PART I: INTRODUCTION

University Profile

Industrialist and philanthropist Andrew Carnegie founded the Carnegie Technical Schools in 1900 for the sons and daughters of Pittsburgh blue-collar workers. The institution became the degree-granting Carnegie Institute of Technology in 1912 and in 1967, Carnegie Tech merged with Mellon Institute to become Carnegie Mellon University.

The university consists of seven colleges and schools: The College of Engineering, the College of Fine Arts, the Dietrich College of Humanities and Social Sciences, the H. John Heinz III College (public policy and information systems), the Mellon College of Science, the School of Computer Science and the David A. Tepper School of Business.

More than 13,000 undergraduate and graduate students at Carnegie Mellon receive an education characterized by a focus on interdisciplinary collaboration, hands-on practical problem-solving and creativity. A small student-to-faculty ratio provides opportunity for rich interaction between students and faculty.

Carnegie Mellon has risen rapidly in rankings and research success. CMU's schools and programs in computer science, engineering, business, public policy, science, the humanities and the arts are ranked among the best in the country. Faculty and alumni include 19 Nobel Prize winners, 12 Turing Award (in computer science) winners, more than 100 members of the U.S. National Academies, and more than 150 Academy, Emmy and Tony award winners.

In addition to the Pittsburgh campus, Carnegie Mellon has a campus in Silicon Valley, California., where it offers several graduate programs, and an undergraduate campus in the Persian Gulf nation of Qatar, where it offers degrees in biological sciences, business, computational biology, computer science and information systems. Carnegie Mellon also has many educational partnerships in the U.S., Europe, Asia, Latin America, Africa and Australia.

CMU students have rich opportunities to gain global awareness through their studies, both inside and outside the formal classroom. The undergraduate experience also is characterized by a strong focus on the major field of study, with opportunities for collaboration across disciplines, solving real-world problems through innovation and an emphasis on the research experience.

Carnegie Mellon fosters entrepreneurship with strong support for students and faculty, through courses, incubators, mentoring and competitions. Some 38 start-up companies emerged from CMU just last year, and more than $500 million in follow-on funding was achieved from 2009-2014. The university's talented faculty and students have attracted major corporations on or near campus, and more than 350 industry partners rely on CMU's world-class research to advance their business interests.

The core values that Carnegie instilled in the Carnegie Technical Schools more than 100 years ago—practical problem solving, collaboration and creativity—continue to drive the university today.

Why an Annual Campus Security and Fire Safety Report?

Federal Legal Requirements – The Clery Act

Enacted in 1990, the Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Crimes Statistics Act (“Clery Act”) was designed to assist students in making decisions that affect their personal safety and to make sure institutions of higher education provide students, prospective students, faculty and staff with the information they need to avoid becoming victims of campus crime. The Higher Education Opportunity Act of 2008 and Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act of 2013 expanded institutions’ obligations under the Clery Act with respect to fire safety, sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking. The Clery Act requires colleges and universities to:

- Publish an annual report by October 1 that contains three years of campus crime statistics and certain campus security policy statements. This report contains crime statistics for calendar years 2014, 2015 and 2016.
- Publish an annual report by October 1 that contains three years of fire statistics for on-campus student housing facilities and certain campus fire safety policy statements. This report contains fire statistics for calendar years 2014, 2015 and 2016.
- Disclose crime statistics for the campus, public areas immediately adjacent to or running through the campus and certain non-campus facilities. The statistics must be gathered from campus police or security, local law enforcement and other university officials who have “significant responsibility for student and campus activities.”
- Provide “timely warning” notices of those crimes that have occurred and pose an ongoing “threat to students and employees.”
- Disclose in a public crime log any crime that occurred on campus or within the patrol jurisdiction of the campus police or the campus security department and is reported to the campus police or security department.
- Disclose in a public fire log any fire that occurred in an on-campus student housing facility, by date the fire occurred.

State Legal Requirements – The College & University Security Information Act

The Pennsylvania Uniform Crime Reporting Act (18 P.S. § 20.101 et. seq.), requires colleges and universities to:

- Report to the Pennsylvania State Police on an annual basis crime statistics for publication in the FBI’s Uniform Crime Report, which collects data on additional categories of felony and misdemeanor crime.
- Report crime rates for all reportable offenses.
- Provide the numbers of enrolled students and employees.
- Disclose information and security policies on the types of available student housing, admission of visitors to housing facilities, measures to secure entrances and standard features to secure room doors.

The Carnegie Mellon University Police Department is responsible for preparing and distributing this report. It works with many other departments and agencies, such as the Division of Student Affairs, Environmental Health and Safety, Housing and Dining and the Pittsburgh Bureau of Police to compile the information.

All community members are encouraged to use this report as a guide for safe practices on and off campus. It is available on the Web at <http://www.cmu.edu/police/security-fire-reports/>. Each member of the university community is sent an email that describes the report and provides its Web address. For a paper copy of the report, contact the Carnegie Mellon University Police Department at 412-268-6232 or campuspd@andrew.cmu.edu.

PART II: SAFETY AND SECURITY POLICIES, PROCEDURES & RESOURCES

The Carnegie Mellon University Police Department—Who We Are

The Carnegie Mellon University Police Department is the primary department at the university charged with promoting campus safety and security. This task, however, is not one the department can accomplish alone. Crime prevention, risk identification and problem solving are the responsibilities of everyone. We ask you to join us in these efforts by reading this report and reporting any matters of personal or campus safety or security.

The University Police Department's address is 300 South Craig Street, Room 199, Pittsburgh, PA 15213. The physical entrance to the department is on Filmore Street. The University Police Department is open 24 hours a day, 365 days a year. The telephone number on campus using the university's phone system is 8-2323, or 412-268-2323 when off-campus or when using a cell phone or other non-university phone.

The department consists of 24 police officers and 40 security guards along with 22 other team members dedicated to providing first-class service to the community. Officers and guards patrol the campus on foot, by bicycle and in vehicles. Several officers, guards and a supervisor are on duty 24 hours a day. The Communications Center is staffed with trained dispatchers who answer calls for service, dispatch officers and other emergency services to incidents and monitor intrusion detection and fire alarms.

We hope you will find this report informative and helpful, and that your time at Carnegie Mellon University will be both pleasant and safe. If you have questions or would like further information about safety and security at Carnegie Mellon University, please visit our website at www.cmu.edu/police/.

Campus Policing and Security Policies

Law Enforcement Authority

The University Police Department is made up of sworn/commissioned police officers and non-sworn security guards. The sworn police officers derive their law enforcement authority from the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Article 6 and from Statute, 22 Pa. C.S. § 50, Section 501 of the Act of November 15, 1972, P.L. 1063 No. 271 (also known as Act 501). Act 501 gives university police officers “. . . all the powers of a police officer in the Commonwealth, in and upon, and in the immediate and adjacent vicinity of, the property of the corporation.” All police officers are required to complete a basic police academy training course approved and authorized by the Pennsylvania Municipal Police Officers Education and Training Commission. Officers also are required to attend mandatory in-service training throughout the year to enable them to perform more efficiently and safely.

The Carnegie Mellon University Police Department became the first state accredited campus police agency, a highly prized recognition of law enforcement professional excellence. The department was in full compliance with all applicable standards in order to attain accredited status. The Pennsylvania Law Enforcement Accreditation Program contains 138 standards. For more information, go to www.cmu.edu/police/.

The non-sworn security guards receive orientation training in areas such as cultural diversity, building security, key control, procedures related to arrests by police officers and patrol procedures. Guards also train in specialty areas, including medical emergencies and hazardous wastes, and assist police officers in all of these areas. Security guards supplement university police officers by patrolling academic buildings every night of the year and are authorized by Title 18 Pa. C.S. § 508 to assist a police officer in effecting an arrest. In addition, four security guards participate in the Neighborhood Security Guard Program, a collaborative program between University Police, the Division of Student Affairs and Housing Services, to provide additional security presence in the university's residential areas during the evening hours.

Throughout the year, eight parking enforcement/traffic officers, working varying shifts, patrol university parking lots and garages both on and off campus in marked vehicles, and assist stranded and disabled motorists.

All police officers and guards are trained in CPR, First Aid/First Responder and the use of AEDs (automatic external defibrillators).

Interagency Cooperation

The Pittsburgh Bureau of Police, the Allegheny County Police Department and the Pennsylvania State Police are major elements in a crime-prevention network that includes the campus police departments of all Pittsburgh colleges and universities. Students attending Carnegie Mellon University benefit from the cooperative relationship that University Police enjoy with federal, state, county and city police agencies. The University Police Department relies on these relationships for support on several levels. In addition to passing critical information to one another, the University Police Department has immediate contact with the Pittsburgh Emergency Operations/911 Center. This arrangement allows unfettered access to mutual aid and support from the Pittsburgh Police, the Pittsburgh Bureau of Fire and the Pittsburgh Emergency Medical Service. Pittsburgh city officers regularly patrol the city streets that border and pass through campus and often work at large annual and special events that occur on campus.

Reporting Criminal Incidents and Other Emergencies

It is critically important that all crimes occurring on campus or in/on university owned or leased off-campus buildings and property be immediately reported to University Police. For each incident reported, an investigation is conducted and a file is created. Crimes can be reported at any time of day or night seven days a week:

- In person, at the University Police office at 300 South Craig Street, Room 199 (use the entrance on Filmore Street), OR
- By calling University Police at 8-2323/412-268-2323 or by using one of the 217 emergency phones on campus.

All students, faculty, staff and guests are encouraged to promptly and accurately report criminal incidents, accidents and other emergencies to the University Police Department. Witnesses to a criminal incident are encouraged to independently report crimes to University Police or appropriate law enforcement agencies when the victim of the crime elects or is unable to make a report. University Police take reports of all crimes that occur within their jurisdiction, with two exceptions: homicides and forcible sexual assaults where the perpetrator is a stranger will be reported to the Pittsburgh Police and investigated jointly with University Police.

Campus Security Authorities

To further encourage the timely reporting of crimes on campus, the following persons have been designated as “campus security officials” to whom incidents may also be reported:

- Vice President for Student Affairs and Dean of Students
- Associate Vice Presidents of Student Affairs
- Associate Deans of Student Affairs
- Director of Residential Education
- Associate Directors of Residential Education
- Director of Community Standards and Integrity
- Coordinators of Community Standards and Integrity
- Interim Director of Title IX Initiatives and Title IX Coordinator
- Assistant Director, Office of Title IX Initiatives
- Deputy Title IX Coordinators
- Director of Student Leadership, Involvement and Civic Engagement
- Associate Directors of Student Leadership, Involvement and Civic Engagement
- Housefellows & College Liaisons
- Chief Human Resources Officer
- Members of the University Police Department
- Members of the Center for Student Diversity and Inclusion
- Director of Athletics
- Associate and Assistant Directors of Athletics
- Varsity athletic team coaches

In addition, community advisors and resident assistants play a key role in supporting a safe and secure environment in the residence halls. Community advisors and resident assistants are responsible for:

- reporting criminal activity in residence facilities,
- maintaining appropriate documentation of incidents that occur in residence facilities;
- responding to emergency situations that may arise in residence facilities.

When appropriate, staff from Housing, Student Affairs and/or University Police may be involved in answering a call for assistance or responding to reports of criminal activity.

Emergency Phones

The university has installed 217 two-way emergency phones—yellow call boxes or pedestal mounted “blue light” phones—throughout the Pittsburgh campus for use during emergencies. With the touch of a button, the caller is immediately connected to a University Police dispatcher in the Communications Center. The location of the call is automatically recorded and response is immediate. Emergency phone locations may be viewed on a map provided at <http://www.cmu.edu/police/reportingacrime/Emergency%20Phone%20Map%202014.png>.

Monitoring and Recording Off-Campus Criminal Activity

The University Police Department relies on its close working relationships with local law enforcement agencies to receive information about criminal incidents in which students, employees, and/or officially recognized student organizations may be involved. The University Police Department will actively investigate any crime information it receives concerning or involving a member of the Pittsburgh campus community. If the university is notified of a situation in which a campus community member is a victim of a crime, even if the crime occurred several blocks or miles away, the department may issue a Crime or Safety Alert detailing the incident and providing tips so that community members have adequate information regarding potential risks.

Professional Counselors

Carnegie Mellon’s Counseling and Psychological Services (CaPS) offers students the opportunity to talk privately about personal, academic, or other concerns in a safe, confidential setting. After an initial consultation with a CaPS therapist, students are referred to available mental health resources at Carnegie Mellon or in the larger Pittsburgh community. Under the Clery Act, “Professional Counselors,” such as the counselors in CaPS, are not considered to be campus security authorities when acting in their professional capacity and are not required to report crimes for inclusion into the annual disclosure of crime statistics. The university does not require professional counselors to encourage clients to voluntarily and confidentially report crimes for inclusion in the crime statistics.

Access to Campus Facilities and Residences

Access to campus buildings and grounds is a privilege extended to students, faculty, staff and authorized guests. Except for university-owned residence facilities, which are always locked, most campus facilities are open during weekday business hours. After normal business hours, a number of academic buildings are secured by means of a card-access system granting access only to holders of active Carnegie Mellon University ID cards or sponsored guest cards. Individuals who wish to enter card-access controlled university buildings or property during non-business hours, on weekends or for special events should contact the appropriate department administrator, the facilities coordinator/manager for the building, Conference and Event Services or the University Police Department.

Special Procedures for Access to Residence Areas

As a private university, Carnegie Mellon University has the right to limit access to and control activities on its campus. Carnegie Mellon University students, their escorted guests and authorized representatives of the university are the only individuals permitted in the private areas of the residence facilities.

All Carnegie Mellon University-owned residence facilities are locked 24 hours each day and are equipped with electronic locks. Students residing in university-owned housing receive a card programmed to provide access to their assigned buildings and private living areas. The electronic locks require individuals to “tap” their access cards twice, once to pass through building entrance doors and again at their private entrances, where they must also enter their user-specific PIN numbers in the locks’ keypads. Building access occurs through the main entrance(s); all other exterior doors are considered emergency exits only.

Two university residence facilities (Morewood Gardens, and the Residence on Fifth) have service desks that are staffed by student desk attendants 24 hours each day when classes are in session. In addition to using the university issued access cards, authorized individuals can gain building access by presenting a valid form of identification to the desk attendant. Three university residence facilities – (Donnor House, Stever House and Mudge House) are staffed by student desk attendants from 10:00 am until 2:00 am daily when classes are in session.

