

PROJECT MUSE®

Contents

Published by

Press, Robert.

Ripples of Hope: How Ordinary People Resist Repression Without Violence.

Amsterdam University Press, 2015.

Project MUSE. <https://muse.jhu.edu/book/66323>.

➔ For additional information about this book

<https://muse.jhu.edu/book/66323>

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.

[136.0.111.243] Project MUSE (2025-01-31 10:32 GMT)

Contents

Introduction	15
Case Studies and Organization of the Book	18
Part one: Sierra Leone	19
Part two: Liberia	19
Part three: Kenya	20
1 Resisting Repression without Violence	21
Individual Activism	23
Resistance in Abeyance: Organization without Organizations	25
From Abeyance to Formally Organized Resistance	26
Resistance without “Opportunity”	27
Broader, More Fluid Participation in Resistance	29
Establishing a Culture of Resistance	31
New Universal Model for Social Movements	34
Theoretical Implications	35
Structure and Resistance	35
Motives of Activists	38

Part one Sierra Leone

2 Students Shake the Pillars of Power	43
Roots of Resistance	45
Rebirth of Resistance	47
“Opportunity?”	47
Phase I: Student Resistance	48
The Power of Small Groups	50
Regime Repression Stimulates more Resistance	52
Resistance Impact	54
Civil Society Fails to Support Protesting Students	56
Phase II: Political Shape Shift: A “War” of Words	59
The Cost of Resisting Repression with Words	62
Refusing to Flee	63
Independent Journalist Escapes Arrest by Jumping out a Window; Press Dynamited	65

Phase III: Radical Activism: From Seeking Regime Reform to Regime Change	67
Training for Revolution	72
Implications of an Informal Resistance	78
3 Women Help Restore Democracy	81
A Modern David Uses Words, not Stones	82
Tracking Resistance via Energy and Ideas, not just Social Movement Organizations	83
Motives of Activists	86
Deepening a Culture of Resistance: Civil Society Re-emerges	87
Military Abuses	89
Birth of a Social Movement: Women Lead the Charge for Regime Change	90
Growing Civil Society Opposition to Military Rule	95
National Conferences: “The Military Realized Late We Were Serious”	97
Market Women v. the Military: The story of two Marias	98
Implications of a Successful Nonviolent Resistance to a Military Junta	102
4 Mass Noncooperation Helps Defeat a Violent Junta	105
Nonviolent Social Movement	106
Democracy on Hold	108
A Brutal Regime: “The Whole Nation Was Crying”	110
A Critique of Theories of Nonviolence	112
Violent Resistance	115
Civil Society’s Nonviolent Resistance: Junta “Not Wanted”	116
Individual Noncooperation	117
A Minor Theory: the Overlooked Role of Minor Actors in Helping Major Activists	119
Individual Resistance: Part of a Larger Social Movement	120
Resisting and Surviving: “We All Thought We Were Going To Die”	121
Organizational Nonviolent Resistance: Lessons from Gandhi and King	124
Teachers and Labor Strike	126
Journalists Wage Nonviolent “War” against the Military Junta	128
Drawn to activism by their profession	129
Underground Resistance by Journalists	132
A Journalist with a “Revolutionary Fervor” for Democracy	132
Radio Democracy: Psychological Warfare against the “Foot” of State	135
A “Ray of Hope”	136

Invisible Networks Supporting Social Movements in Repressive Settings	138
A Nonviolent Woman “Warrior”	139
Dangerous Marches	140
Marching on the Rebel Leader’s Home: “We Shall Overcome”	141
Final Orgy of Violence: “We Thought We Would All Be Dead”	143
International Interventions: A Nigerian Dictator Helps Restore Democracy	144
Implications of the Noncooperation with a Military Junta	146

Part two Liberia

5 Nonviolent Resistance in Abeyance	151
A History of Authoritarianism and Resistance	153
Cultural Restraints on Resistance?	156
Emergence of Civic Resistance	157
Rice Riots (1979): Opening the Door for the 1980 Coup	160
Short-Lived Hopes for Human Rights and Democracy	162
Resistance in Abeyance: Courage, Commitment, Danger	164
Shooting Books	165
Professional Duty: Pathway to Resistance	167
American Ambivalence over Repression in Liberia	168
Civil War Stirs More Regime Repression – and Resistance	170
Implications of Peaceful Resistance in Abeyance	171
6 Peaceful Resistance during a Civil War	175
One Country, Two Presidents	177
Resisting a Tyrant, Peacefully	179
Moral Basis for Resistance	180
Human Rights Activism – “Delivering Body Blows to Taylor”	183
International Support for Advocacy	184
Ripples of Hope: Activists Inspire Others	186
Array of Tactics in the Resistance	188
Courage and Commitment: Intangible “Resources” in the Struggle for Human Rights	190
Women’s Peace Movements	191
“When Mother Calls”	195
Women Seize Peace Talks Hall	197
Implications of Nonviolent Resistance during a Civil War	198

