy SEC games — not South Carolina at home or Ole Miss and Missouri on the road.

Still, Saturday's win was the first step, an important step, toward making that Nov. 19 matchup with Georgia in Lexington mean something.

It was also a confidence boost for a team, that did not play particularly well on offense, but still made the big plays — the 55-yard TD pass from Levis to Dane Key; the Wright interception; the Keidron Smith pick-six — you need in these types of games to win these types of games.

Remember, once upon a time, Kentucky lost 31 straight games to Florida. Times have changed.

Give Brad White's defense the game ball for Kentucky football's huge win at Florida

John Clay
Lexington Herald-Leader
Sept. 11, 2022

Of all the Kentucky football comings and goings during a busy offseason, perhaps the most important development was on full display Saturday night in "The Swamp."

"Brad White," said Kentucky offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello after the 20th-ranked Wildcats' 26-16 win over the 12th-ranked Florida Gators, "is one of the best coaches I've been around at any level."

Over the summer, new LSU coach Brian Kelly wanted White, courting the Kentucky DC to make the move to Baton Rouge. Alas, UK head coach Mark Stoops and athletics director Mitch Barnhart stepped to the plate and convinced the 40-year-old White to remain in Lexington, though White would be the first to tell you he didn't need all that much convincing.

Saturday night showed why the man was in such demand as White's defense put the cuffs on Florida's highly touted quarterback, Anthony Richardson, limiting the athletic freak to a net four yards rushing on six attempts. This, it should be noted, was just seven days after Richardson had become the talk of the college football world by ripping then seventh-ranked Utah for 106 yards on 11 attempts in a 29-26 Florida victory.

Different night, different opponent, different story. With New York Giants general manager Joe Schoen in attendance, Kentucky forced Richardson to win with his arm. The quarterback responded by reverting to his scattershot self, completing just 14 of 35 passes for 143 yards with a pair of interceptions, including a pick that former Ole Miss cornerback Keidron Smith returned 65 yards for a Kentucky touch-down.

"Hats off to the guys," White said when asked about how the Cats contained Richardson. "They executed so well. There's no magic plan calls. It's just about guts and determination, and they had that."

Since the day he stepped on campus, the former Indianapolis Colts assistant has been quietly and consistently going about his business, first developing edge rusher Josh Allen into the No. 7 overall pick in the 2019 draft. When Matt House left for the Kansas City Chiefs in 2019, Stoops promoted White to defensive coordinator. (Kelly ended up hiring House to be his DC at LSU, by the way.)

Under White, Kentucky finished 20th nationally in total defense in 2019, 45th in 2020 and 25th last season. The Cats opened 2022 by allowing a touchdown on Miami of Ohio's initial drive before holding the RedHawks to a pair of field goals in a 37-13 UK win. Florida, however, presented a much tougher challenge.

And White's crew was more than up to the challenge. As the Kentucky offense struggled early to find its footing, the UK defense kept the visitors in the game until outside linebacker Jordan Wright made the interception "that changed the game," White said.

Wright's theft set up a 6-yard touchdown drive that cut Florida's lead to 16-13 with 1:25 left before halftime, and gave Kentucky momentum going into intermission.

Florida failed to score in the second half. After gaining 188 total yards the first half, the Gators were held to 91 the second. They were 0-for-4 on third downs in the fourth quarter and failed to convert a pair of fourth downs deep in UF territory — fourth-and-3 from its town 40; and fourth-and-6 from its own 24 — when head coach Billy Napier rolled the dice in a one-score game.

On a key third-and-5 with approximately five minutes left, UK true freshman defensive lineman Deone Walker broke through to drop Florida running back Nay'Quan Wright for a

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

1-yard loss at his own 24. An incomplete pass on fourth down gave the ball back to Kentucky and set up Matt Ruffolo's clinching 24-yard field goal.

"I didn't even see what happened or how he created it," Stoops said of Walker's tackle. "But I saw him in the backfield. He put that big bear hug on him."

Consider this: Florida scored one touchdown all night, and that was on a 34-yard drive set up by a Gators interception.

"Every time (our guys) came to the sideline there was a steely determination and they were ready to go back out there," White said afterward. "I'm just so proud of those guys." Hats off to Brad White.

No. 20 Kentucky shuts down Anthony Richardson, No. 12 Gators

Aaron Gershon

Sept. 11, 2022

Mark Stoops became the winningest coach in Kentucky program history in style Saturday as his No. 20 Wildcats earned a 26-16 victory over the No. 12 Florida Gators at Ben Hill Griffin Stadium.

"I'm just really proud of our football team, proud of our coaches, the preparation, the improvement that we made between week one and week two," Stoops said postgame.

"You got to be a tough son of a b, to come into this environment. And when and we all understand that. And we know this team is built that way."

Kentucky's defense shut down Florida quarterback Anthony Richardson. After being touted as a potential Heisman finalist for his Week 1 performance against Utah, the Wildcat defense held the Gator quarterback to 14-for-35 passing for 143 yards with two interceptions and no touchdowns and held him to just four yards rushing.

"There the MVPs of the game," UK quarterback Will Levis said of the Kentucky defense post-game., I think Coach White (Brad White) does such a great job preparing them and taking away the run and the pass. And just kind of making them just think on their toes all game and not really giving them much at all, a couple plays here and there. But that didn't affect them at all. And they came back with great concepts to counter what they were doing to them. But defense deserves all the credit in the world.

"They won this game for us plain and simple."

In total, Kentucky held Florida to just 279 total yards and one touchdown.

The quarterback battle was won by Levis, who threw for 202 yards and a touchdown both on the ground and through the air while posting a 130.3 passing rating in a game that saw NFL scouts fill the press box, including New York Giants general manager Joe Schoen.

"He's a monster man. He's just a tough guy," Stoops said of his quarterback. "And you know, he got took one right on the chin earlier and just got on straight up and didn't miss a beat and has the confidence to hang in there and make plays. And this is a really, again, hostile environment with a really good defense, you know, and that place is loud and gets rocking. And that guy just keeps on playing, throwing the freshmen and throwing other guys and just just making plays.

"And, you know, very, very grateful he's on our football team."

After both teams exchanged punts to open the game, the Gators found the scoreboard first as Adam Mihalek hit a 39-yard field goal to give Florida a 3-0 lead just 4:57 minutes into the game for the lone score of the first quarter.

The game would remain 3-0 until the 11:36 mark in the second quarter, when Kentucky quarterback Levis broke UK out of its slump with a 55-yard touchdown strike to freshman Key to give UK a 7-3 lead.

"It meant something special," Key said of the touchdown grab. "You know, I knew that we just needed to make a play and I just felt like I should take it in my hands to go make that play."

Florida would get three points back on its ensuing drive as Montrell Johnson's 40-yard run set up a 50-yard Mihalek field goal.

With 8:31 left in the half, Florida forced the game's turnover as Brenton Cox hit Levis as he threw and defensive lineman Gervon Dexter was able to make the catch for a Gators interception at the UK 34-yard-line.

Set up in Kentucky territory, Florida finally found the end zone as Trevor Etienne ran in an 11-yard touchdown. The Gators would add a two-point conversion and take a 14-7 lead with 5:49 left until halftime.

After going three and out on its ensuing possession, Kentucky's special teams unit made a critical mistake as long snapper Cade Degraw's snap on a punt attempt sailed over the head of punter Colin Goodfellow who was forced to kick the ball through the back of the UK end zone giving the Gators two points on a safety.

Down 16-7, Kentucky's defense came through as Jordan Wright picked off Richardson and returned it to the Gators' six-yard-line.

"Jordan Wright has made more big plays that maybe he hasn't gotten credit for since he's been here. That's all he does," UK defensive coordinator Brad White said. "And he did it to-night. I mean, that to me that was the play that really changed the game, the interception that set up a short field for the offense so they could score and get their rhythm going. I think there was, you know, Richardson got a little bit rattled after that one."

In his return after a one-game absence, Wright logged six total tackles, two tackles for a loss, a sack, forced a fumble and grabbed the interception to swing momentum.

"Jordan is he's the same person 24/7," UK cornerback Keidron Smith said. "Like he's not going to change like, That is him and you see he's an impact player on that impact play on our defense.

"So I mean, it was his first game back and he did well for us."

UK's offense would take advantage of the turnover as Levis snuck in a one-yard touchdown run, but another botched Degraw snap resulted in the score staying 16-13, which would be the score heading into halftime.

After both teams punted on their opening possessions of the first half, Kentucky's offense moved to the Gators' 36-yard-line after Levis connected with Chauncey Magwood, who hauled in a deflected pass for a 25-yard gain.

Kentucky would drive down to the Gators' six-yard line but was stopped on third down and settled for a Matt Ruffolo 24-yard field goal that tied the game at 16 with 6:35 left in the third quarter.

Momentum would continue to shift in the Wildcats' favor on Florida's ensuing drive as

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

Richardson threw an interception to Smith that was returned 65-yards for a touchdown by the UK cornerback to Kentucky a 23-16 lead.

"I read there throughout the week in film study when the back motioned out he was lining up at number one," Smith said. "I knew we're getting a little smash concept with No.2 (Montrell Johnson) running an inside fade and him running a sit-down route at five yards and I was just ready for it. I was waiting on it the whole game.

After turning the Gators over on downs with 8:36 left, Kentucky drove down to the Gators' 20-yard line but failed to score as Ruffolo missed a 38-yard field goal with 6:13 left in the game.

Kentucky's defense would again come through as with 4:02 left in the game, the Gators went for it on fourth down from its own 24-yard-line and Richardson threw incomplete, turning the balls over on downs.

UK would move the ball to the Gators' eight yard-line, where with 1:24 left to play, Ruffolo hit a 26-yard field goal to push Kentucky's lead to 26-16, icing a road victory.

The win at Florida gives Kentucky two straight win over the Gators for the first time since earning wins in 1976 and 1977. UK moves to 2-0 overall on the year and 1-0 in conference play.

"Just looking back to where the program was when Coach Stoops first got here, it's a little thing we talked about after the game, compared to now I mean," Levis said. "Beating them two years in a row is crazy. And that's kind of what's expected now for us. And to do it here in The Swamp, at home last year and away this year. Even the last couple times, I know how much it means to our fans, especially after just not being able to beat them for so long."

Kentucky will be back in action next Saturday as it returns home to Kroger Field for a match-up with FCS foe Youngstown State at noon.

Why Jordan Wright's emphatic return has Kentucky football defense drawing 2018 comparisons

Brett Dawson
Louisville Courier-Journal
Sept. 11, 2022

Jordan Wright hoped maybe he'd deflect the ball.

The Kentucky linebacker didn't want Florida to make a momentum-changing play late in the first half of Saturday's game at The Swamp. He'd seen it happen here before.

And so when Wright saw Gators quarterback Anthony Richardson go to make a sidearm throw to a tight end on the right side, the UK senior stuck out a hand and hoped to make something happen.

"When I put my hand out, I was just thinking, like, disrupt this throw or something," Wright said. "And then when it hit my glove, I thought it was gonna fall out, but I squeezed. I said, 'Oooh, I got it! Let me just run.'"

Wright didn't run quite far enough, intercepting Richardson at the Florida 24-yard line and returning it to the the Gators' 6. Still, the Wildcats scored three plays later, making the pick pivotal in No. 20 Kentucky's 26-16 upset of No. 12 Florida.

But even if Wright hadn't made the game-changing play — "top three" in his career, he'd later say — he would have been impactful Saturday.

Kentucky coach Mark Stoops — whose win Saturday was his 61st at UK, surpassing Paul "Bear" Bryant for the school record — had called his team's effort in a season-opening win against Miami (Ohio) "a touch flat" and "a little bit mundane," and Wright, who'd missed the game, is an instant fix for those issues.

Wright was absent from the opener for reasons Stoops has said he's been told he "can't comment on." Sports Illustrated reported Friday the NCAA is conducting a "multiplayer eligibility inquiry" at UK that includes running back Chris Rodriguez, who has not played in the Cats' first two games.

It's unclear if that involves Wright, who said he learned Thursday he would be able to play.

"I knew the storm was gonna pass, so I wasn't too much worried about it," Wright said.

But he was determined to bring energy in his return.

And the spark that had been missing against Miami was evident against the Gators. In addition to the interception, Wright had six tackles with a sack among his two tackles for loss.

His presence "brings joy, but it brings — I don't even know the word for it," cornerback Keidron Smith said. "It's just Jordan."

On Saturday, Wright keyed a defense UK quarterback Will Levis called "the MVPs of the game." It probably won't be the last time that side of the ball anchors a Kentucky win.

Wright is one of three linebackers in the Kentucky rotation — along with Jacquez Jones and DeAndre Square — using the sixth season of eligibility granted by the NCAA to athletes who played through the COVID-19 pandemic. Between the three of them, they've logged 135 games.

The Cats' leading tackler Saturday was J.J. Weaver, a junior linebacker who's played 24 career games.

"They're very steady, and they see a lot of things," Stoops said of his linebacking corps. "So if (a team fools) them once or twice, they can get it corrected. They understand. They understand situational football, and our young guys look to them because they know they have a lot of snaps under their belt."

And though Kentucky doesn't have as much experience elsewhere, its starting defensive line has "plenty of snaps," defensive coordinator Brad White said. The Cats start one corner in Smith who played 45 games at Ole Miss before an offseason transfer to UK and another, Carington Valentine, who's played 21 games.

"We're more experienced than I think maybe people give us credit for," White said.

It showed Saturday in the way Kentucky contained Richardson.

He'd thrown for 168 yards on 17-of-24 passing in Florida's season-opening upset of then-No. 7 Utah and been even more efficient with his feet, carrying 11 times for 106 yards.

But Weaver proclaimed during the week Richardson wouldn't be able to run on Kentucky, and he was proven prophetic.

"We stand on what we say," Wright said. "So in our defensive room, you say something, you got to stand on that."

The Cats locked up Richardson not just with a strong performance up front, White said, but by staying connected in the defensive backfield to Florida's receivers, not letting them get loose to create opportunities for Richardson to find them in space — or use the threat of them to take off running.

Richardson carried six times for 4 yards Saturday. He completed 14 of 35 passes for 143 yards without a touchdown. Smith picked off one of those passes and ran it back 65 yards for a touchdown, dodging would-be tackler Richardson en route to the end zone.

It was a read Smith said he made in part because he'd spotted offensive tells in the Florida game tape — another benefit of such an experienced defense.

"I mean, it comes to the point where we don't even need a coach," Smith said. "We've seen so much ball that we're in there ourselves watching film. It makes it easier on the coaches. They just make an adjustment ... and we're able to go out there on the field and get it done right away."

That veteran savvy could prove critical as Kentucky's season continues.

Coaches have drawn some comparisons between this defense and the vaunted 2018 UK unit that sparked a 10-win season and featured the No. 7 pick in the NFL Draft, linebacker Josh Allen.

With Wright helping spark a defense that took a significant step forward even from a solid showing against Miami, that 2018 comparison on Saturday seemed fair.

"No disrespect or nothing, but I feel like we're gonna be way better than them," Wright said. "We've got a lot of vets, and then everybody's just communicating. And then we're more player-led this year."

Dane Key's big-play ability adds new layer to Kentucky offense

Zack Geoghegan
Kentucky Sports Radio
Sept. 11, 2022

Kentucky football hasn't had a player of Dane Key's caliber in a long time. Speedy, 6-foot-3 wide receivers with baseball gloves for hands don't just grow on trees — and they certainly don't choose the Wildcats.

But the Kentucky staff has worked for years to land a prospect like Key. It surely helped that he grew up in Lexington, attended Frederick Douglass, and his dad played for the 'Cats, but Key could have gone almost anywhere in the country to play football. He was a consensus four-star recruit out of high school.

Instead, he decided to stay home, and he's wasted no time showcasing just how important it is to have a wide receiver who can change an entire game with one single route.

Early the second quarter of Kentucky's 26-16 win over Florida on Saturday night, the offense was stalling. The 'Cats trailed 3-0 with little coming from the pass or rush game. When nothing was going right, offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello turned to his budding superstar with one message: go make a play.

"I just felt like it was the time to go make a play," Key said postgame. "We needed a play to get the momentum going and I just took it in my hands to go out there and win our one-on-ones like coach talked about all week."

Key won the most important one-on-one of the entire night. The true freshman caught a 55-yard bomb from QB Will Levis, who placed the ball where only Key could reach high enough to snag. After a quick review, it was ruled Kentucky's first score of the game and the first major momentum shifter in the contest.

"That's a ball we haven't completed in a long time, even in practice, so pretty cool for that to happen," Levis said postgame.

"It's plays like that that we need to make. Because we were struggling," Head coach Mark Stoops said of Key's catch. "That's a good (Florida) defense in this environment, I mean this place was rocking. (Florida is) just coming off a huge win. Heck, we must jump into the top 10 I guess now right?"

Stoops was joking at the time, but Kentucky did wind up cracking the top 10 in both the AP and Coaches Polls, in large part due to Key's game-altering catch. In his decade as head coach at UK, Stoops hasn't had many — if any — players who could have made the catch Key made Saturday night in The Swamp.

Through two games this season, Key has registered seven catches for 136 yards and two touchdowns. He finished with three receptions, 83 yards, and the highlight touchdown catch against Florida.

"Dane Key is going to be a great player here," Kentucky associate head coach Vince Marrow said on Sunday Morning Sports Talk. "He has great parents. He has great people surrounding him. And the moment was not too big for him. I joked with him yesterday right before kickoff and said all right, don't you be scared and you ain't shaking in your pants. He looked and me like 'coach, you're about to see me make some plays.'"

"And I'm telling you, that catch he made, is one of the big all-time catches I've seen here. And then he made some other good catches but he's blocking well. I mean the kid is a great kid, he's a 3.8 GPA, he's really just a good, all-around young man, and we really got a gem in him."

Key is a superstar in the making just two games into his college career. He knew his team needed a big play in the first half against Florida. Who knows how the game plays out if he doesn't make that catch. But he did, and his legend grows because of it.

"Just make a play, that's all that goes through my mind," Key said. "Make a play."

Mark Stoops passes Bear Bryant on Kentucky Football's all-time wins list

Jack Pilgran
Kentucky Sports Radio
Sept. 10, 2022

Step aside, Bear Bryant. Mark Stoops is now the winningest coach in Kentucky football history.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

With the Wildcats' win at Florida, Stoops has now racked up 61 career wins, pushing him to No. 1 on the school's all-time list. Paul "Bear" Bryant was the school's previous wins leader for almost seven decades with 60 total victories.

Now, the record is Stoops' and Stoops' alone.

"Fortunate. A lot of great players, coaches have been here," the Kentucky head coach said after the win. "To be able to persevere playing in this conference, I'm fortunate."

Stoops now sits at 61-53 overall during his ten years in Lexington.

The Kentucky head coach deservingly received the game ball after the win, presented by Vince Marrow in the locker room.

"Coach Stoops came here in 2013 when this program was on the rocks," Marrow said. "He stayed here, and now he's the all-time winningest coach at UK."

"It's on all the coaches, all the players, it really is," Stoops responded. "I'd say it to you, I'd say it to me: none of us can do this without each other. That's the honest-to-God truth. I love you. We've got something special to prove and do this year."

