BUDGET MESSAGE

from

MAYOR STIMPSON

Dear City Council Members,

In preparing the budget for 2025, we reflect on the numerous achievements and challenges of the past with an optimistic eye toward the future. Thanks to good fiscal stewardship over the last decade, the City of Mobile is uniquely positioned to execute several transformational projects and programs in the coming year. In fact, with a proven history of paying down debt over the last decade, the City of Mobile should go to the market with a strong AA bond rating to finance Mobile's new arena project.

As you know, the demands on city funds for the next two years are substantial as we kick off construction of the new arena and take on additional debt before the City's legacy obligations expire. The good news is that we get some relief from these obligations in 2027, and they will be completely retired in 2030.

WHAT'S HAPPENING IN MOBILE

While the City is investing in projects like the new arena, a new parking deck on the Civic Center site, and a new terminal at Mobile International Airport, we are not sacrificing our commitment to improving the infrastructure in neighborhoods across the city.

The new arena project became financially possible due to a shared focus on paying down debt and maintaining a healthy cash reserve. Over three administrations, there has always been the will to tackle our outdated Civic Center, but not the means. Today, we not only have the will, but we also finally have the means. This paved the way for our plan to finance the project through a combination of cash, an operating partner who will share in the funding and the issuance of bonds. Just as we have worked to keep spending under control and put the City on sound financial footing, we will take a hawkish approach to ensure the new $300 million arena project is both on time and on budget.

We are confident that the City's venture will catalyze $1 billion in overall investment from private and public partners on the Civic Center site over the next decade. Additionally, Austal and Airbus have recently announced expansions, which means more investment in Mobile and more employment opportunities. The healthcare sector also remains strong, and the University of South Alabama is embarking on a major project to construct an expanded and modernized medical school. These projects, plus countless others by existing businesses and industries, indicate the support for Mobile's future growth.

Another significant contributor to Mobile's future is the unprecedented investment from our federal partners, including the announcement of a $550 million grant for the 1-10 Mobile River Bridge and Bayway project, $72 million for rail infrastructure improvements supporting the return of Amtrak along the Gulf Coast, and other major grant awards for Mobile International Airport from the state and federal government. The ongoing growth and development of the Port of Mobile will become center stage for the region's economic growth when the channel dredging project is completed next year, making Mobile the Gateway to America on the Gulf of Mexico. This synergy of projects and investment from the public and private sectors will continue to propel Mobile forward.

GENERAL FUND FY 2025

While revenues performed better than expected for 2024, we forecast they will be flat in 2025. Forecasting expenses to align with our revenue for 2025 is done with several thoughts in mind. First and foremost, investing in our team members is always a priority as we strive to recruit and retain the very best people to serve our citizens. A 2.5% Cost of Living Adjustment (COLA) keeps us competitive in the marketplace.

Additionally, this year, our operating budget will seek to simplify the pay plan for police and fire. Over the last 30 years, the City has tried to pay competitive rates through giving incentives for various job qualifications. At best, this has been a band-aid approach to a longstanding and systemic problem. All our police and fire/rescue personnel should be paid a competitive rate, not just certain jobs. The plan, if approved by the Mobile County Personnel Board on September 17, will see the starting salary for patrolmen and firefighters move from $43,000 to $51,000, making first responder compensation in the City of Mobile more competitive than ever.

Secondly, we will not use funds from the previous year's surplus to balance the 2025 budget. This is a more conservative approach and helps to protect accumulated surpluses, also known as the unassigned general fund balance. Within the unassigned fund balance is the rainy-day fund, which can only be used during emergency situations. Today, the rainy-day fund is $60 million. The remainder of these funds, approximately $70 million, will be dedicated to transformational projects like the new arena and to fill the gap on other major infrastructure improvements.

