The trio of trucks of the Sumter Fire Department are soon to be fully siren equipped. This will truly be the finishing touch added to the already far advanced stage of Sumter's leadership in the fire fighting equipment for this section. The first siren has already been installed on truck No. 2 and has shown conclusively its practicability as the proper fire warning and signal for the traffic right of way. A strict city ordinance should be enforced in Sumter as in other cities whereby the use of a siren of any form is restricted entirely to the fire trucks and is entirely prohibited from being used on any other vehicles. This ordinance will of course be for the protection of the people who will soon become accustomed to reading the siren as the announcement of the approaching truck on its way to a fire.

Green Swamp School

Closing Exercises Held May 24th—The Prize Winners

The closing exercises of the Green Swamp School were held at the school house on Tuesday evening, May 24th, at 5.30 o'clock. There was a large turnout of patrons and friends of the school despite the inclement afternoon.

The children all acquitted themselves in a manner that convinced the audience that Mrs. A. F. Neyle, who has taught this school for the past three terms had not been derelict in her duties as a teacher.

The entire school deserves special mention, but space forbids this.

Miss Lizzy Weatherly, whose average for three years of 98 deserves especial mention and shows the kind of good work that this school does.

There was only one prize offered at the beginning of the term, and it was won by Miss Jennie Cabbage for spelling. After Christmas another competitor entered school in the person of little Ansley Weldon, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Burkett, whose record was such that his teacher thought he too deserved a prize for spelling and was presented with one.

The prizes were delivered by Dr. J. H. Haynsworth, county superintendent of education after a short and appropriate little talk. After the following programme had been carried out assisted by Mr. Marion Myers on the violin.

Miss Kingman Honored.

Complimenting Miss Sidney Kingman, whose marriage to Dr. Gustave Sanders will take place on June the 15th, Mrs. Marion Bedenfield entertained with a bridge party Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Kingman on Washington Street.

Numerous baskets and vases of sweet peas and nasturtiums were effectively arranged throughout the apartments of this attractive home. Seven tables of bridge were played. The green and yellow score cards were hand painted baskets of flowers, the bride-elect's card an old fashioned bouquet of flowers.

Mrs. Bedenfield received her guests in a lovely gown of silk net and Miss Kingman wore a becoming gown of apricot taffeta and organdie.

After a series of interesting games, cards were laid aside and the hostess presented the honoree with a hand embroidered cook apron. A card table covered was awarded Mrs. Courtright as top score prize and Miss Elizabeth White cut the consolation, a hot muffin cover.

A two course luncheon was served the players, and a score of additional guests who came after the game.

Mrs. Bedenfield was assisted in serving by Miss Jennie Walsh and Mrs. Clinton Walsh.

The official notice of the county court election is published today. The election will be held Tuesday, June 14th. Voters should bear in mind that registration certificates and tax receipts for 1920 taxes will be required. A great many voters will not be able to vote in this election because they have been unable to pay their taxes for 1920. This is unfortunate for people who could not pay last year's taxes are not apt to vote for the county court which will necessitate the imposition of at least one mill additional tax to pay the expenses of operating the court.

Edmunds-Hunter.

The first of the June weddings was solemnized at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Church of the Holy Comforter when Miss Sara DeSessaure Edmunds became the bride of Mr. James Edwin Hunter, Jr., of Columbia. The beautiful and impressive marriage ceremony of performed by Rev. J. B. Walker, rector of the Church of the Holy Comforter, assisted by Dr. J. P. Marion, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Dr. Marion read the first part of the service, the betrothal, and Rev. Mr. Walker concluded the service, receiving the vows and pronouncing the words that made the couple husband and wife in the eyes of the law and the church.

The ceremony was witnessed by an assemblage of the relatives and friends of the young couple that filled the church to capacity. The chancel and altar were artistically decorated in white and green, a profusion of ferns and white hydrangeas being used to make the scene of the consummation of love's young dream as beautiful as a bride's day in June should be.

Preceding the coming of the bridal party and while the wedding guests were assembling, Mrs. H. M. Stuckey, who presided at the pipe organ, played the "Postlude," by Bead; in "Moonlight," by Kinder; "Midsummer Caprice," by Kramer; and Miss Pauline Haynsworth sang "When the Roses Bloom"—a song written by Mrs. W. E. Thayer and dedicated to the bride; "Florian's Song," Godard; "Calm as the Night," Bohm, and Mr. C. L. Pierce sang "Until."