Build the statue.

Looking back at Mark Stoops' milestone wins en route to a Kentucky football record

Brett Dawson
Louisville Courier-Journal
Sept. 12, 2022

A part of Mark Stoops wanted this to work out differently.

It would have been fun for the Kentucky football coach to break Paul "Bear" Bryant's school record for wins at home in Kroger Field with a win Saturday against visiting Youngstown State, Stoops' hometown school.

But Florida came first. And Stoops didn't seem to mind his 20th-ranked Wildcats knocking off

No. 12 Florida at The Swamp on Saturday, giving him 61 career wins at Kentucky, one more than Bryant, the legendary Alabama coach who spent eight seasons in Lexington.

"I'm glad it's here," Stoops said. "I'd like to be at home with my fans and family and friends and all that, but that's OK. There's time for that, and we need this win."

It was a momentous one for Stoops in more ways than one.

He's consistently downplayed the significance of passing Bryant's Kentucky win total. The Bear won 71% of his games at UK — Stoops is at 53.5% — and racked up 232 wins at Alabama. Stoops has never been comfortable with the comparison.

But even setting Bryant aside, it's a meaningful achievement in UK history and a testament to Stoops' accomplishment and longevity in Lexington.

Beyond that, it was a third win against Florida in five tries, a stunning success given Stoops' first win against the Gators, in 2018, snapped a 31-game UK losing streak in the series.

Florida turns up a lot in a list of Stoops' most meaningful wins at Kentucky. Here's a look at some of the milestone victories for the Wildcats' wins leader:

Sept. 7, 2013: Kentucky 41, Miami (Ohio) 7:

Stoops took over a program in decline, and though he immediately made recruiting waves, his first career coaching victory was one of only two he managed in that first season.

Maxwell Smith and Jalen Whitlow split the snaps at quarterback. Junior Bud Dupree — making the move from linebacker to rush end — led the defense with seven tackles.

This year's season-opening win also came against Miami, giving Stoops 60 career wins at UK to tie Bryant. He hadn't realized the parallel entering game week, he said.

"It does seem like a long time ago," Stoops said. "But, grateful. You know, year 10. That was a long time ago. A much different team."

Sept. 27, 2014; Kentucky 17, Vanderbilt 7:

It took until Stoops' second season to get his first SEC win, and it wasn't always easy to watch. The Cats controlled the game statistically but couldn't put it away until the closing quarter.

"That was a thing of beauty," Stoops said afterward.

He was joking, but it probably felt pretty sweet from his seat. The win snapped a 17-game conference losing streak for UK and improved Stoops to 1-9 against the league.

Sept. 26, 2015: Kentucky 21, Missouri 13:

Stoops' 10th career win also was his first against a ranked opponent. The Tigers entered the game ranked 25th.

Like the Vanderbilt win a season before, the game snapped a streak — UK had lost 18 straight against ranked opponents — and established a sort of trend of the Stoops tenure. The Wildcats had their sights set on reversing historic trends, proving they weren't the same old Kentucky.

"It's just gratifying to win a game like that against such a quality opponent," Stoops said. "There's good and bad that happens, but you have to be able to overcome it and make the plays to win the game. We're really starting to grow."

Nov. 26, 2016: Kentucky 41, Louisville 38:

This was more than an ordinary rivalry win. The 11th-ranked Cardinals had won five straight in the series and boasted QB Lamar Jackson, who was less than a month away from being awarded the Heisman Trophy.

But UK quarterback Stephen Johnson spoiled what was supposed to be Louisville's 10th win of the season. The Cardinals had been favored by 28 points. Austin MacGinnis put UK ahead for good via a 47-yard field goal with 12 seconds to play.

"I had great confidence in him," Stoops said. "I was numb. I just wanted to finish it."

He meant the game, but he could have been talking about the U of L streak. The upset shifted the series in Stoops' favor. Though Louisville would bounce back to win in 2017, Kentucky has won three straight in the rivalry by a combined 109 points.

Oct. 28, 2017: Kentucky 29, Tennessee 26:

Over the years, the Volunteers have haunted many a UK football coach. Tennessee won 26 straight in the series from 1985-2010 and had beaten the Cats five times in a row entering the 2017 game.

More: 3 takeaways: Kentucky football defense silences Anthony Richardson, No. 12 Florida

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

Stoops is 2-7 against the Volunteers. But the first win established a piece of UK's identity in his best years. UK turned to its power running game, riding Benny Snell's 180 yards and three touchdowns on the ground to the victory.

"I think it was real important to get that identity," Stoops said. "You hear me talk about it, and I think our players really had a strong mindset that we were going to be efficient at running and throwing."

Sept. 8, 2018: Kentucky 27, Florida 16:

Joker Phillips snapped that Tennessee streak to keep it from looming over Stoops, but nobody had done him the favor versus Florida, and for Stoops' first five seasons, the mounting losses to the Gators were a talking point every fall.

Stoops' teams had come close before, losing 36-30 in overtime in 2014, 14-9 in Lexington a year later, and 28-27 in 2017, surrendering two touchdowns in the final 8 minutes to blow a 27-14 lead.

A year later, Kentucky sprang an upset at The Swamp. The Florida media relations staff had included a page in its notes package putting perspective on the Gators' 31 straight wins against the Wildcats, referencing the cost of Apple stock shares (63 cents) and the nation's No. 1 movie at the box office, "Top Gun" — the first one — the week UK last won a game in the series.

"We know how we can play with just about anybody in this league and that is gratifying because we don't have to deal with that no more," Stoops said. "So, they can get all that updated. The game notes and all that updated real quick."

Jan. 1, 2019: Kentucky 27, Penn State 24:

Even as he built the Wildcats back to prominence, postseason success had eluded Stoops. But after missing out in his first three seasons and losing in the TaxSlayer and Music City bowls, respectively, to end the 2016 and 2017 seasons, he finally got his bowl-game breakout in the Citrus Bowl.

It capped his finest season as the Kentucky coach, a 10-3 campaign that marked UK's first double-digit-winning year since Fran Curci's Cats went 10-1 in 1977.

The 16th-ranked Wildcats went toe-to-toe with No. 13 Penn State, never trailing and holding off a Nittany Lions rally late.

"We had a great belief in our locker room," Stoops said. "We didn't have to do anything special, just be us. I was so proud of this team."

Dec. 5, 2020: Kentucky 41, South Carolina 18:

The Cats capped a strange regular season — a 10-game, all-SEC slate, the result of COVID-19-impacted scheduling — with a fifth win.

It had been an understandable step back for the program, but the oddity of the season kept some momentum alive. UK went to a bowl despite a 4-6 regular season and beat No. 24 N.C. State in the Gator Bowl.

But the South Carolina game had set up what was to come for Stoops. Before he could ultimately pass Bryant, he had to pass Curci, the second-leading winner in UK coaching history.

He did it with the win against the Gamecocks, Stoops' 47th at UK.

Oct. 2, 2021: Kentucky 20, Florida 13:

Stoops' second win against the Gators was his first against a top-10 opponent. The Gators entered the game in Lexington ranked 10th, the Wildcats unranked — though they'd vault to No. 16 after the win.

It was UK's first win over Florida in Lexington since 1986.

"It was beautiful in so many ways," Stoops said. "Just shows the character of this football team and the resiliency they have, the toughness. Things like that aren't easy. It hasn't happened in a while because it's not easy."

Sept. 10, 2022: Kentucky 26, Florida 16:

In the days leading up to his record-setting win, Stoops had downplayed the significance of a comment by SEC Network analyst Roman Harper, who said the Cats had looked "a little softer" in their season-opening win over Miami.

But UK players made it clear they'd been made aware of the slight, and cornerback Keidron Smith said Stoops "did not like that at all."

"One thing we're not is soft," Stoops said after the game. "I think you could all understand that. We may be a lot of things, but we're not that."

Stoops became Kentucky's winningest coach in part by building his program on toughness, a rugged running game, and physical defense. And he's been known to bristle at public comments.

"We wanted to get Coach Stoops his all-time victory win; that was a big motivating factor for us," said quarterback Will Levis. "The only thing I took from the media this week was people calling us soft, which none of us can really take and believe in. That's one thing I definitely did hear about and use as motivation."

Mark Stoops brought toughness to Kentucky football. Youngstown taught him how

Brett Dawson
Louisville Courier-Journal
Sept 15, 2022

There was a little leftover talent, but it hadn't been enough to keep the team from going 2-10 the year before. The facilities didn't compare to the competition — and they were falling further behind.

And the block was bustling with bullies, SEC powerhouses where football, frankly, just meant more.

Those were the circumstances of Mark Stoops' arrival to coach the Kentucky football program a decade ago. The Wildcats had fallen behind, and Stoops had a fight ahead.

But he could handle a fight.

Youngstown taught him that.

That was win No. 61, pushing Stoops past Paul "Bear" Bryant to become the school's all-time win king.

It's fitting that the first game of his reign will come against Youngstown State, a program from the Ohio football hotbed where the Stoops family learned the game — and how not to back down from a fight.

"Growing up in Youngstown has much to do with the identity of myself and anybody that comes from there," Stoops said this week. "It's a very unique place, great pride coming from that area, and a toughness. It's the Rust Belt, blue-collar, steel-mill town."

And the DNA of that place is all over Stoops' UK rebuild. His approach, assistant coach Vince Marrow said, is "totally" a product of their shared hometown.

"We don't back down from nobody," Marrow said. That Youngstown-tough attitude has served

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

Stoops well as he's built the Kentucky football program, from a two-game winner his first season to 10-win seasons in 2018 and 2021. Since starting 12-26, he's gone 49-27.

Stoops' current team is ranked No. 9 in The Associated Press Top 25, the first time since 2007 that UK has cracked the top 10.

It's a testament to Mark Stoops' leadership, brother Bob Stoops said, that he could overcome those lean early years, that he could make do with the facilities he had and recruit players who fit his system.

The odds were against him. Kentucky hadn't managed a 10-win season or finished above .500 in the SEC since 1977. It was a chore.

But Mark Stoops grew up in a hometown, and in a home, where hard work was a way of life. His father, the late Ron Stoops Sr., was the long-time defensive coordinator at Cardinal Mooney High School. Mark was the youngest of six siblings — four boys, two girls — who Ron and Dee Stoops raised to appreciate what they had, even if it wasn't much.

"I had no idea what I had and didn't have," Mark Stoops said.

But he knew how to work and how to compete. The town taught him that.

"The importance of football in the area was bred into us," Bob Stoops told The Courier Journal. "It's just part of us. The area breeds that competitiveness, that toughness that I think helps you as a coach."

Bob won 79.9% of his games and a national championship in 19 seasons at Oklahoma. Mike, now coaching inside linebackers at Kentucky, is a former defensive coordinator at OU and a onetime head coach at Arizona. Ron Jr., like his father, was defensive coordinator at Cardinal Mooney before going on to coach special teams at Youngstown State. He retired in 2019 after 40 years of coaching.

With the Penguins in town this weekend, "hundreds" from Youngstown will make the trip to Lexington, Mark Stoops said. They're not all his guests. Marrow and player development director Courtney Love — a former UK linebacker who played at Cardinal Mooney — will have visitors too.

"It's going to be really big for Youngstown State and for my community and so many people I know," Stoops said.

Many are coming solely to salute him. And he'll probably hate the attention.

'He just keeps his head down and goes'

Kentucky Wildcats head coach Mark Stoops is doused with Gatorade after defeating the against the Penn State Nittany Lions in the 2019 Citrus Bowl at Camping World Stadium on Tuesday, Jan. 1, 2019, in Orlando, Florida. Mark Stoops has all but bristled at questions about the record he broke last weekend, down-playing any comparison between him and Bear Bryant, whose time at Kentucky is a career footnote compared to the epic success at Alabama for which he's best known.

"He's like, 'Man, I don't even want my name in the same breath as Bear Bryant,'" Marrow said. "But I said, 'Listen, when we took over, it took a Bear Bryant to probably do that.'"

Marrow remembers the first game of the Mark Stoops Era, a loss in Nashville to Western Kentucky. It's almost poetic when he recalls in rhyme "the early pains of losing games and then, starting to win."

Mark Stoops' persistence through that — "He just keeps his head down and goes," Marrow said — is worth celebrating. And this weekend, his family and friends intend to do just that.

Ron Stoops Sr. died in 1988 of a heart attack, just after coaching in a Cardinal Mooney game. But Dee Stoops is following football still. She plans to be in Lexington for the weekend with her sons.

"Everybody knows the youngest is always the parents' favorite," Bob Stoops said. "So we're all elated that our mother's able to come down and experience it all and to see him in that atmosphere. It's fantastic."

Odds are, the out-of-towners at Kroger Field on Saturday will watch Mark Stoops notch Kentucky win No. 62.

Youngstown State is "tough," Mark Stoops said; they're "not gonna be intimidated." Like the Kentucky coach, they reflect a town with hard edges. But the Penguins are heavy underdogs, an FCS David battling an SEC Goliath.

Still, it feels like football fate, Youngstown State trekking to Lexington a week after Stoops becomes Kentucky's all-time wins leader.

Folks would have flocked south regardless, but to spend a weekend celebrating Mark Stoops' achievement "is awesome," Bob Stoops said, for the friends and family from a place so much a part of his record-breaking success.

"The people that's coming here this week, that's family," Marrow said. "We'd rather break it on Florida than break it on them."

Defense dominates, passing game erupts in Kentucky's shutout win

Adam Luckett

The result was never in doubt between Kentucky and Youngstown State on Saturday afternoon at Kroger Field. But there was some sloppy football played by the Big Blue in Week 3.

The passing game and the defense flexed their muscles in the 31-0 victory, but turnovers and a slow start kept the offense from having a monster performance. KSR is live from the press box to provide some instant takeaways as Kentucky is now 15-3 in its last 18 games. Will Levis post big numbers

For the second time this season, Will Levis powered the offense with an impressive passing performance. The redshirt senior was dialed in from the start and flashed some of the athletic traits that make him such a tantalizing prospect.

Levis threw for 377 yards in the blowout win on 35 passes averaging 10.8 yards per attempt. The leader of Kentucky's passing offense posted a high success rate (62.9%) and connected on eight completions of 15-plus yards. Levis got off to another very fast start completing 12 of his first 13 passes as he looked to be in total control.

However, it wasn't all smooth sailing for QB1.

On the offense's third possession, Levis attempted to thread the needle to Barion Brown and ended a red zone possession with an interception. Holding a 28-0 lead at the beginning of the fourth quarter, a ball sailed on the quarterback over the middle of the field ending a scoring opportunity with an interception.

Taking care of the football was a big emphasis in the offseason for Levis, and the Penn State transfer has now thrown five interceptions in his last four games dating back to last season. Meanwhile, the quarterback took some avoidable sacks as the offense allowed four and has given up 11 through three games this season. Levis currently has a very high sack rate (10.8%) through four games.

There are many things to clean up, but the quarterback is producing a high level of efficiency (54.9% success rate) and is creating a lot of big plays (9.7 yards per attempt). Now the offense just needs to eliminate all of the havoc plays defenses are producing with the pass rush.

Defense makes another statement

Kentucky's defense entered Saturday having not recorded a shutout since 2009. We're in year 10 of the Mark Stoops era, and the Cats had yet to post a donut on the scoreboard.

That changed on Saturday afternoon.

Kentucky limited an explosive Youngstown State offense to a low success rate (20%) as the Penguins produced only three plays of 20-plus yards on 45 snaps. The defense logged a high havoc rate (31.1%) led by a strong pass defense that created seven pass breakups.

On the ground, All-American tailback Jaleel McLaughlin was limited to 36 yards on 10 rushes as the Penguins averaged 4.3 yards per play. Backed up, Kentucky allowed zero points on three second-half scoring opportunities for the Penguins highlighted by a huge red zone interception on a great effort play from Carington Valentine.

Since the first possession of the season that saw Miami (Ohio) march 75 yards, no offense has put together a long TD drive against the Cats. The defense has only allowed two touchdowns total through 12 quarters of football.

Defensive coordinator Brad White has a dominant unit.

Now we wait on J.J. Weaver's status

It wasn't all great news for Kentucky's defense. On the first possession of the game, Kentucky lost the redshirt junior J.J. Weaver on what appeared to be a left elbow injury. That would be a significant loss.

The Louisville (Ky.) Moore product was outstanding in last week's win against Florida. The Cats have a real schematic advantage against offenses as the versatility of Weaver and Jordan Wright allows the defense to play with size but not give up a ton of athletic ability.

A sustained absence for Weaver would lower the ceiling for the defense. Mark Stoops does not believe the former four-star recruit will be out for the season but the status of the injury is currently unknown. Kentucky needs No. 13 back as soon as possible.

Negative plays torpedo run game

Kentucky did have some promising results in the traditional run game on Saturday. Kavosiey Smoke and La'Vell Wright combined to record a solid 47.8 percent success rate on 23 attempts but the negative plays eliminated nearly all of the progress.

Smoke recorded five carries for negative yardage as the bad plays ruined what could have been a solid rushing performance. For the game, Kentucky posted 129 non-sack rush yards on 32 attempts but the numbers should have been much higher.

Youngstown State recorded 10 tackles for loss in 71 snaps as the Big Blue Wall had a lot of issues in limiting penetration without starting right guard Tashawn Manning. There is still a lot to clean up before the Cats host Northern Illinois next week.

Lost turnover battle

After struggling with turnover margin last season, Kentucky had done a good job through eight quarters. The Cats won the battle (+1) against Florida after recording two interceptions and played Miami (Ohio) to a draw.

Against Youngstown State, the Cats lost the turnover battle (-2) for the first time this season.

Two interceptions by Levis ended scoring opportunities without points, and a fumble by Wright gave YSU great field position on a Middle 8 possession. Luckily, Kentucky's defense was there to save the day.

The three turnovers took away a potential 14-21 points as a blowout was kept closer longer than it should've been on Saturday.

Dane Key tied a Kentucky Football freshman record today

Not to sound like Ryan Lemond, but that Dane Key is pretty special. Today, the former Frederick Douglass star had a season-high six catches for 90 yards vs. Youngstown State, including a three-yard touchdown in the second quarter.

Not to sound like Ryan Lemond, but that Dane Key is pretty special. Today, the former Frederick Douglass star had a season-high six catches for 90 yards vs. Youngstown State, including a three-yard touchdown in the second quarter.

"It's a great feeling but we didn't play how we wanted to today so there's a lot to come back and work on," Key said. "We really started off slow today. We just need to come out with the intensity like we come out with in practice when we're playing our defense like we do in practices and just come ready to play from the first quarter, the first whistle to the last whistle."

All that aside, Key did admit it was pretty cool to brush the history books in only his third game as a Wildcat.

"Just coming in, I just really wanted to play a role on the team and come out and just make plays when my number's called. And I just feel like it's pretty cool to be one of the first freshmen but I'm just doing what I can do to help the team to win.

A big day for Kentucky's wide receivers

Thanks to almost 400 passing yards from Will Levis, ten Kentucky receivers had catches today, the most since the win over Vanderbilt in 2020. Key was eager to praise his teammates, particularly Chris Lewis, whose first career reception ended up being his first career touchdown, a two-yard pass from Levis to put the Cats up 21-0 in the second quarter.

