**GONG PROBLEM COMMENT BY DARRYL**: Tue Aug 9 20:05:36 GMT 2011

We're still seeing mlgong-x crashes despite a new machine and using a different power supply and connecting power to our UPS, so today after it crashed I started it up and then unplugged the network cable to see if it will run longer without network related I/O, of course the information displayed won't be updated during this test, but I want to see if we still get the complete crashes when mlgong-x is isolated from the network.

The GONG GUI display disappeared from the mlgong-x screen but it hasn't crashed and Firefox is still running.

Clouds are very thick, pausing the rest of the instruments and closing domes.

**GONG PROBLEM COMMENT BY DARRYL**: Tue Aug 9 23:29:56 GMT 2011

Still no crash of mlgong-x since I removed the network cable earlier, if that is the cause of the crashes then I wonder what network signal or operation is causing the crashes.