Non-resident visitors and guests are welcome in the residence halls, but they must be escorted by their resident host at all times. Overnight guests are not permitted for more than two consecutive nights. Overnight guests who are not university residents should register with the residential life staff in case of an emergency.

Hard keys are issued to students living in university-rented housing areas not equipped with electronic locks or card readers. The keys provide exterior door and individual apartment door access.

The Neighborhood Security Guard Program, a collaborative program between University Police, Housing and the Division of Student Affairs, provides additional security presence in the university’s residential areas during the evening hours. The Neighborhood Security Guard Program assigns four security guards from University Police to the three main residential “neighborhoods” from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. when classes are in session. The three neighborhoods are the Oakland Community residence facilities; the Morewood residence facilities including the Greek Quad; and the Hill Area residence facilities, including Doherty Apartments. A goal of the program is for residents to become better acquainted with neighborhood guards and seek their assistance as needed. In addition to completing rounds and interacting with residents, guards report lighting and maintenance issues that might impact safe travel around residential buildings.

University Police increase their patrols of residence areas during university break periods. During the winter break, most university residence facilities are closed with the exceptions of: Morewood Gardens, Morewood E-Tower, Residence on Fifth, Shirley Apartments, Webster Hall, and Fairfax Apartments. All other residence facilities are locked and inaccessible to residents. Morewood Gardens’ and Residence of Fifth’s front desk remains operational over the winter break.

Housing Assignments

University housing is available for students in university-managed residence halls and apartments. Room types include singles, doubles, triples, quads, apartments and suites. University housing facilities are mixed-gender, with the exceptions of Hamerschlag House, Scobell House (both all-male) and McGill House (all-female).

Housing assignments for first-year residents are completed through an application-based process, in order of student admissions deposit dates. Housing assignments for upper division students are completed through Room Selection, a process in which residents are assigned a random room selection number, used in conjunction with their class standing, to determine the order that students may select their housing assignment for the next academic year.

Housing assignment changes during the academic year are managed through a waitlist. All university housing residents electronically receive a web link to "Housing Policies," an electronic publication that outlines housing policies and procedures, including information on housing security and University Police.

Security Considerations in the Maintenance of Campus Facilities

Carnegie Mellon University maintains a strong commitment to campus safety and security. Exterior lighting and landscape control is a critical part of that commitment. Representatives from various campus departments conduct security surveys to identify areas throughout the campus where lighting appears to be inadequate or that may require additional landscape control. University Police personnel assess the physical condition of campus facilities (including landscaping, grounds keeping and outdoor lighting) on their regular patrols of university property. If lights are discovered to be out or dim, officers report the condition to a police dispatcher who will initiate an online work order, which is acted upon by a Facilities Management and Campus Services (FMCS) representative usually within 24 hours or the next business day. All members of the campus community are encouraged to report deficient physical conditions to FMCS by phone at 8-2910/412-268-2910, via the campus intranet (see www.cmu.edu/fms/service-requests.html) or by calling University Police.

University Police and representatives from the FMCS locksmith shop work together to respond to inoperative locking mechanisms. Community members are encouraged to promptly report any locking mechanism deficiency to the FMCS Service Response Center (8-2910/412-268-2910) or to University Police (8-2323/412-268-2323).

FMCS is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week via 412-268-2910. Maintenance personnel are on-site at all times to respond to calls for emergency maintenance service regarding unsafe facility conditions or those raising concerns for personal safety and property protection. These conditions may include unsafe steps or handrails, unsafe roadways on campus and unsecured equipment. An FMCS representative can usually respond to the site of the emergency request within 30 minutes of the report regardless of the time of day.

All unsafe conditions relating to student residence areas should be directed to Housing Services in person at the Housing Services office located at the Residence on Fifth (4700 Fifth Avenue), by phone to 8-2139/412-268-2139 during business hours, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday (excluding holidays and breaks). After hours, unsafe conditions and emergencies should be reported to FMCS at 8-2910/412-268-2910.

Postal Services

Postal Services helps to ensure the safety and security of the campus community by screening all incoming and outgoing packages for characteristics indicating suspicious or potentially hazardous contents, in compliance with regulations set forth by Transportation Security Administration, United States Postal Inspection Service, and United States Postal Service. All Carnegie Mellon University Postal Services employees receive training in the identification of suspicious or potentially hazardous parcels and the processes to handle, segregate, and report them. As federally mandated, Postal Services maintains a segregation area for packages identified as potentially dangerous, and reports receipt of items such as these immediately to University Police. Additionally, Postal Services works with the Division of Student Affairs, University Police, and the USPostal Inspection Service by providing information for investigations into lost and stolen mail, mail and identity fraud, and threatening and/or harassing communications.

Timely Warning Notices—Crime, Safety & Emergency Alerts

To inform the community of crime, safety and/or emergency issues, the University Police Department, in conjunction with other departments on campus, from time to time, issues alerts to notify students, faculty and staff in a timely manner of serious crimes and other important events occurring on and near campus. Members of the community who know of a crime or other serious incident should report that incident as soon as possible to University Police so that the appropriate type of alert can be issued, if warranted. Additionally, community members are advised to report crimes or other serious incidents to university administrators (see Reporting Criminal Incidents and Other Emergencies at p. 10). University administrators will promptly notify and collaborate with University Police to issue an alert, if warranted.

“Crime Alerts” are issued to advise the community about individual crimes or a series of crimes against persons (e.g., an assault or robbery) or crimes against property (e.g., multiple office thefts or burglaries in residence areas) in which the university itself or a member of the university community is a victim. University administrators work closely with individuals reporting serious crimes to protect their privacy—to the extent possible—while also providing the community with information regarding potential risks.

“Safety Alerts” are issued concerning the following: (a) temporary disruptions in public safety services (e.g., the city 911 emergency notification system), public utilities or mass transit systems; (b) serious crimes that occur in the surrounding Oakland neighborhood, in other parts of the city of Pittsburgh and Allegheny County that students are likely to frequent and neighborhoods where significant numbers of students live in non-university housing; and (c) crime prevention tips prior to seasonal community events and holidays, and during first-year student orientation week and student move-in periods to reinforce and remind new and returning students of the need to take steps to enhance their own personal safety and the security of their belongings.

“Emergency Alerts” are issued in the event of a serious immediate threat to the health or safety of students or employees. Emergency Alerts may be issued in response to any events that constitute an immediate threat to the campus community, including but not limited to criminal activity, extreme weather or natural disasters. The university’s emergency alert system is known as “CMU Alert.” This system notifies subscribers if there is an incident/event on campus that threatens public safety. All students are automatically registered for CMU Alert. All faculty and staff are encouraged to register for the CMU Alert service by visiting www.cmu.edu/alert/. In addition to email messages, Emergency Alerts are sent to registered phones by voice and/or text message using the CMU Alert system. Emergency Alerts may also be issued in conjunction with Crime Alerts or Safety Alerts.

Distribution of Crime & Safety Alerts

The University Police Department issues crime and safety alerts in two formats—hardcopy and electronic postings. Paper alerts are posted on bulletin boards in all academic buildings and residence halls by staff from University Police and the Division of Student Affairs. In some academic buildings, alerts are posted on bulletin board space identified as “For Police Use Only.” Alerts are removed 30 days after their original posting dates.

If there is an incident/event on campus that threatens public safety, special email broadcasts - or “blasts” - are issued to all students, faculty and staff via the campus-wide email system and notifications are sent via the CMU Alert system to students, faculty and staff who register their phones.

Emergency Response and Evacuation Procedures

Carnegie Mellon University has procedures in place to issue emergency notifications. These messages serve to alert the campus community of potential or actual threats to health or safety.

Emergency notifications will be deployed as quickly as possible once there is confirmation of a serious immediate threat to the health or safety of the campus community. Messages have been pre-scripted for several types of emergencies, although the content of these messages and their initiation may be customized to the situation, if and as necessary. The deployment of these messages allows time to evaluate the risk to our community.

The decision-making group for deployment of emergency messaging is the Emergency Response and Management Core Team. This group includes senior representation from the following departments/divisions: Operations, Enterprise Risk Management, University Police, Facilities Management and Campus Services, Student Affairs, Computing Services, and Internal Communications

In the event of an emergency constituting an immediate threat to the health or safety of students or employees, representatives of the Core Team or their designees will, without delay, and taking into account the safety of the community, determine the content of the emergency notification and initiate the emergency notification system, unless issuing a notification will, in the professional judgment of responsible authorities, compromise efforts to assist a victim or to contain, respond to or otherwise mitigate the emergency.

Procedures for Emergency Alerts

If a serious immediate threat is confirmed, members of the Core Team may launch an emergency notification either from the book of prewritten scripts or extemporaneously. Representatives of the Core Team or their designees are equipped with instructions on how to launch a message to cell phones, landlines and email.

The Core Team may craft follow-up information to the community as needed. These notices are posted on a dedicated website, www.cmu.edu/alert.

Confirming an Emergency

Incidents are reported to University Police, which operates a dispatch center 24 hours a day, seven days week, year-round. The phone number for University Police (412-268-2323) is widely published throughout the campus community and all suspicious behaviors, crimes, accidents or injuries should be reported to that number. Police or security staff is dispatched to investigate and verify reported incidents, where appropriate. Information is passed on to the Chief of Police, members of the Assessment Team and the Executive Policy group.

Members of the Core Team or their designees will also seek first-hand information either from individuals at the scene or from reliable individuals who have gained information from reliable sources.

Notification of Appropriate Segments of the Community

During the fall and spring semesters, all segments of the campus community, faculty, staff and students, receive emergency notifications. For the summer months, when many students and faculty are not on campus, the university may elect to send notifications to a smaller list of emergency coordinators and floor marshals, depending on the nature of the emergency. This smaller group is trained to assist with further notifications, evacuations or sheltering in place.

Determining the Content of an Emergency Alert

If a serious immediate threat is confirmed, members of the Core Team can authorize the launch of a message either from the book of prewritten scripts or extemporaneously.

Scripts have been drafted for water main break, power outage, hazardous material spill, tornado watch, tornado warning, suspicious package found, bomb scare, fire on campus, gunman on campus, natural gas leak, campus evacuation, severe weather watch and severe weather warning.

Initiation of the Emergency Alert System

Members of the Core Team or their designees are responsible for deploying emergency notifications. Once the decision to issue an Emergency Alert is made and the content of the message is drafted, the actual alerts are issued as follows:

- Voicemail & Text Messages: Several staff members from Internal Communications, University Police, and Environmental Health and Safety may launch an emergency alert either through the internet or via telephone.
- Email Broadcasts: The University Registrar, who manages official campus email communications, initiates the email notification system.

Titles of Departments Responsible for Issuing Emergency Alerts

- Environmental Health and Safety
- University Police
- Enterprise Risk Management
- Facilities Management and Campus Services
- Operations
- Student Affairs
- Computing Services
- Internal Communications
- Office of the General Counsel

Disseminating Emergency Information to the Larger Community

The Executive Director of Media Relations will work with external news media to disseminate information to the larger community as appropriate to the nature of the emergency. Messages to the external community will be consistent with the messages disseminated to the internal university community. The university's emergency notification website and social media outlets are accessible to the greater community as well.

Testing of Emergency Response and Evacuation Procedures

The university tests its emergency notification system once during the fall semester and once during the spring semester. The tests are announced in advance to the university community via internal communication outlets, including a campus-wide email. The tests are also used to encourage individuals to register for the emergency notification service. Following the tests, results are documented and any necessary adjustments are made.

Missing Student Notification

In accordance with the Higher Education Opportunity Act of 2008, Carnegie Mellon University has adopted a Missing Student Notification Protocol, which is available at www.cmu.edu/student-affairs/theword//comm_standards/missing-student-protocol.html.

Confidential Contact

Under this protocol, each student may elect to register a Confidential Contact person who will be notified by Carnegie Mellon University if the student is determined to be missing. Confidential Contact information will be kept confidential and will only be accessible by authorized personnel in furtherance of a missing person investigation. Students who wish to register a Confidential Contact for notification through the missing student protocol may do so by logging into Student Information Online (SIO) at www.cmu.edu/hub/sio and updating their “Manage Family & Friends” information under the “My Info” tab.

Missing Student Procedures

Any community member may contact University Police or Student Affairs to report concern that a student may be missing. If the report did not originate through University Police, the information will be immediately conveyed to University Police to begin an investigation.

If the University Police investigation determines that the student is missing, the university will notify the student's Confidential Contact no later than 24 hours after the determination that the student is missing. If the missing student is under the age of 18 and not emancipated, the university will contact a custodial parent or guardian, in addition to the Confidential Contact. The university will also notify the appropriate local law enforcement agency within 24 hours of the determination that the student is missing.

Daily Crime Log

The University Police Department maintains a daily crime log that records, by the date the incident was reported, all crimes and other serious incidents that occur on campus, in a non-campus university owned or controlled building or property and on public property that is within campus or immediately adjacent to and accessible from campus.

The Daily Crime Log—also known as the Student Right to Know Report—is available for public inspection at the department's Communications Center located at 300 South Craig Street, Room 199 (use the Filmore Street entrance). The Daily Crime Log includes the nature, date, time and general location of each crime reported to the department, as well as the disposition of the complaint, if that is known at the time the log is created. The department posts specific incidents in the daily crime log within two business days of receiving a report of an incident. The department reserves the right to exclude crime report information from the log in certain circumstances.

Safety Education and Awareness

Preventing Crime through Building Partnerships

While crime prevention is a top priority of the University Police Department, the department cannot protect everyone everywhere at all times. Thus, every member of the community is invited to partner with the department in this important effort. Together with other campus offices, the department provides programs to enhance personal safety, teach proactive crime reduction strategies and help community members develop personal safety habits, which contribute to a healthy community.

The department's crime prevention strategy rests on a multi-layered foundation of proactive area patrol of the campus, crime prevention education and training, building and area security surveys and property registration. This approach relies on the dual concepts of eliminating or minimizing criminal opportunities, whenever possible, and encouraging community members to take responsibility for their own and others' safety.

Throughout the year, members of the department's Crime Prevention Unit are available to assist any individual or group in planning, presenting and coordinating programs of interest or concern, or conducting safety and security seminars in residence halls, department offices and any other setting on and off campus. These seminars can be tailored to meet the needs of the group and can be arranged by calling the University Police at 8-2323/412-268-2323 or by emailing campuspd@andrew.cmu.edu. Listed below are some of the programs and services offered by the department.