Part three Kenya

7 Individual Resistance against Repression	205
Professionalism: an Overlooked Entry Path to Activism	209
Resistance despite Repression, Few “Opportunities,” Limited Material Resources	210
Early Resistance	211
Hiding in a Charcoal Truck to Run for Parliament	212
Growing Resistance	214
Freedom Corner: Early Cracks in the Wall of Fear	215
Individual Activism (1): Urban Legal “Guerrillas”	217
Organization without Organizations	219
Unpredictability of Social Movements: Minor Actors; Chains of Events	220
Chess Game of Tactics	225
Individual Activism (2): Resistance by Writers, Clergy and Others	227
Weapons of Words	227
“God’s Kingdom Grows with Opposition”	229
Implications of Individual Activism	231
8 Establishing a Culture of Resistance	233
Mothers’ Strike	235
Small Group Strategic Choices and Tactics: “Exciting the Masses”	238
Breaking the “Wall of Fear:” Saba Saba Rally 1990	239
Widening the Resistance: Kamkunji Rally 1991	242
What Quantitative Studies Miss	244
Organizational Resistance	245
Ethnic Divisions	245
Cycles of Activism	246
New Tactic: National Citizen’s Convention	247
“Foot Soldiers” for Freedom	247
Growing Support for Mass Public Demonstrations	248
Counter Tactics by the Regime: the Chess Game Continues	250
Further Growth of a Culture of Resistance: A “Psychological Revolution”	253
International Resistance against Kenya	255
A “Rogue” US Ambassador Supports Kenyan Human Rights	257
From Regime Reform to Regime Change: Who gets the Credit?	259
Implications of a Culture of Resistance	261

Conclusion	265
Activism and Structural Conditions	267
Uncertainties	268
Arguments Supported	269
Appendix	275
Methodology	275
Structural Issues	275
Interviews	276
Accuracy of Interviews and other Findings	277
Limits of the Interviews	278
Availability of Interview Transcriptions	279
Interviews	279
Comparative Levels of Repression	284
Chronologies	285
Abbreviations and Significant Terms	298
Acknowledgments	303
About the Author	307
Bibliography	309
Index	317

List of Figures

Figure 1	Sierra Leone secondary student at a human rights workshop in Bo, Sierra Leone, 2009	14
Figure 2	A street scene in central Freetown, Sierra Leone, 2008	42
Figure 3	Secondary school students and instructor at a human rights workshop in Port Loko, Sierra Leone, 2009	80
Figure 4	The author, political, police and military officials (from left to right) at a human rights workshop in Bo, Sierra Leone, 2009	104
Figure 5	Saxophone player in a public event in Monrovia, Liberia, 2006	150
Figure 6	Coffee house in the northern city of Ganta, Liberia, 2006	150

Figure 7	Kofi Woods, human rights activist, Monrovia, Liberia, 2006	174
Figure 8	Elizabeth Sele Mulbah, peace activist, Monrovia, Liberia, 2006	174
Figure 9	Young street salesman, Monrovia, Liberia, 2006	202
Figure 10	Village home, Liberia, 2006	202
Figure 11	Human rights activist Rumba Kinuthia, Nairobi, Kenya, 2002	204
Figure 12	Slum and downtown skyline, Nairobi, Kenya, 2006	264
Figure 13	Police attack mothers and supporters protesting for release of political prisoners, Nairobi, Kenya, 1992	264
Figure 14	Family in their street sales stall, Nairobi, Kenya, 1991	274
Figure 15	Hope for the future: sign board with image of Africa's first elected female President, Ellen Johnson Sirleaf, Monrovia, Liberia, 2006	274
Figure 16	Looking to the future: young couple in Freetown, Sierra Leone, 2009	302

Figure 1 Sierra Leone secondary student at a human rights workshop in Bo, Sierra Leone, 2009

Photo by Betty Press