

Louie Pastor

Chief Transformation & Administrative Officer

Louie Pastor serves as Chief Transformation & Administrative officer where he leads the Xerox Reinvention Office, which is structurally redesigning and reengineering the company for sustainable, profitable long-term growth. In addition, Louie is responsible for human resources, information technology, information security, enterprise innovation, real estate and Xerox's Global Business Services organization, which together work across the company to drive productivity and enterprise-wide enhancements in processes and systems to deliver the greatest efficiency and results for colleagues and clients. Louie previously served as Chief Corporate Development Officer and Chief Legal Officer for Xerox, after first joining the company in October 2018 as General Counsel.

Prior to joining Xerox, Louie was Deputy General Counsel at Icahn Enterprises, responsible for, among other things, numerous long-term strategic initiatives, including the acquisitions and dispositions of various operating companies, and investments in and engagements with various public and private companies. Louie began his career at Simpson, Thacher & Bartlett LLP in New York, where he advised public companies on mergers and acquisitions, securities offerings, corporate governance and other general corporate matters.

Louie serves on the Board of Directors of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the world's largest business-oriented lobbying group, and is a member of The Economic Club of New York. He previously served on the Board of Directors of Herc Holdings Inc., one of the leading equipment rental suppliers in North America, from 2016 to 2020.

Louie is also the executive sponsor of the Black Women's Leadership Council and Asians Coming Together, two of Xerox's ten Employee Resource Groups.

Louie received his law degree from the University of Pennsylvania Law School and holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from The Ohio State University.