"I loved seeing everybody in the room get involved because we're so close in the receiving room that it's just great when somebody else goes and makes a play. When [Chris Lewis] made his touchdown, you could see all the receivers on the sideline just excited for him because he got his touchdown."

Kentucky football has matched its best ranking since 1977 season after shutout win

Kentucky football's first shutout win since 2009 was enough to move the Wildcats up one spot in the Associated Press Top 25.

Despite the eight teams previously ranked ahead of the Wildcats also winning Saturday in blowout fashion, Kentucky leapfrogged Oklahoma State to move from No. 9 to No. 8 in the new poll released Sunday, one day after its 31-0 win over FCS Youngstown State. Oklahoma State fell behind Kentucky after a 63-7 win over Arkansas-Pine Bluff.

Kentucky moved up from No. 10 to No. 9 in the new USA Today Coaches Poll thanks to Michigan State's loss to unranked Washington. The Spartans fell from No. 9 to No. 21 in that poll.

Kentucky is the third highest-ranked Southeastern Conference team in the AP poll behind No. 1 Georgia and No. 2 Alabama. No. 10 Arkansas, No. 11 Tennessee, No. 16 Ole Miss, No. 20 Florida and No. 23 Texas A&M are the other SEC teams in the poll. Kentucky must still play Georgia, Tennessee and Ole Miss from that group.

The No. 8 ranking in the AP poll ties UK's high water mark in that poll in 2007, when the Wildcats were twice ranked eighth. The last time Kentucky was ranked higher than No. 8 in the AP poll was when it was slotted at No. 6 in the 1977 postseason poll. The 1977 season also was the last time the Wildcats were ranked in the top 10 for more than two weeks.

Kentucky's depth in the WR room continues to grow

Zack Geoghegan
Kentucky Sports Radio
Sept 18, 2022

Kentucky has a stable of wide receivers that is arguably more talented than anything the Big Blue Nation has seen in decades. Virginia Tech transfer Tayvion Robinson has quickly filled the gap left in the wake of Wan'Dale Robinson's departure for the NFL while freshmen Dane Key and Barion Brown are more than living up to their four-star hype.

But it's not just those three pass catchers making serious noise on offense. QB Will Levis has seemingly endless options surrounding him.

During Kentucky's 31-0 shutout win over Youngstown State on Saturday, offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello made sure to get the bulk of his wide receiver room on the field at some point. Redshirt freshman Dekel Crowder recorded his first-ever reception as a Wildcat, finishing the afternoon with a pair of catches for 17 yards. Fellow redshirt freshman Chris Lewis hauled in his first career touchdown off a two-yard fade near the goal line.

"It was cool to see Dekel play," Scangarello said postgame. "We got a lot of guys and we're trying to get them all involved, trying to call a game and let them all play a little bit. But along the way we got to tighten the ship up. Those are the challenges with those, but I thought Dekel made a couple of nice plays. I like this demeanor on the field today. I thought he was really locked in. I thought he had a good week of practice. Dekel earned the right to play by practicing well for two weeks. That's the deal. There's great competition, and you do things right, we're gonna reward you the right way."

"I noticed Dekel, we got him in there, got him going," Mark Stoops added. "He's a guy that we still feel can really help us soon, help us this year. He's got that — he's got that juice that I talk about, that speed. And so it was good to get him some reps. And, of course, Dane and Barion continue to do good. Christian (Lewis) is a guy we feel like could definitely help us. And, of course, Tayvion, as well. So good to get him some touches again today."

In an unusual twist under head coach Mark Stoops, Kentucky has multiple weapons on the outside who can all make plays in their own right. Through three games in the 2022 season, 13 'Cats have hauled in a catch from Levis, including 11 of them with at least two receptions. Key and Robinson are tied with 13 catches apiece while Brown isn't far behind with nine. The tight ends are becoming more and more involved, too.

"I love seeing everyone in the room getting involved," Key said after the win. "We're so close in the receiver room it's great when somebody else goes makes a play. When C-Lew (Chris Lewis) made his touchdown you could see all the other receivers on the sideline just excited for him because he got his touchdown."

With a weakened running game to begin the season, Kentucky has needed additional help from the wide receivers in the worst way. Luckily, there is plenty of budding talent to go around.

Kentucky football's shutout win displays how secondary has gone from worry to strength

Jon Hale
Lexington Herald-Leader
Sept. 18, 2022

Kentucky football quarterback Will Levis noticed something was different only a couple days into the Wildcats' preseason camp.

A year ago in his first season at UK, Levis made it through the entire camp without throwing an interception. But this year, despite his soaring NFL Draft stock, Levis was picked off by Kentucky defenders twice in the first week.

"I was like, is it me?" Levis said with a laugh after Kentucky's 31-0 shutout of Youngstown State on Saturday. "They've got some really good players."

Few positions on the roster faced more questions than Kentucky's secondary after spring practice. UK coaches did not shy away from the concern, either, boosting depth with the addition of three transfers this summer.

The same early impression those defensive backs made on Levis in camp was apparent to the coaching staff, too, who quickly began speaking of the secondary in the same glowing terms it did two years ago when NFL Draft picks Brandin Echols and Kelvin Joseph started at cornerback for the Wildcats.

Chief among the reasons for optimism at that position was junior cornerback Carrington Valentine.

Valentine started 12 of 13 games a year ago but took on much of the criticism for a defense that ranked 53rd nationally in passing yards allowed per game (218.6) and 80th in interceptions (nine). The secondary came under particular fire during a three-game losing streak that saw Georgia, Mississippi State and Tennessee combine for 910 total passing yards. Those three teams completed 82.3% of their passes against Kentucky.

"I feel like every year we have doubts," Valentine said Saturday. "It kind of comes and goes, and we're still looking to strive. So we hear the media, but we don't really take it personally. We keep in the back of our head that every year we lose someone to the draft, or they have doubts about us.

"But at the end of the day, you just got to go out there and play."

Valentine accomplished that goal and more against Youngstown State.

After surrendering a 27-yard reception to former UK teammate Bryce Oliver on Youngstown State's first play of the second half, Valentine rallied for two pass breakups on the drive. The second came in the end zone when Oliver appeared to catch a touchdown before Valentine ripped the ball out of his hands as he was falling to the ground.

The Penguins' best scoring opportunity came on their next drive when a 64-yard catch-and-run on a screen pass set up a red-zone opportunity. A pass interference penalty against Valentine gave Youngstown State first-and-goal at the 2-yard line, but this time he answered by tipping a pass into the air and then caught it in the end zone for his first career interception.

"I think it's kind of who he is," Kentucky Coach Mark Stoops said. "He's a super competitive guy. Just really tough. ... Gave up that one shot. But a great one in response, comes right back. And he did that."

Valentine's improvements could give Kentucky the lockdown corner Stoops' best defenses have boasted, but he is not the only Wildcats defensive back to make an impact this season.

At Florida, Ole Miss transfer Keidron Smith returned an interception for a go-ahead touchdown. Smith appeared to grab his second interception against Youngstown State, but the play was ruled an incomplete pass on the field and officials did not find enough evidence on review to change the call.

Five UK defensive backs have tallied at least 10 tackles through the first three games. Even after losing starting free safety Jalen Geiger to what is expected to be a season-ending injury, the secondary did not miss a beat Saturday with redshirt freshman Jordan Lovett and Texas State transfer Zion Childress taking on larger roles. Freshman nickelback Alex Afari led the Wildcats with five tackles against Youngstown State, including a tackle for loss.

Kentucky was one of 15 teams yet to surrender a passing touchdown entering the weekend. That streak continued for the Wildcats as they recorded their first shutout since the 2009 season opener.

"We're a work in progress, but we've talked about it a lot," defensive coordinator Brad White said. "We've got a standard that we've set for ourselves and whoever is in the game has to meet it."

The challenge will get tougher for Kentucky's defensive backs in the coming weeks when dynamic passing offenses like Ole Miss, Mississippi State, Tennessee and Georgia are the opposition, but it is impossible to argue with the early results. Facing a Kentucky offense with an NFL quarterback and improved receiver play throughout camp should help in those matchups.

Valentine credited the natural maturation process that has helped him dwell less on mistakes and accept receivers will catch some passes as key in his growth. With that lesson, he has taken on a larger leadership role to help bring his younger teammates along, as well.

Continue on that path, and one of Kentucky's biggest offseason questions might turn out to actually be one of its biggest strengths.

"Coach White does a really good job with scheme and putting a lot of the offense to think about a couple different things they could possibly throw at them," Levis said. "They handle it really, really well. We've got some great young guys, great vets, good balance and just some elite playmakers."

'That's a different cat right there.' Meet the UK freshman lineman already turning heads.

Jon Hale
Lexington Herald-Leader
Sept. 22, 2022

Anyone who was surprised when Kentucky football freshman defensive tackle Deone Walker threw a Florida offensive lineman to the side and swallowed a Gators running back in the backfield late in the fourth quarter to help the Wildcats clinch a win in Gainesville was not paying attention during preseason camp.

"That's a different cat right there," super senior linebacker Jacquez Jones said of Walker after one scrimmage. "... He's special. Nobody that big should be moving like that." Perhaps it's the visual juxtaposition of a 6-foot-6, 330-pound lineman wearing No. 0 on his jersey, but there is something about the Wildcats' behemoth that is impossible to miss on the field.

A four-star prospect in Kentucky's much-hyped 2022 signing class, Walker arrived on campus at a position where freshmen typically struggle to make an early impact in the Southeastern Conference. The fact that Kentucky's defensive line rotation was already loaded with former four-star prospects with multiple years of college experience made it easy to overlook Walker in the projections of which freshmen might play key roles this season. But when seen in person, Walker is impossible to overlook.

"He's been told he needs to be an impact player," said Marvin Rushing, Walker's former coach at Cass Tech High School in Detroit. "Kentucky told him that they were bringing him to be an impact player. Day one opportunity to play and compete for a starting job. They looked at him to help take this team to the next level, along with the pieces they already had in place."

Walker has backed up his preseason hype with nine tackles, 1.5 tackles for loss and one pass breakup through three games.

In his first career start last week against Youngstown State, Walker tallied three tackles, one-half tackle for loss and one pass breakup, but it was the week before at Florida where Walker announced his presence to the college football world. With Kentucky nursing a 23-16 lead and having just missed a 38-yard field goal that could have clinched the victory, the Wildcats' defense forced Florida into a third-and-5 play. Given the time and score, it was a likely four-down scenario where the Gators would use two plays to gain the 5 yards. Walker had different plans though as he powered by Florida center Kingsley Eguakun to meet running back Nay'Quan Wright shortly after he was handed the ball. Any hope of eluding the tackle was quickly diminished as Walker threw Wright to the ground for a 1-yard loss before any other Kentucky defenders could even reach the play.

Instead of an incremental gain toward the first down, Florida had moved backward. A fourth-down stop from the Kentucky defense followed, setting up the possession in which the Wildcats converted the game-clinching field goal. "A lot of it is natural ability," UK defensive coordinator Brad White said of Walker's eye-popping tackle for loss. "But also understanding sort of the structure of our defense and what has to get done from that essential stunt movement we were running at that point. He did a great job of executing, and then the physicality sort of took over in violently shedding a really talented offensive lineman and making a play on a really good back.

"That's a really good play that we need to build off of, and we need more of those throughout the season. Hopefully we'll see them." Rushing has no doubts more plays like that are coming from Walker. His older Kentucky teammates agree.

Super senior linebacker DeAndre Square, a fellow Cass Tech graduate, was impressed with Walker's attitude after he arrived on campus. Despite recruiting hype large enough to match his massive frame, the freshman did not act like anything had already been given to him.

That same work ethic stood out to junior center Eli Cox, who lined up against Walker often in preseason practices. "Deone is young and he's raw, but he's very physically gifted," Cox said. "He's very tall, but he plays with a lot of length. He plays with good explosion and strength for a young guy. Just something he'll be able to provide a great look for us on offense because he's built like every other SEC defensive lineman we see every day." Walker is far from a finished product, too. "Physically, he's probably more developed than most freshmen d-linemen would be at this point," White said. "I think he works hard at it. Mentally, he's in a good spot, but he's still a freshman."

Kentucky Coach Mark Stoops said Walker's play dipped late in his college debut against Miami (Ohio) as the physical toll of playing a full college game took effect. There is still work to do on the fundamentals of pass rushing, too. Brute strength alone will not be enough to win one-on-one matchups against SEC linemen who are almost as big as Walker. Walker played offense and defense for Cass Tech, but White was quick to note playing both ways in high school is still less physically taxing than playing a whole game on defense in the SEC. Rushing noticed smaller opponents shying away from contact with the massive Walker at times in high school. He cautioned that players as large as Walker are often told to take it easy on smaller teammates in practice and smaller opponents in games at lower levels of football.

Now that he can pick on players his own size, Walker must master the amount of preparation it takes to ready his body for that physical toll each week. "I really just learned if I go north nobody can stop me," Walker said. "I've got to cool down and let the game slow down for me."

An introvert by nature, Walker does not seem to have much trouble flipping the switch from mild-mannered off the field to violent on it. Rushing was impressed by the leadership role Walker took on as a senior at Cass Tech, going out of his way to help teammates who did not share his physical tools prepare to play despite his quiet nature. Kentucky does not need Walker to lead in a defensive line room with more experienced players, but it does need him to make rapid progress in his own game for the more difficult SEC tests that lie ahead. Rushing estimates Walker has already shed close to 30 pounds from his playing weight in high school, and predicts after a full year in a college strength program Walker will even more closely resemble the type of defensive linemen selected on the first day of the NFL Draft. Walker's former coach is clear that is his pupil's ceiling.

Expectations are high. The future is bright. But as evidenced by the play at Florida, even a raw version of Walker is a significant weapon for a veteran Kentucky defense. "Deone is a freak in terms of his agility, quick twitch," Rushing said. "... As athletic as I've probably had as an offensive and defensive lineman. The stuff he does comes naturally. I just know they're going to get the best out of him. "So, I'm not surprised that he's starting, I'm not surprised that he's having this level of success. It's what we've told him. I see him as a Sunday player. We saw him being a huge impact player at the collegiate level."

What's in a name? Kentucky football players aim to be college sports' next great Jordan.

Jon Hale
Lexington Herald-Leader
Sept. 22, 2022

Walk into the Kentucky football locker room and ask for Jordan and you will need to be a little more specific.

The elder statesman is Jordan Wright, a team captain and super senior outside linebacker. Redshirt freshman safety Jordan Lovett ranks fourth on the team in tackles and is coming off his first career start. Redshirt freshman tight end Jordan Dingle has tallied four catches for 42 yards through three games.

Freshman wide receiver Jordan Anthony made his debut against Youngstown State. Sophomore cornerback Jordan Robinson is another player to watch for the future after transferring from Division II Livingstone College. Senior walk-on long snapper Jordan Morrow rejoined the team after preseason camp.

So how do Kentucky players and coaches keep all the Jordans straight?

"We've just got a lot of nicknames for a lot of people," Wright said with a laugh.

Wright answers to "J Dub." Lovett goes by "J Love." Robinson is "J Rob" to teammates. Morrow is known as "J M."

Dingle is often called by his last name, but sometimes that adds confusion since his older brother, Justice Dingle, is also on the team. Justice is then "Big D" and Jordan is "J Dingle."

Anthony seems to have the most diverse group of nicknames.

One teammate called him "J Ant." Another listed his nickname as "J A."

"You can call me Flash if the fans want to use that," Anthony said, alluding to his elite speed as the U.S. under-20 200-meter dash champion.

All of Kentucky's Jordans were born in 1998 or later.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

Yes, at least a couple of the Jordans think there is a tie between their names and basketball legend Michael Jordan, who won the last of his six NBA titles with the Chicago Bulls in 1998, but that isn't the only common theme in how they were named.

Wright and Dingle both report they are named after the Jordan River, where Jesus was baptized according to the Christian Bible. Lovett and Anthony both credit Michael Jordan as at least part of their namesake.

But there isn't always a story behind the name either.

"My mom just liked the name," Robinson said. "She didn't know any Jordans when she named me."

At least three of Kentucky's Jordans are projected to play significant roles this season.

Dingle might be the best receiving threat in a deep tight end room. Tight ends coach Vince Marrow has called him the position's Swiss army knife thanks to his versatility.

Lovett opened the season as the Wildcats' backup free safety but has been pushed into a starting role after what is expected to be a season-ending knee injury for previous starter Jalen Geiger. He has totaled 12 tackles and one pass breakup through three games.

No Jordan is more important to the Wildcats' 2022 chances than Wright though.

He was suspended for the opener but returned to post a momentum-swinging interception in the win at Florida. With J.J. Weaver expected to miss at least one game with an arm injury, Wright will take on an even larger role as the Wildcats' top pass rusher.

"Especially his leadership and his character, it brings joy," cornerback Keidron Smith said of Wright. "But I don't even know the word for it. It's just Jordan. It's the same person 24/7. He's not gonna change. That is him. He is an impact player on the defense."

While Robinson has a year of college football experience, coaches spoke of him like a freshman they hoped to develop in the future when they signed him as a transfer. At 6-foot-4, 202 pounds, he boasts the length that Stoops covets in his cornerbacks, but he faces a difficult jump from Division II to the Southeastern Conference.

This season could also be viewed as a developmental year for Anthony thanks to the stacked depth chart in front of him at slot receiver, but offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello has hinted in the last week there are still plays that can showcase Anthony's elite speed. That was on display on his first career target against Youngstown State when he was open for a deep touchdown but quarterback Will Levis was unable to get him the ball because of pressure forcing him to scramble.

Whether Anthony makes an impact this season or not, we'll give him the last word on what makes Kentucky's Jordans special.

"I was projected to be a big star in life," he said. "My first name is Jordan, my middle name is Jamar and my last name is Anthony. ... Michael Jordan, Ja'Marr Chase, Carmelo Anthony."

If there is really power in a name, Kentucky looks in good shape.

Kentucky football freshman WR Barion Brown makes history against Northern Illinois

Jake Adams
Louisville Courier-Journal
Sept. 24, 2022

Barion Brown accomplished two feats not seen at the University of Kentucky in eight years.

The freshman receiver became the sixth player in UK history with 100 yards in a game when he hauled in his fourth pass Saturday night against Northern Illinois, a 6-yarder in the third quarter. The Wildcats went on to win 31-23 at Kroger Field and improved to 4-0 before a pivotal SEC tilt at Ole Miss next week.

Earlier in the quarter, Brown put the Wildcats ahead 21-14 with an electric 70-yard catch-and-run TD. The long touchdown was his second of the game — he caught a 15-yard TD in the first quarter to tie the game 7-7 — making him just the sixth player in Wildcats history to score two receiving touchdowns in a game.

The last time a UK freshman receiver had 100 yards or two touchdowns came in 2014 when Garrett Johnson caught six passes for 154 yards and two TDs in a 36-30 loss at Florida.

Brown entered the game with nine catches for 99 yards and a 3-yard run. He had reached the end zone already this season when he broke off a 100-yard kickoff return for a touchdown in the season-opening win against Miami (Ohio), the first time a Wildcat had taken a kickoff to the end zone since 2009.

