"This critical funding from the American Rescue Plan's Indigenous Communities program will help the Ute Mountain Ute tribe access healthy food and drive economic opportunity for workers, entrepreneurs, and families."

U.S. Senator Michael Bennet

"Tribal communities are central to EDA's mission of economic investment and long-term development that benefit every part of our nation. By working in a true partnership with our Tribal community neighbors we are helping reverse generations of underinvestment. Moreover, we are empowering a new generation to excel in good-paying jobs that help lift up entire regions."

Carolee Wenderoth, Tribal Engagement Coordinator, U.S. Economic Development Administration