Rape Aggression Defense (RAD): The University Police Department offers the Rape Aggression Defense System (RAD) program to women in the university community. This self-defense class, designed specifically for women, is a nationally recognized twelve-hour course that teaches women the skills that can help prevent or survive a violent attack. The department usually offers a RAD program twice each semester during the regular academic year. In partnership with the Athletic Department, the University Police Department also offers RAD as a 3-unit course to all registered students.

S.A.F.E.: S.A.F.E. (Self-Defense Awareness & Familiarization Exchange) is another nationally recognized educational awareness program that provides teenage and adult women with information that may reduce their risk of exposure to violence and introduces them to the physical aspects of self-defense. S.A.F.E. is two hours in length and presented on an as-requested basis to small groups on campus.

Operation Identification: This is a nationally recognized property identification program open to all members of the university community. As part of the Pennsylvania Crime Watch Program, Operation Identification's goal is to deter thefts and burglary and aid in the recovery of stolen items by encouraging the engraving of personal identification numbers on valuable property and tracking important identifying information about such items. Thieves tend to shy away from property with engraved numbers due to the difficulty of selling it on the open market. If an item is stolen and later recovered, the identification number will assist law enforcement agents in returning it to its rightful owner.

Campus Crime & Safety Alerts: An alert is released by the department any time a crime or other serious incident affects the safety of the community. See page 14 under Timely Notices – Crime, Safety & Emergency Alerts.

Emergency Phones: These two-way call boxes are located strategically around campus. They allow an individual in need of assistance to speak directly with a University Police dispatcher. Activation of the call button on either the yellow box style or pedestal "blue light" model immediately identifies the caller's location, and the police dispatcher will direct the appropriate emergency response personnel to the caller.

Sexual Assault and Sexual Violence Prevention Programs: Information regarding additional sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking prevention programs is available at: <http://www.cmu.edu/title-ix/education-and-training/index.html>.

Campus Shuttle/Escort Transportation Services

CMU Shuttle Service: Coordinated by the University Police Department, the shuttle is a fixed route, fixed stop transportation option available to all CMU students, faculty and staff. Currently, shuttle buses service North Oakland and Shadyside, Bakery Square (Google Headquarters) and the Pittsburgh Technology Center (dedicated to transporting CMU affiliates between campus and those locations). North Oakland and Shadyside routes have been expanded to service members of the university community who reside as far as Shady Avenue in Shadyside. The Bakery Square shuttle provides another transportation opportunity for affiliates who reside in Shady Avenue and Fifth Avenue areas.

CMU Escort Service: Also coordinated by the University Police Department, the service operates from 6:30 p.m. to 6:30 a.m. and serves the geographical areas surrounding Carnegie Mellon, including Squirrel Hill, Shadyside and Oakland. The service provides transportation from six designated campus pick-up locations to the intersection closest to the rider's residence. The pick-up locations are marked by official university signage, bearing the word "Escort." The service is limited to a 1.5-mile radius from campus.

For complete information about CMU's shuttle or escort transportation services, please visit: UPD Shuttle/Escort Program or follow the service on Twitter at <http://twitter.com/AndysBuses>. All operating shuttle or escort vehicles may be tracked in real time on computers and smart phones via the free Ride Systems app, which is available at <http://www.andysbuses.com/>

SafeWalk: If you must walk on or near campus after dark, SafeWalk provides a University Police escort who will accompany you to your destination. This walking escort service may be requested by calling 8-2323/412-268-2323 or by approaching an available University Police officer or security guard.

Alcohol and Other Drug Policies

Carnegie Mellon University policy prohibits the unlawful possession, use or distribution of alcohol and controlled/illicit drugs by any member of the university community on university property or as part of any of its activities. All community members are expected to fulfill their obligations and responsibilities pursuant to university policy as well as the laws of the United States and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (or applicable laws for other jurisdictions where Carnegie Mellon University operates). Applicable university policies permit taking action beyond, or separate from, any criminal action that may be taken by authorities. Disciplinary action taken by the university may be in addition to criminal penalties. Both students and employees are subject to applicable local, state and federal laws.

The university's Alcohol and Drug Policy is available at <http://www.cmu.edu/policies/administrative-and-governance/alcohol-and-drug-brochure.html>.

Alcohol & Drug Policy

Students at Carnegie Mellon University are expected to be acquainted with and abide by the laws of the United States and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania (or applicable laws for other jurisdictions where Carnegie Mellon University operates) and university regulations regarding alcohol and drugs and to be aware of the social, physiological and psychological consequences of excessive drinking in order to make responsible and informed decisions about the serving and consumption of alcohol. The university provides regular educational programs on alcohol and drug abuse as well as counseling services.

The university alcoholic beverage policy is consistent with the laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, which prohibit the attempted or actual possession, consumption, transportation and serving of alcoholic beverages by and to persons less than 21 years of age. Selling or providing alcoholic beverages to a known minor, as well as misrepresentation of age to a licensed dealer or other persons who sell or furnish intoxicating liquors are also prohibited.

Alcohol Medical Assistance Procedure

The university community values the health and safety of its members and supports an environment that encourages students to come to the assistance of one another. To that end, certain provisions—known as the Alcohol Medical Assistance Procedure—have been made to encourage community members to take responsible action when a student is compromised due to consumption of alcohol.

Students for whom medical assistance is summoned for alcohol intoxication will be granted amnesty from university administrative disciplinary action and University Police action. The student who summons University Police or the Carnegie Mellon University Student Emergency Medical Service on behalf of an intoxicated student will likewise be granted such amnesty, provided the caller remains with the intoxicated student until help arrives. Students who are directly involved in attending to the intoxicated student until help arrives also will be granted such amnesty. Those seeking assistance will be assured that the university will pursue no further action against any individual or organization involved in such an incident when appropriate medical attention is sought. Students involved in an alcohol-related incident for which amnesty is granted will be provided appropriate educational or developmental interventions.

Amnesty applies only to alcohol violations and does not apply to other criminal activity such as assault, property damage or presence or use of other illicit substances. In cases where help is indicated but not sought, the most severe disciplinary action will be taken against all students involved.

Alcohol & Drug Abuse Education Programs

Student Affairs provides three levels of substance abuse education, awareness and prevention programs:

- Universal Education Programs – All new undergraduate students must complete AlcoholEDU and Haven, two online courses that address the issues of substance abuse and sexual violence. These courses use evidence-based methods to help empower students to contribute to a safe and positive campus environment. Additionally, all new undergraduate students participate in six hours of Orientation Weekend programming related to healthy decision-making and community expectations, with a core focus on alcohol and drugs.
- The university recently launched HavenPlus, a version of the Haven program designed specifically for graduate students. HavenPlus is available for all graduate students, though completion is optional.
- Selective Education Programs – Interactive group sessions, focused on safer drinking, risk reduction, and recognizing and responding to substance use concerns are offered throughout the year to student groups, including first-year communities, athletic teams, Greek organizations, and resident assistants.
- Indicated Education Programs – Substance use assessments, behavior change support, and referrals are provided for students who violate substance use policies or have concerns about their substance use.
- Employee Assistance Program – The Employee Assistance Program (EAP) is a CMU-sponsored program for employees and their household members that provides support, resources, and information for personal and work-life issues. Our EAP provider, GuidanceResources, can assist with everything from confidential counseling and legal resources to access to daycare locators and college planning specialists. All EAP services are confidential and provided at no cost to employees. Information regarding EAP is available at https://www.cmu.edu/hr/benefits/healthy_living/eap/.

The university's Counseling and Psychological Services (CaPS) is available as a resource to the student population for initial assessment of drug and alcohol problems, treatment of problematic but less severe substance use and referrals to off-campus, outpatient and inpatient treatment programs.

CaPS and University Health Services can assist students who need a referral to drug and alcohol treatment programs in the community. These referrals may be to inpatient or outpatient clinics or to private practitioners who treat substance abuse problems.

Information about appropriate community twelve-step groups is available through CaPS and University Health Services. Students may choose to participate in twelve-step programs in conjunction with treatment for other primary conditions through CaPS or elsewhere. Some of the twelve-step programs that are available in the Pittsburgh area include Alcoholics Anonymous, Narcotics Anonymous, Al-Anon and the Adult Children of Alcoholics Network of Greater Pittsburgh.

Workplace Violence

Carnegie Mellon University is committed to maintaining a safe and secure environment for students, faculty, staff and visitors. Threats or acts of violence against anyone on property owned or controlled by the university will not be tolerated. Such behavior may result in criminal arrest and prosecution and/or disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal, against the perpetrators whether they are students, faculty or staff.

Any person who makes threats or engages in violent behavior while on property owned or controlled by the university may be removed from the premises as quickly as safety permits. They may be required to remain off university premises pending the outcome of an investigation. Any university student, faculty or staff member who violates this policy will be subject to disciplinary action in accordance with university policies and procedures applicable to students, faculty and staff. Threatening behavior may include—but is not limited to: hitting, shoving, sexual assault, attacks, stalking, verbal or nonverbal threats, vandalism, arson and carrying a weapon of any type (regardless of whether the owner is licensed to carry it or not) or explosives.

Reporting

All members of the university community have a responsibility to report threatening or violent behavior, whether that behavior is exhibited by a member of the Carnegie Mellon University community or by visitors to the campus. Any employee who becomes aware of, or believes that he or she has witnessed an incident of violent or threatening behavior, or who is the recipient of threatening and/or violent behavior, should immediately report such incident(s) to University Police and the employee's supervisor, the supervisor's manager or Human Resources.

Individuals should also notify University Police at 8-2323/412-268-2323 if the employee believes that someone may be in imminent danger or if the incident in question resulted in anyone being physically harmed. Such behavior should be reported regardless of the personal or professional relationship between the apparent perpetrator and victim.

In order to protect the reporting individual(s) as well as the alleged offender from possible retaliation, a report of threatening and/or violent behavior is disclosed only to those receiving the original report, to individuals with a need to know, to law enforcement and as required by law or court order.

PART III: PREVENTING AND RESPONDING TO SEXUAL HARASSMENT, SEXUAL ASSAULT, DOMESTIC VIOLENCE, DATING VIOLENCE AND STALKING

Policy Against Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault

Carnegie Mellon is dedicated to the free exchange of ideas and the intellectual development of all members of its community. For this exchange and development to take place freely, the institution fosters a positive learning, working, and living environment that promotes the confidence to work, study, innovate and perform without fear of sexual harassment or sexual assault. Therefore, it is a violation of Carnegie Mellon University policy to have or engage in any sexual activity with any member of the community without the clear, freely chosen consent of those involved. The policy also prohibits retaliation against any individual who initiates an inquiry or who lodges a complaint in good faith.

Sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence and stalking are prohibited by federal and state law and are an egregious violation of university policy. In addition to potential criminal prosecution, Carnegie Mellon University community members found in violation of policy or law regarding sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence and stalking may be subject to discipline up to and including expulsion / termination, or removal from campus.

Carnegie Mellon University's Policy Against Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault is available at www.cmu.edu/policies/documents/SA_SH.htm.

Title IX Coordinators & Office of Title IX Initiatives

The Office of Title IX Initiatives is dedicated to promoting gender equity at Carnegie Mellon University, which includes coordinating the University's efforts to prevent and effectively respond to all forms of sexual misconduct impacting community members, including sexual assault, sexual harassment, dating and domestic violence, and stalking. The office is headed by the Title IX Coordinator & Director of Title Initiatives, who is responsible for overseeing the university's compliance with Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972, as well as the university's Policy Against Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault. In addition to the responsible parties identified elsewhere in this report, questions or concerns regarding sexual harassment and sexual assault may also be directed to the university's Director of Title IX Initiatives and Title IX Coordinator, Holly Hippensteel at 412-268-7125 or hbh@andrew.cmu.edu or to the Office of Title IX Initiatives at tix@andrew.cmu.edu.

Questions or concerns may also be submitted to any of the following Deputy Title IX Coordinators:

- Deputy Title IX Coordinator for Students, Jamie Edwards, 412-268-7125
- Deputy Title IX Coordinator for Faculty, Amy Burkert, 412-268-5865
- Deputy Title IX Coordinator for Staff, Everett Tademy, 412-268-1018
- Deputy Title IX Coordinator for Athletics, Kimberly Kelly, 412-268-2193

Key Definitions & Terms

Definition of Sexual Harassment

Sexual Harassment is defined as unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, or other visual, verbal, or physical conduct of a sexual nature when:

1. submission to such conduct is made is implicitly or explicitly a term or condition of an individual's employment or student status, in a course, program or activity; or
2. submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as the basis for employment or educational decisions affecting such individual; or
3. such conduct has the purpose or effect of interfering with an individual's work or educational performance, or creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive working and/or learning environment, or interfering with one's ability to participate in or benefit from an educational program or activity.

Definition of Rape

A form of sexual assault defined by Pennsylvania law as engaging in sexual intercourse with another person:

1. By forcible compulsion;
2. By threat of forcible compulsion that would prevent resistance by a person of reasonable resolution;
3. Who is unconscious;
4. Who is unaware that the sexual intercourse is occurring and the perpetrator knows that;
5. Where the person has substantially impaired the victim's power to appraise or control his or her conduct by administering or employing, without the knowledge of the victim, drugs, intoxicants or other means for the purpose of preventing resistance;
6. Who suffers from a mental disability, which renders the victim incapable of consent.

Source: Pennsylvania Consolidated Statutes, Title 18, Section 3121.

Definition of Domestic Violence

The occurrence of one or more of the following acts between family or household members, sexual or intimate partners or persons who share biological parenthood:

1. Attempting to cause or intentionally, knowingly, or recklessly causing bodily injury, serious bodily injury, rape, involuntary deviate sexual intercourse, sexual assault, statutory sexual assault, aggravated indecent assault, indecent assault or incest with or without a deadly weapon;
2. Placing another person in reasonable fear of imminent serious bodily injury;
3. The infliction of false imprisonment;
4. Physically or sexually abusing minor children;
5. Stalking.

Source: Pennsylvania Consolidated Statutes, Title 23, Section 6102.

Definition of Dating Violence

Violence committed by a person:

1. Who is or has been in a social relationship of a romantic or intimate nature with the victim; and
2. Where the existence of such relationship is determined based on a consideration of the length of the relationship, the type of the relationship, and the frequency of the interaction between the persons involved in the relationship.

Source: United States Code, Title 42, Section 13925(a)(1), as amended by the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act of 2013.

Note: Pennsylvania law does not define "dating violence" as a crime.