Brown finished with four catches for 102 yards on five targets. Tayvion Robinson also had a big night, catching all seven passes thrown his way for 147 yards and two more scores.

Brown is not the only rookie receiver impressing in Lexington this season. Dane Key had 13 catches, 226 yards and three TDs (tied for the most in UK freshman history) entering Saturday. The Frederick Douglass High School product had two catches for 15 yards against NIU and nearly took over sole possession of the touchdown record when he dropped a deep ball in the end zone early in the fourth quarter.

Pair of former Rebels defenders boosts Kentucky football's hopes of winning at Ole Miss Kentucky football has played at Ole Miss just 10 times in program history, but familiarity with Vaught-Hemingway Stadium should be no problem for the Wildcats' defense in a top-25 matchup.

Two of UK's defensive starters have combined for 45 games played in the Rebels' home stadium. Now, linebacker Jacques Jones and cornerback Keidron Smith will return to the place they started their college careers with a chance to establish Kentucky as one of the best teams in the Southeastern Conference.

"It's a bittersweet moment," Jones said after Kentucky's 31-23 win over Northern Illinois on Saturday. "That's where I started. Took me as an 18-year-old, a teenager. It's going to be a bittersweet moment, but at the end of the day we know we're going there for one reason."

The transfer portal era has created unusual homecomings for players across the country since the NCAA changed its rules to allow most athletes to transfer once without sitting out a season.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

But many of those players are transferring to a higher profile program or to somewhere with a clearer path to snaps. Seeing two starter-caliber players hop from one SEC program to another without clearly increasing their chances of competing for the College Football Playoff remains unusual.

Kentucky can thank new Troy head coach Jon Sumrall for paving that path.

Sumrall first recruited Jones to Oxford as the Rebels' linebackers coach in the high school class of 2018. He coached Jones for one season there, helping him earn SEC All-Freshman honors, before returning to his alma mater to coach at Kentucky.

When Jones decided to enter the transfer portal after the 2020 season, Sumrall was the first coach to make contact.

"We had a relationship," Jones said. "I feel like he was a big part of me coming here. If he wasn't here, I probably wouldn't be here."

Jones made an immediate impact for Kentucky, starting 12 games at middle linebacker and leading the team with 86 tackles in 2021. He added a fumble recovery, a forced fumble, an interception and 3.5 tackles for loss.

The Tuscaloosa, Alabama, native then elected to use the extra year of eligibility granted all players in 2020 due to the COVID-19 pandemic to return to Kentucky for the 2022 season. Around that same time, Smith was making a similar decision to return to college football for his extra year, but he chose to do it at another school.

"As soon as he hit the portal, I got him on speed dial," Jones said in August. "Told him to get up here. We're trying to do something special. We came in together at Ole Miss and we're about to leave out together at Kentucky, so let's do something special."

While Jones was quick to give Smith his breakdown of what made Kentucky special, he actually respected his former teammate's decision-making process enough to avoid piling on the recruiting pitch too thick.

Smith, who had bounced around multiple positions in the defensive secondary at Ole Miss, was looking for a school who would let him play cornerback. Kentucky happened to be in the market for one after an inconsistent 2021 season from its secondary.

"I knew they had something special before I signed," Smith said. "I wasn't coming here if they didn't have something special."

Smith backed up his confidence in his ability to play cornerback by winning a starting job in preseason camp for Kentucky.

In the 2022 season opener versus Miami (Ohio), he recovered a fumble and returned it 23 yards to set up a Kentucky touchdown. In his second game, he returned an interception 65 yards for a go-ahead touchdown at Florida. Through four games, Smith has totaled seven tackles and four passes defended.

"What (Jones) does at middle linebacker is certainly different than what I do at DB, but seeing him and how he talked about it, we always kept communicating about how much he loved Kentucky and how much Coach (Brad) White, Coach (Mark) Stoops and those guys treated the players," Smith said. "It was something I really looked at during the recruiting process when I entered the transfer portal."

Smith acknowledged the chance to return to Ole Miss was an added perk of picking Kentucky, but his primary goal was finding the perfect fit.

The early returns from Kentucky's 2022 defense suggest both Jones and Smith made a wise decision.

The defense led Kentucky to its upset win at Florida then posted its first shutout since 2009 a week later against FCS Youngstown State. While the defense did not play its best in the Northern Illinois win, the game was in hand by the time the Huskies did most of their damage.

For Kentucky to win at Ole Miss, the Wildcats will undoubtedly need a big game from quarterback Will Levis and the rest of the Kentucky offense. Jones and Smith will not be able to carry the load alone on defense, either.

The duo will need to avoid trying to do too much to prove to their former team how big their impact could have been if they had stayed in Oxford.

But if UK wins for just the third time in program history in Oxford, their track record suggests a big play from Jones or Smith could help tip the scales.

"They mean a lot," linebacker and Kentucky captain DeAndre Square said. "They take the pressure off my back. They lead in many ways. They don't have to be the most vocal people, but they lead by example. Fifth year, they've been there, done that. I feel like it's very important.

"We got off to a hot start these first four games, first three games. They've been a big part of that because of the work they do and how much they care about the game, how much they care about this team and this defense. I'm just excited to have people like that so I don't have to take all the pressure."

QB Will Levis says Kentucky football's late-game mistakes are 'on me' after Ole Miss loss

Brett Dawson
Louisville Courier-Journal
Oct. 1, 2022

A split second later, Will Levis is a hero.

If the Kentucky football quarterback calls for a snap a moment later on the seventh-ranked Wildcats' final drive here — if he holds off a beat longer before he lofts a pass to wide receiver Dane Key in the end zone — UK takes a late lead and probably leaves Vaught-Hemingway Stadium with a win.

Instead, Levis jumped the gun.

He took the snap before the Cats were set. Key's leaping catch was waved off for an illegal motion penalty. And on the next play, No. 14 Ole Miss sacked Levis, forcing and recovering a fumble and sealing a 22-19 win.

"We were obviously trying to catch them off guard with that call, but I've got to make sure everyone's set," Levis said. "That's my job. It's on me. That's the game if we complete that."

It was that kind of afternoon for Kentucky (4-1, 1-1 SEC) and for Levis, who completed 18 of 24 passes for 220 yards and a touchdown but lost fumbles on each of the Cats' final two drives and just missed on some pass plays that might have powered UK to a win.

There was no more critical blown opportunity than that final negated connection to Key. It came with less than a minute remaining in the game, an opportunity for Kentucky to stun the Rebels (5-0, 1-) and for Levis to add to his legacy.

"We get our guys set, he throws a dime and wins the game, everybody's saying, 'Wow, pretty impressive to lead us back on two drives late in the game there,'" UK coach Mark Stoops said.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

But Kentucky lost. And the postgame conversation about Levis was drastically different.

It was about whether he's holding the ball too long in an effort to make plays out of nothing, a sin he certainly committed when he took a first-half grounding penalty in the end zone for an Ole Miss safety.

And about whether the progressive pummeling he's taking this season — Levis was sacked three times Saturday, raising his season total to 19 — ultimately will take a costly toll on him and the offense he engineers.

That was of considerable concern against Ole Miss, which put Levis under pressure much of the game. At one point in the first half he walked off the field with a finger out of place on his left hand, representative of the way he's been battered for much of the year.

Levis "just popped it back in place," he said, fortunate the finger was on his non-throwing hand. It didn't appear to significantly impact him in the game.

The same can't be said of the Rebels' pass rush.

Rich Scangarello, UK's offensive coordinator, said this week that he welcomed the blitz from opponents, that his offense, with Levis and the weapons at his disposal, is "built for pressure."

"Keep bringing it," Scangarello said. "I hope you do."

Those comments rubbed the Rebels the wrong way. Coach Lane Kiffin told ESPN in a post-game interview that his defense was "motivated all week" by Scangarello "saying bring the blitz and we'll light you up."

"So there you go," Kiffin said.

The Cats had chances to burn the Rebels' pressure. Most of Levis' big plays came on short passes, including a screen that Barion Brown turned into a 51-yard gain — and nearly a game winner — on UK's final drive.

Levis was 0 for 3 on passes thrown 15 yards or longer.

Ole Miss pressured Levis largely with three- and four-man rushes. And though Levis said his offensive line did a "great job" and Stoops called UK's pass protection "pretty good," the QB had little time to make plays out of a collapsing pocket — and sometimes took longer than he had.

Levis' first fourth-quarter fumble came with 2:55 to play, the result of a good hit on a quarterback keeper.

On the second, Levis said, he needed to "get the ball out earlier," but Ole Miss' Jared Ivey was on him in a blink, blazing by UK right tackle David Wohlabaugh, who was in the game for the injured Jeremy Flax.

It might not have mattered if not for the penalty the play before.

On a difficult afternoon for Levis, that might be the play that needles him most.

"It was one of those deals where we had plenty of time, shouldn't have been rushing in any way, shape or form, and we have to make sure we're set," Scangarello said. "It's on us as a quarterback and us as an offense to make sure we're set."

If Levis had done it, he'd have been the star of Saturday, the guy who led Kentucky down the field for an improbable come-from-behind win.

Instead, he's left to wonder what if.

"They're a really good football team and they played really well, but I felt like we were the better team toward the end there," Levis said. "But we shot ourselves in the foot when it mattered. I need to be a better game manager at the end there, especially on that touchdown pass."

Late fumbles, special teams miscues doom No. 7 Kentucky football in loss at No. 14 Ole Miss

Jon Hale
Lexington Herald-Leader
Oct. 2, 2022

Driving for a possible go-ahead touchdown or game-tying field goal, Kentucky star quarterback Will Levis lost two fumbles late in the fourth quarter that helped No. 14 Ole Miss hold on for a 22-19 win over the No. 7 Wildcats.

Facing third-and-2 at the Ole Miss 19-yard line, Levis faked a handoff to running back Chris Rodriguez and kept the ball with 2:55 remaining. He appeared to gain enough yardage for the first down, but had the ball pop loose as he was being tackled in the air.

Kentucky regained possession for one final drive and drove to the Ole Miss 7-yard line before an illegal formation penalty negated what looked like a go-ahead touchdown pass from Levis to Dane Key. On the next play, Levis fumbled again while being hit in the backfield.

The loss was Kentucky's first of the 2022 season, dropping the Wildcats to 4-1 on the season and 1-1 in SEC play.

Ole Miss looked on the verge of turning the game into a blowout after jumping out to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter, but UK freshman wide receiver Barion Brown finally gave the Wildcats some life with an 85-yard kickoff return with less than a minute left in the quarter.

Two plays later, Rodriguez scored his first touchdown of the season on a 10-yard carry. UK kicker Matt Ruffolo, who had missed a 39-yard field goal attempt earlier in the quarter, had his extra-point attempt blocked after the touchdown.

An Kentucky safety on which Levis was flagged for intentional grounding while being hit in the end zone put Ole Miss up 16-6 in the second quarter. Ole Miss then stretched its lead to 19-6 with a 53-yard field goal attempt later in the quarter.

UK finally found some offensive momentum on the ensuing drive. Levis capped that nine-play, 70-yard drive with 5-yard touchdown on a shovel pass to Tayvion Robinson, but Kentucky failed on the point-after attempt again, this time because of a poor snap.

Kentucky tied the game at 19 with a 17-yard touchdown pass from Levis to tight end Jordan Dingle on its second drive of the third quarter. With backup long snapper Clay Perry inserted into the lineup, Kentucky converted its first point-after attempt in the game.

Ole Miss regained the lead four minutes later with a 26-yard field goal.

After Kentucky failed to convert a fourth-and-3 play at the Ole Miss 32-yard line on the first play of the fourth quarter, redshirt freshman safety Jordan Lovett kept the Wildcats' hopes alive with a pass breakup in the end zone on an Ole Miss fourth-down attempt at the Kentucky 5-yard line on the following drive.

Kentucky drove to the Ole Miss 19-yard line to set up the play where Levis fumbled.

Barion Brown Nearly Ran Kentucky to Victory Against Ole Miss

Hunter Shelton
Cats Illustrated
Oct. 2, 2022

Freshman wide receiver Barion Brown did all he could with his legs to try and swipe Kentucky a road win on Saturday.

Brown needed the ball in his hands just five times to notch a grand total of 245 all-purpose yards against Ole Miss. He did most of his damage on the kick return front.

In three returns, the WR managed 164 yards, a killer 54.6-yard average. Two of the plays were oh-so-close to going for six points, but the Rebels managed to catch him both times. Brown said after the game that he thought both plays were going to the endzone when he hit his holes.

"When I'm back there, something big will happen," Brown said after the 22-19 loss.

Late in the fourth quarter, Brown caught one of just two receptions, but as he always does, made a swift move up-field, turning a small third-down conversion into a 51-yard gain, setting Kentucky up at the Ole Miss 7-yard line. That final drive would come up empty via a Will Levis strip sack recovered by the Rebels, but the Cats wouldn't have been in that position in the first place if not for the lightning-quick freshman.

Kentucky has gotten tastes of what the speedster can do throughout the season, but the results came in hot and heavy on Saturday, even drawing the attention of former Georgia and NFL running back Todd Gurley II:

Through five games, Brown has 15 receptions for 282 yards and six kickoff returns for a whopping 286 yards.

Saturday wasn't all positives for the freshman, however. Two passes from Levis down field grazed the fingertips of Brown, both of which would have completely turned the tides of Saturday's contest, setting the Wildcats up in the redzone or even going for scores.

"We felt like we had a couple of opportunities,

(Brown) missed the one there late in the last drive as well, just out of reach," Mark Stoops said of Brown after the loss. "He'll continue to work on that, I expect him to make that play. I've seen him make it in practice...he's a very talented young man and he also plays extremely tough."

Stoops went on to mention that Brown wasn't fully healthy, which unfortunately was a common theme for the Cats in Oxford.

"They'll be fine, but it was a rough game, a bunch of our guys got beat up. We're just sore, beat up and bruised," Stoops said.

Though Brown's performance wasn't enough, he noted that the team wasn't taking the loss in a bad way. While a freshman, he's already showing that maturity that becomes engrained in Stoops-coached players:

"We really weren't too much down on ourselves because we know we can still reach the goals we have set," Brown said. "Just come ready to work on Monday."

Meet Kaiya Sheron, the Kentucky football QB who could play Saturday if Will Levis is out

Brett Dawson
Louisville Courier-Journal
Oct. 7, 2022

If quarterback Will Levis can't play Saturday, when the No. 13-ranked Kentucky football team hosts South Carolina, the Wildcats likely will turn to backup Kaiya Sheron.

And though UK coach Mark Stoops has expressed his faith in backups Sheron and Deuce Hogan, this isn't a move Kentucky (4-1, 1-1 SEC) hoped to have to make this season.

Levis is a top NFL draft prospect with nearly a season and a half as a starter under his belt. He's taken every meaningful snap for UK in 2022.

Sheron, on the other hand, is a redshirt freshman who hasn't thrown a collegiate pass.

But while Stoops said Thursday that Levis has not been ruled out for Saturday's game, speculation about his status has significantly altered the betting line, dropping Kentucky from a 10-point favorite to a 6.5-point favorite in the span of less than a day.

So who is Sheron, Kentucky's likely QB2?

Here are some things to know about the Wildcats' potential starter:

Kaiya Sheron was QB3 to start the season

Hogan — who transferred from Iowa after last season — technically won the No. 2 spot entering UK's season opener against Miami (Ohio).

But this week's depth chart listed Sheron and Hogan both as potential second-stringers, with Sheron's name listed first. And Sheron is the only one of the backups to appear in a game this season. He got in late against Youngstown State on Sept. 17 but didn't record any statistics.

It's no surprise that the backup race has been back and forth. Stoops said prior to the season opener that Hogan's "consistency" won him the spot but that both quarterbacks had "done a lot of good things throughout camp."

"Kaiya (Sheron) really showed some flashes that excites us," Stoops said then. "So, you never know where that's going to go and how it'll end up as the season plays out. We have confidence in both of the backup quarterbacks and we'll see where it goes."

Kaiya Sheron has a dramatic win at Kroger Field

Though he's never played for Kentucky, Sheron led Somerset High School to the 2019 Class 2A state title game at Kroger Field.

He did it in dramatic fashion.

With time expired and one untimed down remaining in the game, Sheron threw a 20-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Tate Madden for a game-winning score.

That Somerset team went 14-1 en route to the state title.

The championship was the team highlight of Sheron's high school career, but he posted big numbers at Somerset, where he was named Class 2A Player of the Year by the Kentucky Football Coaches Association in 2019 and 2020.

As a senior, he threw for 2,016 yards and 15 touchdowns. His junior year, Sheron threw for 3,218 yards and 28 touchdowns.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

Liam Coen saw good things in Kaiya Sheron

Though he was always a long shot, Sheron was a potential starter last season, when Levis was an incoming transfer from Penn State who hadn't claimed the starting job or made his name at UK.

Sheron, who had committed to Kentucky in March 2020, graduated early at Somerset and enrolled at UK in January 2021. So he'd been through spring practice. Levis hadn't arrived in time to do so.

But Sheron wasn't the only QB who'd been through a spring with then-offensive coordinator Liam Coen, and Joey Gatewood and Beau Allen were bigger threats to Levis. Still, Coen — now the offensive coordinator of the NFL's Los Angeles Rams — saw signs in Sheron's practice performance.

"He's really kind of a cool customer who's got some stuff too him," Coen said in the spring of 2021. "He's got a big arm."

Life without Levis was a letdown, but let's not give up on Kentucky football just yet

John Clay
Lexington Herald-Leader
Oct. 9, 2022

You're ready, right? You've seen enough. The fumbles. The bad snaps. The missed field goals. The sacks. All those sacks. If you're a Kentucky football fan in the middle of a two-game losing streak, you're not just ready to hit the panic button, you're ready to stand on it.

In the words of the late, great Cawood Ledford, hold the phone. Yes, Kentucky's 24-14 loss to visiting South Carolina on Saturday at Kroger Field was a letdown — head coach Mark Stoops seemed more disappointed than angry — but let's not fold the tailgate tent on this 2022 season just yet.

After all, the Cats were minus Will Levis on Saturday. You remember him, right? The quarterback. Not just a potential first-round NFL Draft pick, but possible first pick overall. The team's leader. The Cats' heart and soul. Out with a foot/toe injury, Levis spent Saturday night walking around in a boot, chatting up South Carolina Coach Shane Beamer in the pregame

Life without Levis was not pretty. Did we expect it to be otherwise? Since the day backup quarterback Beau Allen placed his name in the transfer portal, UK's nightmare scenario involved a Levis injury. Saturday, nightmare became reality. For his first college start, Sheron turned in a decent performance — "I thought he did some good things when he had time," Stoops said — but he's not Will Levis.

Here's what was disappointing Saturday: Just when Stoops needed his team to rise up, it looked deflated and defeated. In the previous week's 22-19 loss at Ole Miss, the Cats were competitive but mistake-prone. Saturday, they were just mistake-prone. The fumble that spotted South Carolina 7-0 lead 13 seconds into the game. A blocked punt. A missed field goal.

Kentucky's defense reversed course. The first half, Brad White's men allowed the Gamecocks all of 90 yards. They reclaimed the football via fumble after the blocked punt. For the second straight week, they intercepted a pass in the final minute of the first half. (Last week it was Jacquez Jones; this week Trevin Wallace.) The second half was different. The first five games, UK allowed a grand total of 15 second-half points. Saturday, it allowed 17. "We've got to be better," White said.