CAPITAL BUDGET FY 2025

This year's Capital budget will be $72 million, primarily funded by the penny sales tax, gasoline taxes, lease/rental and room taxes, and business license fees. Of the $72 million, $48.5 million will be directed toward capital projects and $23.5 million toward debt service. Once again, the funding for the very popular CIP program is budgeted at $32 million. Since its inception in 2016, $200 million in taxes derived from the penny sales tax has funded improvements to roads, sidewalks, public infrastructure, parks, greenways, and city facilities across the City.

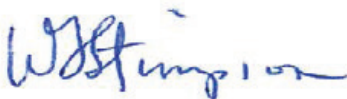

CONCLUSION

In conclusion, 2025 is teed up to be a banner year for the City of Mobile. We should see the opening of the Mobile International Airport, the groundbreaking for the I-10 bridge, the completion of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers headquarters and parking deck, the completion of the Hall of Fame Walk, the opening of Maryvale Place - the first privately owned multifamily affordable housing project on the East side of town in more than 50 years - and the rebuilding of Cooper Riverside Park. We are grateful for the countless prayers answered and for the collaboration and investments in the City of Mobile by our local, state, and federal partners.

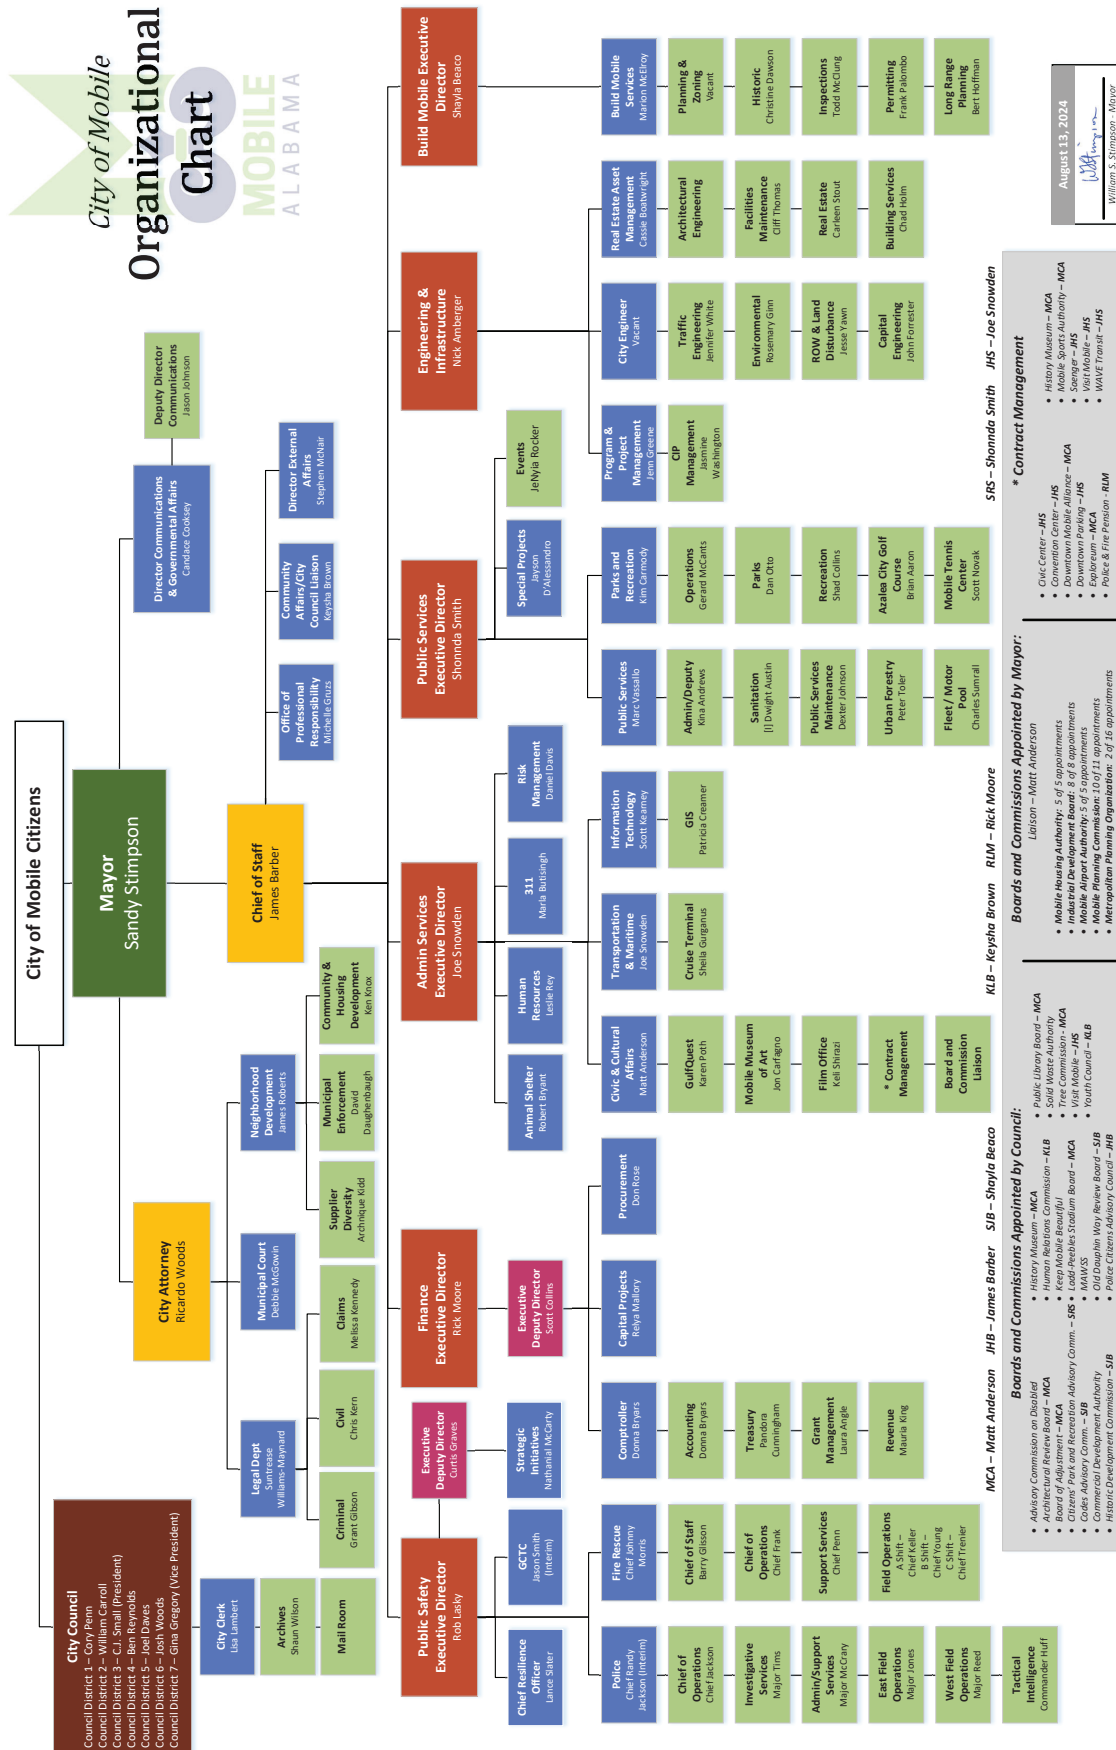

Each year for the last decade, we have been able to build upon the successes of previous years to present an annual budget that continues to raise the bar, and this year is no different. While our City is undergoing a transformation unlike any other time in history, we are funding projects to ensure everyone can share in the momentum. I am proud to present a balanced Fiscal Year 2025 Proposed Budget in partnership with our dedicated department heads.

The City of Mobile remains on sound financial footing. I am grateful for the City Council's partnership as we strive to create One Mobile, a safer, more business and family-friendly City.

Respectfully submitted,

William S. Stimpson
Mayor
