

Steve Bandrowczak

Chief Executive Officer

Steve Bandrowczak was named chief executive officer of Xerox Holdings Corporation effective August 2022. An accomplished technology executive across a range of industries, Steve has a proven track record of leveraging digital platforms to transform global operations, drive market share and increase profitability.

Steve joined Xerox in 2018 as president and chief operations officer. Prior to joining Xerox, Steve served as chief operating officer and chief information officer at Alight Solutions, where he was responsible for the application portfolio and technical infrastructure of the organization. Throughout his career, Steve also held senior leadership positions at various multi-billion-dollar global companies, including Avaya, Nortel, Lenovo, DHL and Avnet.

Steve teaches “Leading Disruptive Change in Digital Economy” at Northeastern University and is an Executive-in-Residence for Northeastern’s Center for Technology Management and Digital Leadership.

Steve is also the executive sponsor of the Young Professionals NeXgen group, one of Xerox’s ten Employee Resource Groups.

Steve holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Computer Science from Long Island University, New York and a Master of Science degree from Columbia University, New York.