Definition of Stalking

A person commits the crime of stalking when the person either:

1. Engages in a course of conduct or repeatedly commits acts toward another person, including following the person without proper authority, under circumstances which demonstrate either an intent to place such other person in reasonable fear of bodily injury or to cause substantial emotional distress to such other person;
2. Engages in a course of conduct or repeatedly communicates to another person with an intent to place such other person in reasonable fear of bodily injury or to cause substantial emotional distress to such other person.

Source: Pennsylvania Consolidated Statutes, Title 18, Section 2709.1.

Definition of Consent

A voluntary agreement to engage in sexual activity.

1. Someone who is incapacitated cannot consent;
2. Past consent does not mean future consent;
3. Silence or an absence of resistance does not imply consent;
4. Consent to engage in sexual activity with one person does not imply consent to engage in sexual activity with another.
5. Consent can be withdrawn at any time;
6. Coercion, force or a threat of either invalidates consent.

Prevention and Awareness Programs

Each year during Orientation for all incoming undergraduate students, Carnegie Mellon University hosts a series of interactive programs, which cover a number of topics, including healthy relationships, sex, consent, alcohol, drugs, emotional well-being, and effective bystander intervention strategies. The programs also provide information about the University's Policy Against Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault, resources available on campus and in the Pittsburgh community, and how to make a report of sexual misconduct (which includes sexual assault, sexual harassment, dating and domestic violence, and stalking). Students receive a Resource Guide that provides information to survivors about what to do if impacted by sexual misconduct, outlines campus and community resources, provides definitions of the types of sexual misconduct, and explains how the University responds to reports of sexual misconduct directly from their Resident Assistant in advance of this session. The print resource guide also directs students to more comprehensive information housed on the Office of Title IX Initiatives web site (www.cmu.edu/title-ix).

Prior to arriving on campus, all new undergraduate students are expected to complete two online courses administered by University Health Services (UHS):

- AlcoholEdu – an online course that incorporates the latest evidence-based prevention methods to create a highly personalized user experience that inspires students to reflect on and consider changing their drinking behaviors.
- Haven – an online course that utilizes a population-level approach to educate all students on the issues associated with sexual assault, relationship violence, and stalking, taking into account students' unique perspectives and experiences.

UHS also provides orientation sessions and brief educational programs throughout the year to help students further develop bystander intervention skills. Programs are also offered for students who exhibit high-risk behaviors (see page 21 for a summary of alcohol education programs).

As of August 2016, Carnegie Mellon graduate students also have access to an online course specifically tailored to their experiences. Haven Plus seeks to educate graduate students on issues related to sexual harassment and healthy relationships and addresses considerations for intervening as a bystander.

The Office of Title IX Initiatives also provides in-person educational programming during Graduate Student Orientation for incoming Master's and PhD students. These sessions cover Title IX, definitions of sexual misconduct, Carnegie Mellon policy and procedures, reporting expectations, and a trauma-based approach to supporting survivors.

Throughout the year, Office of Title IX Initiatives offers training programs for students, staff, and faculty. Training programs include roles specific training for student facing staff (housefellows and college liaisons), student leaders (residential advisors, community advisors, orientation counselors), law enforcement, health professionals and mental health professionals.

The Health Promotion team in University Health Services also coordinates a number of primary prevention focused programs and educational opportunities in coordination with staff in the Center for Student Diversity & Inclusion and the Peer Health Advocates. SHIFT: Empower, Prevent, Educate is a culture change movement designed to support community members' awareness of gender, women's empowerment, masculinity, power based violence, bystander intervention behaviors and more.

Carnegie Mellon University provides a New Hire Orientation Program every month throughout the year. The program helps new employees learn about University policies and procedures, resources and benefits, and the University community. Among many other topics, the New Hire Orientation Program includes an overview of the University's efforts to prevent and respond to sexual misconduct impacting community members, which covers Title IX, Carnegie Mellon policy, definitions, and procedure, and reporting expectations. In addition, all employees must complete an online sexual harassment training module entitled "Preventing Workplace Harassment."

There are several organizations on campus dedicated to primary prevention of sexual misconduct, including Peer Health Advocates, SAFE (SARV Activism for Everyone), Plaidvocates, Green Dot facilitators and Sexual Harassment Advisors, each of which are groups of volunteers who are trained to provide information and resources regarding sexual misconduct.

Additional information regarding general safety education and awareness programs is available on page 18.

Risk Reduction

Risk reduction involves changing or modifying behaviors and actions in order to possibly prevent a sexual assault on an individual level. While being equipped with, and using, strategies to reduce risk for yourself and others is an active way to address sexual violence on campus, the culpability for a specific instance of sexual assault never accrues to anyone other than the perpetrator of it.

The Rape Abuse and Incest National Network (RAINN), the nation's largest anti-sexual assault organization, suggests the following risk reduction strategies:

Avoiding Dangerous Situations

While you can never completely protect yourself from sexual assault, there are some things you can do to help reduce your risk of being assaulted.

- Be aware of your surroundings. Knowing where you are and who is around you may help you to find a way to get out of a bad situation.
- Try to avoid isolated areas. It is more difficult to get help if no one is around.
- Walk with purpose. Even if you don't know where you are going, act like you do.
- Trust your instincts. If a situation or location feels unsafe or uncomfortable, it probably isn't the best place to be.
- Try not to load yourself down with packages or bags as this can make you appear more vulnerable.
- Make sure your cell phone is with you and charged and that you have cash money.
- Don't allow yourself to be isolated with someone you don't trust or someone you don't know.
- Avoid putting music headphones in both ears so that you can be more aware of your surroundings, especially if you are walking alone.

In a Social Situation

While you can never completely protect yourself from sexual assault, there are some things you can do to help reduce your risk of being assaulted in social situations.

- When you go to a social gathering, go with a group of friends. Arrive together, check in with each other throughout the evening, and leave together. Knowing where you are and who is around you may help you to find a way out of a bad situation.
- Trust your instincts. If you feel unsafe in any situation, go with your gut. If you see something suspicious, contact law enforcement immediately (local authorities can be reached by calling 412-268-2323 for University Police or 911 for local police in most areas of the U.S.).
- Don't leave your drink unattended while talking, dancing, using the restroom, or making a phone call. If you've left your drink alone, just get a new one.
- Don't accept drinks from people you don't know or trust. If you choose to accept a drink, go with the person to the bar to order it, watch it being poured, and carry it yourself. At parties, don't drink from the punch bowls or other large, common open containers.
- Watch out for your friends, and vice versa. If a friend seems out of it, is way too intoxicated for the amount of alcohol they've had, or is acting out of character, get him or her to a safe place immediately.
- If you suspect you or a friend has been drugged, contact law enforcement immediately (local authorities can be reached by calling 412-268-2323 for University Police or 911 for City Police). Be explicit with doctors so they can give you the correct tests (you will need a urine test and possibly others).

If Someone is Pressuring You

If you need to get out of an uncomfortable or scary situation, here are some things that you can try:

- Remember that being in this situation is not your fault. You did not do anything wrong, it is the person who is making you uncomfortable that is to blame.
- Be true to yourself. Don't feel obligated to do anything you don't want to do. "I don't want to" is always a good enough reason. Do what feels right to you and what you are comfortable with.
- Have a code word with your friends or family so that if you don't feel comfortable you can call them and communicate your discomfort without the person you are with knowing. Your friends or family can then come to get you or make up an excuse for you to leave.
- Lie. If you don't want to hurt the person's feelings, it is better to lie and make up a reason to leave than to stay and be uncomfortable, scared, or worse. Some excuses you could use are: needing to take care of a friend or family member, not feeling well, having somewhere else that you need to be, etc.
- Try to think of an escape route. How would you try to get out of the room? Where are the doors? Windows? Are there people around who might be able to help you? Is there an emergency phone nearby?
- If you and/or the other person have been drinking, you can say that you would rather wait until you both have your full judgment before doing anything you may regret later.

What Can Bystanders Do?

There are many things men and women can do to help prevent sexual violence.

- If you see someone in danger of being assaulted:
 - Step in and offer assistance. Ask if the person needs help. NOTE: Before stepping in, make sure to evaluate the risk. If it means putting yourself in danger, call the police instead.
 - Don't leave. If you remain at the scene and are a witness, the perpetrator is less likely to do anything.
 - If you know the perpetrator, tell the person you do not approve of their actions. Ask the person to leave the potential victim alone.
- Be an ally:
 - When you go to a party, go with a group of friends. Arrive together, check in with each other frequently and leave together.
 - Have a buddy system. Don't be afraid to let a friend know if you are worried about her/his safety.
 - If you see someone who is intoxicated, offer to call a cab.
- If someone you know has been assaulted:
 - Listen. Be there. Don't be judgmental.
 - Be patient. Remember, it will take your friend some time to deal with the crime.
 - Help to empower your friend or family member. Sexual assault is a crime that takes away an individual's power, it is important not to compound this experience by putting pressure on your friend or family member to do things that they are not ready to do yet.
 - Encourage your friend to report the rape to law enforcement (call 412-268-2323 for University Police or 911 for local police in most areas of the U.S.). If your friend has questions about the criminal justice process, contact the Office of Title IX Initiatives (<http://www.cmu.edu/title-ix/index.html>) or call the National Sexual Assault Hotline, 1-800-656-HOPE (1-800-656-4673).
 - Let your friend know that professional help is available through the National Sexual Assault Hotline, 1-800-656-HOPE, in addition to campus resources discussed elsewhere in this report.

- If your friend is willing to seek medical attention or report the assault, offer to accompany them wherever they need to go (hospital, police station, campus security, etc.).
- Encourage him or her to contact one of the hotlines, but realize that only your friend can make the decision to get help.
- Get Involved:
 - By speaking out and educating ourselves and others, we can help to decrease the number of sexual assaults.
 - Become knowledgeable about the issue and share your knowledge with others.
 - Volunteer with an advocacy group, such as the Survivor Support Network, and help educate your community about preventing sexual violence.

Even the most comprehensive set of risk reduction strategies cannot eliminate the possibility of sexual assault. In the event that you are assaulted, please know that it is not your fault and, as summarized elsewhere in this report, there are resources available to support you.

Signs of Domestic Violence, Dating Violence & Stalking

Domestic Violence, Dating Violence and Stalking may involve more than just physical violence or threats of violence.

Does your partner:

- Check your cell phone or email without permission?
- Criticize you and put you down?
- Get extremely jealous when you hang out with other people or talk to friends?
- Pressure you to have sex?
- Control where you go and what you do?
- Destroy or threaten to destroy your belongings?

Do you:

- Feel afraid of your partner?
- Avoid certain topics out of fear of making your partner angry?
- Feel that you can't do anything right for your partner?
- Worry that your partner may become violent?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, you may be in an abusive relationship and you should consider seeking assistance from one of the individuals or organizations listed under the Resources for Reporting on page 34, Confidential Reporting Options on page 39, and/or the Medical and Legal Resources on page 40.

Bystander Intervention

The prevention of sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking is a community effort. To help encourage bystander intervention, the training programs for all community advisors, resident assistants, orientation counselors and student athletes include information on how to be an active bystander and how to encourage others to be active bystanders from both the Step UP! And Live the Green Dot bystander intervention programs. The Responsible Communities portion of the orientation sessions provided to all first-year students by housing community also includes information on effective bystander intervention.

In addition, students who wish to be active bystanders may reference the following guidelines:

- Be Educated – Get educated about sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking and know the signs.
- Be Responsible – Violence prevention is a community effort. Everyone can help prevent sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking.
- Be Engaged – Never assume that someone will step in to prevent sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking. Don't wait for someone else to do something – you have a responsibility to act.
- Be Deliberative – Weigh the costs and benefits of intervening in a risky situation. These include threats to one's own safety, negative consequences on one's relationships with others, and the potential to change the outcome of a risk situation or to help a victim.
- Be Confident – Use appropriately assertive verbal and non-verbal techniques when intervening.
- Be Skilled – Are you unsure of how to intervene during a situation or what to say to a survivor after an assault? Become educated about how to step in and how best to respond to a survivor. Peer Health Advocate training and Survivor Support Network training are two pathways to develop these skills.
- Be Self-Aware – Bystanders also need safety nets for themselves – resources to call upon and community policies that support intervention.

What to Do if You or Someone You Know is a Survivor of Sexual Assault or Sexual Violence

The following procedures are recommended if you or someone you know is a victim of sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence, or stalking (for limits on confidentiality, please see "Limitations on Confidentiality," page 34).

- Get to a safe place – Following an assault, the primary concern is to get the survivor to a safe place. Once there, the survivor has several options to consider.
- Contact someone that you can trust – such as a friend, family member, University Police, your Resident Advisor or Housefellow.
- Consider seeking medical attention – All survivors of sexual assault are encouraged to seek medical attention as soon as possible after the assault to ensure their physical well-being. University Police can provide transport to University Health Services or a local hospital by calling 8-2323/412-268-2323. Even if there is no obvious, external physical injury, medical providers can test for sexually transmitted diseases, pregnancy and internal trauma.
- Try to preserve physical evidence – The preservation of physical evidence is important to the successful criminal prosecution of offenders. In order to preserve evidence of sexual assault, survivors should not shower, douche or change clothes or bedding before seeking medical attention. All clothing items should be placed in a paper bag and taken to the hospital. Also, if oral contact was made, survivors are asked not to brush their teeth, smoke or eat. Evidence can be collected at area hospitals, including Magee Women's Hospital, 412-641-1000 and UPMC Presbyterian Hospital, 412-647-3333. In instances of physical or sexual assault, consider taking photographs of injuries or asking someone else to do so.
- If a survivor chooses, contact University Police and/or Pittsburgh Police – Sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence and stalking are crimes and survivors have the opportunity to press charges and/or pursue action through the university. Survivors may contact Carnegie Mellon University Police at 8-2323/412-268-2323 or the Sexual Assault Unit of the Pittsburgh Police directly at 412-323-7141. Survivors have the right to decline to contact local law enforcement authorities. If survivors choose to contact law enforcement, University Police Department Staff and other university officials listed in the report will assist survivors in doing so.
- If a survivor chooses not to go through the criminal justice system or wishes to pursue university charges in addition to criminal charges, there are disciplinary and non-disciplinary options available at Carnegie Mellon University. A survivor can discuss on-campus procedures by contacting the Office of Title IX Initiatives at 412-268-7125 or tix@cmu.edu.
- Consider contacting a counselor or support organization – Counselors are available through the campus Counseling and Psychological Services (CaPS) at 8-2922/412-268-2922, Pittsburgh Action Against Rape's 24-hour help line at 1-866-363-7273, or the Women's Center and Shelter at 412-687-8005. Visits to University Health Services for medical treatment and CaPS for counseling are confidential. Conversations with University Health Services clinicians and CaPS counselors are not disclosed to anyone without the expressed permission of the person seeking assistance unless there is a threat of physical harm to that individual or others.

