Attitudes & Platitudes

Rita Meyer

*Chief Executive Officer,
Wyoming Energy Futures, LLC*

Moving a technology out of the laboratory and into the commercial space is fraught with innumerable and unexpected challenges. These challenges require not only resilient project leadership but also a community willing and able to manage the inherent risks and stressors that occur as a project of this magnitude unfolds.

The promise of a new and lucrative energy future for Wyoming is in forward motion. What that future will look like, beyond the promise, is a story yet unwritten.