The bridal procession entered the church to the accompaniment of Lohengrin's Wedding March, and at the conclusion of the ceremony Mendelssohn's March was played. The attendants were: Miss Mamie Edmunds and J. W. Weissinger; Miss Dorothy Horne and Schumpert Garner; Miss Maida McKain and H. B. Miller; Miss Mary Seigler and Leland Edmunds; Miss Elizabeth Osteen and William Hollowell. The dame of honor, Mrs. J. Roy Fant, the sister of the groom, and the maid of honor, Miss Mollie Bowman, entered alone, the bride coming in on the arm of her father, Dr. S. H. Edmunds, while the groom with his best man, Mr. J. Wilson Gibbs, Jr., coming from the vestry room met the bride at the chancel. The ushers were Henry Edmunds, Charles Dulse, Lamar Edmunds and J. Roy Fant.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white satin and lace, with veil, the lace with which the gown was trimmed is an heirloom in the family of the bride's mother and has adorned the wedding gowns of several brides of that family. A pearl pin worn as an ornament by the bride was the gift of her mother, and this also was an heirloom with a history, having been worn by brides of four generations.

Following the marriage ceremony a reception was held at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. S. H. Edmunds on E. Calhoun street, which proved to be one of the most brilliant social events of recent years, the spacious and beautifully decorated parlors and dining room being filled for two hours with the friends of the family and of the bride and groom, many of them having come from other parts of South Carolina and other states to attend the wedding.

After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Hunter left for Washington making the trip through the country by automobile. They will make their home in Washington for several months before returning to Columbia, which will be their permanent home.

The bride is the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. H. Edmunds and is one of Sumter's most lovable and charming daughters. The groom is a well known young architect of Columbia.

As a Jurymen Sees It

Needless Waste of Time in Circuit Court Bares a Layman Half To Death

Editor Daily Item: Please let me give you my heartfelt thanks for your editorial in the issue of June 1st, especially paragraphs two and three. If there is a layman in Sumter county who has served on the jury one week and has not been bored half to death by the needless waste of time, I don't know who he is. It does seem to me, as a taxpayer and citizen of this county, that the time has arrived that we should demand a more efficient handling of our present court, so that time may be saved and the docket cleared without the extra added expense of a county court.

Again thanking you, I remain, Yours very truly,

B. T. Kolb.

Police Dots

There have been many bicycle riders to make appearance before Recorder Harby for the violation of the ordinance against the riding of bicycles after dark without their being properly equipped with lights and lights lit. In each case there has been no excuse that was in any way offerable, for the bicycle riding ordinance of the city has had repeated, ample, sufficient, and timely warning of what was expected of them. The fine which is receivable by the city for this offense is large enough to cover the purchase price of the lantern so it is rather a lesson in economy to invest in the bicycle lantern. Surely it is a safety and a splendid precautionary measure, for it may be the means for the saving of both life and limb in addition to the court fine. A bicycle is hard to see at night even when lantern equipped and next to impossible to see entirely without a light. The police have strict orders to "bring them in"—those ones who take the chances—so be warned once again.

Hungarian Marriages are Based on Money.

Budapest, May 10—A remarkable story of how a young Hungarian made a profit of 4,000,000 crowns by speculating with his wife's dowry and then sending her and her dowry back to her father, has just come to light here.

Four months ago Joseph Klein, a young merchant of Budapest of small means, married Transylvania girl and received with her a dowry of 2,000,000 Rumanian lei (worth at present exchange rates about one and one-fourth cents per lei).

The bridegroom quickly changed his wife's dowry into Hungarian currency and received in exchange 14,000,000 crowns, the crown being quoted seven to the lei.

After the honeymoon the young husband found that his good opinion of both the Rumanian currency and of his wife had declined, and that the crown was now only five to the lei.

Mr. Klein thereupon bought back his wife's dowry for 10,000,000 crowns and sent her and her dowry back to her father. By that transaction Klein made a clear profit of 4,000,000 crowns and is said now to be on the lookout for another wife.

This is an example of how the marriage market here has been affected by the fluctuation of exchange values. When the Hungarian crown sank very low, the value of Transylvania, South Hungarian and Slovak girls backed by good Rumanian lei, Jugoslavic dinars and Czecho-Slovak sokols, rose considerably in the eyes of the Hungarian youths and at least as many matches were made on the exchange as in heaven.

Slowly, with the improvement of the Hungarian money, the demand for girls from the lost provinces abated and Magyar girls are again very firm in the market. Former marriages with foreign currency girls are now being cancelled for the sake of Hungarian women.