Protection From Abuse/Restraining Orders

All individuals who apply for or obtain a temporary or permanent Protection From Abuse Order or Restraining Order listing any Carnegie Mellon University location as a protected area must provide University Police with a copy of the order. The University Police Department understands the sensitivity of this information and respects the privacy of the reporting person.

Resources for Reporting

Any person aware of and/or subjected to sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence or stalking is encouraged to report the incident to university officials and local law enforcement. Reporting sexual harassment, sexual assault, or other sexual misconduct (such as domestic violence, dating, violence, or stalking) may help to prevent another offense. Reporting the incident does not always result in criminal or university action, and in all cases, the wishes of the survivor will be given the utmost consideration before any action is taken. However, depending on the information shared, the university may have an obligation to safeguard the welfare of the reporting individual and/or the campus community through further investigation or by taking appropriate remedial action. Regardless of whether a criminal investigation is conducted or criminal charges are filed, the university may also have an obligation to conduct a separate internal investigation of reports of sexual harassment, sexual violence, or relationship violence and take appropriate remedial action.

The following contacts may be used to report incidents to the university. These contacts can also provide assistance in reporting incidents to local law enforcement authorities, if desired.

- University Police – 412-268-2323 or 8-2323
- Office of Title IX Initiatives – 412-268-7125 (tix@andrew.cmu.edu)
- Title IX Coordinator, Holly Hippensteel– 412-268-7125
- Deputy Title IX Coordinator for Staff, Everett Tademy – 412-268-1018
- Deputy Title IX Coordinator for Faculty, Amy Burkert – 412-268-5865
- Deputy Title IX Coordinator for Students, Jamie Edwards– 412-268-7125
- Deputy Title IX Coordinator for Athletics, Kimberly Kelly – 412-268-2193
- The Office of the Dean of Students– 412-268-2075
- Office of Community Standards & Integrity – 412-268-2140
- Center for Student Diversity and Inclusion – 412-268-2150
- Housefellows & Resident Assistants – 412-268-2142
- College Liaisons – 412-268-2075

In case of emergency, call University Police at 8-2323 or 412-268-2323.

Limitations on Confidentiality

Consistent with its duties under Title IX, the university is committed to promptly responding to reports of sexual harassment, sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking in a way that limits the effects and prevents recurrence. Because Carnegie Mellon is committed to ensure that such reports are investigated and appropriately responded to, there are limits on the level of confidentiality that can be provided by officials of Carnegie Mellon.

Generally, the resources listed above cannot guarantee confidentiality. Depending on the information shared, the university may have an obligation to safeguard the welfare of the campus community through further investigation or by taking appropriate remedial action.

A list of confidential reporting options is available on page 39.

Public Record Keeping

Personally identifiable information regarding incidents or complaints of sexual assault or relationship violence will not be publicly released, except where required by law or court order. Personally identifiable student information is protected by the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act and the University's Policy on the Privacy Rights of Students. Statistical crime reporting and crime alerts required by the Clery Act do not include personally identifiable information.

Sexual Harassment Advisors

In support of its commitment to maintain an environment free of sexual harassment, the university makes sexual harassment advising as widely available as possible. To that end, the university assigns special responsibility to the persons on its Panel of Sexual Harassment Advisors. Any member of the university community who believes she or he has been subjected to sexual harassment or knows of the occurrence of probable sexual harassment is strongly urged to immediately contact one of the sexual harassment advisors directly.

A list of sexual harassment advisors is provided in Appendix A to the university's Policy Against Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault, www.cmu.edu/policies/documents/SA_SH.htm.

Contacting Other Law Enforcement Agencies

Survivors also may report incidents to local law enforcement agencies, if desired. Upon request, University Police Department staff and other university resources listed above will assist the survivor in notifying the appropriate agency in the applicable jurisdiction.

Written Resource Guide

In order to promote survivors' awareness of their rights and the resources available to assist them, Carnegie Mellon provides all individuals who report incidents of sexual harassment, sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence or stalking with a Resource Guide, which is available at <http://www.cmu.edu/title-ix/resources-and-information/resource-guide.html>.

Filing an Internal Complaint within the University

All cases of sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence and stalking are dealt with in a supportive and discreet manner. Any individual involved in such incidents may initiate a complaint with any of the individuals or departments listed above under “Resources for Reporting” (see page 34).

Carnegie Mellon’s Policy Against Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault governs the conduct of all members of the Carnegie Mellon community, including faculty, staff, students, vendors, contractors, and visitors. The procedures for handling a complaint depend on the student/employee status of the individual against whom the allegation is made (hereinafter “respondent”). Regardless of the specific procedure used, all proceedings shall provide a prompt, fair, and impartial investigation and resolution and will be conducted by officials who have received annual training on sexual harassment, sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, and/or stalking and how to conduct an investigations and hearings. Any hearing or disciplinary proceeding conducted under the Policy Against Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault will use a preponderance of the evidence standard (i.e., more likely than not). Both the survivor and the respondent will have an equal opportunity to be accompanied by the advisor of their choice at any disciplinary proceeding, hearing, or related meeting. Both parties will also be simultaneously informed of:

- the outcome of any institutional disciplinary proceeding,
- the procedures for appealing the results of the disciplinary proceeding;
- any change to the results of the disciplinary proceeding that occurs prior to the results becoming final;
- when the results become final.

Procedures where the Respondent is a Student

Where the respondent is a registered student of Carnegie Mellon University, cases are handled through the university student conduct process outlined in the Student Handbook. The student conduct process is initiated by filing a report with the Office of the Dean of Students, Office of Community Standards & Integrity, or the Office of Title IX Initiatives, or the filing of a report with University Police detailing the university regulation or policy that the complainant believes has been violated and providing information that substantiates the facts and circumstances. Complaints may be filed by any member of the Carnegie Mellon community or the general public when the individual believed to have violated university policy is a registered student of Carnegie Mellon University. The University Disciplinary Committee (UDC) is an avenue for resolving allegations of sexual assault, sexual harassment, domestic violence, dating violence, and/or stalking where the respondent is a student of Carnegie Mellon. All UDC board members who hear cases on sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence and/or stalking receive annual training regarding issues related to such cases. Specific information regarding the UDC is outlined in the student handbook. Additional means of resolution through the student conduct process are available, at the option of the complainant or as deemed necessary by the Title IX Coordinator and Dean of Students in matters where protecting the welfare of the campus community.

The student conduct process is designed to afford a complainant (the person who is bringing a charge) and a respondent (the person who is answering a charge) a fair, prompt and appropriate resolution process. The process is designed to help persons who need support as they address these incidents and incorporates both informal resolutions and formal disciplinary procedures.

The university provides advice and emotional support to assist any individual in better understanding and pursuing the matter. In addition, the university can provide direct medical treatment and counseling, referral to additional medical and counseling support where appropriate, and other support to any individual involved in such an incident.

Both the complainant and respondent have the right to have one person—another student, a faculty or staff member, parent or legal counsel—participate in any hearing as an advisor. All materials related to any disciplinary process will be provided for review to the complainant and the respondent consistent with the privacy rights of those involved. Both the complainant and respondent will be informed of the outcome of proceedings in accordance with the procedures outlined in the student handbook. Records of disciplinary actions following the process will not be released at any time without the consent of the student charged or as required by law (where permitted by law, the name of the complainant or any other individuals referenced will be redacted when producing records).

Procedures where the Respondent is Faculty or Staff

In cases where the respondent is faculty or staff, one of the Title IX Coordinators or Sexual Harassment Process Coordinators will promptly endeavor to thoroughly review the matter with the person making the allegations to determine whether sexual harassment or sexual assault appears to have occurred, and proceed to take or recommend appropriate action. Such action may include an informal agreement or resolution. The terms of an informal agreement or resolution necessarily include an agreement to stop the behaviors at issue, but often include other terms / measures that may be appropriate in the circumstances and necessary to protect the complainant and safeguard the campus community. At any time during the informal process, the complainant has the right to end the informal process and proceed with a formal complaint. Informal procedures will not be pursued where the university deems it inappropriate to do so, such as in cases involving sexual violence.

A person who believes that she or he has been subjected to sexual harassment, including sexual assault, may choose, either initially or after having sought an informal resolution, to lodge a formal complaint. Survivors are encouraged to lodge a formal complaint (if they intend to do so) as soon as possible, but at least within one year after the most recent conduct alleged to constitute sexual harassment. Although the university does not impose a limitations period for reviewing internal complaints of alleged sexual harassment/sexual assault, the university recognizes that to conduct a meaningful investigation of allegations of sexual harassment or sexual assault and to take prompt remedial action as appropriate, a timely complaint is important. The lodging and processing of a formal complaint does not preclude the possibility of an informal resolution of the matter.

Once a formal complaint has been filed, the procedures set forth in the university's Policy Against Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault will apply.

Sanctions and Protective Measures

During any complaint proceeding relating to sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence, or stalking, the university has a wide range of latitude when determining sanctions. Those sanctions will be guided by the interests of the community, the impact of the violation on the survivor(s), documented disciplinary history and any mitigating or aggravating circumstances, and may range from written warning to expulsion or termination from the university. In some cases, the university may also enact certain interim sanctions and/or protective measures in order to appropriately protect the complainant and the university community, pending the results of an investigation or hearing.

Possible sanctions and protective measures for violations of the University's Policy Against Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault (including dating violence, domestic violence, and stalking) are:

- Educational outcomes including conversation with staff and/or reflective paper or project;
- Mandatory training;
- Written apology;
- Written or verbal warning;
- Mental health &/or substance use assessment and recommended follow up;
- Community service;
- No Contact Agreement/No Contact Order;
- Restrictions/limitations on campus access;
- Removal/ban from university housing;
- Removal from class or change to academic schedule;
- Relocation of office;
- Restriction or ban on attending Carnegie Mellon programs and events;
- Removal/ban from campus;
- Disciplinary Probation;

- Suspension held in abeyance;
- Suspension (1-4 semesters);
- Expulsion;
- Withholding degree and/or transcript;
- Leave with pay;
- Leave without pay;
- Termination of employment;
- Termination or non-renewal of contract; and/or
- Other revocation of privileges.

While the preceding list of sanctions and protective measures is intended to be comprehensive, the university reserves the right to adopt other sanctions and protective measures as necessary to appropriately respond to complaints of sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence and stalking. This list will be updated in subsequent reports if new sanctions and protective measures are adopted.

Changing Living, Academic, Working and Transportation Situations

If a member of the Carnegie Mellon University community is a survivor of sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, or stalking, the university can assist with changes to the survivor's living, academic, working, and transportation situations that may be required under the circumstances and can be reasonably accommodated. Requests for such accommodations and support measures may be made by contacting the Office of Title IX Initiatives at 412-268-7125 or tix@cmu.edu.

Confidential Reporting Options

Carnegie Mellon University maintains many Resources for Reporting (see page 34) incidents of sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, stalking or other violations of the university's Policy Against Sexual Harassment and Sexual Assault. However, because the university is committed to ensuring that such reports are investigated and appropriately responded to, there are limits on the level of confidentiality that can be provided by officials of Carnegie Mellon.

Carnegie Mellon understands that some survivors of sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking may not be ready or may not be willing to report through a channel that may lead to an investigation or other university action, no matter how discreet. For such individuals, Carnegie Mellon maintains several confidential reporting options. Unlike the Resources for Reporting listed on page 33, the resources below can provide students confidentiality.

- Campus Resources:
 - Counseling and Psychological Services (CaPS) – 412-268-2922, <http://www.cmu.edu/counseling/>
 - University Health Services – 412-268-2157, <http://www.cmu.edu/health-services/>
- Community Resources:
 - Women's Center and Shelter of Greater Pittsburgh - <http://www.wcspittsburgh.org>
 - Pittsburgh Action Against Rape - <http://paar.net/>
 - Center for Victims - <http://www.centerforvictims.org/Services/VictimServices.aspx>

In addition, Carnegie Mellon maintains an Ethics Reporting Hotline where members of the Carnegie Mellon community or the public may report violations of the law or university policy. The Ethics Reporting Hotline includes an anonymous reporting option. Although the Ethics Reporting Hotline may be used to file an anonymous report, the hotline does not provide counseling or other support services to anonymous reporters. The Ethics Hotline is not an emergency service.

- Reports may be submitted to the Ethics Reporting Hotline by calling 1-877-700-7050 or visiting www.reportit.net. (user name: tartans; password: plaid).

In case of emergency, call University Police at 8-2323 or 412-268-2323.

Medical and Support Resources

The Office of Title IX Initiatives can connect parties impacted by sexual misconduct to a variety of resources and make referrals for assistance, both on campus and in the community, including but not limited to: counseling, health, mental health, victim advocacy, legal advocacy, visa and immigration assistance, student and financial aid, and other available services.

Information about many of the available resources is provided below. In addition, individuals may consult with the Office of Title IX Initiatives (<http://www.cmu.edu/title-ix/>) to identify other resources that may be appropriate depending on the circumstances.

The following medical and support resources are available in the Pittsburgh, PA region:

- Magee Women's Hospital – Offers sexual assault medical examinations and forensic evidence collection by specially trained staff. 412-641-4933
- UPMC Shadyside Hospital – Offers sexual assault medical examinations. 412-623-2121
- UPMC Presbyterian Hospital – Offers sexual assault medical examinations. 412-647-3333
- Planned Parenthood of Western Pennsylvania – Offers sexually transmitted infection (STI) testing, emergency contraception and pregnancy tests. 412-434-8957
- Pittsburgh Advocates Against Rape (PAAR) – Offers medical and legal advocacy, counseling, resources and confidential support, and a 24-hour hotline for survivors of sexual violence of all genders. 1-866-END-RAPE (1-866-363-7273)
- Women's Center and Shelter (WC&S) – Offers medical and legal advocacy, counseling, resources and confidential support, and a 24-hour hotline for survivors of dating violence of all genders. 412-687-8005

Campus Sex Crimes Prevention Act

The federal Campus Sex Crimes Prevention Act requires institutions of higher education to issue a statement advising the campus community where information concerning registered sex offenders may be obtained. The University Police Department works in cooperation with the Pennsylvania State Police Megan's Law Unit and other state and local law enforcement agencies to receive information on current registered sex offenders residing within the university community.