"We've got to do a good job of providing that assistance for a first-time starter."

Regardless of who is under center, Rich Scangarello's offense continues its wheel-spinning. Minus the pick six at Florida and UK's offense has produced 52 points in three conference games. It now ranks 99th nationally in total offense, 81st in yards per play. Chris Rodriguez did rush for 126 yards on 22 attempts. With the Cats playing catch-up, however, Rodriguez was limited to six second-half carries.

Give South Carolina credit. Having lost seven of the last eight to Kentucky, the Gamecocks were due. They were 0-5 against Stoops in Lexington. They had circled this matchup. With Levis out, they were ready to pounce. And pounce they did.

To be sure, the Cats are banged-up. Starting right offensive tackle Jeremy Flax didn't play Saturday. Jacquez Jones is out indefinitely. Receivers Tayvion Robinson and Dane Key were both hurt near game's end. Then there's Levis. The main man. He told the SEC Network crew in pregame that he would be back this Saturday for Mississippi State.

That's right, another top-25 team is next up on UK's to-do list. No rest for the weary. Mike Leach's Bulldogs are 5-1. Then, after a much-needed off week, Kentucky travels to Tennessee. At 5-0, the Vols are on fire. Get this: Some are predicting that Tennessee might actually be favored when Alabama comes to Knoxville next Saturday.

"No one is going to feel sorry for us," Stoops said afterward.

Nor should they. It's life in the SEC. Eat or be eaten. Deal with it. And so must the Cats. A promising Kentucky football season might be on the brink. The faithful might be mashing down on that panic button. Me? My hand might be hovering over that button, but I'm not quite ready to push.

Why Kentucky coaches said lopsided loss to South Carolina isn't on backup QB Kaiya Sheron

Brooks Holton
Louisville Courier-Journal
Oct. 9, 2022

Kaiya Sheron turned around, and South Carolina had the ball on Kentucky's 2-yard line.

Sheron said he didn't see the botched reverse handoff from Chris Rodriguez to Barion Brown to open Saturday's game against the Gamecocks. He said he was focused on being Brown's lead blocker, but an ominous roar from the crowd at Kroger Field told him something had gone awry. Only 13 seconds into his first collegiate start, and the redshirt freshman from Somerset was tasked with engineering a comeback.

If that was supposed to rattle Sheron, he said it didn't work.

"I had full confidence in the offense, the guys that I'm around (and) the plan that we had coming into the game," the quarterback said after No. 13 UK fell to unranked South Carolina 24-14. "I had complete confidence in the coaches and the players, so I wasn't worried at all."

Stepping in for the injured Will Levis, Sheron credited his teammates for "having confidence in me" and "building me up" throughout Saturday's game, even when the Wildcats' chances of pulling out a victory seemed all but impossible.

"No matter how we finished last drive, they were just very confident in me," he said. "It felt good."

When the dust settled on a second straight loss, however, Kentucky head coach Mark Stoops was left thinking about how the rest of the team — staff included — could have done a better job helping Sheron feel comfortable during his first time under center against a Southeastern Conference opponent.

"He did some good things when he had time, I thought, when we put him in a position to be successful," Stoops said after the Wildcats dropped to 4-2 overall and 1-2 in conference play. "I don't think we played very good around him. One thing that I put on all of us — myself, the coaches and the team — I told the team, 'I don't think we responded and played very well around him.' I thought we played as poorly as we have all year at certain positions around a first-time starter, and I don't think that's right for that young man."

Sheron completed 15 of his 27 pass attempts for 178 yards and two touchdowns. He threw a desperation interception with Kentucky down multiple scores and less than three minutes remaining in the fourth quarter and was sacked six times for a net loss of 54 yards, bringing UK to 25 sacks allowed on the season.

"I didn't feel like (the moment) was too big for him," first-year offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello said. "I felt like he was seeing it, composed and all that, but we just got off to a poor start and never found a rhythm. I don't know that we had a good enough plan to give him a chance to be successful the way it played out, quite honestly. That's on me."

Sheron didn't shy away from admitting Levis "can do things that I can't" and that coaches wouldn't "give me the rein that Will has" in his first start. But, after practicing all week with a starter's mindset, he said the lopsided result had nothing to do with the game plan — "it was just on us."

"Kaiya's an SEC quarterback. He's here on scholarship. It's nothing different, you know, he's here just like everybody else," Rodriguez said. "I trusted him to get the job done."

"You will not see him be nervous. He's always calm, composed and, whenever coach finally told us (Saturday) that he was gonna start, it was the same old Kaiya."

For all of Sheron's poise during and after a jarring loss, the issues Stoops, Scangarello and defensive coordinator Brad White identified need to be addressed.

South Carolina's defense entered Saturday's game with just four sacks to its name through five games. After facing the Wildcats' spotty offensive line without starting right tackle Jeremy Flax, the Gamecocks left Lexington with 10 quarterback takedowns.

"Even on a max protection we got pressure, which is inexcusable," Stoops said. "We got to do a better job."

"You want to take shots down the field, but you get conservative with protection and different things at times and you don't want to make a mistake," Scangarello said. "The defense was playing really good in the first half, so we felt like we were in the game and we were willing to be conservative with a young player, and that's how it played out. We missed some opportunities on third down — a dropped ball, an assignment mistake in protection. It was really just not good."

To compensate for the shaky pass protection, Scangarello said UK tried "all the little tricks," including changing up its cadence at the line of scrimmage. That didn't stop South Carolina from getting to Sheron, and the Wildcats were flagged for five false-start penalties.

Sheron was also quick to take the blame for taking "unnecessary sacks."

"They like to pressure and they brought the corner on one play and literally just came free because we just didn't look out at him, but yet the same guy got it right in practice," Scangarello said. "I have to own it. We'll evaluate in every way, but you know, it's — we gotta be better at it. It's hard to drop back and throw if the pocket's on top of you or the quarterback doesn't move up in the pocket when they give him good protection, which I thought happened tonight, as well."

Stoops also placed some blame on Kentucky's receiving corps, which was down senior transfer Tayvion Robinson for much of the second half due to injury. The group, Stoops said, didn't make enough "competitive catches" and wasn't as assignment sound as it needed to be.

"I mean, you got a guy out there that's making his first start," the coach said. "We gotta play the way we can play."

White owned up to his unit not helping Sheron when it could during the second half. The Wildcats forced two turnovers and limited

South Carolina to 90 yards of total offense before the break but wasn't as opportunistic and struggled to get off the field once play resumed, allowing 266 yards from scrimmage.

"Today had everything to do with just execution and tackling," White said. "We've got to be better at the end of the day. We've got to do a good job of providing that assistance for a first-time starter."

Stoops said after the game that Levis is still "day to day" with an undisclosed foot injury. Levis told the SEC Network before Saturday's game that he'll be "good" to play against Mississippi State next week.

Regardless of if Levis is back against the Bulldogs, UK's problems go beyond who is under center.

3 takeaways: Kentucky football, Chris Rodriguez grind down Mississippi State in SEC clash

Brooks Holton
Louisville-Courier Journal
Oct. 15, 2022

On the verge of losing three consecutive Southeastern Conference games for the second time in as many seasons, the Kentucky football team delivered a bounce-back win Saturday night at Kroger Field.

The No. 22 Wildcats (5-2, 2-2 SEC) knocked off No. 16 Mississippi State 27-17 behind a gritty performance from quarterback Will Levis, a dominant night from tailback Chris Rodriguez and an impressive defensive showing against the nation's leading passer, Will Rogers.

UK trailed the Bulldogs 10-6 with less than nine minutes remaining in the third quarter but outscored head coach Mike Leach's squad 21-7 from there.

Levis threw for 230 yards and a score in his return to the starting lineup from a reported case of turf toe, but Rodriguez stole the show with 196 yards and two touchdowns on 30 carries. The tailback was seen cramping multiple times Saturday night but powered through the discomfort en route to his best game since returning to action in Week 5.

With Rodriguez leading the way, the Wildcats rushed for 239 yards on 48 attempts. Their defense returned the favor by holding the Bulldogs' run game to 22 yards on 10 carries.

"I knew we would play like that," head coach Mark Stoops said after the victory, "I knew we'd play like we play: tough, resilient, together."

Here are three observations from the game, which marked the eighth year in a row that the home team has won the cross-division matchup:

With 13:48 remaining in the third quarter, Levis ran off the field and into Kentucky's locker room favoring his left, non-throwing arm. The projected first-round NFL draft pick fell hard to the ground on the previous play after completing a 33-yard pass to Barion Brown.

After watching the Wildcats struggle offensively during a lopsided loss to South Carolina with Levis on the sideline, the Big Blue Nation had every reason to hold its collective breath.

"I didn't really know what it was or how serious it was," Levis said after the game. "It hurt enough to not be able to keep playing, so it wasn't great."

Levis remained in the locker room long enough for an X-ray to come back negative on his shoulder and to get what he called "the magic shot" on the SEC Network after the game.

Almost on cue, he returned to the field and a chorus of cheers after Mississippi State took its final lead of the night and proceeded to orchestrate an eight-play, 76-yard drive capped off by a touchdown pass to Rahsaan Lewis.

Levis completed 17 of his 23 pass attempts and didn't shy away from throwing the ball when he reentered the fray. His lone blemish was throwing a pick-6 when UK made a questionable decision to go for it on fourth down and 2 with a 10-point lead and less than nine minutes remaining in regulation.

As for the turf toe, Levis said on the SEC Network that his left foot felt "good" after the game. After sitting down to answer questions from the media with a sling on his left arm, he went outside the Joe Craft Football Training Center to sign autographs for fans.

How do you stop Mississippi State quarterback Will Rogers? Stoops called it a "million-dollar question" on Thursday.

"Have you watched much film of them?" he asked. "People have tried everything."

Rogers entered Saturday's game averaging more than 350 yards and three touchdowns through the air per contest. Kentucky's defense held the SEC's leader in career completions to a season-low 203 yards and one score despite tallying just one sack and allowing Rogers to convert 68% of his passing attempts. So, how did the Wildcats stop Rogers? Stoops said it was a "team effort." The head coach credited his offense for winning the time-of-possession battle (39:22 to 20:38) and praised defensive coordinator Brad White's game plan.

Linebacker DeAndre Square, who effectively iced the game by picking off Rogers with 4:01 remaining in the fourth quarter, said the defense knew heading into the matchup it was going to have to rely primarily on a three-man pass rush. From there, it all came down to breaking on the ball and wrapping up tackles to limit the Bulldogs' yards after catches.

"What hurt us was the 21 missed tackles we had last year," said Square, who was referring to a 31-17 loss on Oct. 30, 2021, in Starkville, Mississippi. "We knew this year that we just had to tackle. We knew that they're gonna drop it off; they're gonna get big plays; but as long as we tackled we'll be fine."

"I'm beaming with pride for this guys," White added. "It had nothing to do with the stats. It had nothing to do with the score. It's how they play. ... This was the most complete game we've played to date."

Kentucky and Mississippi State entered halftime tied 3-3 after penalties negated several early opportunities for the Wildcats to reach the end zone.

Heading into Saturday's game, UK led the country with just 27 penalty yards per game. In the first quarter alone, the Wildcats were flagged eight times for a net loss of 60 yards, spoiling multiple chances to strike first in the top-25 showdown.

The most glaring missed opportunity came when an illegal block in the back erased a 78-yard punt return for a touchdown by freshman wideout Barion Brown with less than seven minutes to play in the first period.

The Wildcats' offense averaged 5.1 yards per play and reached Bulldogs territory on each of its four drives before the intermission. Flags for holding and having 12 men on the field, however, forced Will Levis and company back to their side of the 50-yard line on two of those drives, and another ended with Matt Ruffolo's third missed field goal in as many games.

UK finished the game with 11 penalties for a net loss of 81 yards. The program record for most penalties in a game is 18, which occurred against Arkansas in 1998 and against Georgia Tech in 1951.

Mississippi State committed 13 infractions for 109 yards.

How Kentucky star RB Chris Rodriguez delivered a vintage performance vs. Mississippi State

Ryan Black
Louisville Courier-Journal
Oct. 16, 2022

When Chris Rodriguez received his 26th handoff of the night Saturday, he was 11 yards away from the end zone. Four yards later, he met his first sign of resistance. One Mississippi State defender latched on. Then two. On the precipice of the goal line, three Bulldogs had at least one hand on him.

Rodriguez never stopped moving his legs. Nor his arms.

He reached the ball to the goal line for one of the most hard-fought touchdowns — it was officially designated as a 7-yard score — an observer will see.

A fifth-year senior running back for Kentucky, Rodriguez beat his chest and saluted the adoring crowd at Kroger Field, which erupted as soon as officials signaled a touchdown. The score pushed the Wildcats' lead to 20-10 with 11:43 to play.

The celebration, however, momentarily halted, as the play underwent review to assess whether he was down before breaking the plane.

It was upheld, though Rodriguez didn't understand why those in stripes needed a second look in the first place.

"I knew, in my mind, that I was in. I knew it," said Rodriguez, who finished with 196 rushing yards and two touchdowns on 31 attempts in Kentucky's 27-17 victory. "I saw it. I was looking down at (the goal line) the whole time."

With starting quarterback Will Levis still not at 100% health entering Saturday's game — he sat out last week's home loss to South Carolina because of a foot injury, then left Saturday night's game briefly in the third quarter with an arm ailment before returning — Rodriguez's already sizable role on the team took on even greater import.

And he delivered with a vintage performance, his best of the season, and joined some exclusive UK company in the process by cracking the 3,000-yard mark.

Rodriguez earned 196 tough yards on 30 carries Saturday, scoring twice against the Bulldogs. He seemed to need some time to get up to speed after he debuted following a four-game absence the team didn't classify a suspension but appears to be linked to a UK self-report of a few student-athletes being paid for hours not worked at UK HealthCare. His debut against Ole Miss ended with 72 yards and a score on 19 carries.

He's only got better with each game since, and his hard running extended drives and allowed the Wildcats to break open a game that was noted at 3-3 at halftime. He was at his best in the second half when he picked up 135 of those yards and both touchdowns.

"We had to get into some bigger sets," Kentucky coach Mark Stoops said, "because (Mississippi State does) a lot of things, a lot of pressures — as you have seen — and they created one again tonight. They've created a lot of turnovers and a lot of points off turnovers, so I thought our big sets in the running game really helped us."

Wildcat offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello said what makes Rodriguez so lethal, particularly after initial contact, can't be boiled down to one factor.

"He just runs behind his pads. He's always able to get an edge on (a defender) and he never stops his feet on contact. He's got incredibly strong lower body power ... one guy is just not going to bring him down," Scangarello said. "When you're that kind of back, you're going to be successful. If you don't run 4.4 (in the 40-yard dash), you have to be that kind of player. There have been some really, really great backs who have that kind of mindset. I think he's one of them."

Rodriguez, who on Saturday became just the fourth Wildcat ever to surpass 3,000 career rushing yards, is a big-time back in every sense of the word, Scangarello said.

"You have to be able to rely on those guys to make hard yards. It can't be blocked perfectly all the time," Scangarello said. "When you can trust that, it makes the game easier to call and it makes your mind feel better, and yeah, everyone feeds off that energy. He's just one of those special backs in this conference."

Kentucky's Chris Rodriguez Jr. scores a touchdown run against Mississippi State.

Oct. 15, 2022

Teammates couldn't help singing Rodriguez's praises, either.

"Chris is a beast," said receiver Raheem Lewis, who considers Rodriguez one of his closest confidants. "He's just a machine. Sometimes you've just got to feed him. He might be tired, but he'll let you know if he needs to come out. He just means everything to us."

After sitting out the first four games of the season, Rodriguez is trying to make up for lost time. Saturday's stellar performance boosted his career rushing total to 3,135. He's just 735 yards behind the school's all-time leader, Benny Snell Jr. (3,873). With five regular-season contests, and likely a bowl game, still to go, Rodriguez has the record within his sights.

He's confident he can do it. He just won't lose sleep over it if he comes up short.

"That's the plan," Rodriguez said. "But if I don't, I don't. It is what it is."

'He's a superhero.' The legend of Will Levis grows with Kentucky football's huge win.

John Clay
Lexington Herald-Leader
Oct. 16, 2022

Peyton Manning got it right.

Before the Hall of Fame quarterback/media personality/entrepreneur/all-around good guy was smoking celebratory cigars in the Tennessee locker room after his alma mater's epic victory over Alabama, Eli's older brother was nailing it as a pigskin prognosticator.

When all of his ESPN "College GameDay" colleagues on Saturday morning were picking a surging Mississippi State to beat a sinking Kentucky at Kroger Field on Saturday night, Manning went against the grain, picking the underdog Cats.

I like Will Levis," Manning said. "This guy is an NFL quarterback."

Surely by the end of Kentucky's 27-17 win over Mike Leach's Bulldogs, even the toughest Levis skeptic had to be nodding in agreement. Not just for Levis' physical traits, his prototypical size, his howitzer arm strength. Most of all, they had to tip their hat to his leadership and toughness.

"It's hard to give it the recognition it deserves," UK Coach Mark Stoops said afterward.

Indeed, if there turns out to be a seminal moment of this 2022 Kentucky football season, it will be the Levis Sprint. First there was his sprint to the locker room after suffering a left shoulder injury while being hit on a 33-yard completion to Barion Brown with 13:48 left in the third quarter, the game tied at 3-3. Then, a few minutes later, there was Levis' sprint out of the same locker room and back to the UK sideline, all to thunderous approval from the 61,451 in attendance.

"I knew with that guy, being that it was a non-throwing shoulder, that if it wasn't broke, he'd be back out there," Stoops said. "And sure enough, he was."

Next series, Levis wasn't just back in the game, he was back in his groove. Post-injury, he connected on five of seven passes for 90 yards and a TD, with one interception. Even when that pick turned into a pick six that suddenly chopped Kentucky's lead to 20-17, Levis was undaunted. Next possession, the quarterback hung in the pocket and calmly lofted a perfect 50-yard pass to open receiver Dekel Crowder that set up Chris Rodriguez's 7-yard try-and-stop-me touchdown run that sealed the deal.

The pass to Crowder came on a third-and-4 play. No coincidence there. Levis was a third down master/monster all night, completing 8 of 8 eight passes on the money down for 186 yards. That included throws of 21, 31, 33, 31 and 50 yards.

Let's face it, this was a must-win game for the Cats. They were still stinging from shooting themselves in the foot at Ole Miss and failing to show vs. South Carolina.

"All of our pride was hurt a week ago, just the way we played," Stoops said.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

A third straight setback would have taken this UK campaign to a dark place. After all, Tennessee and Georgia are among those remaining on the schedule. Yikes. Drop to 4-3 before the bye week and you could almost hear BBN turning their full attention to basketball.

Levis refused to let that happen.

“He’s a superhero,” said receiver Rahsaan Lewis, who caught the QB’s scoring throw. “You can tell how much he loves the game, loves us, and loves UK, and doing something like that is a lot, so we all love him and fight for him.”

