Message from the Director

“SNUAC will perform the role of a hub that collects the knowledge, information of all regions in Asia and responses of countries and people”
“We will cooperate to research current issues of Asia and seek out pan-Asiatic suggestions on policy”

The year 2020 will be recorded as one when we experienced a new crisis and changes that were unknown to us. The COVID-19 pandemic showed us how precious the daily lives that we took for granted were. At the same time, we could seek new possibilities in various aspects and witnessed moments of joint responses to the crisis. SNUAC held an academic seminar under the title ‘COVID-19, Social Shock and Prospects’ on February 18th, 2020, when the force of the pandemic was yet to be full-blown. Afterward, SNUAC followed up with various academic events and research assignments to actively participate in forecasting the social effects of COVID-19 and offering countermeasures. This was possible due to the experience and the academic network that SNUAC had accumulated over the last decade and the outstanding competence of its members.

Since its founding in 2009, SNUAC has now established itself as a regional research center representative of Korea, with supports from the government and Seoul National University and devoted efforts from the participating faculty and research staff. In 2020, SNUAC secured 117 man-days of research and supporting staff and research fund amounting to 9 billion won, thus equipping the aspects of a global research center. We are especially confident that we are faithfully following our initial aims of tearing down the walls between disciplines and becoming a global hub of Asian regional studies through consilient research, as 17 different departments and experts of various specializations are conducting joint research projects. The most important achievement of SNUAC in 2020 was having acquired the National Research Foundation of Korea’s funding for Humanities Korea Plus (HK+) project with the theme of ‘Asias and Mega-Asia: Identities, Dynamics, Data-telling’. As SNUAC can now hire HK professors and HK research professors, we have not only strengthened our research capacities but also procured the ground for the internationalization of our research achievements.

If the first ten years were a period for SNUAC to collect data and set the basis for Asian studies, now is the time for us to return it to society. As part of such an endeavor, we decided to take upon ourselves the role of a hub that collects the knowledge and information of all regions in Asia, and the responses of countries and people. We aim to concentrate our current competence in research to perform the role of a hub; by 1) fostering local experts through Regional Humanities Center, and 2) managing and proliferating information on the Asian region through Korea Social Science Data Archive (KOSSDA) and Asia Regional Information Center (ARIC). Moreover, we will function as a think tank for regional strategies by 3) establishing a regional strategy center that caters to the increasing need for systematic research and policy-level responses on the Asian region.

I send my deepest gratitude to those who have continued to look upon SNUAC with great affection and have provided us generous support for the past ten years from both within and outside the campus. At a time when the importance of Asia is acknowledged both domestically and internationally to be greater than ever, SNUAC will take a leap forward to becoming an advanced institute where all Asian studies researchers can cooperate as subjects to seek out pan-Asiatic suggestions on policy regarding current issues in Asia. We ask for your continued participation and support. Thank you.

March 2021

Director of SNUAC Park, Soo Jin

SNUAC in 2020

The Shock of COVID-19, Seeking a Turn to a 'New Normal' and International Cooperation

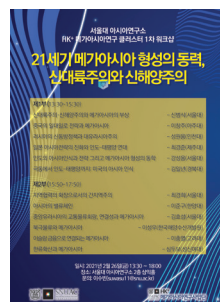

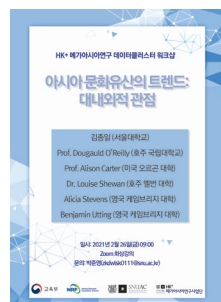

SNUAC responded quickly to the complex shock of COVID-19 in 2020, sought the turn to a 'new normal' beyond anxiety and fear through scientific analysis has been leading the way in seeking international cooperation in a global crisis. Starting with an urgent table talk on the social shock and prospects of COVID-19 on February 18th, four academic conferences were held at SNUAC to take lead in the academic and policy agenda with 39 presentations and discussions in seven areas. Furthermore, SNUAC has been contributing to the advancement and social proliferation of research through collaborative projects with external institutes such as KOICA, NRF, and the Seoul Institute and by holding book concerts related to COVID-19.