Information regarding sex offender registration may be obtained at:

- Pennsylvania - www.pameganslaw.state.pa.us or by calling 1-866-771-3170.
- California - www.meganslaw.ca.gov.
- New York - <http://www.criminaljustice.ny.gov/nsor/legalinfo.htm> or by calling 1-800-262-3257.
- Australia - Although several Australian states and territories maintain sex offender registries for use by law enforcement officials, at this time, none of these registries is open to the public.
- Qatar - The State of Qatar does not maintain a sex offender registry.
- Rwanda - The State of Rwanda does not maintain a sex offender registry.

PART IV: CRIME STATISTICS – PITTSBURGH, PA CAMPUS

How We Compile Crime Statistics

The Carnegie Mellon University Police Department collects crime statistics disclosed in the charts of this report through a number of methods. Police officers enter all reports of crime incidents made directly to the department through the Automated Records Management System (ARMS). After an officer enters the report in ARMS, a department supervisor reviews the report to confirm it is appropriately classified in the correct crime category. The department periodically examines the data to verify that all reported crimes are recorded in accordance with the crime definitions outlined in the FBI Uniform Crime Reporting Handbook, the FBI National Incident-based Reporting System Handbook (sex offenses only) and U.S. Department of Education Handbook for Campus Crime Reporting.

The University Police Department maintains a close relationship with the City of Pittsburgh Bureau of Police to facilitate notification of crime occurring on university owned property. The Crime Analysis Unit of the City of Pittsburgh Bureau of Police provides electronic copies of all crime alerts issued to city police personnel concerning crimes occurring in adjacent neighborhoods (as required by the Clery Act) on a regular basis, and provides annual statistics on all crimes required to be reported under the Clery Act and Pennsylvania Acts 73 & 180.

Definitions of reportable crimes are provided in Appendix B, page 85.

Geographic Areas Related to Reportable Crimes

On campus: means any building or property owned or controlled by the university within the same reasonably contiguous geographic area of the university and used by the university in direct support or related to the university's educational purposes; and property within the same reasonably contiguous geographic area of the university that is owned by the university but controlled by another person, is used by students and supports institutional purposes.

Core Campus: Carnegie Mellon's core campus is bordered by Panther Hollow to the west and Schenley Park to the south. Forbes Avenue runs through northern end of the campus from the bridge over Panther Hollow to Margaret Morrison Street. The core campus also includes several properties along Morewood Avenue, between Forbes Avenue and Fifth Avenue.

Oakland Community Properties: Carnegie Mellon has acquired several properties along South Craig Street, Henry Street, Fifth Avenue and the surrounding streets. Due to recent and potential expansion in this area, in 2011 Carnegie Mellon determined that properties in this area had become reasonably contiguous with the university's core campus. As such, beginning in 2011, properties or portions of properties owned or leased by the university in this area will be classified as "on-campus" for purposes of the Clery Act. These properties are shown in Appendix C, page 87.

Residential facilities: means all residence halls, fraternity and sorority houses and other residential facilities for students on campus. Residential facilities are a sub-set of the on-campus category.

Non-campus building or property: means any building or property owned or controlled by a student organization that is officially recognized by the university; and any building or property owned or controlled by the university that is used in direct support of, or in relation to the university's educational purposes, is frequently used by students and is not within the same reasonably contiguous area of the university.

Public property: means all public property, including thoroughfares, streets, sidewalks and parking facilities, that is within the campus or immediately adjacent to and accessible from the campus; also includes all public parks within one mile of the borders of the core campus, i.e., Flagstaff Hill, Schenley Park bounded by Darlington Road, Schenley Drive (including the golf course).

PART V: FIRE SAFETY REPORT—PITTSBURGH

Reporting Fires

It is critically important that all fires occurring in residence facilities or elsewhere on campus be immediately reported to University Police so that responsive action is taken. Fires may be reported at any time of day or night seven days a week:

- By calling University Police at 8-2323 or 412-268-2323 or by using one of the 72 emergency phones on campus.
- In person at the University Police Department at 300 South Craig Street, Room 199. (Please use the entrance on Filmore Street.)

Daily Fire Log

In conjunction with the daily crime log (see page 17), the University Police Department also maintains a daily fire log that records, by date the fire was reported, any fire that occurred in an on-campus student housing facility. The fire log includes the nature, date, time and general location of each fire.

Residence Facility Fire Safety Policies and Procedures

General Policies—Housing Policies

Housing Services division of Carnegie Mellon University annually publishes an electronic handbook entitled, Housing Policies, containing policies and procedures applicable to students living in university residence facilities as well other helpful information concerning housing and dining at Carnegie Mellon University. A copy of Housing Policies may be found at www.cmu.edu/housing/housing-policies/.

Policy on Portable Electrical Appliances

General Policy: No electrical appliances that incorporate unshielded heating elements or draw more than 700 watts may be used in student rooms. Hot plates or toaster ovens of any kind are prohibited in the residence halls. Electric irons may be used only in areas where utility outlets are provided, such as in designated utility or laundry rooms.

Microwave Ovens: Only compact microwave ovens under 700 watts are permitted.

Refrigerators: Residents may bring their own mini-refrigerators to campus as long as they are smaller than 4.5 cubic feet and operating on 110/120 VAC.

Air Conditioners: Students may not bring air conditioners into residence facilities without permission from Housing Services and proper documentation of a medical need for air conditioning.

See www.cmu.edu/housing/housing-policies/ for additional information on Housing policies.

Hoverboards: Housing Services has decided to immediately issue a temporary ban on hoverboards from being present in all university-operated housing (including all residence halls, apartments, fraternities and sororities).

Policy on Open Flames

Open flames or burning materials of any kind, including candles, incense and other combustibles, are absolutely prohibited in university residence facilities.

Smoking Policy

All university residence facilities are designated smoke-free with the exception of Fairfax Apartments and Webster Hall. Carnegie Mellon University has a vital interest in maintaining a healthy and safe environment for its students, faculty, staff and visitors while respecting individual choice. It is Carnegie Mellon University's policy to provide smoke-free areas to the maximum extent possible. Where the desire of a smoker to smoke conflicts with the desire of another to have smoke-free air, the desire to have smoke-free air takes priority. Smoking is permitted in Fairfax Apartments and Webster Hall as long as all of the residents of the room agree.

In addition to the smoking policy as summarized above, the university has an official Smoking Policy applicable to the entire campus. This policy is available at www.cmu.edu/policies/documents/Smoking.htm.

Procedures for Evacuating Residence Facilities

City of Pittsburgh Ordinance and university policy require a complete evacuation of a building upon activation of the fire alarm system. All residents should know two ways out of a building, the primary escape route (the most direct and shortest distance) and a secondary escape route. Do not use the elevators as an escape route. Upon hearing a fire alarm activate, assess the viability of your primary escape route, and if it is safe to use, proceed with your evacuation in a quick and orderly fashion. In the event that your primary escape route is compromised, revert to your secondary escape route. Learn your escape routes in advance of an evacuation. Take your room key with you in case you have to return to your room during your evacuation because your escape route(s) has been compromised. When possible, close your windows and door as you exit and turn your room's light switch on as a way to indicate that you have exited your room. If you encounter an open door along your escape route, close the door when possible; however, do not deviate from your primary or secondary escape route unless it is compromised. Once you have successfully evacuated, move away from the building to the predetermined designated assembly area for an accountability check. Do not assume that once the fire alarm is silenced it is safe to re-enter the building. Instead, wait for instructions from an authorized University, Police or Fire Official that it is safe to re-enter.

Fire Evacuation Drills

The University Police Department conducts two fire evacuation drills for each residence area during the academic year according to a schedule prepared by the Environmental Health and Safety Department's fire safety specialist. During the fall semester, fire drills are conducted in all on-campus residence facilities during the months of September and October. During the spring semester, fire drills are conducted during the months of March and April. All fire drills are witnessed by the University Police and Environmental Health & Safety Department. The university requires complete evacuation of buildings during any fire alarm activation. Individuals who ignore fire alarms and required evacuations may face disciplinary action. Since false alarms may lower the evacuation response from students, the university will analyze the causes of all false alarms and work to reduce their occurrence. By reducing the number of false alarms, the University Police Department hopes to maintain students' diligence in responding.

Fire Safety Education and Awareness

The university's Fire Safety Program strives to incorporate education, awareness and training through various methods. Fire safety brochures are distributed to students living in three types of housing; residence halls, Greek housing and off-campus housing. These brochures cover a variety of fire safety topics such as cooking safety, electrical safety, fire prevention methods and fire protection systems. They also provide guidelines to be followed in emergency situations. Basic evacuation instructions that can apply to academic/administration buildings in addition to residence facilities are also explained.

In prior years, live mock dorm/bedroom burns have been conducted early in the first semester of the school year. The goal is to impress upon the student population the power that a fire possesses, the speed at which a fire can travel and the growth potential when combustibles are available. In two minutes, an ordinary residence room containing common household commodities was transformed into a fully involved room fire. This demonstration is meant to teach the student population how to make wise decisions when they hear the fire alarm activate. Videos of prior mock dorm/bedroom burns are available on the university's Environmental Health and Safety Department's website at www.cmu.edu/ehs/fire/fire-safety-videos.html.

Training is provided to all resident assistants (RAs) in how to choose the proper fire extinguisher based on the class of the fire that is burning. The P.A.S.S. acronym (pull – aim – squeeze – and sweep) is taught in a PowerPoint presentation and then an actual hands-on use of a fire extinguisher on a live fire is conducted. Fire extinguisher training can simulate a class A, B or C fire with varying degrees of difficulty levels. RAs are taught how to navigate through a smoke filled environment. The training scenario varies from finding their way out of a room full of smoke to exiting a room only to find their egress route is full of smoke.

Fire safety inspection forms for student residence buildings are available on the university's Environmental Health and Safety Department's website. These forms are provided as a means of performing self-inspections. The form covers important safety related factors such as: storage, housekeeping, electrical hazards, tripping hazards and fire protection systems. Completed forms are forwarded to the Environmental Health and Safety Department for review and action as necessary.

Fire Safety Systems in Residence Facilities

All student residence facilities that are owned by the university comply with City of Pittsburgh Fire Codes as well as the International Fire Codes for residential occupation. The following fire safety systems are provided in Carnegie Mellon residence facilities:

- Fire Alarm Monitoring by Carnegie Mellon University Police – Building-wide fire detection systems are connected to an intelligent fire alarm network. This network connects all devices to an automated monitoring system. Two types of devices are connected, one that detects the presence of smoke/heat and the other for water flow in the fire suppression systems. When smoke/heat detectors sense the presence of particles in the air or elevated temperatures, they automatically activate a signal. Water flow detectors sense movement of water, signifying the activation of the sprinkler system. These signals come into the University Police Department, where activity is monitored 24 hours per day, 7 days a week, 365 days each year.
- Fire Alarm Monitoring by Guardian Protection Services – Building-wide fire detection is connected to an intelligent fire alarm network. This network connects all devices to an automated monitoring system. Two types of devices are connected, one that detects the presence of smoke and the other for water flow in the fire suppression systems. When smoke detectors sense the presence of particles in the air, they automatically activate a signal. Water flow detectors sense movement of water, signifying the activation of the sprinkler system. These signals go to a third party monitor, Guardian Protection, which monitors activity 24 hours per day, 7 days a week, 365 days each year.
- Sprinkler Systems – All sprinkler systems have been designed by fire protection engineers, have been approved by the university's insurers, have passed the city's acceptance test and are inspected, tested and maintained per National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) 25.
- Smoke Detection Devices – Automatic smoke detectors are distributed throughout the buildings and many are hardwired to a centralized reporting system. These detectors operate by emitting an ionization beam, a photoelectric sensor or both. When particles block these smoke detectors, they go into alarm.
- Fire Extinguishers – Fire Extinguishers are distributed through all buildings on campus. The type of portable extinguisher is selected for the hazard in that room. Water and ABC extinguishers are installed when the most likely fire would be a Class A/B fire. In kitchens, BC type and/or K type extinguishers are installed to address electrical or grease fires.

PART VI: POLICIES FOR OTHER LOCATIONS

Universally Applicable Policies

The security policies and procedures of Carnegie Mellon University's main campus in Pittsburgh, Pa. serve as the model for security policies and procedures at the other locations operated by the university.

The following policies and procedures, described above under the security report for the Pittsburgh, Pa. campus, apply to any other location operated by the Carnegie Mellon University:

- Missing Student Notification – see page 17.
- Alcohol and Other Drug Policies – see page 20.
- Workplace Violence – see page 22.
- Preventing and Responding to Sexual Assault, Dating Violence, Domestic Violence and Stalking (and all subsections) – see pages 24 to 40.

Adelaide, Australia

Campus Profile

The Torrens Building in the city's central business district is home to Carnegie Mellon University in Australia (CMU-A). It is a heritage-listed site, formally serving as the central repository for all land titles in South Australia and is leased by the university from the Government of South Australia. The campus is located on Victoria Square, the geographic "heart" of the city.

CMU-A delivers two masters programs, the Master of Science in Information Technology (MSIT) and the Master of Science in Public Policy and Management (MSPPM). Both programs are offered as 12-or 21-month programs. It also delivers Global Programs in Master of Information Systems Management and MSPPM wherein students study in the Australia campus for two semesters, go into an internship, and complete the last two semesters of their program in Pittsburgh.

Several facilities and services are readily accessible and the building is situated among the state's public and private sector head offices. The building is located on the corner of Victoria Square and Wakefield Street with public sidewalks on either frontage. CMU does not provide housing to students at the Adelaide location.

Reporting Criminal Incidents and Other Emergencies

CMU-A does not operate a campus police force. All students, faculty, staff and guests are encouraged to promptly report criminal incidents, accidents and other emergencies to local authorities. Crimes and emergencies can be reported at any time of day or night seven days a week:

- In person at South Australia (SA) Police, Adelaide Station, 60 Wakefield Street, Adelaide (approximately 200m from campus).
- By calling South Australia Police on 000 for emergencies. For non-urgent assistance, call SA Police on 131 444. These numbers are displayed throughout CMU-A's premises and students are advised during orientation how to determine which number is appropriate.
- The Torrens Building security is managed by PSSB, which is housed in the State Administration Building at 200 Victoria Square Adelaide (adjacent to the campus). The CMU-A tenancy within the Torrens Building at 220 Victoria Square Adelaide is managed by SA Monitoring (provided by Heinz College).

