

What Are WWC Intervention Reports?

Educators can turn to WWC Intervention Reports to find a summary of the evidence on a practice (like summer college counseling), program (like Teach for America), or curriculum (like Achieve3000®). Our Intervention Reports look at all of the studies for a particular intervention, review them against evidence standards, and then summarize findings to provide educators with the information they need to make evidence-based decisions.

WWC Intervention Reports

- Identify studies about an intervention that meet WWC standards
- Provide details about the participants, research settings, interventions and strategies tested, and findings of studies that meet WWC standards

- Explain outcomes for participating students
- Offer key information about the number of studies meeting standards, student enrollment, program implementation and costs, and outcomes

Three Versions of Intervention Reports

Intervention Snapshot: A 1-page document highlighting student characteristics and outcomes

Intervention Brief: A 3-4 page document explaining program implementation and processes for evaluating evidence

Intervention Report: A fuller document detailing the research studies

Intervention Reports can answer questions across multiple academic subjects about

- The effectiveness of specific interventions or curricula
 - Multiple interventions within a topic area
 - Various academic levels
 - Different student populations
- For example, Intervention Reports can answer questions like, “What is the effectiveness of Peer-Assisted Learning Strategies in supporting English proficiency among English learner students?” and “What does the research say about the effects of dual enrollment courses on college degree attainment?”

Access WWC Intervention Reports at the What Works Clearinghouse website.

This infographic was prepared for the U.S. Department of Education, Institute of Education Sciences, What Work Clearinghouse through a contract to American Institutes for Research (919900180019), in partnership with Quality Information Partners.