MANNSVILLE BOYS' CLUBS MAKE FAST PROGRESS IN LIVESTOCK LINE

Pure bred cattle owned by the Mannsville Boys' Calf Club.

During the past year, the Boys' Calf Club of the Mannsville school has grown to be the largest in the state. It has progressed in commendable proportion, and the prizes which its members took during the Carter County, Oklahoma State and other livestock shows totalled $355, an amount greater than any taken by a similar organization in the same period.

Mannsville is taking a great interest in teaching its youngsters the most modern methods of caring for and raising cattle, pigs, and other livestock. A. C. Oursler, agricultural specialist in charge of the work at the Mannsville High School, has had experience in the subject, and it has been through his untiring efforts that the boys' clubs at Mannsville have been able to make such remarkable showings in their climb to lead the state.

Another boys organization at Mannsville which is also fast rising to the top is the Boys Pig Club. Out of 20 sows which were placed with this club, there were farrowed 169 pigs, varying in age from three weeks to two and one-half months, an average of six and three-fourths per sow. At weaning time (eight weeks), the club pigs averaged about 44 pounds, which is approximately 17 pounds more than the country-wide average for pigs of this age.

The matter of keeping the boys interested in the work, and the assurance that they will take proper care of the sows allotted to them, is done through a contract which is signed by both Mr. Oursler and the recipient.

SUITS FILED IN DISTRICT COURT

Charging abuse and failure to support, Rheney Baker of Haldon has filed suit in the district court against her husband, L. Z. Baker. They were married in Pike county, Arkansas, in 1894, and have three children, one of whom is a minor, 10 years old.

In her petition, Mrs. Baker charges that her husband fraudulently obtained possession of 200 shares of oil stock which belong to her. She declared that she had entrusted the stock to her son, and that her husband had coerced the son into releasing it while she was confined in Hardy Sanitarium. She declared also that the bill for her treatment at the hospital was still unpaid, and that her husband had not provided either for her or the child.

She asks for $100 per month alimony for herself and the minor child.

Frank Humes, ex-service man, is suing his wife, Velma Humes, for divorce. In the petition, Mr. Humes declared that when he returned from the army he found his wife's affections had wandered and that she refused to live with him. His wife had taken abode with her mother while he was in the army, the petition stated.

The couple were married in 1914. Brown & Williams are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

Suit was filed by John May et al for collection of a judgment alleged by the plaintiff to have been granted them against B. E. Mobley. The total amount asked is $168.

A similar suit was filed against B. E. Mobley by Kerr Dry Goods Company, alleging that a judgment had been granted them for the sum of $191.10. They ask for a total of $195.10 including the costs.

ANOTHER VICTIM ADDED TO TULSA RACE RIOT

Tulsa, Okla., June 7.—R. L. Osborne died this morning at a local hospital of wounds received when he was shot by a guard last night. According to military authorities, Osborne, who was a member of an automobile party, failed to halt when commanded to stop by guards patrolling the Sand Springs road where the shooting occurred. Mrs. Paul Varner, sister of Osborne, was cut by flying glass and is in a hospital. Her husband escaped unhurt.

Osborne is reported to have said that he heard the command to halt but did not think it came from guards. His death brings the number of known white victims of the race riot to eleven.

CARTER WRITES ROBERTSON LETTER COUCHED IN VERY BITTER LANGUAGE

Oklahoma City, June 7.—Declaring that unless his office is allowed funds taken from the departmental bill by Governor Robertson it will be unable to conduct its business, with a resultant loss to the state, Frank Carter, state auditor, yesterday sent to Governor Robertson a letter of protest against the elimination of $20,615 provided for his office.

"I take into consideration," Carter wrote, "that when you were inducted into the office of governor, you had very little knowledge of governmental affairs, and also that since you have occupied that exalted position practically none of your attention has been given to affairs of state."

"However, as a public servant elected by the people to a constitutional office, I consider it necessary to make a protest against your action and set forth what it means and the results that will accrue from your lack of governmental understanding."

The letter then continues to the effect that it will be physically impossible for the office to function with the force permitted by the funds left in the appropriation for the office. Checks in payment of taxes will accumulate, Carter wrote, and the state will lose through failure to deposit such checks to the credit of the state so that interest may be derived.

Carter declared in the letter that he wrote it "with the full knowledge that your animosity toward me personally is of such nature as to invite you to be biased and unfair," but that "charity compels me to admit that your disapproval of the $20,615 for each year of the biennium was more certainly attributed to your ignorance of state affairs than to your animosity toward me."

Carter said he "recognized the governor's small capacity to grasp detail of office work," but that he did not presume the governor expected him to "individually attend to this vast volume of work."

The letter then recounts figures of salaries paid and work done by the assistants, who, it declares, will be eliminated from the office by the cut in funds.

The state auditor declared that in order to allow the office to function adequately the legislature will have to meet in special session to provide funds eliminated by the governor.

Mr. Carter said that his office audits annually approximately $100,000 claims and added:

"Looking over the claims that have been presented since you became governor of the state of Oklahoma, I will state that all claims will be audited before they are paid, and also that as a citizen who has received the votes of the people as their servant this is an exceptionally splendid season for a careful audit of all claims which have come before me to be paid. Every claim will be audited notwithstanding the difficulties under which you have placed this division of my department."

The letter then continues with the delineation of alleged hardships which have been thrust on the department. Included in the list is the statement that "by your ignorance of the use of this contingent fund, you have made it impossible for this department to write a letter and mail it."

Mr. Carter said in his letter that he realized the governor was "at the capitol so infrequently that it is impossible for him to pay much attention to public business," but that "before he undertook to destroy the auditors department he should have consulted with some one who does have some knowledge of public business."

The letter concludes: "It is well that the public may know and understand why this department will be unable to function properly and for this reason this letter will not be considered of a private nature. I most humbly beg your pardon for trespassing on your time, so little of which is allowed to be spent on governmental affairs, but I felt it proper that I should politely outline to you and to the public the injuries you have done to the state, for they cannot be personal to me."

BOA CONSTRICTOR SAILS IN TO PORT

New York, June 7. — Svengall, 12-foot boa constrictor, dozed in a cage at the Bronx Park zoo today apparently unmindful of the fact that to him went the honor of being the largest snake ever captured in Hoboken.

Svengall was rudely disturbed from his slumbers on board the steamer Coppename when shipwrights repairing the vessel tore out planks upon which he was reposing. The reptile was not down on the cargo list of the vessel, but arrived as a stowaway.

The theory was advanced that he crawled aboard through a port hole when a tree root upon which he was riding floated by the vessel, which had docked at a tropical port. Floods have been prevalent in the tropics and it was thought Svengall was washed ashore when he took refuge on the root.

The boa was stunned by a fall caused when the Hoboken workmen tore away his resting place, and they immediately boxed him up and sent him to the zoo.