Kentucky’s defense played refuse-to-lose, as well. It bounced back from a poor second half against South Carolina to lock up Leach’s Air Raid. State entered the night averaging 40 points and 461 yards per game. It exited with a mere 10 points and 225 total yards. State had been averaging 107.6 rushing yards per game. Saturday, it finished with 22.

“I think they consistently whipped our defensive line with their offensive line,” Leach said.

Stoops concurred, agreeing that it was his embattled O-line’s best showing of the season. And surely it had to be inspired by the sight of its inspirational leader laying it on the line.

“He’s a great leader,” Stoops said. “And, you know, he has that belief about him, you know that — because he’s earned it. He’s worked for it.”

The lesson from all this: Listen to Peyton Manning. He knows his quarterbacks.

‘Tennessee fans, they don’t like me.’ Barion Brown key to Kentucky’s upset hopes vs. Vols

Jon Hale
Lexington Herald-Leader
Oct. 24, 2022

No. 3 Tennessee is not exactly lacking big-play threats at wide receiver this season. Junior Jalin Hyatt ranks fourth nationally in receiving yards per game (109.9) and leads the country in receiving touchdowns (12). He also leads the country in most receptions for at least 30 yards (nine), 40 yards (eight) and 60 yards (three). Hyatt is not even considered the best wide receiver on the Tennessee roster.

That honor goes to senior Cedric Tillman, the No. 5-ranked wide receiver in the 2023 NFL Draft class according to ESPN analyst Todd McShay. Tillman has played in just three games this season due to an ankle injury — with 17 catches for 246 yards — but could return to the field to face Kentucky this week. If No. 19 Kentucky pulls off the upset of the undefeated Volunteers in Knoxville, Tennessee fans figure to ask why one more dynamic receiver is not on the roster though.

Wildcats freshman Barion Brown, a Midseason Freshman All-American, is from Nashville. He is already one of the most dangerous kick returners in the country and in recent weeks has become a featured part of the Kentucky passing game. “I just know Tennessee fans, they don’t like me because I committed here,” Brown told the Herald-Leader before the season. “But I feel like it was the best for me. My mom and dad didn’t want me to stay in Tennessee. I just feel like it was the best decision for me.”

Like most of the top programs across the Southeast, Tennessee offered Brown a scholarship as a four-star recruit from Pearl-Cohn High School. Brown chose instead to join Kentucky’s growing Nashville recruiting pipeline. The Wildcats also signed four-star Nashville twins Keaten and Destin Wade — Tennessee was a finalist for the brothers — in its 2022 recruiting class. Kentucky signed three-star cornerback Maxwell Hariston from Nashville in the 2021 class. The Wildcats hold a commitment from four-star Nashville prep wide receiver Shamar Porter in the 2023 class. “Coach Stoops and all those guys have really invested time in the area and made it a priority,” said Buck Fitzgerald, the president of National Playmakers Academy, a Nashville-based gym where Brown and the Wade twins trained. “People feel like it’s a priority. They’re present. They’re recruiting multiple guys in that area. And they play a high level of ball. They’re winning nine and 10 games.

“Guys my age, sometimes we look at things and look at the old blue bloods and say why doesn’t a kid go here? These kids, they have a different perspective. Different teams are relevant, different schools are relevant in their lifetime, so now Kentucky is cool. It’s hip, it’s fun, the fan base is amazing. And it’s right close to home where their family can see them play big-time Southeastern Conference football. They’re successful and guys are going to the league, so they’re checking every box.”

star quarterback Will Levis is injured. Keaten Wade and Hairston could play as reserves for the UK defense. Brown will be key to the Wildcats’ game plan though. He ranks second on the team in receptions (24) and receiving yards (350). He is averaging 43.3 yards per kickoff return with one kickoff return for a touchdown. While serving as a fill-in punt returner for injured starter Tayvion Robinson in Kentucky’s win over Mississippi State, Brown appeared to return a punt for a touchdown but had the play called back by a block-in-the-back penalty that was not needed to break him free.

“He’s very, very explosive and getting better with every opportunity as he’s getting stronger, getting adapted to the speed of the SEC,” UK Coach Mark Stoops said of Brown earlier this month. “He’s a guy that is very, very talented. You see it every day.” Brown’s receiving numbers could be even better but he and Levis have just missed multiple deep connections by inches. Even as the pair work on that timing, Brown has been a weapon for the offense on a variety of short screen passes designed to get him the ball in space.

“He’s a special player,” offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello said. “He’s got a real innate feel for it. ... To me, those are like run plays. You get your best players the ball in space and you let them do what they can do.” While Tennessee might not need another dynamic receiver right now, both Tillman and Hyatt could jump to the NFL Draft after the season. A big game from Brown this week then could add a new level of intrigue to the rivalry for years to come.

“I call him Big-play Barion,” Kentucky star running back Chris Rodriguez said. “He gets the job done.”

Blue Preview: Can Kentucky bounce back at improving Missouri?

Mark Story
Lexington Herald-Leader
Oct. 31, 2022

Coming off a disastrous showing in a 44-6 loss at Tennessee, Kentucky will seek to get its season back on the beam against an improving Missouri team that has either won or played its foe within one score in all five of its SEC games.

THE NUMBER TO WATCH

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

How many tackles for loss Kentucky surrenders. UK is 106th in the FBS in tackles for loss allowed, giving up 6.75 a game. That could be a problem against a Missouri defense that is 15th in the FBS in TFL, averaging 7.1 a game. Miz-zou has 15 defenders with at least one tackle for loss and has three — linebacker Ty’Ron Hopper (7.5), safety Martez Manuel (5.5) and defensive end Isiah McGuire (5.5) — with more than five.

THE BIG THREAT

The Missouri defense. In SEC games, no one has scored more than 26 points vs. the Tigers — and that was No. 1 Georgia in a 26-22 come-from-behind victory. Otherwise, the Tigers have held South Carolina to 10, Vanderbilt to 14, Auburn to 17, Florida to 24. For the season, Missouri is 19th in the country in total defense (allowing 310.1 yards a game) and 31st in the country in scoring defense (21.5 points per game).

ON THE SPOT

Rich Scangarello. Through eight games of Scangarello’s first season running the Kentucky offense, the Wildcats’ attack has too often seemed disjointed and halting. Offensive line issues account for some of that, but it would certainly be a boon to the morale around the Kentucky football program if Scangarello’s offense could close 2022 on an uptick.

THE MOOD

Is deflated. A Kentucky season that began with talk of challenging Georgia for the SEC East title has fallen well short of that level. Approaching the time when the Big Blue Nation’s attention will be split between football and basketball, a road win over a rising Missouri team would at least keep Cats backers plugged into the football season.

'More like Great-fellow': Kentucky football fans are Venmoing punter Colin Goodfellow

Ryan Black
Louisville Courier-Journal
Nov. 5, 2022

COLUMBIA, Mo. — Colin Goodfellow’s game-saving play Saturday against Missouri turned some Kentucky fans into good fellows.

Goodfellow, a fifth-year senior punter, was able to track down an errant snap in the shadow of his own end zone and still kick the ball away late in the fourth quarter of Saturday’s contest, with the Wildcats clinging to a 21-17 lead. Not only did he manage a punt, but more importantly, he drew a roughing the kicker penalty that gave the Wildcats a fresh set of downs — and an opportunity to run more time off the clock.

But it came at a cost: Goodfellow had to be taken off the field on a cart following a hit from Missouri linebacker Will Norris.

After the game, Kentucky coach Mark Stoops said Goodfellow was “in severe pain.” The team, Stoops added, hopes the injury is “nothing major.”

Goodfellow’s sacrifice for the team led members of the fan base to donate money to what appears to be his personal Venmo account. The friendly gestures -- mostly just a few bucks with comments saying the cash is for things like beer, ice and wings -- appears to have started when a Twitter account named Mark Stoops Burner shared a screenshot of Goodfellow’s Venmo account shortly after the punter’s game-saving punt.

But in all likelihood, the generosity of the Wildcats’ fan base won’t help Goodfellow’s bank account.

Because his on-field feat is not related to his name, image and likeness, Goodfellow likely will have to return the money, stemming from NCAA rules on compensation.

Kentucky football WR Dane Key broke this freshman receiving record against Missouri

Ryan Black
Louisville Courier-Journal
Nov. 5, 2022

Dane Key now holds a Kentucky football freshman record to himself.

Key, a receiver, hauled in a 9-yard pass for a touchdown in the first quarter of Saturday’s game at Missouri. It marked his fourth TD catch of the 2022 campaign, setting a single-season program mark. He entered Saturday tied with Derek Abney (2000) and Tommy Cook (2001), who each had three touchdown receptions during their freshman seasons.

Key’s score Saturday gave UK a 7-0 lead at the 9:33 mark of the first quarter.

His four TD receptions — Key had one TD in each of the first three weeks — also are a team high; Tayvion Robinson has three, while Jordan Dingle and Barion Brown have two apiece.

Kentucky's inside linebacker duo of the future star in win over Missouri

Aaron Gershon

Nov. 5, 2022

Kentucky’s starting inside linebacker duo of the future showcased star potential Saturday in the Cats’ 21-17 win over Missouri.

Junior D’Eryk Jackson, who made his fourth straight start at middle linebacker and sophomore Trevin Wallace made his first start of the year at weakside linebacker; both played a major role in the victory.

Both players filled in for injured fifth-year seniors. Jackson made another start in place of Jacquez Jones, who suffered an injury during Kentucky’s Week 5 loss at Ole Miss, while Wallace filled in for DeAndre Square, who suffered an injury in the Cats’ loss at Tennessee a week ago.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

"Obviously there's, there's always an excitement when somebody's able to play and see, ok, what does the next guy up have," UK defensive coordinator Brad White said before the game of the duo getting a chance to start next to one another. You go through the season and you're heartbroken for a guy like Jalen Geiger, and then you see that elevation of Jordan Lovett. You're heartbroken for Jacquez, watching him have to miss games and then the elevation of D'Eryk Jackson. The same thing. So it doesn't matter what position you're always interested to see that next person.

"Obviously, what you sort of lose and experience, you gain in youthful exuberance. But you also have to understand that there are going to be mistakes and some other guys are going to have to fix those mistakes that they make.

Knowing that they're the UK inside linebacker duo of the next year or two, Jackson and Wallace have become close friends off the field, making it easier to communicate on the field.

"We know how to communicate with each other," Jackson said. "We know what gets each other going. We know what makes each other tick and stuff like that. So I think that's really good for us."

"It helps out a lot like a whole bunch," Wallace added. "You want somebody that your cool with off the field because you can play with them comfortably on the field ... it feels real great having him by my side. I have a best friend on the field, too, because we can talk about it outside of football and on the football field, we can communicate even more."

Starting next to each other for the first time did not disappoint.

Wallace logged eight total tackles with two tackles for a loss in his first start of the season.

"We all love DeAndre (Square). I wish he could play another six years. I absolutely love that guy. He's one of the heartbeats of our team. But we have a really good player there in Trevin," UK head coach Mark Stoops said postgame. "There was no doubt he was going to go play."

Jackson logged six total tackles for the Wildcats, ranking tied for second on the team behind Wallace with Andru Phillips and JJ Weaver.

"Really pleased with how he (Wallace) played," White said. "I thought he was locked in all week at practice. He was excited for this opportunity and obviously, he took advantage of it. He was really good on the sidelines. Same thing with D'Eryk."

The moment of starting together is one both had been trained for by not only the Kentucky coaching staff but by Square himself.

"Sometimes he'll (Square) sit back and tell us, ok, think of it of me not here," Wallace said. Like think of me gone to the NFL or me going somewhere else because it's going to be you and D-Jack (Jackson) next year. So think of it as I'm not here no more and step up and do what I did or do it even better than I did. Go watch film do this and more because you're going to be the voice next year. It's good. He beats us sometimes, but sometimes he lets us take the role that he does and keep doing what he did."

That coaching continued Saturday as both Square and Jones made the trip to Columbia to help their younger teammates and be an extra set of eyes on the sidelines.

"I had butterflies in my stomach when we first started playing," Wallace said. "But Square came over and talked to me and was like. It's your game. If you want this position, you can go out there and take it. He was like just go out there and play ball and that's what I did."

"You can tell just how much they've soaked in from those two older guys (Jones and Square)," White added. "It was awesome to see those two older inside backers every time they came off the field. They were encouraging them. They were talking about them. They were making sure they understood everything. It's fun to watch. It's that older brother younger brother effect and they pull just as hard for when those guys are out in the field as when they're on the field."

Jackson and Wallace are the expected starting duo of the future, but there's also quality inside linebacker depth behind them that the coaching staff is excited about. Martez Thrower blocked a punt on special teams earlier this year and has served as Jackson's backup the last few weeks, while Michigan State transfer and second-year Wildcat Luke Fulton has a strong fall camp and has been added to the depth chart for the first time this season as a backup for the Missouri game.

"Inside linebacker we're really deep with Jacquez and DeAndre anchoring that but getting (D'Eryk Jackson) back at 100 percent and then Trevin (Wallace) is a guy we've got to get on the field," Stoops said back in August. "He's too good of a football player and the same with Martez (Thrower), and really Luke (Fulton) is playing well, so I feel like we could go three deep there, which is good because that's a very physical position and you're going to get banged up."

Kentucky's Trevin Wallace shined at Missouri in his second career start

Drew Franklin
Kentucky Sports Radio
Nov. 5, 2022

Kentucky's defense played exceptionally well in the Wildcats' win at Mizzou on Saturday, holding the Tigers to only 17 points scored and 3.9 yards per play. The defense was led in tackles by Trevin Wallace, a second-year linebacker in for the injured DeAndre Square who missed his first start since the 2020 season. Wallace was pivotal in keeping Missouri off the board and earning Kentucky's seventh win in the last eight meetings in the SEC East rivalry.

After the game, both Mark Stoops and Brad White raved about Wallace's play in his second career start in the middle of Kentucky's defense.

"Really pleased with how he played," said White in his postgame remarks. "I thought he was locked in all week at practice. He was excited for this opportunity and he obviously took advantage of it. He was really good on the sideline. Same thing with D'Eyrk (Jackson), those guys."

Jackson started in place of Kentucky's other injured veteran linebacker, Jaquez Jones.

"Obviously, you can tell how much they've soaked in from those two older guys. It was awesome to see those two older guys, those two older inside linebackers, every time they came off the field, they were encouraging them, they were talking about them, they were making sure they understood everything. It's fun to watch, it's sort of that older brother, younger brother effect and they pull just as hard for when those guys are on the field as when they're on the field. It was good."

When Mark Stoops looked back on the win, he admitted he wasn't worried about how Wallace would play in place of Square. He has seen enough of Wallace in practice and in Wallace's 20 game appearances to know not to be overly concerned about the second-time starter.

"I knew all along," he said of Wallace's big day with a team-high nine tackles. "I didn't blink an eye with Trevin in there. I knew for sure he would play well because he is a really good football player."

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

Wallace needed a pep talk from DeAndre Square

Stoops may not have worried about Trevin Wallace, but Wallace admitted to early-game butterflies. The sophomore was feeling the pressure of standing in for a team captain and it wasn't until Square pulled him aside for a sideline conversation that he was able to shake the jitters.

Wallace said in his postgame interview, "I had butterflies in my stomach when I first started playing but Square came and talked to me and said, 'It's your game. You want this position, you go and take it. Go out there and play ball.' And that's what I did."

Sharing the field with Jackson, another backup linebacker in similar shoes, helped Wallace get settled in, too.

"It was real fun," he said of playing beside Jackson. "D'Eyrk is my best friend so we were out there having fun and sometimes I'd look at him and start laughing, saying, bro this is what we wanted. So it was real fun."

Kentucky holds off Missouri to clinch bowl eligibility for seventh straight season

Aaron Gershon
Cats Pause
Nov. 5, 2022

The Kentucky Wildcats are back in the win column as the Cats were able to hold off a Missouri fourth quarter comeback win to secure a 21-17 win at Faurot Field Saturday.

With the win, Kentucky is bowl eligible for a school-record seventh straight season.

"It's just another step. I hadn't thought of that. We're beyond that, but that doesn't mean we take it for granted," UK head coach Mark Stoops said of clinching bowl eligibility. "That doesn't mean it's easy because it's not. It's very difficult. It's an emotional game. Things change year to year so you don't take it for granted, that's for sure."

Kentucky's defense got off to a hot start as, on the game's opening possession, both Trevin Wallace and Keaten Wade logged tackles for a loss to force a Missouri three-and-out.

Like the defense, Kentucky's offense got off to a quick start as, on its first play from scrimmage Will Levis connected with Barion Brown on a deep ball for a 39-yard gain to the Tiger 32-yard-line. Facing a third and 11 three plays later, Levis hit Jordan Dingle to move UK to the Tigers' 16-yard-line and later in the drive on third and goal from the nine, Levis hit Dane Key in the end zone to give UK an early 7-0 lead.

The touchdown catch was Key's first since Week 3 and fourth of the year setting a UK Freshman program record for touchdown catches in a single-season.

"It's awesome," Key said postgame about breaking the program record. "I just want to keep going out there and keep playing. It's cool to have my name right there, but I just want to go out there each week and just keep playing how I should play."

Missouri would move across midfield on its ensuing possession thanks to a 15-yard and 14-yard run by running back Cody Schrader, but the drive would stall at the Kentucky 32-yard-line forcing the Tigers to settle for a 49-yard Harrison Mevis field goal which would miss wide left, but UK was flagged for having 12-men on the field. Mevis would retry a 44-yard-field goal and knock it through, cutting the UK lead to 7-3.

Kentucky would start its next drive at its own 35-yard-line after Missouri's kickoff went out of bounds. UK would move across midfield after Levis hit Dingle for 17-yards on third down, moving the Cats to the Tigers' 41-yard-line. The drive would later stall at the 25-yard-line where Matt Ruffolo attempted a 43-yard-field goal but missed short.

After forcing a Tigers three and out and a shanked punt from Jack Stonehouse, Kentucky would take over at its own 47-yard-line where, on the final play of the first quarter, Levis was pushed out of bounds late on a three-yard run and a small fight broke out on the UK sideline. The lone flag was on Missouri's Josh Landry for unsportsmanlike conduct, moving Kentucky to the Tigers' 35-yard-line to start the second quarter.

Kentucky would be unable to take advantage of the quality field position as Levis was sacked on back-to-back plays by Joseph Charleston and Ty'Ron Hopper leading to a punt.

UK's defense would pick up the offense as Brady Cook fumbles on a scramble and Kentucky's Jordan Wright scooped it up at the Missouri 43-yard-line.

Looking to return the favor to its defense, Levis hit tight end Josh Kattus for a 15-yard gain giving the freshman his first career reception, but the drive stalled, leading to another Ruffolo field goal attempt which would miss from 47-yards out.

After both teams exchanged punts, Missouri drove down to the UK 38-yard-line. with 2:06 left in the half, where it faced a 4th and 1. The Tigers attempted to go for it with a Cook quarterback sneak, but he was stopped short by Kentucky's J.J. Weaver, turning the ball over on downs.

Kentucky would not be able to turn the stop into points as its offense was forced to punt after Levis was sacked for the fourth time of the half, leaving the score 7-3 Cats heading into halftime.

