Keep patrons safe and signal that you mean business with our “Do Not Enter” sign, an essential safety accessory for any playground, park, or community area. This sign is designed to clearly mark areas that are off-limits, ensuring the safety and proper flow of pedestrian and vehicular traffic, including kids playing on a trike path. And it’s mounted on a portable base that can be moved to different places on your path or in your recreation space as needed. Move it indoors once a renovation project is over and increase the longevity of your sign.

Constructed from high-quality, weather-resistant materials, the “Do Not Enter” sign measures 37.5” in height and is built to withstand outdoor use. The sturdy construction ensures longevity and reliability, making it a cost-effective safety solution, and it meets all relevant safety standards, ensuring it provides clear and effective communication in compliance with regulatory requirements. This makes it suitable for use in schools, parks, construction zones, and other community areas undergoing changes or requiring restricted access. Note that any trike path must be placed outside of the use zone to ensure the safety of your riders and pedestrians.
