Eric Lewin

Eric Lewin has been in the utility industry for 14 years. Eric holds a Class 4 Distribution certification and a Class 4 Collection certification from the State of Colorado. He has a very unique background when it comes to the protection of underground utilities. In his 14 years in the industry, he has been involved at all different and critical levels when dealing with damaged utilities. He has provided hands-on service as a locator, a laborer, a foreman in the field, a supervisor leading a crew, and now a manager guiding and mentoring his team. In every position he has dedicated time and provided input helping to lead, fix and prevent damage to the underground infrastructure.

Eric first started working with the City of Arvada in 2009. In that time, he has worked in the water, sewer, storm drainage, parks, and traffic departments. Today, Eric serves Arvada as the Wastewater/Stormwater Manager, where he handles locating, damage prevention, and coordination of public infrastructure projects. He also oversees the inspection and cleaning of over 600 miles of sanitary and storm piping networks, helping to protect public health and safety.