The UK offense opened the second half with a 25-yard run from Chris Rodriguez to move up to the Tigers 35-yard-line but the drive would stall leading to another punt. Missouri would face a fourth down on its first drive of the second half where Stackhouse dropped the snap and was forced to try to run for the first down. The Missouri punter was stopped short of the first down by Kentucky's Keidron Smith leading to a turnover on downs at the UK 34-yard-line.

Kentucky would take full advantage of the Tiger special teams blunder as Levis hit Tavvion Robinson for 18-yards to move the Cats to the Missouri one-yard-line where on second and goal, Levis found Dingle for a one-yard touchdown pass extending the Wildcat lead to 14-3 with 5:47 left in the third quarter.

The score was Dingle's third touchdown grab of the year and the redshirt freshman now has 17 grabs for 188 yards on the season after making three catches for 35 yards and the score Saturday.

"He's so smart. And he's just he works his tail off," Levis said postgame. His attitude is as good as anyone on the team. Very quiet, doesn't say anything unless it's positive or adding to what's being said at the moment. He's established himself as the premier tight end on our team right now."

At the end of the third quarter, Missouri moved into the red zone as Cook hit Mekhi Miller for a 25-yard catch and run moving the Tigers to the UK 15-yard-line. The Tigers would end the quarter set up with a first and goal from the three-yard line after an eight-yard Luther Burden run and a four-yard Schrader run.

Kentucky's defense would keep Missouri out of the end zone on the first three plays of the fourth quarter, but on fourth and goal from the one, Cook found the end zone on a play action run. The Tigers would attempt a two-point conversion but Cook fired incomplete, leaving the score at 14-9 in favor of UK with 13 minutes left to play.

Missouri would maintain momentum after the touchdown as it sacked Levis for a sixth time to force another Wildcat punt.

Looking to take its first lead of the day, the Tigers moved into Kentucky territory on its ensuing possession as Cook hit Burden for a 35-yard-gain setting up Missouri at the Kentucky 30-yard-line.

Missouri would move inside the 20-yard-line with a 12-yard completion to Barrett Banister and two plays later the Tigers hit paydirt as Cook ran in a 20-yard score. Mizzou would add a two-point conversion with a Cook completion to Tauskie Dove giving the Tigers a 17-14 lead with 8:07 to play.

Needing to respond, Kentucky took over at its own 42-yard-line after an attempted squib kick that deflected off a Wildcat.

UK would begin to take advantage of the field position as Levis hit Key for a 19-yard run and on the next play Missouri's Darius Robinson was flagged for a horse collar tackle on Rodriguez to help move the Wildcats to the Tigers 21-yard-line.

There, Kentucky had a touchdown on a wide receiver screen pass to Brown called back after Dekel Crowdus was flagged for holding. Three plays later on third and 11, UK was able to bounce back as Levis hit Key for a 22-yard touchdown strike to put the Cats in front 21-17 with 5:18 left in the game.

Kentucky's defense would force a Tiger punt and take over at its own 35-yard-line with 4:13 to play.

Looking to milk the clock, Kentucky ran three straight times with Rodriguez but were unable to pick up a first down as Missouri called its second timeout and forced a UK punt with 2:34 left to play.

On the punt attempt, the snap soared over the head of punter Colin Goodfellow. Goodfellow recovered the punt within the UK five-yard-line and attempted to get a punt off and was roughed by Missouri's Will Norris leading to an automatic first down for the Wildcats.

"It was just a remarkable play by him," Stoops said. "At first, I was like, I wish he would have taken the safety. But he made a remarkable play. The way it was explained to me that we was in the tackle box still."

Goodfellow would be carted off after suffering an injury on the play.

"Unfortunately for him, he is injured, and he was in some severe pain," Stoops said. "So I hope it's nothing major. But I know he was hurting bad."

With the ball back at the Missouri 44-yard-line and the Tigers left with just one timeout, Kentucky got the clock down to 46 seconds where it faced a fourth and two from the Missouri 36-yard-line.

After a false start, backup punter Wilson Berry punted the ball away, with Burden returning it to the Tigers' 13-yard-line, leaving the Tigers' offense with 38 seconds and no timeouts. That would not be enough time for a Missouri miracle as Kentucky held off the Tiger comeback bid to win the game.

"I'm just very proud of our football team," Stoops said. "I told them, there's ups and there's downs, and you have to be able to respond and bounce back whether it's a big victory or a tough defeat."

Kentucky (6-3, 3-3) will be back in action next Saturday to host Vanderbilt. Kickoff at Kroger Field is slated for noon EST.

It hasn't been pretty, but a 6-3 Kentucky football team is nothing to take for granted

John Clay
Lexington Herald-Leader
Nov. 6, 2022

Despite the busts, the blunders and special teams sins Mark Stoops' team committed Saturday at Missouri, it's important to keep the main thing the main thing.

Kentucky won the football game.

Kentucky won a road SEC football game.

Kentucky is now 6-3 overall, 3-3 in the SEC.

Kentucky is now bowl eligible for a seventh consecutive season.

"We're beyond that, but it doesn't mean we take it for granted," Stoops said on Saturday after his Cats pulled out a 21-17 victory over Mizzou on an afternoon that began cold and windy and ended in bright sunshine.

To be sure, there was plenty to gripe about in UK's performance. There was a 12-men-on-the-field penalty that allowed Missouri to re-kick and make a field goal after a miss. ("That's one on me," said Stoops, whose late player substitution caused a miscommunication mistake.) There were two Matt Ruffolo missed field goals — a 43-yarder with the wind that he appeared to rush, and a 47-yarder into the wind that came up short. There was the offense's inability to turn short fields into first half points. And there was a fourth-quarter punt snap that sailed over the head of punter Colin Goodfellow.

"Don't even ask me questions about special teams; we've got to get that fixed," said Stoops, who quickly switched gears and related to questions. "We've got to get it fixed."

There was a lot of good, however, starting with Goodfellow, who made the play of the game. With just under three minutes remaining and Kentucky clinging to a four-point lead, the punter not only ran down the errant snap, collecting the bouncing ball just before the goal line with Missouri players in hot pursuit, he also got off a punt while being crushed by one of those Tigers.

The punt made it to the UK 40. More importantly, Missouri was called for roughing the punter — "He was still in the tackle box," Stoops said of the officials' explanation — allowing the visitors to keep the football and snap the ball four more times, causing Mizzou to burn its final two timeouts before taking possession at its 13-yard line with just 38 seconds left.

Meanwhile, as the Missouri fans booed the roughing call, Goodfellow needed a cart to be taken off the field. "He was in severe pain," Stoops said afterward. "It was just a remarkable play."

There were others. Replacing the injured DeAndre Square, UK's Trevin Wallace was all over the field, making nine tackles, three for loss with one sack. On offense, facing a Missouri defense ranked 18th nationally in yards allowed per game, the Cats responded after Missouri took a 17-14 lead with 8:07 remaining.

UK's winning drive covered 58 yards in six plays. Freshman wide receiver Dane Key made the two most important. His 19-yard reception from quarterback Will Levis started the drive. His 22-yard touchdown with 5:18 left ended it when on third-and-11 Key grabbed a Levis pass, broke a tackle and dove into the end zone. "Dane's a playmaker," said Levis.

It is true these Cats are not going to accomplish their original goal. They're not going to win the SEC East. They're not going to Atlanta. When Georgia comes to Kroger Field on Nov. 19, the best they can do is play SEC spoiler.

Still, all things considered, playing in the nation's toughest conference, given the program's history, or lack thereof, three SEC victories is nothing to downplay. A Kentucky win over Vanderbilt on Saturday would clinch at least a .500 conference record for this team, its fifth in its last seven years.

Remember, this is a Kentucky football program that did not post a winning SEC record from 1978 through 2015. Only six times during that span did the Cats break even in the conference — 1979, 1984, 1993, 1998, 1999 and 2006.

"It does a lot," Stoops said when asked what the win does for a team coming off that 44-6 shellacking at Tennessee the week before. "Our players, it's hard, it is. When you play this schedule with these teams, the grind that our players have on him, they want the results. We all do."

Stellar defensive performance not enough as Kentucky falls to No. 1 Georgia

Jon Hale
Lexington Herald Leader
Nov. 19, 2022

Kentucky football's attempt at a fourth-quarter rally against No. 1 Georgia fell short Saturday in a 16-6 loss that dropped the Wildcats to 6-5 on the season and 3-5 in SEC play.

The UK defense stymied a Georgia offense that entered the day ranked sixth in points per game on a cold, windy day, but Kentucky's offense struggled to move the ball for much of the game against the nation's best defense. The Wildcats did finally find some offensive momentum in the fourth quarter, down 16-0, but Georgia was able to make just enough plays to keep the score at a comfortable margin.

Overshadowed in the loss was a stellar performance from freshman wide receiver Barion Brown, who caught 10 passes for 145 yards and one touchdown for Kentucky.

Kentucky's defense held Georgia to just six points in the first half, stepping up twice in the red zone after extended drives, but the Wildcat offense squandered its own first-half opportunities.

UK reached the Georgia 32-yard line on its first drive, which started at its own 4-yard line, but was stopped on a fourth-and-1 attempt. Kentucky's second offensive drive reached the Georgia 18-yard line before quarterback Will Levis threw an interception in the end zone. The interception was Levis' sixth turnover in the red zone this season.

The defense gave Kentucky more hope on the opening drive of the second half when redshirt freshman safety Jordan Lovett interception of a Stetson Bennett pass, but Kentucky went three-and-out on the ensuing drive, losing 6 yards. Georgia was finally able to impose its will after a punt, gaining 54 of 58 yards on the ground to score its first touchdown win a 9-yard run from Kenny McIntosh.

Kentucky's offense finally showed some life after the Wildcat defense stopped Georgia on fourth-and-goal at the 1-yard line on the first play of the fourth quarter. Levis completed 5 of 6 passes for 71 yards and gained 10 yards on the ground to lead Kentucky to its first touchdown, an 8-yard completion to Barion Brown on fourth-and-2. Kentucky was unable to convert the two-point attempt to pull within one possession but did earn some respect with the 99-yard drive.

After another stop from the UK defense, Levis hit Brown for a 47-yard gain on the first play of the following drive, but the possession eventually stalled at the edge of the red zone. Levis was initially flagged for intentional grounding when throwing the ball out of bounds on third down, but the officials picked up the flag after realizing Brown would have been in the area of the pass if he had not been knocked to the ground. No flag for holding or pass interference was thrown though, and UK had to settle for

Following Lovett's interception, Kentucky started a drive at its own 11-yard line. Chris Rodriguez gained 3 yards on a first-down carry, but that gain was quickly negated by a false start from wide receiver Dane Key before second down. A screen pass from Levis to running back JuTahn McClain was stopped for a loss of 4 yards. Levis then was unable to hit McClain through tight coverage on third down, forcing a punt. A favorable Kentucky bounce on the punt gave Georgia the ball at its own 42-yard line, but the Bulldogs gained at least 4 yards on each of the next six plays. McIntosh pushed the lead to 16-0 with his touchdown, a margin that it was clear Kentucky's offense was going to be unable to overcome.

Kentucky Showed "Guts and Determination" in Loss to Georgia

Nick Rousch

For the third time this season, Kentucky left Kroger Field with a loss. This 16-6 loss to No. 1 Georgia felt different than the previous two. Despite similar problems in the red zone and on special teams, Kentucky put up a fight one week after a deflating loss to Vanderbilt.

"I am proud of the response of our football team. It was very difficult, as you can imagine. This season there's been tough games, some tough losses. There's some ups and some downs," Kentucky's head coach said after the game.

Many fans were already throwing in the towel on the 2022 season. The Wildcats could have done the same. Instead, they showed heart against the defending National Champs.

"(It) took a lot of digging and soul searching and competitive nature of our players to reinvest and commit and put in that kind of effort. We came up short but the effort was there, the preparation was there," Stoops said.

Guts on the Goal Line

The Kentucky defense has carried a heavy load all season long. Rich Scangarello's offense has not scored more than three touchdowns against an SEC opponent this fall. Kentucky must get stops to win. Even when they were backed up against it, they did not relent. The Cats forced the Dawgs to kick three field goals and they made goal line stand that paved the way for a potential fourth quarter comeback.

"It just showed some guts and determination and some of the personality of the way we play," Stoops said.

"I really appreciate them digging in like that because it's hard. That is a physical football team that is creative with their dynamic tight ends and in the run game, the way they create explosives down there and score touchdowns. I thought the guys really competed and played hard. When it comes down to it, yeah, there was good coaching, some good scheme by Brad and the defensive staff. But ultimately, the players showed some guts and determination in some critical short yardage plays against one of the most physical teams in the country."

The Kentucky defensive line stood strong at the goal line, breathing life back into the stadium. This time the offense did not leave them hanging. The Cats drove 99 yards down the field and scored a touchdown. Even though they did not get the two points to make it a one-score game, the Wildcats had confidence they could win the football game with just under ten minutes remaining.

Needing another stop, the Kentucky defense dug deep, again. The sideline shared the same resonating message Buster Douglas gave the team Friday afternoon.

"Mike Tyson knocked him down, but he got back up and kept fighting," said safety Zion Childress. "So all game you could hear Coach White, Coach Stoops telling us, 'Fight back. Keep swinging. Keep throwing punches.' We kept fighting."

In many ways, this loss looked like many others. What's important is that even though it kind of looked the same, nobody ever gave up.

"We definitely came out and played and we didn't roll over at any point in this game. We played from the first quarter to the end of the fourth quarter," said Childress.

Even though it's impossible to completely turn around a season with such high expectations, a big win over a rival can go a long way. Tonight proved the Cats are willing to fight to salvage what many thought was a lost cause.

"Our team needs to understand that's what people expect from our team, that we don't cave. We have done some things right, we have done some things wrong, but that's the way this team, this program plays," said Stoops. "We got to get back to being that all the time, competing like that all the time."

Barion Brown delivers vs. top-ranked Georgia defense

Nov. 20, 2022

Coming into Saturday's SEC finale vs. top-ranked Georgia, Kentucky already knew they had something special in freshman wide receiver Barion Brown.

Brown, a 4-star prospect and top-10 wide receiver nationally, had already set the school's single-season record for receiving yards by a freshman, had a 100-yard receiving game with two touchdowns vs. Northern Illinois, and returned a kickoff 101 yards for a score vs. Miami (Ohio).

Saturday, Brown showed just how special he is and can be in the future.

Brown set new career-highs with 10 receptions for 145 yards, including an 8-yard touchdown catch in the fourth quarter of the Wildcats' 16-6 loss to the No. 1 Bulldogs.

"Love him. He's a stud," UK offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello said. "He got here in August or July. He's a buck-65. That guy going to put on 10-15 pounds and he is going to be a special football player. He's got the competitive greatness, he's wired the right way and love him to death as a person and a player. He's going to be a real special player here for a long time."

The Nashville native, who also hauled in receptions of 31 and 47 yards, broke UK's single-season freshman receptions record of 40 previously held by Derek Abney in 2000 and extended his single-season freshman receiving yardage record to 560.

His 10 catches were the most by a Kentucky freshman since Chad Scott's 10 vs. South Carolina in 2000 and his 145 receiving yards were the most since Garrett Johnson had 154 at Florida in 2014. The 145 receiving yards were also the most by any Wildcat vs. a top-ranked team, second only to Rick Kestner's 185 vs. Ole Miss in 1964.

Brown's big breakout came after a 3-game stretch vs. Tennessee, Missouri and Vanderbilt where he combined for just seven catches for 65 yards.

"It's been important to me that I get him to keep his head up and keep his confidence up. And for him to know that he is a really special player and that we are going to target him and his big plays are going to come," quarterback Will Levis said. "I'm just glad that he has been able to keep that right mindset throughout the last few weeks. And trust in us and trust in the calls and my throws to get him down the field like that. And it was really cool to see him make a few of those plays today."

Brown, along with fellow true freshmen Dane Key and Josh Kattus and redshirt freshman Jordan Dingle, combined for 15 receptions and over 200 receiving yards against a Georgia, who ranked No. 1 nationally in scoring defense.

COMMENTS

"I couldn't be more excited for the future," Scangarello said. "That's 18- and 19-year-olds who are getting a ton of experience. Their best days are ahead of them — and that excites me."

The Wildcats (6-5, 3-5 SEC) return to action Saturday for its regular season finale vs. Louisville (7-4, 4-4 ACC) in the annual Governor's Cup.

After 'soul searching,' Kentucky football's morale is high heading into Louisville matchup

Brooks Holton
Louisville Courier-Journal
Nov. 20, 2022

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Coming off a 10-win 2021 campaign, Kentucky quarterback Will Levis had aspirations of reaching the Southeastern Conference championship heading into his second season with the Wildcats.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

So, how was the projected first-round NFL draft pick feeling after UK's fell to 6-5 on Saturday night with its third loss in the last four games against top-ranked Georgia? After seeing the way his teammates responded to one of the most jarring defeats of the Mark Stoops Era in the week prior, one of the words Levis used was "proud."

"Guys just wanted to get back on the right track," he said after UGA topped UK 16-6 at Kroger Field. "I feel like the morale after that game was pretty high."

Sure, Levis and offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello had to face more questions about squandering red-zone opportunities and a stellar defensive performance. Sure, the Bulldogs wore down defensive coordinator Brad White's unit to the tune of 247 rushing yards with an average of 5.4 yards per carry. Nearing the end of his 10th season at Kentucky, Stoops said he doesn't "need to take a shot for a moral victory," but he couldn't deny how encouraging it was to see his players bounce back from a 24-21 loss to Vanderbilt and the "soul searching" that followed.

"The guys emptied their tank this week both in preparation and competing," Stoops said. "That's what we have to do all the time."

Levis, Scangarello and sophomore defensive back Zion Childress credited Stoops's motivational tactics for getting the Wildcats in the right mindset heading into Saturday's showdown with the Bulldogs, who have now won 13 straight in the series. The head coach even had former boxer Buster Douglas, who is known for his upset knockout of Mike Tyson for the world heavyweight championship in 1990, speak to the team Friday about the power of perseverance.

"He has a real way of reading people and digging in on their personalities and bringing out the best in them," Scangarello said of his boss. "That's what makes him unique and special."

That message resulted in Kentucky defense holding Georgia's top-10 scoring offense to a season-low 16 points and coming up with multiple stops that kept the Wildcats within striking distance had their offense's trips to the red zone been more fruitful.

"All game, you could just hear Coach White and Coach Stoops telling us, 'Fight back. Keep swinging,'" said Childress, who finished Saturday's game second on the team with nine tackles.

After addressing the offense's missed opportunities, Levis was quick to point out a silver lining from his team's second straight loss: improvement on the offensive line. The unit has struggled to keep the star quarterback upright all season but surrendered only one sack against the stout Bulldogs, and a flag against UGA erased the negative play, anyway.

"I was joking how it's funny that this is the healthiest I've felt after a game all season against the best defense in the country," said Levis, who also got more involved in the run game with 26 yards on five carries.

Turning their attention toward next week's regular-season finale against Louisville, the Wildcats will need the big guys up front to repeat their performance — and for Levis to clean up his red-zone turnovers — against their in-state rival. The Cardinals entered Saturday ranked 12th in the country in tackles for loss and 26th in scoring defense; they had five more sacks to knock off North Carolina State 25-10.