To further encourage the timely reporting of crimes on campus, the following persons have been designated as “campus security officials” to whom incidents may also be reported:

- ♦ Emil Bolongaita, Executive Director/Head
- ♦ Fatima Reyes-Della Verde, Director of Operations
- ♦ Tim O’Loughlin, Senior Director of Academic and Institutional Development
- ♦ Ben Olijnyk, Director of ICT and Facilities

In addition, crimes may be reported to designated “campus security authorities” at Carnegie Mellon’s main campus in Pittsburgh (please see page 10).

Access to Campus Facilities

The Torrens Building is a multi-tenant facility. It is open from 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m., Monday through Friday. A security pass (issued to each student and details recorded) is required to enter the building outside of those hours. Entry to the university’s space within the building also requires use of a security card. The doors to the university are locked when the front reception desk is unattended—a security pass is required to gain access.

Security Considerations in the Maintenance of Campus Facilities

Maintenance issues during work hours of 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily (Monday through Friday, excluding holidays and breaks) are directed to Ben Olijnyk, Director of ICT & Facilities, and are then directed to the building manager who organizes the appropriate service response. After hours, any issue is directed to PSSB on 82075999, a number displayed throughout the facility. A regular check of exit lighting is carried out under the direction of the building manager. The perimeter of the building is under security guard surveillance once the building is locked down, which means the external doors are checked to make sure the building is secure. There are wall-mounted cameras in the lane at the back of the building that are monitored 24 hours a day by PSSB. Any issues arising from these checks are raised with the building manager and the tenancy concerned.

Timely Warning Notices—Crime, Safety & Emergency Alerts

To inform the community of crime and/or safety issues, Tim O’Loughlin, the Senior Director of Academic and Institutional Development, and/or Ben Olijnyk, Director of ICT & Facilities, in conjunction with the University Police Department and other departments from Carnegie Mellon University’s Pittsburgh campus, from time to time issues alerts to make students, faculty and staff aware of serious crimes and other important events occurring on and near campus in a timely manner. Members of the community who know of a crime or other serious incident should report that incident as soon as possible to university administrators so that the appropriate type of alert can be issued, if warranted. “Crime Alerts” are issued to advise the community about individual crimes against persons (e.g., an assault or robbery), or a series of crimes against property (e.g., multiple office thefts) in which the university itself or a member of the university community is a victim. “Emergency Alerts” are issued in the event of a serious immediate threat to the health or safety of students or employees, such as natural disasters, extreme weather, criminal activity or other emergencies. University administrators work closely with individuals reporting serious crimes to protect their privacy—to the extent possible—while also providing the community with information regarding potential risks.

Alerts are typically distributed via email and CMU-A’s student portal @CMU.

Crime Prevention Education and Awareness

All international students have access to the video on the student portal @CMU about how to stay safe in Australia, which includes information about police services.

Resources for Survivors of Sexual Assault, Domestic Violence, Dating Violence & Stalking

Sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence and stalking are prohibited by the laws of the Commonwealth of Australia and are an egregious violation of university policy. In addition to potential criminal prosecution, Carnegie Mellon University community members found in violation of policy or law regarding sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence and stalking may be subject to discipline up to and including expulsion / termination or removal from campus.

Carnegie Mellon University has detailed policies, procedures, and community resources to prevent and appropriately respond to sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking. These policies, procedures and resources apply to all members of the Carnegie Mellon community regardless of location. For more information, please see pages 24 to 40 of this report.

In addition, below are local resources for Carnegie Mellon community members in Adelaide, Australia.

Local Reporting Resources

Any student aware of an instance of sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence or stalking is encouraged to immediately contact the South Australia Police on 131 444 or Nereshnee Shunmugam, Manager of Admissions and Student Services on (08) 8110 9922 or +61 400 268 437.

- ♦ If a survivor chooses, contact local law enforcement – South Australia Police on 000 for emergencies. For non-urgent assistance, call SA Police on 131 444. University officials will assist the student in notifying the appropriate law enforcement agency in the applicable jurisdiction.
- ♦ If a survivor chooses not to go through the criminal justice system, there are disciplinary and non-disciplinary options available at Carnegie Mellon University. A survivor can discuss on-campus procedures by calling in the first instance Nereshnee Shunmugam, Manager of Admissions and Student Services, (08) 8110 9922 or +61 400 268 437.

University community members in Australia may also contact any of the reporting resources listed on page 34, as well as the confidential resources on page 39.

Local Medical and Support Resources

- ♦ Medical Resources – All survivors of sexual assault are encouraged to seek medical attention as soon as possible after the assault to ensure their physical well-being. Students are advised to seek attention at their nearest hospital:
 - Queen Elizabeth Hospital – (08) 8222 6000 (Woodville, western suburbs)
 - Royal Adelaide Hospital – (08) 8222 4000 (Adelaide city)
 - Women’s and Children’s Hospital – (08) 8161 7000 (North Adelaide, inner north)
 - International students can also contact their medical insurance provider 24 hours per day to speak directly with medical professionals. The majority of international students on campus have insurance with Allianz Global Assistance OSHC 1800 814 781.
- Support Resources – CMU-A students may avail themselves of counselling services

Education City, Qatar

Campus Profile

Carnegie Mellon University's branch campus in Education City, Qatar offers five undergraduate degree programs, business administration, biological sciences, computational biology, computer science and information systems. Its first students were enrolled in August 2004. Enrollment for the fall 2014 semester was 413. The branch campus is located in a 460,000 square-foot building that is owned by the Qatar Foundation (see below) and houses virtually all Carnegie Mellon Qatar academic and administrative functions. Though predominantly a commuter campus, over 70 students live in student housing in Education City that is owned and operated by the Qatar Foundation.

Education City, a 2,500-acre multi-institution complex in Doha, Qatar, is a gated complex that sits in a sparsely populated section on the outskirts of Doha.

The Qatar Foundation for Education, Science and Community Development is a private, chartered, nonprofit organization, founded in 1995 by His Highness Sheikh Hamad Bin Khalifa Al-Thani, the then Emir of Qatar. Guided by the principle that a nation's greatest resource is the potential of its people, the Qatar Foundation aims to develop that potential through a network of centers devoted to progressive education, research and community welfare (from the Qatar Foundation website). To this end, the Foundation has established Education City. To date, six American universities have established branch campuses in Education City (Carnegie Mellon University, Georgetown University, Northwestern University, Texas A&M, Virginia Commonwealth University and the Weill Cornell Medical College).

CMU does not provide housing to students at the Qatar campus.

Reporting Criminal Incidents and Other Emergencies

Carnegie Mellon Qatar does not operate a campus police force. All students, faculty, staff and guests are encouraged to promptly report criminal incidents, accidents and other emergencies to local authorities. Crimes and emergencies can be reported at any time of day or night seven days a week:

- In person at the Carnegie Mellon Qatar main security control room on the ground floor, room 1043, or at the Qatar Foundation main security control room at the Central Plant Building, ground floor, Room G-04.
- By calling the Qatar Foundation main security control room at +974 4454 0999, or the Qatar Foundation Security Watch Commander +974 5556 4701.

To further encourage the timely reporting of crimes on campus, the following persons have been designated as "campus security officials" to whom incidents may also be reported:

- Ilker Baybars, Dean, baybars@cmu.edu, office: +974 4454 8420,
- Gloria Khoury, Assistant Dean for Student Affairs, gkhoury@qatar.cmu.edu, office: +974 4454 8526, mobile: +974 5584 0582

In addition, crimes may be reported to designated "campus security authorities" at Carnegie Mellon's main campus in Pittsburgh (please see page 10).

Access to Campus Facilities

Students and staff are issued identification cards, which they are asked to display at all times. The cards are encoded to provide access to authorized locations based on an access control matrix administered by the Facilities Department.

During normal business hours (Sunday through Thursday, 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.), the building is open to employees, students, parents, contractors, guests and invitees. During non-business hours, access to the building, including all classrooms, lecture halls and study rooms, is controlled through the use of university ID cards provided to employees and students, as well as visitor ID cards issued to contractors and visitors. Normally, all offices are locked and only authorized personnel are permitted access with proper identification. External contractors are only allowed in the building under a “permit to work” system.

The building is controlled 24 hours a day by a security team that is managed by the Qatar Foundation. Security guards routinely patrol the exterior and interior of campus buildings, including nights, weekends and holidays. Security guards centrally monitor closed circuit TV cameras that are located throughout the building (interior and exterior).

The residence facilities are under the domain of the Qatar Foundation. A security guard is at the entrance of every residence hall. The front door of the building is open, and security is seated immediately inside. Resident students are issued a personal entry device that allows them to enter the facility. Visitors must present proper identification and can only enter if escorted by a resident. The residence halls are gender segregated; males are not allowed to visit the female residence halls and vice versa. In addition, overnight guests are not permitted.

Security Considerations in the Maintenance of Campus Facilities

Facilities and landscaping are maintained in a manner to minimize hazardous conditions. The maintenance of the campus is the responsibility of the Qatar Foundation Mechanical & Electrical (M&E) Department. The Qatar Foundation Health, Security, Safety & Environment (HSSE) department reports to M&E, in writing, conditions that could be hazardous. Additionally, lighting is monitored by Qatar Foundation HSSE officers and maintenance needs are reported to the M&E department. Problems reported by visitors, students, faculty, staff custodians, are sent to Qatar Foundation HSSE department for action.

Timely Warning Notices—Crime, Safety & Emergency Alerts

To inform the community of crime, safety or emergency issues, Ilker Baybars, dean, in conjunction with the Qatar Foundation Health, Security, Safety and Environment (Director: Jassim Telefat), from time to time issues alerts to notify students, faculty and staff of serious crimes, emergencies and other important events occurring on and near Education City in a timely manner. Members of the community who know of a crime or other serious incident should report that incident as soon as possible to university administrators so that the appropriate type of alert can be issued, if warranted. “Crime Alerts” are issued to advise the community about individual crimes against persons (e.g., an assault or robbery), or a series of crimes against property (e.g., multiple office thefts or burglaries in residence areas) in which the university itself or a member of the university community is a victim. “Emergency Alerts” are issued in the event of a serious immediate threat to the health or safety of students or employees, such as natural disasters, extreme weather, criminal activity or other emergencies. University administrators work closely with individuals reporting serious crimes to protect their privacy—to the extent possible—while also providing the community with information regarding potential risks.

Alerts will typically be issued through a posting to Qatar email distribution lists. In addition, as warranted by the emergency, the Carnegie Mellon Qatar Internal Calling Tree will be activated, whereby individuals will receive a text message on their mobile alerting them that the Calling Tree has been activated. They will receive a subsequent telephone call and email with full details of the message. In addition, a voice notification alert can be sent that is directed to all faculty and staff, as well as subscribed students. This voice alert will contain the full text of the message that is being broadcasted via other means.

Crime Prevention Education and Awareness

All new faculty and staff, upon arrival to their assignment at the Qatar campus, experience a new employee orientation that includes a security and awareness presentation by the Director of Safety and Security covering a broad spectrum of issues and specific recommendations. Given the social and cultural mores of the people of the Middle East and the State of Qatar, the approach on the part of Carnegie Mellon Qatar differs somewhat from that of the Pittsburgh campus. Rather than offering public programs and workshops, the Division of Student Affairs offers students opportunities for counseling and discourse by means of private sessions on various health and wellness matters ranging from drug and substance abuse to sexual harassment and personal safety.

Alcohol & Drug Policy

Students at Carnegie Mellon Qatar are expected to be acquainted with and abide by all applicable laws and university regulations regarding alcohol and drugs and to be aware of the social, physiological and psychological consequences of excessive drinking in order to make responsible and informed decisions about the serving and consumption of alcohol. With a few very limited exceptions, alcohol consumption is illegal in the State of Qatar and forbidden to all Muslims. Carnegie Mellon Qatar students are educated on the risks of alcohol abuse through counseling and private discourse with a counselor and health and wellness specialist, mindful of the culture and social structures in the Middle East. (See page 20 for a summary of the university's alcohol and drug policy.)

Resources for Survivors of Sexual Assault, Domestic Violence, Dating Violence & Stalking

Sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence and stalking are prohibited by the laws of the State of Qatar and are an egregious violation of university policy. In addition to potential criminal prosecution, Carnegie Mellon University community members found in violation of policy or law regarding sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence and stalking may be subject to discipline up to and including expulsion / termination or removal from campus.

Carnegie Mellon University has detailed policies, procedures, and community resources to prevent and appropriately respond to sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking. These policies, procedures and resources apply to all members of the Carnegie Mellon community regardless of location. For more information, please see pages 24 to 40 of this report.

In addition, below are local resources for Carnegie Mellon community members in Doha, Qatar.

Local Reporting Resources

There are numerous resources available to anyone who believes that he or she has been the victim of sexual harassment or sexual assault, or has witnessed sexual harassment or sexual assault. Below are the names and contact information for the University's Deputy Title IX Coordinators and lists of the advisors trained to deal with matters of alleged sexual harassment and sexual assault. These individuals can provide information about the processes under this policy for dealing with concerns and complaints, and information about other resources that may be available to victims of sexual harassment and/or sexual assault. If you believe that you have been the victim of sexual harassment and/or sexual assault or you are aware of such conduct, you are encouraged to make contact with any of the individuals identified below. They will make certain that your complaint is communicated to the appropriate resource for handling.

Survivor Support Network (SSN). The Survivor Support Network is a team of staff, students and faculty who provide support, information, resources, and referrals to survivors of sexual and domestic violence. They are available to survivors or their friends and loved ones, who are members of our campus community, regardless of when or where the incident happened. They can provide comfort and relief, and help a survivor organize their thoughts as well as regain the feeling of being in control. SSN members are knowledgeable about university policies and procedures, legal options, and medical treatment; and they provide support as survivors make decisions on how to proceed.

They may be contacted directly at the numbers listed as referenced below, or you may contact the office of the Assistant Dean for Student Affairs at (974-4454 8526), and you will be put in contact with a member of the Survivor Support Network.

- Kevin D'Arco: Director Student Activities & First Year Programs, kdarco@qatar.cmu.edu 974-4454 8530
- Ken Hovis: Assistant Professor Biological Sciences, khovis@cmu.edu 974-4454 8605

Los Angeles, CA

Location Profile

Carnegie Mellon University's H. John Heinz III College operates a satellite location in Los Angeles, California, as a part of the Master of Entertainment Industry Management program (MEIM). The Los Angeles portion of the MEIM program is located in the city of North Hollywood in Los Angeles County. The location consists of a 6034 square foot suite of offices in a six-story professional office building shared by other tenants, located at 4640 Lankershim Blvd., Suite 125, North Hollywood, CA 91602. The cross street is Hortense. The suite of offices includes three classrooms, two conference rooms, screening area, computer office, kitchen, library and reading area. There are sidewalks surrounding the building and a garage that is immediately next to the building on Hortense Street.

