Dear WildCourt Club and Big Blue Nation,

I hope this message finds you all well! As we gear up for another exciting season of Kentucky women's basketball, I want to take a moment to express my heartfelt gratitude for welcoming myself and my family to the Bluegrass and your unwavering support during this transition. Your commitment to our program is invaluable, and it truly makes a difference in everything we do!

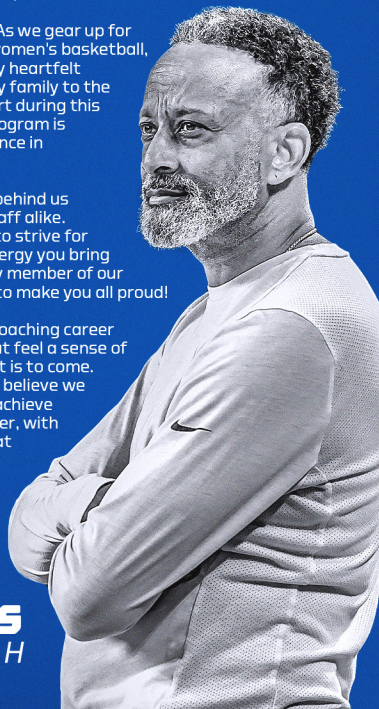

Having such a passionate community behind us motivates our players and coaching staff alike. Your support fuels our determination to strive for excellence on and off the court. The energy you bring to each game and event is felt by every member of our program, and it inspires us all to push to make you all proud!

As we embark on this season and my coaching career here at Kentucky begins, I can't help but feel a sense of anticipation and excitement for all that is to come. Our team has been working hard, and I believe we have the talent and determination to achieve great things here in Lexington. Together, with your support, we can continue the great tradition that is Kentucky Basketball!

Thank you, once again, for being a vital part of our journey. Let's make this season one to remember!

Go Cats!