It won't take much to get Kentucky's QB motivated to play in his second Governor's Cup battle.

"It's really important for us to get a better bowl bid, to get this last win and to obviously play against our in-state rival," Levis said. "A lot of fans have a lot riding on this game — a lot of emotions. It's a game that, each year, we gotta make sure we win. I just saw they had a great win against NC State and I'm excited for the challenge. They got a good team this year."

Childress, meanwhile, stole a phrase from his head coach.

"We got 24 hours to get over this," he said. "Come back on Monday, get ready to empty the tank again."

UK freshmen dominated U of L. In NIL era, can the Cats keep their young nucleus intact?

Mark Story
Lexington Herald Leader
Nov. 27, 2022

On a Saturday when the Kentucky football program honored a historically meritorious senior class, it was UK's precocious freshmen who took center stage.

Getting high-level contributions from at least five frosh, the Wildcats retained the Governor's Cup trophy for the fourth straight time with a 26-13 victory over archrival Louisville.

At the end of a season that began with the Big Blue Nation dreaming of SEC East title contention but instead produced a litany of frustrations, Kentucky (7-5, 3-5 SEC) at least gave its fan base a going-away gift.

"Obviously, the season didn't go as we had planned," UK quarterback Will Levis said. "But we knew we would feel a whole lot better about it with a win (over U of L) instead of a loss."

A Kroger Field crowd announced at 58,727 saw Louisville's season record drop to 7-5 (4-4 ACC) and Cardinals Coach Scott Satterfield's record in the Governor's Cup rivalry fall to 0-3.

The Cards were far more competitive along both lines of scrimmage vs. UK than they had been while being outscored 153-44 in their prior three defeats vs. the Wildcats. But the combination of three U of L turnovers and UK's fabulous freshmen meant that "Ls" were again turned down in the Governor's Cup.

Both of Kentucky's touchdowns were scored by true freshmen wide receivers. Dane Key got UK on the board first when he expertly ran a slant route that yielded an 8-yard touchdown pass from Levis.

Wildcats offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello said the Key TD was uniquely rewarding to him because, after UK's Wednesday practice, he watched Key (three catches, 37 yards) and his fellow Frederick Douglass High School alum, Dekel Crowdus, working on their own time on that route.

"I saw it come to life," Scangarello said. "The detail, the way (Key) set the corner(back) up and beat him, that's what it takes. That detail is the key."

The TD by Key was set up by a 70-yard catch and run by another true freshman — tight end Josh Kattus (two catches, 76 yards). "That guy," Scangarello said of Kattus, "has some real special traits."

Kentucky's other touchdown came on a 3-yard Levis pass to Barion Brown (four catches, 44 yards) on a fade route in the third quarter in which the Nashville product rose above a defender and came down with a score.

"All week, me and my coach (were) practicing fade balls consistently," Brown said. "Every day, after practice, we would get something in — and it paid off."

Throw in redshirt freshman tight end Jordan Dingle (one reception, 18 yards), and 10 of UK's 11 catches vs. U of L and 175 of its 188 receiving yards came from freshmen.

Referring to Key and Brown, Scangarello said "(Nos.) 6 and 2 are just blossoming. And those two tight ends (Kattus and Dingle) are really special."

Defensively, Kentucky tackle Deone Walker put the finishing touches on a massively impressive true freshman season with six tackles, two quarterback hurries, a tackle for a loss and a half-share of a sack.

As he often did this season, the 6-foot-6, 330-pound Walker, a Detroit product, appeared on various plays to have cratered an entire side of the U of L offensive line.

In the old days, such an exciting performance from so many freshmen in the final game of a regular season would leave a fan base with visions of future glories dancing in heads.

Alas, in our current era of allowing one free transfer and the name, image and likeness rights of players having evolved into booster collectives deploying their financial might in recruiting, that future is not promised.

When it was announced Nov. 14 that a UK-oriented collective to which the average fan can contribute was open for business, much focus was on what the launch of "The 15 Club" might mean for Wildcats recruiting.

Actually, in the short term, it is "retaining" that is the biggest key to Kentucky's immediate football future.

There is nothing more important to UK football success in 2023 than assuring that Walker, Brown, Key, Kattus and Dingle — as well as other of this season's promising freshmen performers such as defensive backs Alex Afari and Kobi Albert; outside linebacker Keaten Wade; starting offensive guard Jager Burton and free safety Jordan Lovett (the latter two redshirt freshmen) — are still on the Cats' roster when Kentucky kicks off against Ball State next Sept. 2.

Speculation has been acute that collectives with allegiances to some of the most traditional brands in college football have put out feelers to UK's standout freshmen.

The most-circulated rumor has a collective seeking to boost the Tennessee football program attempting to woo Brown away from UK and back to his home-state university. What about that, Barion? "I don't know who started that rumor, but I am BBN for life," Brown said Saturday.

Addressing a large gaggle of reporters, Brown had a question of his own. "Can you all stop the rumors, please?" Probably not.

What does seem clear, though, is that if Kentucky is going to ultimately reap the benefit of the freshmen whose star potential was on display Saturday as the Cats took down Louisville, then those who are emotionally invested in UK football success are likely going to have to make some financial contribution, too.

Saturday was a great way for the Kentucky Wildcats to send off their seniors, especially DeAndre Square and Jacquez Jones. The two veteran linebackers have missed much of the 2022 season due to various injuries, but they were both able to suit up vs. the Louisville Cardinals.

Kentucky certainly needed them to help slow down one of the nation's better rushing offenses, which already had seven games of 190+ yards on the ground.

Thankfully, Square and Jones helped Kentucky hold the Cards to just 164 yards on 37 carries and one score while finishing with three tackles apiece. The 4.4 yards per rush was Louisville's lowest average since October 22nd vs. Pittsburgh.

In the process, Jones and Square both eclipsed 300 tackles for their careers, one of the biggest milestones a defensive player can reach at the collegiate level.

Jones actually hit that mark on one of the game's biggest plays. In the first quarter with Louisville facing 4th-and-1 from the UK 13 yard-line, Jones stuffed running back Jawhar Jordan to turn the ball over on downs and preserve the early 7-0 lead for the Cats, who then added a field goal to go up 10-0 when the game could have easily been 7-all if not for the senior's big play.

While their final collegiate seasons didn't go quite like they hoped, it was wonderful seeing both guys on the field and making plays in their final home game, especially Square, who has been making plays ever since arriving as a true freshman in 2018. He's been part of multiple 10-win seasons and is now set to play in his fifth bowl game with the program.

Kentucky football headed to the Music City Bowl in Nashville to face Iowa

Kentucky football is returning to its most familiar bowl game this December.

The Wildcats will face Iowa in the Music City Bowl on New Year's Eve. The game will represent a rematch of last season's Citrus Bowl, which Kentucky won 20-17 on Jan. 1, 2022.

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

Kentucky has played in the Music City Bowl five times before but not since 2017. That game against Northwestern was Kentucky's last bowl loss. Star running back Benny Snell was ejected in the second quarter of the 2017 Music City Bowl for making contact with an official.

Kentucky is 12-9 all time in bowl games and 2-3 in the Music City Bowl.

With Will Levis out of the Music City Bowl, who starts at QB for Kentucky football?

Wednesday's announcement that Kentucky football star quarterback Will Levis would not play in the Music City Bowl was not unexpected.

But that doesn't mean the lack of a surprise has positioned the Wildcats any better to replace Levis in the Dec. 31 Music City Bowl versus Iowa. "I'm very confident in the quarterbacks we have," Kentucky Coach Mark Stoops said this week.

"I'm excited to see them in this bowl prep. I hope Will plays, but if he doesn't it will open up an opportunity for others."

With Levis out, the focus shifts to backup quarterbacks Kaiya Sheron and Destin Wade.

When Levis was forced to miss the Wildcats' Oct. 8 game against South Carolina due to turf toe, Sheron started but was unable to lead Kentucky to a victory. On the season, the redshirt freshman completed 17 of 29 passes for 187 yards, two touchdowns and one interception in four games.

Wade has yet to make his Kentucky debut but was listed alongside Sheron with an "or" between the two names at the No. 2 spot on Kentucky's depth chart for most of the second half of the season. A former four-star recruit rated as an athlete out of high school, the Nashville-area native could make his collegiate debut in his hometown in the Music City Bowl. He is the twin brother of UK freshman outside linebacker Keaten Wade.

"We have very good options on our campus that are good players," Stoops said on his final radio show of the season when asked if he would pursue a transfer quarterback this offseason to replace Levis. "Not a lot of experience, but good football players. They're good leaders and good men."

Stoops may be high on the potential of Sheron and Wade, but Kentucky is almost certain to add a quarterback from the transfer portal in the coming weeks.

Wisconsin's Graham Mertz, Clemson's DJ Uiagalelei, Texas' Hudson Card and North Carolina State's Devin Leary are among the top options already in the portal. More starter-level transfers will probably emerge by the summer.

Sheron and Wade now have a chance to make an early case to truly make the competition to replace Levis an open one and not a foregone conclusion that whatever transfer signs with Kentucky will start the 2023 opener against Ball State.

"Where we go from there I don't know," Stoops said. "I tell our players this, so I'm not telling you anything that they don't already hear: I'm recruiting somebody to take their job. Period. I don't care how good they are. I love them, but I'm trying to get somebody better.

"... don't take that out of context with quarterback. That's every player on our team."

Iowa is set to start its third-string quarterback after starter Spencer Petras was sidelined by shoulder surgery and backup Alex Padilla entered the transfer portal. Since both teams boast defenses ranked in the top 12 nationally in fewest points allowed per game, it would be wise to expect a low-scoring Music City Bowl.

Kentucky's offensive situation is further complicated by the firing of offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello.

Even if Stoops hires a replacement for Scangarello before the bowl game, it is unlikely that coach would have much impact on the game. Stoops was not ready to name an offensive play-caller for the game when asked Monday, instead pointing to recruiting coordinator Vince Marrow, who called plays in the 2020 Gator Bowl win, and wide receivers coach Scott Woodward, a close friend and protege of former UK coordinator Liam Coen, as options to call plays in a "group effort."

Perhaps the most intriguing quarterback

option for the game is Kentucky backup Deuce Hogan.

Hogan, who transferred from Iowa to Kentucky last offseason as a walk-on, opened the season listed as Levis' backup on the depth chart but was eventually passed by both Sheron and Wade.

Wade's dual-threat ability likely makes him the more intriguing option for fans, but there is also a risk at dealing a significant blow to his confidence if he struggled against a defense as stout as Iowa's in a high-profile bowl game in his first collegiate experience.

Regardless of how Sheron, Wade or Hogan performs in the Music City Bowl, it is unlikely to change Stoops' outlook on the transfer portal needs this offseason.

"We'll see where it goes, and even players who are here and ones who may be talking about their role for next year," Stoops said. "I'll tell them the same thing. This is your role, if it's a player that we can believe in, believe they can be a starter, that's great. I'm going on the road and getting the best players I can get.."

Kentucky's Will Levis announces he won't play in Music City Bowl, declares for NFL Draft

Kentucky football will play its bowl game without star quarterback Will Levis.

Levis, who played through injuries for most of the 2022 season, announced Wednesday he would opt out of the Wildcats' bowl game in order to focus on returning to 100% in advance of the 2023 NFL Draft. Levis is widely projected as a first-round draft pick and one of the top quarterbacks in the draft class.

Kentucky is scheduled to face Iowa in the Music City Bowl on Dec. 31 in Nashville.

Despite playing just two seasons for Kentucky, Levis ranks fifth in program history in passing touchdowns (43) and total offensive yards (5,502) and sixth in passing yards (5,233). His

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

3,203 yards of total offense in 2021 were sixth most by a Wildcat in a single season.

Kentucky was 17-7 in games Levis started at quarterback. He was behind center for just the second 10-win season for Kentucky since 1977 in his first season as starter. Levis started two wins against Florida and two wins against Louisville.

Levis announced his departure on Twitter on Wednesday.

“With most decisions in my life, I often think of this motivational quote: ‘Every great move forward in your life begins with a leap of faith, a step into the unknown.’

Levis’ statement included thanks to everyone who supported and encouraged him during his time in Lexington.

“As a Wildcat, I have met lifelong friends, learned from incredible coaches, and built connections with valuable mentors that will guide me through my journey. Because of Kentucky, I found belief and confidence in myself that had not been reached beforehand, and, most importantly, we won some incredibly memorable ball games in my college career. It has been a great move forward.”

Kentucky head coach Mark Stoops said after the Wildcats’ regular-season finale against Louisville that Levis is deserving of everything coming his way.

“Hard to put into words what he’s meant to us,” Stoops said. “His toughness, leadership, battling through adversity. Coming here and having a great year and going through an offensive coordinator change and getting beat up and having a year where he wasn’t at 100%, he fought through it.

“He’s a true professional. He set the tone for us here. We absolutely love him, whether it’s his last game or plays one more. I think the world of him, and love what he’s done for us and don’t want anything but the best for him and his future.”

Barring any additional roster movement, Kentucky (7-5) enters the Music City Bowl with three quarterbacks on its roster — redshirt freshman Kaiya Sheron, true freshman Destin Wade and sophomore Deuce Hogan, who transferred from Iowa after last season.

Sheron was the only Kentucky quarterback other than Levis to take a snap this season. When Levis missed the South Carolina game because of injury, Sheron started in his place and completed 15 of 27 throws for 178 yards with two touchdowns and an interception. Sheron was sacked six times in a 24-14 defeat at Kroger Field.

Statistically, Levis’ senior season was something of a disappointment.

He entered the season hyped as a likely first-round pick in the draft and possible dark horse Heisman Trophy contender but was hampered by injuries.

In the Oct. 1 loss at Ole Miss, Levis suffered turf toe that would force him to miss Kentucky’s next game, a loss to South Carolina, and would hamper his mobility for the rest of the season. He also dislocated the middle finger on his non-throwing hand at Ole Miss and injured his non-throwing shoulder in the win over Mississippi State.

“He’s 10 out of 10 in toughness,” UK offensive coordinator Rich Scangarello said after UK’s Governor’s Cup rivalry win over Louisville. “I don’t think people realize how injured he was this year. He played for five or six weeks where literally he would sprint out in practice and fall down. Like, his toe would give out on him. Bad habits can come from that with not transitioning your weight and your shoulder.”

Levis’ completion percentage dropped from 66% as a junior to 65.4% as a senior, but he did post slight improvements in passing yards per game (216.3 to 218.7) and quarterback rating (147.99 to 151.88).

As a junior, Levis ran for 376 yards and nine touchdowns. As a senior, thanks in large part to being sacked 36 times, he actually lost 107 rushing yards in 11 games with just two rushing touchdowns.

Scangarello, who replaced Liam Coen as UK’s offensive coordinator before the 2022 season and was fired after the regular season finale, made it clear before the season started he wanted to limit the number of hits Levis took on designed quarterback runs and scrambles, but Scangarello, Stoops and Levis later said he would have run more if not for the turf toe.

“The stuff that I’m dealing with is definitely not easy, but if anything I think it prepared me for not hopefully but what probably will happen at some point in my career in the future with similar injuries and more kind of annoying kind of nuisances,” Levis said. “I just kind of kept battling and trusting the coaching staff to put me in the right position to succeed. It’s tough calling plays when you have a different kind of physical nature with the quarterback than what you were expecting, but I think Coach did a great job working around it.”

After the Louisville win, Levis admitted he would always look back on his senior season at Kentucky with a sense of regret because he and the team did not reach their preseason goals, but he likely has already secured his spot as a fan favorite for decades to come.

When Levis transferred to Kentucky in 2021 he was looking to prove himself after he felt he was unfairly pigeonholed as a run-first backup quarterback at Penn State. Working with Coen, he proved his arm talent was elite and made strides to develop himself as a top draft prospect.

Levis’ individual development coincided with one of Kentucky’s most successful seasons in his first year as a starter. His quickly endeared himself to fans with a physical mindset that saw him frequently lower a shoulder to plow through a defender or leap over a would-be tackler. Levis also took full advantage of new rules allowing players to profit off their name, image and likeness by crafting a social media persona that gained him national attention before he even started a game for the Wildcats.

“In this time of Thanksgiving, I’m thinking about the things I’m thankful for, and one of the first things I think about is just this community here, the people here,” Levis said before the Louisville game. “The coaching staff for believing in me here. The team for rallying around me and trusting in me to be their guy, be their leader. The community for just welcoming me with open arms. Could have gone very differently when you enter that transfer portal. If it weren’t for Kentucky, who knows where I’d be, who knows what the future looks like for me.”

Kentucky’s Chris Rodriguez to sit out Music City Bowl to begin preparations for pro career

Herald-Leader Staff Report

Chris Rodriguez’s final season in Lexington did not work out according to plan, but the Wildcats’ workhorse running back will leave

KENTUCKY FOOTBALL CLIPPINGS

Kentucky as the football program's third-leading rusher of all time.

C-Rod's place in history became assured Thursday when the senior from McDonough, Ga., announced he would bypass Kentucky's Dec. 31 appearance in the Music City Bowl to prepare for the NFL Draft.

One day earlier, quarterback Will Levis made the same choice, opting out of the bowl to begin preparations for his pro career.

"Thank you for everything!" Rodriguez said in his Thursday post on Instagram. "I can't tell you how much your support this past year has meant to me. Although I'm going to sit out the bowl game to focus on my health and prepare for my lifelong dream of playing in the NFL, I'll be in the Music City to support my brothers and I hope to see you there!"

Rodriguez's five-year Kentucky career ends with him having amassed 3,644 rushing yards. That leaves him behind only Benny Snell (3,873) and Sonny Collins (3,835) on UK's all-time list.

Rodriguez rushed for 43 yards as a true freshman in 2018, for 533 as a redshirt freshman, for 785 as a sophomore and for 1,379 as a junior in 2021. As the Southeastern Conference's leading returning rusher, Rodriguez entered his senior season with a realistic opportunity to eclipse Snell's record.

However, Rodriguez was suspended for Kentucky's first four games in 2022 and finished the season with 904 yards in eight games. Rodriguez finished his career with 32 rushing touchdowns.

Citing student privacy laws, Kentucky declined to provide specifics about why Rodriguez was held out of the first four games.

In September, the Herald-Leader reported UK launched an investigation in February into members of the football team filing inaccurate timecards for jobs worked at the university hospital, according to documents obtained through the state's open records law. That investigation determined multiple members of the team listed hours worked that they were not present at the hospital for when video surveillance showed them leaving the facility or there was a conflict with class or game schedules. Players, whose names were redacted from a letter sent to the NCAA and provided to the Herald-Leader, were declared ineligible.

UK Athletics Director Mitch Barnhart confirmed to the Herald-Leader there had been an investigation into Rodriguez's eligibility. Rodriguez also pleaded guilty to a DUI charge in July.

Despite the suspension, Kentucky named Rodriguez one of its team captains before the season opener. He was able to practice with the team throughout the suspension.

"Chris Rodriguez has given an awful lot to this program and has played awfully hard and is an amazing football player," Barnhart said upon C-Rod's return to the lineup. "I want to see his career at the University of Kentucky end the right way. For him to be able to run the football, and for that to be the memory of our fans for him."