SNUAC is continuing and expanding research related to COVID-19 in the face of a 'long-term COVID-19 era' which will not be over until it is over and strengthening cooperation at home and abroad. In the current situation where sustained and repeated crises of the pandemic require a turn in daily lives and civilization, SNUAC seeking not the return to the 'old normal' that is vulnerable to crises of the pandemic, but the task of transition and cooperation to progress into a 'new normal'. While aiding scientific understanding by comparing the experiences of major countries and cities in Asia and the world, research projects that derive common tasks for global cooperation based on the experience of Korea and Asia are being actively carried out. Through research on institution and governance of nations and cities, participation and solidarity of civil society, global cooperation and sharing of knowledge and experience, and vaccine diplomacy and changes in the international order, SNUAC is overviewing the meaning of dynamics and transitions in Asia and the World after the COVID-19 pandemic, and thus seeking the role of Korea and SNU in the matter.

Launching of HK+ Mega-Asia Research Project Group

SNUAC started the Humanities Korea Plus (HK+) research project with the sponsorship of NRF and agenda of 'Asias and Mega-Asia: Identities, Dynamics, Data-telling' from May 2020. 'Mega-Asia' is a research concept that refers to Asia that is not otherized by the West but configures itself within the flow of change, thus establishing a new perspective and recognition of Asia. The Mega-Asia Research Project Group seeks to study the motives and dynamics of the connectivity among regions in Mega-Asia through the following three specific agendas: Asia Composed of Discourses; Asia Operated in Reality; Asia Crossing Borders, and investigate the identity of Asia from diachronic, synchronic, and multiscale dimensions. Also, by organizing a research promotion system consisting of Mega-Asia Research Cluster, Asia Comparative Regional Studies Cluster, and Data-telling Cluster, the group has embarked on the project for publishing HK+ Mega-Asia Research Series. In the series, three volumes will be on defining the concept of 'Mega-Asia' to break away from the existing recognition and approach on Asia and pursue a new perspective and awareness of Asia; three volumes on exploring the frame of comparative regional studies for a 'new Asia' and leading the creation of future-oriented regional knowledge and research methodology that combines the insight of humanities and analytical view of social sciences; another three volumes on that empirically presents the formation and dynamics of Mega-Asia by combining data sciences such as big data, machine learning, and visualization and a humanistic insight based on narrative to seek out new methodologies of comparative regional studies; and Introduction to Comparative Regional Studies will be included to offer a new paradigm in regional studies.

It is the ultimate aim of HK+ Mega-Asia Research Project Group to trace the flow of the trend that drives 'Mega-Asia' beyond regionalism, to comprehensively understand various identities and regions of Asia from an Asiatic perspective, and carry out more insightful analyses on Asia.

Opening of ASIA Humanities Dissemination Center

After being selected for the HK+ project sponsored by NRF in May 2020, SNUAC opened ASIA Humanities Dissemination Center that aims to operate various programs for all citizens at home and abroad to promote the humanistic assets of the Asian region and globally share Asia's humanistic assets. ASIA is the abbreviation of 'Asias In the Asia' and holds the center's direction to start from an in-depth understanding of Asias that comprise the entire Asia and widen its view into that of Mega-Asia.

Major educational programs of the center are ASIA Local Expert Course, a humanities education program for young citizens in their 20s and 30s who aim to become experts of the Asian region; Compass Humanities School for Career Exploration, a humanities refinement education program for multicultural middle school students whose parents are from Asia; ASIA Humanities Asset Course, co-hosted with National Museum of Korea for citizens in general off the SNU campus; and ASIA Civilizational Knowledge School, co-hosted with Extension College SNU for middle-aged and elderly citizens interested in Asian civilizational knowledge. Moreover, the center holds 'Dungsildungsil ASIA Culture Festival' every autumn in cooperation with Asian cultural institutes in Korea such as UNESCO ICHCAP and ASEAN Culture House to create a place for citizens at home and abroad to come together. ASIA Humanities Dissemination Center's YouTube channel has the video recordings of all programs operated by the center, placing itself as an online humanities education platform.

By accumulating human and material networks and operational know-how from organizing and operating programs during the HK+ project, ASIA Humanities Dissemination Center seeks to settle itself as a professional educational center that fosters local experts on Asia on various levels and become a platform through which SNUAC can sustain itself.

Believers at an Iranian mosque on the day of Eid al-Fitr in May, 2020. The appearance of Iranian mosques changed a lot after COVID-19. Iran was the first to suffer serious aftermaths of COVID-19 in the Middle East, and still continues to strive to overcome the problems caused by the pandemic to this day.