Second year students in the MEIM program attend courses at the Los Angeles location while working side-by-side with industry professionals throughout the year as full-time interns in a studio or production company. (MEIM students spend the first year of the program taking core courses at Carnegie Mellon University's main campus in Pittsburgh, Pa.) Approximately 20-30 students are enrolled at the Los Angeles campus per year.

Carnegie Mellon University does not provide housing to students in the Los Angeles portion of the MEIM program.

Reporting Criminal Incidents and Other Emergencies

Carnegie Mellon University does not operate a police force at its Los Angeles location. All students, faculty, staff and guests are encouraged to promptly report criminal incidents, accidents and other emergencies to local authorities. Crimes and emergencies can be reported at any time of day or night seven days a week to:

To further encourage the timely reporting of crimes on campus, the following person has been designated as a "campus security official" to whom incidents may also be reported:

- Daniel Green, Program Director, 323-717-6481, dtgreen@andrew.cmu.edu.

In addition, crimes may be reported to designated "campus security authorities" at Carnegie Mellon's main campus in Pittsburgh (please see page 10).

Access to Campus Facilities

Access to the facility is by a keyless entry system. Each student has a separate entry code. When the Program Director, Head of Industry Relations, or Program Coordinator is in the suite, the door is unlocked. Visitors and guests can use a doorbell to gain access when the door is locked. Access to the main building after 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, and on weekends, requires a code. A private entrance to the ground floor of the building can be accessed from Hortense Street.

Security Considerations in the Maintenance of Campus Facilities

The MEIM program's Los Angeles facility has a keyless entry system and an ADT alarm system. A private security officer patrols the building in the evenings.

The MEIM Los Angeles facility has an Alarm Lock Trilogy DK3000 Series keyless entry system and an ADT motion and video alarm system. A private security officer patrols the building in the evenings. In addition, four closed-circuit dome style color cameras record to an eight-channel encrypted DVR. The cameras can also be accessed via the internet.

Unsafe conditions and repairs should be directed to the Program Director, Daniel Green; or the Real Estate Manager, Monica Bulchand, Tiarna Real Estate Services, 15250 Ventura Blvd. Suite 1010, Sherman Oaks, CA 91403, 818-817-0550 ext. 101

Silicon Valley, CA

Campus Profile

Carnegie Mellon University, Silicon Valley (CMU SV) is located at the NASA Research Park in Moffett Field, California. Information on graduate programs available at CMU SV is available at www.cmu.edu/silicon-valley/academics/index.html. CMU SV is located within the NASA Research Park, formerly Moffett Air Field, and all activities take place in Building 23 and Building 19. Buildings 23 and 19 are leased from NASA. The campus is located on federal government property.

Reporting Criminal Incidents and Other Emergencies

Carnegie Mellon University, Silicon Valley does not operate a campus police force, however, CMU SV is located in the gated NASA Research Park with law enforcement provided by NASA Ames Protective Services Office Security Police. All students, staff, faculty and guests are encouraged to promptly report criminal incidents, accidents and other emergencies to local authorities. Crimes and emergencies can be reported at any time of day or night seven days a week:

- In person with a Security Officer at the Main Gate located on Moffett Boulevard.
- By calling NASA Ames Protective Services at 650-604-5416 (Dispatch Office 24-Hour Non-Emergency), 650-604-5555 (Emergency via cell phone), or 911 (Emergency via building landline).

Please note, when calling from Bldg 23, to contact NASA Ames Protective Services from a campus office phone, calls must begin with the number 9 (e.g., 9-650-604-5416). To connect from a campus conference room phone, calls must begin with the number 7 (e.g., 7-650-604-5416).

To further encourage the timely reporting of crimes on campus, the following persons have been designated as “campus security officials” to whom incidents may also be reported:

- Steven Rosenberg, Senior Director of Operations, steven.rosenberg@sv.cmu.edu
- Stacy Marshall, Facilities & Events Manager, stacy.marshall@sv.cmu.edu
- Sari Smith, Director of Student Affairs, sari.smith@sv.cmu.edu

In addition, crimes may be reported to designated “campus security authorities” at Carnegie Mellon’s main campus in Pittsburgh (please see page 10).

Access to Campus Facilities

Because of its unique location in the NASA Research Park, entry to the campus requires presentation of a government-issued identification, e.g., driver’s license or passport. Additionally, two security cameras surveil and record access to the Building 23, and six security cameras surveil and record access for CMU SV space in Building 19.

CMU does not provide housing to students at the Silicon Valley campus.

Security Considerations in the Maintenance of Campus Facilities

The Carnegie Mellon University, Silicon Valley campus works with NASA Facilities, local facilities contractors and specialized contractors for the maintenance of campus facility.

The building structure, exterior, plumbing, electrical and HVAC maintenance of the facility is provided by NASA as leaseholder. A local janitorial and maintenance firm provides routine service or day-to-day repair. Specialized contractors are contacted to address security alarm and lock issues.

Timely Warning Notices—Crime, Safety & Emergency Alerts

To inform the community of crime and/or safety issues, Steven Rosenberg (Sr. Director of Operations), in conjunction with the University Police Department and other departments from Carnegie Mellon University's Pittsburgh campus and Silicon Valley campus, from time to time issues alerts to notify students, faculty and staff of serious crimes and other important events occurring on and near campus in a timely manner. Members of the community who know of a crime or other serious incident should report that incident as soon as possible to university administrators so that the appropriate type of alert can be issued, if warranted. "Crime Alerts" are issued to advise the community about individual crimes against persons (e.g., an assault or robbery), or a series of crimes against property (e.g., multiple office thefts) in which the university itself or a member of the university community is a victim. University administrators work closely with individuals reporting serious crimes to protect their privacy—to the extent possible—while also providing the community with information regarding potential risks.

Alerts are typically distributed to the Carnegie Mellon University, Silicon Valley community via email, texts, and phone.

Crime Prevention Education and Awareness

In conjunction with NASA Ames and the NASA Research Park, CMU SV provides an overview of NASA safety and security at New Full-time Student Orientation. In addition, Carnegie Mellon University, Silicon Valley participates in NASA Ames sponsored programs such as fire and earthquake drills. The CMU SV campus also has a Safety Committee which meets quarterly and also has a working Injury and Illness Prevention Plan.

New York, NY

Location Profile

Carnegie Mellon University's Tepper School of Business provides a Master of Science in Computational Finance in New York City (MSCF NYC). The program location is 55 Broad Street, 5th Floor, New York, NY 10004. A total of 110 full-time and part-time students are enrolled in the program.

The program leases a portion of the fifth floor from Rudin Management, which consists of three classrooms, three conference rooms, three offices, one lounge, one recreational room, two pantries and a reception area. Housing through the university is not available. The program is located on the corner of Broad Street and Beaver Street. An empty lot is adjacent to the building and there is a sidewalk and street in the front and along the side of the building.

CMU does not provide housing to students to MSCF students.

Reporting Criminal Incidents and Other Emergencies

MSCF NYC does not operate a campus police force. All students, faculty, staff and guests are encouraged to promptly report criminal incidents, accidents and other emergencies to local authorities. Crimes and emergencies can be reported at any time of day or night seven days a week:

- In person to the New York Police Department (NYPD) at One Police Plaza, New York, NY.
- By calling 911 or the NYPD switchboard at 646-610-5000.
- By contacting security for 55 Board Street – U.S. Security 212-344-5290.

To further encourage the timely reporting of crimes on campus, the following persons have been designated as “campus security officials” to whom incidents may also be reported:

- Diffy Paljevic, Director, MSCF NYC, 212-584-0925 or paljevic@andrew.cmu.edu
- Nakesha Atkeson, Academic Coordinator, MSCF NYC, 212-584-0925 or natkeson@andrew.cmu.edu

In addition, crimes may be reported to designated “campus security authorities” at Carnegie Mellon’s main campus in Pittsburgh (please see page 10).

Access to Campus Facilities

MSCF NYC students have 24-hour access to the program site. Students are given access cards that allow them to enter the fifth floor where the program is located. All students are required to show their CMU student ID card and sign in before being allowed to process to the fifth floor. The building has a 24-hour security guard present at the front desk in the lobby. All visitors must be announced and given permission by a MSCF NYC staff member to access the program site. The building is closed to the general public after business hours and only students with a valid CMU ID and employees who have access cards can lawfully enter the building.

Security Considerations in the Maintenance of Campus Facilities

Adequate lighting is provided throughout the building. All entrances to the program site can only be opened by an CMU ID. Security cameras are also installed by all three entrances and in all public areas of the campus. Maintenance and repairs of light fixtures are done by Knight Electric, 212-989-2333. Maintenance and repair of entrance doors is handled by Rudin Management, 212-344-5290. Security camera repairs are made by the Information Technology Director, Carl Eisenbeis, 412-268-1751.

Timely Warning Notices—Crime, Safety & Emergency Alerts

To inform the community of crime and/or safety issues, Diffy Paljevic, Director, MSCF NYC, in conjunction with the University Police Department and other departments from Carnegie Mellon University's Pittsburgh campus, from time to time issues alerts to notify students, faculty and staff of serious crimes and other important events occurring on and near campus in a timely manner. Members of the community who know of a crime or other serious incident should report that incident as soon as possible to university administrators so that the appropriate type of alert can be issued, if warranted. "Crime Alerts" are issued to advise the community about individual crimes against persons (e.g., an assault or robbery), or a series of crimes against property (e.g., multiple office thefts) in which the university itself or a member of the university community is a victim. "Emergency Alerts" are issued in the event of a serious immediate threat to the health or safety of students or employees, such as natural disasters, extreme weather, criminal activity or other emergencies. University administrators work closely with individuals reporting serious crimes to protect their privacy—to the extent possible—while also providing the community with information regarding potential risks.

Alerts are typically distributed via email.

Crime Prevention Education and Awareness

During orientation in August, students are informed of campus security policies and procedures. Students are also informed about crime on campus and in surrounding neighborhoods. Students are given phone numbers and addresses of the local police department, local hospital and building security. Similar information is provided to new employees. Periodically during the academic year, Rudin Management conducts fire drills and informs staff and students what should be done in case of emergencies.

Kigali, Rwanda

Campus Profile

Carnegie Mellon University Africa in Rwanda (CMU-Africa) is located in Kigali, Rwanda and was established on September 16, 2011. CMU-Africa offers a Master of Science in Information Technology and a Master of Science in Electrical and Computer Engineering. Located in Telecom House (a former telecommunications building), CMU-Africa occupies the entire 4th floor, 5th floor and newly acquired wing A of 1st floor of the building. The space managed by CMU-Africa includes classrooms, offices, project rooms and recreational spaces. CMU-Africa currently does not have any student housing. The entire building is owned by the Government of Rwanda and all facilities and equipment of CMU-Africa are also owned by the Government. Telecom House is situated in the Kacyiru neighborhood of Kigali and is in close proximity to Umubano Hotel, the American Embassy (and many other embassies), the office of the President of Rwanda and several government ministries.

Reporting Criminal Incidents and Other Emergencies

Carnegie Mellon University Africa in Rwanda does not operate a campus police force. All students, faculty, staff and guests are encouraged to promptly report criminal incidents, accidents, and other emergencies to local authorities. Crimes and emergencies can be reported at any time of day or night seven days a week:

- Rwanda National Police
 - In person at the following address:
Rwanda National Police Headquarters, located in Kacyiru along the road of the American Embassy and Kigali Public Library
 - By calling:
 - +250 (0)783770262 (Associate Director of Operations)
 - 112 (Emergency Hotline)

 - 3032 (Emergency Hotline)

To further encourage the timely reporting of crimes on campus, the following persons have been designated as “campus security officials” to whom incidents may also be reported:

- Crystal Rugege, Director of Business Strategy and Operations- +250 (0)785 559 579
- Michel Bezy, Associate Director- +250 (0)784 500 133
- Ines Manzi, Associate Director of Operations- +250 (0)788 407 270

In addition, crimes may be reported to designated “campus security authorities” at Carnegie Mellon’s main campus in Pittsburgh (please see page 10).

Access to Campus Facilities

Telecom House has both Rwanda National Police and private security firm, INTERSEC Security Company, providing 24-hour security for the entire building, inclusive of CMU-Africa facilities. CMU-Africa issues all students, faculty and staff ID access cards, which are necessary to access all wings of CMU-Africa. The access cards enable or restrict access based on the cardholder's affiliation with the university. All requests for new ID cards are approved by Crystal Rugege, Director of Business Strategy and Operations. CMU-Africa outsources the production of the cards, and the Rwanda Development Board programs the necessary access level through a centrally controlled system for the entire building. CMU-Africa facilities are accessible 24 hours a day, including holidays.

Security Considerations in the Maintenance of Campus Facilities

CMU-Africa community members are encouraged to report maintenance needs, including malfunctioning door locks and lighting to the appropriate university administrator. All maintenance requests should be directed to Mika Inamahoro, Administrative Coordinator at +250 (0)788 618 3378.

Timely Warning Notices—Crime, Safety & Emergency Alerts

To help prevent crimes or serious incidents, Crystal Rugege, Director of Business Strategy and Operations, in conjunction with the University Police Department and other departments from Carnegie Mellon's Pittsburgh campus, from time to time issues alerts to ensure that students, faculty, and staff are made aware of serious crimes and other important events occurring on and near campus in a timely manner. Members of the community who know of a crime or other serious incident should report that incident as soon as possible to university administrators so that the appropriate type of alert can be issued, if warranted. "Crime Alerts" are issued to advise the community about individual crimes against persons (e.g., an assault or robbery), or a series of crimes against property (e.g., multiple office thefts or burglaries in residence areas) in which the university itself or a member of the university community is a victim. "Emergency Alerts" are issued in the event of a serious immediate threat to the health or safety of students or employees, such as natural disasters, extreme weather, criminal activity or other emergencies. University administrators work closely with individuals reporting serious crimes to ensure a victim's privacy while also ensuring that the community has adequate information regarding potential risks.

In the unfortunate event that a criminal incident occurs, the CMU-Africa community will be alerted via email and SMS text message.

Crime Prevention Education and Awareness

During orientation in August, students are informed of campus security policies and procedures. Slide presentations outline ways to maintain personal safety and security. Students are also informed about crime on-campus and in surrounding neighborhoods. Similar information is provided to new employees. We encourage students and employees to be aware of their responsibility for their own safety and security.
