Competence and Flexibility...

...they are vital skills that employers seek. Today more than ever, businesses need people with the ability to adapt to different situations and circumstances. And perhaps more than any other group, people with disabilities possess precisely these attributes. On a daily basis, people with disabilities must think creatively about how to solve problems and accomplish tasks. In the workplace, this translates into innovative thinking, fresh ideas, and varied approaches to confronting challenges and achieving success.

While research shows that people with disabilities make excellent employees, not all employers know how to effectively recruit, retain, and advance individuals with disabilities. That's where this booklet can help. It provides a quick outline of four simple steps to increasing workforce inclusion, complete with web links to resources available to help businesses benefit from the talents of qualified individuals with disabilities.

Resources and Links for Federal Agencies

As the nation's largest employer, the Federal Government must model effective policies and practices that advance America's ideal of equal opportunity for all. Regulations implementing Section 501 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 501) specify that federal agencies must become model employers of individuals with disabilities. Federal agencies are required to develop and maintain "an affirmative action program plan" for the hiring, placement, and advancement of individuals with disabilities.

The resources on the next two pages can assist in fulfilling this directive.