The Tulsa Race Riot

Grand Jury Called to Investigate Outbreak and Place Responsibility

Tulsa, Okla., June 2.—District Judge Valjean Biddison called a special grand jury today as the first step in an investigation of the Tulsa race riot, which, breaking out Tuesday night and extending well into Wednesday, resulted in many casualties and much property damage. The grand jury, calling of which followed the receipt by Judge Biddison of a letter from Gov. J. B. A. Robertson, will be convened June 8. In his letter asking that an investigation be started, the governor also asked that the conduct of the police department and the sheriff's office, which he condemned, be investigated.

According to the latest authentic report, nine white persons and 21 negroes are known to have been killed during the race clash. An estimate places property damage at $1,500,000. All this, according to Gen. C. F. Barrett, commanding the state troops called here to maintain martial law, was incited by "an impudent negro, an hysterical girl and a yellow journal reporter."

Representative citizens of Tulsa met today and condemned the city and county law enforcement officials, holding them responsible for the disastrous outbreak. In addressing this meeting, General Barrett said that while he was ordering the withdrawal of the national guard from Tulsa, there was no intention to remove the martial law edict until such time as it was shown the city could care for itself.

A committee on which Mayor T. D. Evans was denied a place was appointed to care for the helpless negroes, estimated to number more than 3,000 and to expedite the work of rebuilding the burned negro quarter.

"Most of this damage was done by white criminals, who should have been shot and killed," E. J. Martin, former mayor, said after he was selected chairman of the emergency committee.

"As the final outcome we must rebuild these homes, see that these negroes get their insurance and get their claims against the city and county," the chairman said.

A final check of the morgues definitely established the number of white dead as nine. Among these, most of whom were residents of this city, is Ernest Austin, 39, formerly of Houghton, N. Y., in which city an aunt, Mrs. Carry Worden lives. Walter Dags, manager of the Pierce Oil corporation of Tulsa was also numbered among the dead.

Five of the negro dead have been identified. Among them is Dr. A. C. Jackson, shot to death while running from his burning home. He was one of Tulsa's prominent negro physicians and surgeons.

Many negroes left Tulsa today. The Red Cross offered to provide transportation for any destitute who wanted to leave, although no effort was made to have the negroes leave.

Rain today added to the difficulties of the homeless negroes. The downtown section tonight will be patrolled by the regular police.

A subscription of $500,000 will be asked, the committee announced tonight and houses owned by the negroes will be made to rebuild the business buildings, many of which were owned by white persons or houses which were rented.

The committee also hopes to employ immediately as extra policemen, 50 members of the American Legion. A sum for their pay for 30 days was appropriated after which efforts will be made to continue their employment with city funds.

Thirteen bodies of negroes were buried in the city cemetery here today. The act was without ceremony, it being said that feeling might flare up if the burials were attended with any ostentation. The bodies were interred in plain wooden boxes.

Tulsa tonight had regained its normal appearance, the regular policemen patrolling the downtown districts and the martial law declared yesterday relaxed sufficiently to permit business houses and theaters to operate as usual.

About 250 national guardsmen returned to their homes tonight, leaving approximately 300 men in control of the area.

Several thousand negroes today were released from supervision of the military, given badges inscribed "police protection" and sent about their accustomed duties.

Whereabouts of Dick Rowland, 19 year negro bootblack, over whose safety white men and negroes clashed initially still was withheld. The negro was spirited away during the rioting.

Thirteen white men arrested by military forces this afternoon were released after General Barrett examined them and concluded that they had not been looting negro homes.

Mayor T. D. Evans tonight issued an order revoking all special police commissions. The mayor acted under instructions from General Barrett, who said many of the ring leaders among the white rioters and men who did most of the shooting carried arms as special officers.

A military order tonight forbade holding of funerals of those killed in the riot in churches because of the "conditions of emotional stress which still prevails within the city."

Pisgah News and Views.

Pisgah, June 3.—If the boll weevil destroys the cotton here it will bankrupt our people for that is the only money crop we have to pay debts. A few may weather the storm but not the mass of them. The old veterans at Camden had quite an animated discussion on the distribution of the pension money as it is not done uniformly in all the counties.

Capt. Buford of Newberry wanted the state to give $100 to each veteran. On vote, lost 36 for, 39 against. It was largely carried to have but two classes, A and B in all the counties. If the rule of the United States in pensions was followed there would be no trouble.
